Imports Affected

Lower Tariff Might Mean Drop in Carpet Prices

By ROBIN CHASE

Staff Reporter

Retail carpet outlets will be watching carefully any future developments on federal government indications to reduce the tariff level for imported carpets, and the possible effect on the Canadian carpet industry.

Fear of the impact resulting from a lower tariff on the domestic scene was expressed last week by Jack Stevens, the new president of the Canadian Carpet Institute, and president of Burlington Carpet Mills Canada Ltd. in Toronto.

Mr. Stevens is concerned the government might decide to reduce its tariff barriers protecting the domestic carpet industry in future General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade negotiations.

There are two reasons why the government might propose to lower tariff in order to secure tariff reductions on other goods from other nations, he said. Tariffs on carpet imports into this country are high, and the domestic industry has been successful.

The Most Favored Nation tariff on finished carpets is 20 per cent of the value plus 45 cents a square yard, and for semi-finished carpets, it is a flat 25 per cent.

In 1970 carpet imports were 3,900,000 square yards, but have been estimated to rise to 12,700,000 for 1974 comprising about 15 percent of the Canadian carpet market.

A survey of six retail stores in Belleville showed owners and managers are uncertain about the effect of a reduced tariff on the retail end of the business, due to lack of information on the issue from manufacturers, distributors or head offices.

But the questions which arise concern possible import price decreases from the distributors, which might be passed on to consumers, and how this greater competition might affect sales and prices of Canadian-made carpets.

John Wilson, store manager of Robert Michaud Ltd. which sells few imports, pointed out, "basically, when you've got a Canadian carpet mill, and it's competing with an American .... and you start bringing over manufactured goods from the States, you're bound to hurt the Canadian company."

He said a reduced tariff should lower the price of imports for both the retailer and the consumer, but was uncertain how the domestic industry would react.

Mr. Wilson noted, in addition, with a tariff reduction, "you could get a lot of dumping of goods."

George Booth, owner of Booth Radio and Television Ltd., commented, "I'm sure the manufacturers would pass the saving on to the retailer (for imports)."

At Belleville - Broadloom, store manager Harry Wilson said he did not think a reduced tariff would cause a great hardship to the Canadian industry. "I don't think it would make any big inroads," he said.

"It's mostly the English carpets we have in stock," he said of his imports. He added the store also has carpets made in Georgia.

A spokesman for Cherney's Furniture World said his store has only one import — Indian rugs. The remainder of the stock is Canadian or from American — owned subsidiaries in Canada.

"As of yet, I haven't heard anything from our head office," he said. "I would hazard a guss ..., you would hardly notice any reduction for a long while."

A sporke man for Stradwick's, like the others, could not comment specifically because no information has filtered down to the retail level.

Stradwick's sells but one import, and that one is manufactured in England.

Fresh Talent On Radio

Every year, Canada's advanced music students closet themselves with their instruments, brush up their repertoire and prepare for CBC Radio's Talent Festival.

Out of nearly 200 singers and instrumentalists who auditioned for the 1974-75 contest. 25 have been selected as semi-finalists in the 16th annual event..

They will be heard Thursdays, 8:03 p.m. on Themes and Variations on CBC Radio from Jan 2 to March 27..

In each program, entrants will perform works with CBC Talent Festival Orchestras conducted in various centres by John Avison or Raymond Dessaint.

Feature Times

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Thursday, Jan. 9

Aries (March 21-April 19) Instructions you will be issuing won't be followed exactly unless you keep tabs on things step by step.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Keep everything out in the open in dealings or you are going to make a faulty decision trying to cover up.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Partnership situations are tricky today. You could be pressured into doing something against your better judgment.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) Devote your full attention to what you are doing if working with your hands, especially if some sharp instrument is required.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) You will be a little too insistent on having your own way. This won't earn many points for you from your mate.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't be sharp or domineering with those performing a service for you if you expect it to be done efficiently.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be unusually mindful of your possessions or a prized article may get lost or damaged through your carelessness.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you shake things up too much in a business matter you are going to shave some of the benefits as well.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your attention span isn't all it should be. You are apt to start several things you won't complete till much later.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be careful not to be taken advantage of again by a self-serving friend who always leaves you on the short end.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You are going to be let down by someone on whom you are relying to do something for you. Have a back-up plan.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't let unimportant issues sidetrack you from your main theme now. Keep one goal in mind at a time.

To Your Good Health

Woman Plagued By Restless Legs

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I'm bothered with restless legs. No pain at all. I fall asleep and could sleep through the night but this condition wakes me up every night from two to seven times with an uneasy crawling sensation on my knees and insteps.

I'm 76 years old and real active.—Mrs. R. B.

Restless or "jitter leg" is a troublesome and amazing symptom that accounts for millions of sleepless hours every night of the year, I dare say. It may be accompanied by sensations of burning, tightness in the limbs, aching and any number of other symptoms, none of them pleasant.

The cause is not definitely known, although some have found it prevalent in persons with anxiety or other emotional problems such as depression. In others, anemia has been found the cause and relief is given by iron supplements.

With no known cause established, a wide variety of treatments has been tried which have helped some but held no relief for others. Short of a physical examination, I can only suggest a few of these.

Some sufferers have found relief in taking a walk before retiring. One physician friend found this to be his answer. Another found relief by elevating the covers slightly with a rolled-up blanket at the foot of the bed.

Medicinal treatments have ranged from antihistamines, to quinine (five grains before retiring), tranquillizers, and barbiturate sedatives.

Another patient gave up coffee with good results.

I hope you have mentioned this to your doctor. So many older patients when giving histories neglect to mention things that are causing them real problems. Be sure you don't forget the next time you visit the doctor.

Meanwhile, you can try the rolled-up blanket idea first, or any of the others mentioned. Good luck.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have red spots on my body about the size of freckles. They are raised and seem to be filled with blood.

I'm getting more and more all over my body. What can I do to prevent any more from coming in? I am 59.

I scraped a tiny one with my fingernail and you can't even tell where it was—Mrs. R.U.Z.

Skin defects are best diagnosed by inspection than by description, but I will hazard a guess that yours could be hemangiomata. These are accumulations of tiny vessels (capillaries) under the skin which usually appear as one gets older.

There is not much to be done about them, but I would advise against further scraping. They could bleed and become infected.

If they are a cosmetic nuisance on your face and neck, a dermatologist might prescribe a cautery.

Opening lead—J ♥

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

We are indebted to Paul Lukacs and Bridge World magazine for today's hand. If you can keep your eyes off the East West cards, try to plan your play at six spades.

Your first thought: Win the heart lead with dummy's ace and try an immediate first-round diamond finesse. If it wins you are home, provided trumps don't break 5-0, but you can't handle five trumps in one hand with any line of play.

If it loses and trumps break 4-1 or a diamond is led right back and ruffed you're going down.

A second thought may be better. Ruff the heart and start trumps. If West holds four trumps, cash your ace and king of clubs and throw him in with his last trump. Anything he leads gives you your contract.

It turns out that East holds the four trumps, you still cash your ace and king of clubs. Now your best play is to also cash the ace and king of diamonds, then throw East in.

This will cost you your contract if East started with the unguarded queen of diamonds, but since East is long in spades he's likely to be short in diamonds.

So you cash your high diamonds, throw East in and make your contract, since East has to put you in dummy with a club or heart.

Prostitution Offer Too Low, Man Jailed

REGINA (CP) — 'A 63-year-old Regina-area farmer was senteced Tuesday to 30 days in jail after being convicted of soliciting in Regina.

"If ladies of the night should be punished, then those who entice them should receive equal punishment," Judge J. J. Flynn said in handing down sentence.

The court heard evidence that the man called a 20-year-old woman over to his car and that negotiations broke down over the price.

The farmer said he is married, with children aged 29 and 24. Judge Flynn said, "This girl was younger than your own children; does your wife know you're in court?"

When the man said "no," the judge noted "She's going to wonder where you are fcr the next 30 days."

Hashish Price Soars

OTTAWA (CP) — Even the illegal drug trade has been hit by inflation.

RCMP Cpl. Doug Ford said in an interview Monday that the Ottawa street price for a pound of hashish now is $1,500, up from $1,200 a year ago.

A pound of marijuana now sells for $400, compared with a street price of $250 a year ago, and a pound of speed now fetches $6 000, up from $3,500, he said.

But higher prices apparently have not affected demand.

Freight Train Should Have Stopped

CTC Says Human Error, Not Mechanical Failure, Caused Wreck

CP — Staff

A Canadian Transport Commission spokesman says a freight train eastbound from Belleville to Montreal should have come to a full stop when warned by lights of an oncoming passenger train before the trains collided head-on Dec. 20, 12 miles east of Napanee.

The collision resulted in the deaths of both Canadian National Railways engineers, Ray Mortimore and Keith Boyle, and of a female passenger. Both men lived in Belleville. Four others were seriously injured in the incident.

"The freight train went through a yellow and a red signal," CTC spokesman C. B. Ward said Tuesday. "It should have slowed at the yellow and stopped at the red."

Immediately following the crash, CN and the CTC began inquiries, with investigations centering on the possibility of mechanical failure.

Both investigative teams and the Napanee detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police have submitted reports to the coroner's office.

Napanee coroner, Dr. J. D. Alkenbrack is expected to set a date for the coroner's inquest this Monday, said an OPP spokesman today. The spokesman said the CN investigation is for "internal" use and "the CTC finding will not be made public until at least after the coroner's inquest.

John Green of the CTC investigation team said during an interview mechanical failure has been ruled out as a cause of the collision after testing of equipment along the line.

Mr. Ward said the unanswered question in the investigation is why Keith Boyle, freight train engineer, did not obey the signal light.

Mr. Green said it is normal to have two approaching trains on the same track. A dispatching officer gives both engineers instructions at each signal point.

He said a dispatcher instructed the engineer of the passenger train to cross over to a secondary line and activated stationary lights on the track to warn Mr. Boyle of the approaching train.

"He (Mr. Boyle) may have overestimated his braking capacity," Mr. Green said. "Any number of factors could have been involved."

A witness reported that the conductor — after seeing the yellow caution light which signifies an approaching red light — activated the freight's brakes from the caboose, said Mr. Ward.

Mr. Ward said the CTC investigation is near completion and said it is "possible the report will be made public prior to the inquiry".

"Our information is that the coroner's inquest will be in the early part of February but not before Feb. 4," he said.

Seven Die

North Bay Blast Leaves 38 Hurt

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP) — At least seven persons died and an unknown number were missing late Wednesday after an explosion and fire ripped through a downtown building, reducing it to rubble.

The explosion also injured 38 persons, all of whom were taken to hospital. Thirty were treated and released.

Police said a gas-company crew was working at the rear of the building at the time of the explosion but could not confirm that the accident was caused by gas.

Names of two of the dead were released by police. They were Dr. Gary Julien, a dentist who practised in the building, and Lawuanna Hallauer, both natives of North Bay.

There were four medical offices in the three-storey structure and police said some of the missing might have been patients there. The building also housed several living quarters.

One of the first on the scene was Frank Forth, 47, a city bus driver who works out of a nearby terminal. He said he and two other drivers pulled three people from the rubble before police, ambulance and fire officials arrived.

"We freed one guy; he just took off running," Mr. Forth said. "The other two were in pretty bad shape."

"One of them, a man, was bleeding pretty bad from the ears. I don't think he lived long."

He said the other person was a woman in her early 20s.

"She just stared at us and we took them both to the parking lot behind the building," he said. "I found a blanket and put it under the girl's head—and then the police came and took over."

Mr. Forth said the flames were so intense by that time that they could not get near enough to see whether anyone else was in the ruins.

Police Chief William Wotherspoon was in his McIntyre Street office directly across the street when the explosion occurred.

"The whole building was up in the air right off the ground and then the building just crumbled, just disappeared," Chief Wortherspoon said.

Ernie Corbeil, 61, an optical technician employed in the building, said he saw the gas company crew working behind the building before the blast.

"About a month ago, they tore down the old building at the back, but they left the gas line in the ground," he said.

The workmen "were cutting across the driveway. They were drilling through the pavement and all of a sudden there was a bang."

U.S. Faces Possibility Of Oil and Rail Strikes

WASHINGTON (AP) — As President Ford worked on what his aides call a tough anti-recession program, the United States was hit with more bad economic news—possible strikes that could close its oil refineries and stop many of its trains

Without disclosing what Ford's proposals may include White House press secretary Ron Nessen quoted Ford as telling his cabinet Wednesday:

"Ours is a good program. It is tough. It is fully defendable. It will give us the restoration of confidence that is essential for recovery."

Nessen quoted chairman Alan Greenspan of the Council of Economic Advisers as telling the cabinet Wednesday that the jobless rate won't decline until next year.

Ford's program, which may be announced as early as next week, also was reported to include a tax cut of undetermined magnitude.

The 60,000-member Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union said a strike will be called against U.S. oil companies unless agreement on new contracts for 430 local bargaining units is reached within 24 hours.

Toronto Teacher Quits Over Ban on Use of Strap

TORONTO (CP) — John Winter, a 39-year-old teacher, has resigned his teaching position here in protest against the board of education's ban on corporal punishment.

Banning the strap ran against Mr. Winter's grain. He says he is an adherent of sterner stuff—punching, kicking, wrestling and any other no holds-barred method of maintaining classroom decorum among his Grades 7 and 8 pupils.

"I used every form of corporal punishment imaginable to get order and quiet in my classes," he said.

Mr. Winters, who quit his job as a science teacher at Essex senior public school during the Christmas holidays, said he hit students on the arms with a yardstick, punched them in the sides, kicked them in the buttocks, grabbed them around the neck, wrestled them to the classroom floor and slapped them with the back of his hand.

"You wouldn't believe what is going on in that school," Mr. Winter said. "A bunch of wild Indians."

At the start of the school year, about a dozen older students "terrorized" younger pupils by beating them up on the school grounds, he said. The same students later turned to "molesting the girls on the school grounds and in the washrooms."

"These boys followed the girls right in".

Ottawa Teachers Near Pact

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Negotiations between representatives of the Ottawa separate school board and its 1,214 teachers continued early today amid hopes for an early settlement.

Doug Knott, a negotiator for the Ontario English Catholic Teachers Association (OECTA), said Wednesday: "I'm very optimistic. From the progress we made last night (Tuesday) in Toronto, prospects for an early settlement look very favorable."

Saudi Arabia Buys Jets

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Saudi Arabia has concluded a $756 million deal with the United States to buy "several squadrons" of U.S.-made jet fighter planes, the Saudi state radio said today.

Water Believed Safe

TORONTO (CP) — Environment Minister William Newman said Wednesday his ministry is satisfied that asbestos in drinking water does not act as a carcinogen-cancer-causing agent. "I'd like the public to believe the water is safe to drink," Mr. Norman told reporters after a cabinet meeting.

Refinery Walkouts End

TORONTO (CP) — Production workers at two of the three Toronto-area oil refineries were back on the job Wednesday after participating in walkouts Tuesday, management and union officials said. The companies involved are Texaco Canada Ltd., Shell Canada Ltd., and Gulf Oil of Canada Ltd. The union said the Texaco refinery at Port Credit, Ont., had locked out workers who walked off the job Tuesday.

Sharp Takes Party of MPs On London Trip

OTTAWA (CP) — A 16-member Commons committee led by Government House Leader Mitchell Sharp heads for London today on a 10-day trip to study procedures in the British Commons.

The visit is the first step in study by the procedure committee of possible reforms to streamline legislative procedures here.

Included in the delegation are nine members of the governing Liberals, five Progressive Conservatives and two New Democratic Party MPs.

Prime Minister Trudeau has mentioned the British system several times as an example worth studying with a view to parliamentary reform, one of the government aims announced in the throne speech Sept. 30.

Vietnam May Get U.S. Help

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration, responding to a South Vietnamese call for help, says it is considering supplemental assistance to the Thieu government.

U.S. state department press officer Robert Anderson said Wednesday that President Ford and his advisers have the matter "under intense consideration."

South Vietnamese officials have asked for increased military aid to counter the Communist offensive that has resulted in the fall of Phuoc Long province.

The Ford administration asked for $1.4 billion in military aid to South Vietnam for the current fiscal year. Congress authorized $1 billion, then cut the amount to $700 million.

Sirica Frees Three

Yellow Ribbon Greets Jeb Magruder

WASHINGTON (AP) — Freed from prison after serving only part of their terms, John Dean, Jeb Stuart Magruder and Herbert Kalmbach began today what Dean's wife called "living again."

The three men, key figures in the Watergate scandal, headed home—Dean and Kalmbach to California and Magruder to Bethesda, Md.—after being released by U.S. District Court Judge John Sirica, who reduced their terms to "time served."

Magruder's wife, Gail, learned about his release from a neighbor, who rushed to her car as she returned from shopping.

"You're kidding me!" she cried, and burst into tears.

She ran into her house, emerged and tied a yellow ribbon on a tree in her front yard, apparently thinking of a popular song in which a freed prisoner asks his lover to "tie a yellow ribbon 'round the old oak tree."

"Thank God, I'm free!" Magruder said. "I have no plans. I didn't expect to be out by now."

Kalmbach was at his lawyer's office in Washington, in the custody of a federal marshal, when his release was announced.

"He was astounded," said the lawyer, Charles McNelis. "He sort of welled up and swelled up and there were tears in his eyes."

"I'm just shocked. I'm still shocked," said Dean's wife, Maureen, at their home in Beverly Hills, Calif. "Mother called and said, 'John's free! John's free!' I'm just so excited, I can't wait to start living again."

Dean, Kalmbach and Magruder were freed Wednesday after serving four, six and seven months, respectively, of their sentences for guilty pleas to felonies in the Watergate scandal.

Dean, 35, former White House lawyer, began serving a 1-to-4 years term Sept. 3. Magruder, 39, deputy director of former president Richard Nixon's re-election campaign, entered prison June 4 to begin a term of 10 months to four years.

Kalmbach, 52, who was Nixon's former personal lawyer and a Nixon fund raiser, had served six months of a 6-18 month term.

Sirica gave no reason for ordering the release.

HARRY G. SHATTELL

Colborne

Funeral service for Harry G. Shattell, Colborne, who died Monday in Trenton Memorial Hospital, was held Wednesday at the Weaver Funeral Home.

Born in England, he was a retired stationary engineer.

His wife, Vara Mae, died in 1973.

He is survived by five sons Roy, of Wellington; Leo and Leonard, Trenton; Ronald, RR 2 Trenton, Donald, of MacKenzie B.C., and and a daughter, Helen, of Toronto.

He was predeceased by a son Arthur and a daughter, Lily.

The services was conducted by Rev. Frank Hobbs with burial at Resthaven Memorial Gardens, Toronto. Mr. Shattell's sons acted as bearers.

MRS. CHARLES WALLACE HOARD

Funeral service for Mrs. Helen Norma Taylor Hoard was conducted Tuesday, January 7 in Hoard's United Church by Rev. Gordon Whiteborn. Interment, under the direction of the Hogle Funeral Home, Stirling, was in Hoard's Cemetery.

Bearers were Everett Parr, Gerald Heagle, Archie Bailey, Carl Snair, Donald Brown and Harold Rome.

Increasing Bus Costs Prompt Board Action

BLOOMFIELD — Prince Edward school trustees have expressed concern with the increasing costs of school buses. Discussion was prompted by a memo from the Ontario School Turstees' Council noting a 20-per-cent increase in the cost of school buses as of January 1, 1975. A further increase of seven per cent is expected by June of this year. In a two-year period the cost will raise by 50 per cent.

It was noted a 66-passenger bus sold for about $11,500 in 1973. Costs have increased to $17500 in 1974.

Business administrator E. A. Shortt said Wednesday the board does not buy buses. This is the bus operator's job.

Athol trustee Hutton Martin suggested the increased costs will be reflected on the board when bus operators decide to seek more money.

The OSTC suggested school boards band together and refuse to buy buses at increased prices.

In discussion it was observed the ministry of transport has regulations that make periodic purchase of new buses compulsory as older models eventually fail to meet standards.

Trustees agreed to further consider the question of higher bus purchase costs and their potential effects.

The school board now wants to learn the basis of the manufacturers' information. They also want to discuss with the OSTC how the council expects to group all school boards for action in the issue.

The school board passed a motion to confer further with the OSTC.

Council To Sponsor Seminar

The Quinte and District Labor Council will sponsor a labor institute, educational session on the week end of March 1 and 2.

Representatives of area labor locals are invited to attend the clinic which will offer courses in unemployment insurance, steward training, collective bargaining in the federal sector, union administration and public speaking.

Shirley Carr, vice—president of the Canadian Labor Congress will be the guest speaker at the Saturday banquet.

Doug Sword, president of the labor council, said Tuesday night, if this year's program is successful, the scheme will be maintained as an ongoing labor council function.

Province Backs Centre

BANCROFT — Hastings MPP Clarke Rollins presented Monteagle Reeve, S. J. Carr with a cheque for $3,400 on Wednesday, from the ministry of community and social services for the major renovations to the community centre in Maynooth.

The centre is a joint project between Monteagle Township and the combined townships of Bangor, Wicklow and McClure.

Total cost of the renovation program to turn the old Maynooth School into a community centre has been in excess of $12,000.

The Maynooth Lions Club raised most of the money through fund raising projects in the community.

Jackson Visits

Dr. John N. Jackson, professor of applied geography at Brock University in St. Catharines will be special speaker at a geography program sponsored by Centre Hastings Secondary School in Madoc and the Hastings County Board of Education. The program will be held in the Park Room of the Four Season's Hotel January 16 at 8 p.m. Following Dr. Jackson's address, a reaction panel of people in planning positions in the community will respond to his ideas. Places are available for about 40 members of the public for $7 a person.

Nursery Opens Doors

NUSRERY indent en ma

BANCROFT — The Bancroft Parent's Co-operative Nursery, located in the old L'Amable School building has been operating for four years in the North Hastings area and will be holding an open house on January 18.

Originally started in 1970, by a group of parents who got a LIP grant, the nursery has grown from eight children then to a record number of 22 who enrolled this past fall.

At the moment there are a number of vacancies in the nursery since about eight of the children have been withdrawn to start a second school in Cardiff.

Supervisor Carolyn Eves said the reduced number of children participating in the nursery necessitated the raising of the fees.

"However," said Mrs. Eves, "if we have more children enroll, it's possible the fees will come down again."

A TEACHER IN PHARMACY SCHOOL once gave us this good advice which we have never forgotten and always tried to follow.

HE SAID, "ANY MEDICINE OR HEALTH-AID can do much good if properly used and great harm if improperly or excessively taken."

"PHARMACISTS LEARN IN COLLEGE how to compound medicines, protect their potency by proper storage, and the possible dangers involved if they are taken properly."

"PHARMACY CODE OF ETHICS directs pharmacists to consider the public's health to be their most important goal. It is the dedicated obligation of every pharmacist to caution folks who may be unwisely taking a non-prescription medicine or home remedies."

PLEASE ASK OUR PROFESSIONAL OPINION of any non-prescription medicine, vitamin or home remedy. We will always give you an honest, informed answer. If necessary we will explain when it would be wiser for you to consult a physician.

THIS HELPFUL ADVICE IS IMPORTANT. Every medicine or health-aid should only be secured from a pharmacist. We will never knowingly permit you to gamble with your health.

Caley Heads County Board

BLOOMFIELD — Bloomfield — Hallowell school trustee Douglas Caley was elected 1975 chairman Wednesday of the Prince Edward County Board of Education by unanimous vote. New vice-chairman is Ameliasburg trustee, Harmon Montgomery.

Mr. Caley, who was vice-chairman of the board last year, succeeds Mrs. Ruth Hart, trustee for Picton.

He has served as a school trustee for 10 years, four of them with a township board and six with the county board of education.

In his inaugural remarks Mr. Caley pledged his best efforts to the responsibilities of his office.

He said hopefully the combined efforts of the board's 14 trustees will provide improved educational opportunities for all students in Prince Edward.

"Not withstanding the fact 1975 brings to us a number of problems, some new, some continuing and some no doubt which have yet to be recognized," he commented in his address.

Mr. Caley noted reorganization of board committees will achieve a more even distribution of the work load and all trustees will be able to play a more active part in board affairs.

In an interview following the board's inaugural session Mr. Caley predicted expansion of music and French programs in county schools.

He suggested this step would afford continuity for the music programs now underway in elementary schools. Music teachers hired would also be qualified to teach additional subjects.

Mr. Caley said French programs are conducted in all county schools from the Garade 5 level up but that he hopes to see instruction initiated at Kindergarten level. This early education would be successful he predicts, but not successful to the extent it might be if French were spoken in the student's home.

The board chairman said he would like to see French become a compulsory secondary school subject, noting it can be of assistance in obtaining certain jobs.

Danforth Trail Worth Restoring

By MARG. HAYLOCK

Staff Reporter

PICTON — Old quiet roadways such as The Danforth Rd. have been completely lost or, frequently, cut into useless neglected cul-de-sacs through "unthinking desecration" says Rodger J. Ross a television film specialist.

Mr. Ross this week told Picton Rotarians the Danforth Rd., reaches a deadend near Cobourg where an embankment carrying Highway 401 has been thrown up across it. To rejoin the Danforth Rd. the traveller must detour until he strikes its continuation winding into the Gully near Grafton.

Mr. Ross said the present Highway 33 passing through Picton and Prince Edward follows nearly its entire length the original trail blazed in 1799 by Asa Danforth.

The speaker, commented he became interested in the nearly forgotten pioneer road when he came to reside in Cobourg about two years ago.

He predicted the Danforth Rd. could become a major tourist attraction if certain missing sections could be located and reconstructed.

Mr. Ross, until his retirement in 1971, was supervisor of technical film operations at CBC in Toronto, a position he held about 18 years.

Last week he was named Canadian correspondent for the journal of the British Kinematograph Sound and Television Society in London England.

Time, Money Hamper Distribution of Manual

TRENTON — What recreation director Deno Gettas called an "invaluable" manual outlining Trenton and area groups is being held up from wide-spread distribution by lack of funds and time.

Depending upon whom one asks, the 78-page, loose-leaf documentation of organizations and people - to - contact will not be distributed in the near future.

Finished in December, 1974, after three-months work, it is a manual that provides information on nearly all aspects of recreation, sports, health and social groups in the Trenton area.

Only six copies now exist.

Jack Wilson, manager of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce said his organization cannot print additional copies because funds are unavailable.

Recreation director Mr. Gettas says his staff hasn't the time to photocopy the material. He estimates 100 copies could be printed for approximately $100, a cost far below the $8-a-copy Mr. Wilson estimated.

The recreation department has a copy, the town a copy, the chamber another. Three additional copies were received from Richard Potter, MPP for Quinte, after the completed manual was forwarded to the minister.

Mr. Potter originally requested a list of volunteer groups in the Trenton area in August. His request, according to Mr. Wilson, led the chamber and the recreation committee to embark on the project.

The manual was modelled on a similar, booklet of resource people published and distributed by the United Community Services in Belleville.

Chairman Changes

Chairman of the Prince Edward board of education for 1974, Mrs. Ruth Hart Wednesday turned over her gavel of office to Bloomfield-Hallowell trustee Douglas Caley. Mr. Caley served as vice-chairman of the board last year.

Murray To Expand Board

WOOLER — The only new member of Murray Township council wants the planning board increased by two members, and he wants to be one of them.

Angus McFee told council "with all the ramifications upon us in regard to the plan being drafted in general, the more people who can become eligible, the better".

Reeve Harry Lafferty said that he was the instigator of the five-member board comprised of two members of council plus the reeve and two other persons.

"Maybe it would be a good thing to have a seven member board with all the troubles we are going to have," the reeve said.

Councillor William Ellis asked if the change could be made legally, and the clerk said it could. He suggested that Stanley Down, who was recently defeated in a bid for the deputy-reeve's seat would be a good member since he was familiar with the plan and its problems, having sat on council for many years.

"The next planning board is going to have to set down some tough policies in accordance with the guidelines you made last year," clerk Ken Rose told council.

A Canadian Saga

Some years ago Swiss-born Ed Imhoff left Belleville, the jeweller's store where he worked, and his hobby of underwater diving to go into business for himself in Toronto. Today he lives in Guelph with his wife Linda and Ed Jr., a Belleville native who is now 8 years old, and commutes to work in Kitchener. He is still in the jewellery profession and has like interests in stores in Guelph and Toronto.

For a man who came to Canada only 12 years ago the personable Mr. Imhoff has accomplished much, not only in his profession but in the pursuit of his marine interests. This now extends to underwater archaeology which in three expeditions to the French River between 1971 and 1973 has uncovered many relics of the early voyageurs.

In the process Mr. Imhoff has become an author and is sought after as a lecturer and by museum and historical groups. It is an avocation that will not surprise his friends here who remember him at Gerry O'Connor's store and in his capacity as "keeper" of the town hall clock. For he was also president of the Quinte Aqua Divers and had studied archaeology at the University of Basle.

Always to the fore had been the prospect of underwater probes of sunken ships and it was with this in mind that Mr. Imhoff and some associates founded the 1711 Underwater Archaelogical Society; this followed the 1971 expedition to the French River and was pursuant of a search for seven vessels of the fleet of Admiral Hovenden (Walker which foundered in the St. Lawrence those 250 plus years ago. This idea was abandoned however in favor of further exploration of the French river region north of Parry Sound.

The three expeditions yielded dozens of relics and artifacts from the fur trade, including a ceremonial tomahawk, a peace pipe, other clay pipes and a silver armband resembling a blackened tin can found by Mr. Imhoff. Polished, it was found to be engraved silver and bore a hallmark which he was able to trace as having belonged to Benjamin Etter, a second generation silversmith in Halifax who died in 1828 at the age of 65.

Although Mr. Imhoff's account of the expeditions, written in association with Guelph writer Dave Webster, does not elaborate unduly upon it, the most exciting find might well have been a piece of pottery predating the arrival of the white man — an earthenware bowl ornamented with flecks of pyrite ("fool's gold").

The booklet, which incidentally has been enjoying brisk sales, was printed by the Greenmor Printing Co. of Guelph.

Here for the Christmas holidays, Mr. Imhoff spoke of the society's 1974 expedition, this time to the Arctic watershed region south of James Bay, and told of encounters during the earlier ventures with a bear, a bobcat and a rattlesnake, not to mention gunshots from suspicious Indians.

It is a Canadian saga that began in Europe, took further form in the Quinte area and now is of even wider substance with display of the finds in the Museum of Man in Ottawa. Perhaps in addition Mr. Imhoff's story could become part of Belleville's Centennial celebrations in 1978.

Ban On Religion

Africa sometimes is known as the "dark continent" and the former Belgian Congo turned Democratic Republic of Congo but now called Zaire has come up with a decision that gives the title ominous substance.

The one-time army sergeant turned general who is the country's leader — President Mobutu — has outlawed the teaching of all religion in Zaire. The theology department of Zaire university is to be closed immediately and religious instruction replaced by the teaching of "civic education" and politics.

There is disturbing news too from Uganda and word of its eccentric leader, President Amin. It confirms further the authoritarian nature of independent black governments, with a decree banning the sale of foreign newspapers and magazines, with jail sentences for those who disobey.

The edict follows Amin's strange New Year message to Soviet and Chinese leaders advocating independence for Scotland.

Meanwhile things look better in much-maligned but stable South Africa where a black soccer team has played a white team for the first time, the blacks winning 3-1 in an incident-free match.

Way May Be Open For Rockefeller

President Ford's Performance Less Than Spectacular

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

The feeling is growing in Washington that President Ford is an interim or stop-gap leader between the disastrous Nixon years and whatever new presidency results from the presidential elections next year.

There are many reasons for this feeling other than the usual journalistic gloom about the chief executive, a Washington hang-up these days.

A recent Harris poll indicated 86 per cent of the Americans questioned said they did not feel President Ford had really come to grips with the growing recession.

Many Republicans and even more Democrats in a Senate and Congress where Democrats are all powerful, have never forgiven the presidential pardon given to Richard Nixon, the biggest Watergate conspirator of them all, and for whose cause the other Watergate co-conspirators worked with enthusiasm and loyalty.

The president's brief forays into international affairs do not appear to be really his initiatives, but still those of Secretary of State Dr. Henry Kissinger. And some of his moves are beginning to look less than superhuman, especially a recent speech hinting at tough American attitudes in the Middle East if oil shipments are stopped for any reason.

The personal reason given is that the president would like to retire from the high office he never anticipated if his wife's health does not continue to improve.

Any resignation by Mr. Ford before the end of the Nixon term he is completing, would automatically place Vice-President Nelson Rockefeller in the position he tried twice to run for as a Republican presidential candidate.

Other less-than-happy things have been happening to the president who went into office with probably 100 per cent goodwill from Americans.

His generous and long-overdue program for amnesty, in spite of its limited aspects, has drawn less than 10 per cent of the estimated 200,000 US draft dodgers and resisters around the world to come home and take it up.

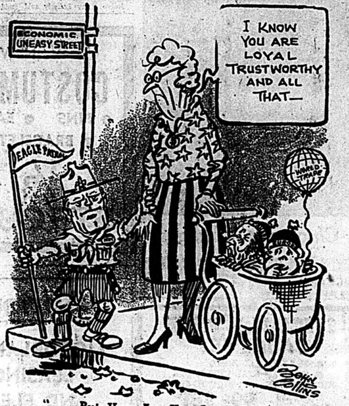
The CIA scandal, also a residual problem from the Nixon presidency, has surfaced during Mr. Ford's administration, chiefly the use made of the CIA for domestic surveillance by Nixon and his cynical aides, violating the federal law which restricts that agency to overseas activities only.

The president's eight-man task force to investigate the CIA illegal domestic activities extending back to 1969 has also come under attack, since two of its members and chairman Nelson Rockefeller have been involved in White House and other government intelligence advisory capacities in the past.

Mr. Ford's problems seem to be almost overwhelming and might have been seen this way by the American press if it had not passed through the 18-month trauma of Watergate reporting.

Nevertheless, the most serious crisis of all, the deepening recession in the United States, mounting unemployment and 1.7 million unsold cars in inventory, needs single-minded political leadership and the best economic advice in the U.S.

Too many Americans are concerned they are getting neither. Mr. Ford's chief economic adviser is a conservative economist in a time when innovation in economic policy, not conservatism, is needed.



". . . But How Are You In Traffic?"

Labor And Management Together Face Inflation - Recession Squeeze

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Organized labor will be fighting vigorously for still bigger wage gains in 1975, to keep ahead of galloping inflation.

But industry, caught in a recession, will find it harder than ever to accede to demands for record wage boosts.

That means that this will probably be yet another year of bitter industrial disputes in Canada—made worse by the rapidly growing tendency on the part of some of organized labor's militants to ignore laws forbidding certain types of strikes.

In the past, some years were considered to be "off-years" in collective bargaining, with no major labor contracts scheduled for re-negotiation. Not any more.

In 1975, according to the federal department of labor's figures, 51 per cent of major agreements (421 out of 825) covering 71.5 per cent of the employees (1,215,000 out of 1,698,000) will expire. The list excludes the construction industry, and agreements covering fewer than 500 employees.

In addition, 11 major agreements provide for 1975 re-opening of specified clauses, usually wages.

The federal labor minister, John Munro, says—somewhat vaguely—that his department will be "re-examining its basic foundation" in 1975.

"Should not the department have greater in-put into economic and social policy-planning and decision-making, particularly in those areas that have a direct effect on the work force?" Mr. Munro asks.

One specific action to be taken by the labor department will be the establishment of a council "to pinpoint and tackle and plan a strategy for the future."

Most Canadians can only hope that the new council will prove more effective than have other joint ventures of the public and private sectors that the Trudeau government has sponsored.

Certainly some decisive action to clear up public suspicions of conflict of interest between cabinet minister and unions would help clear the air.

Also welcome would be a re-affirmation by the federal and provincial governments of the rule of law in industrial disputes. Some Ontario teachers are currently taking part in an illegal strike, while just a few months ago Toronto's transit workers chose to defy the Ontario legislature when it ordered them back to work.

Growing industrial strife is by no means confined to Canada—in fact, our labor scene is relatively peaceful.

Today's international economic crisis reflects, to some extent, the selfish efforts of most countries to shut out imports and to maximize the number of jobs in domestic industry.

To deal with the problem on a broad scale, the international Labor Organization will hold a world employment conference sometime in 1976, at a site yet to be chosen.

The tentative agenda includes the creation of a new international division of labor and the need for more equitable income distribution among nations.

This suggests a multi-national agreement to transfer jobs in the advanced countries, where wages are high, to less developed countries, where labor is cheap.

The apparently fatal flaw in any such plan is that jobs gained in developing countries would be jobs lost in the industrialized nations.

But, with careful planning, it might be possible to bring about an orderly transfer of employment, with satisfactory compensation and protection for those adversely affected.

CSAO Tactics May Force Election

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau
Thomson News Service

TORONTO — The civil servants will probably be the most important factor in setting the date of this year's general election.

The government now has had a taste of the militancy of the reorganized Civil Service Association of Ontario (the slogan over the main door at its headquarters building is "Free The Servants.")

This fall there will be negotiations again not only for the 19,000 operating employees, who got a one-year contract in the last-ditch Christmas holiday settlement, but also for most other categories in the 60,000 member CSAO.

Obviously under the new leadership of the CSAO these are going to be turbulent and perhaps bitter.

The association's new leadership has made it clear that one of its basic tactics in bargaining is to try to arouse feelings against whatever administration is in power.

Emotions could be bred which could last a long time.

The government knows this well now, and it almost certainly will want to go to the people ahead and probably well ahead, of what promises to be a show-down fight.

Which means a strong indication of an election in the spring or at the latest early fall.

In the meantime the government this winter will have to give its avid attention to labor relations.

It appears at least possible that it will free some groups in the civil service from the ban on striking.

Then over the holiday Mr. Justice Osler of the Supreme Court refused an injunction against Windsor secondary school teachers to prevent them from striking and picketing, his decision saying there was really nothing in the law which said they couldn't.

Something should be done about this (and will a government facing an election dare to anger now-militant teachers by writing a definite no-strike clause into law?).

But most importantly of all new procedures are obviously more and more needed in labor relations generally. Last year set a record in both man-days lost through strikes and in illegal strikes.

Labor Minister John MacBeth has reported he is studying the possibilities of setting up a labor court, which, among other functions, could rule on legal or illegal strikes.

This might do some good.

But still it would seem that enforcement of penalties is a root weakness of the present system and a court would not be much of an improvement on this: One of the two parties would still have to initiate the action, which is where we have fallen down until now.

It is to be hoped that Mr. MacBeth takes a careful look at the Rand report proposal for an independent enforcement officer. More and more this appears as a needed and practical step.

Once again, however, no government probably would risk labor's probable anger by taking such a step ahead of an election.

Military Action Only In Event Of 'Stranglehold' Of West: Kissinger

By AL COLLETTI

NEW YORK- CP - As the arms buildup continues in the Middle East, State Secretary Henry Kissinger's refusal to rule out United States military intervention as a last resort "in the gravest emergency" takes on added significance..

It is bound to produce a new case of "war jitters" in Western Europe - always fearful that a new war in the Middle East will again cut off their oil supplies.

Kissinger's cutting comments about the lack of Eurpean support for US. policies in the October, 1973, Arab-Israeli war, and the present-day lack of direction in the whole Western world - the U.S. possibly excepted - will not sit well with some allies..

In a lengthy interview published in Business Week magazine, Kissinger gave some insight into future U.S. policy. For one thing, he said that before oil prices can come down there must be unity among the oil-consuming countries.

Business Week sees Kissinger as the man who has taken over the mantle of international economic leadership. But his policies may take two or three years to accomplish the goal of reducing oil prices.

In the absence of consumer solidarity, Kissinger said the only chance to bring oil prices down immediately would be "massive political warfare against countries like Saudi Arabia and Iran to make them risk their political stability and maybe their security if they did not co-operate."

But bringing about such a crisis would be "too high a price to pay even for an immediate reduction in oil prices," he said.

On the controversial question of U.S. military intervention, Kissinger was replying obviously to a hypothetical situation, but willing to make public his remarks for his own reasons.

Business Week asked him: "One of the things we also hear from businessmen is that in the long run the only answer to the oil cartel is some sort of military intervention. Have you considered military action on oil?"

Kissinger replied: "A very dangerous course. We should have learned from Vietnam that it is easier to get into a war than to get out of it. I am not saying that there's no circumstances where we would not use force. But it is one thing to use it in the case of a dispute over price, it's another where there's some actual strangulation of the industrialized world."

Kissinger then was asked in the same context: "Do you worry about what the Soviets would do in the Middle East if there were any military action against the cartel."

Kissinger said: "I don't think this is a good thing to speculate about. Any president who would resort to military action in the Middle East without owrrying about the Soviets would have to be reckless

"The question is to what extent he would let himself be deterred by it. But you cannot say you would not consider what the Soviets would do. I want to make clear, however, that the use of force would be considered only in the gravest emergency."

Kissinger told reporters Friday that he was reflecting the views of President Ford.

Kissinger also seems to be particularly bitter about the way Western Europe reacted in the 1973 Middle East crisis.

He said these countries "systematically opposed every move we made in the Middle East; every strong action that was taken in the Middle East was taken by the U.S.""

"Had we taken military action in the Middle East, we would have faced violent opposition from their governments," he said, without mentioning the Soviet Union..

"Why are Europeans so hostile to the U.S."? he asked, and answered his own question: "I think they suffer from an enormous feeling of insecurity. They recognize that their safety depends on the U.S., their economic well-being depends on the U.S., and they know we're essentially right in what we're doing..

"So the sense of impotence, the inability to do domestically what they know to be right, produces a certain peevishness that always stops short of policy actions. No foreign minister ever says this."

In response to another question, he said there are two problems - economic and political.

"The political problem is that the whole Western world, with the exception perhaps of the U.S., is suffering from political malaise, from inner uncertainty, and from lack of direction. This always affects economic conditions because it means that you have no settled expectations for the future and therefore a lowered willingness to take risks.

"One of the principal objectives of our energy policy is to restore among the industrialized countries some sense that they can master their own fate. . ."

The Politics Of World Poverty

Wall Street Journal

It's apparent that a world food problem will be with us for many years and that the United States needs to think deeply on how best to use its vast agricultural riches. We only hope that the nation can keep straight in its mind the difference between policies to relieve the hungry and policies to relieve the guilt-ridden.

This thought comes to us recurrently, most recently on reading that the U.S. delegation to the World Food Conference in Rome has proposed a resolution to restrict the non-agricultural use of fertilizer. The notion is that the bag of fertilizer you don't use on your lawn will somehow show up on a rice paddy in Bangladesh. This is a good gimmick for assuaging guilt, which often seems America's last surplus commodity. But it is no sort of solution to the world food problem.

Indeed, a good way to understand the basics of the food problem is to observe that the Rome proposal comes from representatives of the same government that only a year ago ordered fertilizer producers to divert 1.5 million tons from exports to domestic use. The idea then was to keep the price from exploding when it was decontrolled. Decontrol was necessary, in turn, because the advent of controls happened to catch fertilizer prices at a depressed level, and freezing the price there had done much to cause a fertilizer shortage at home and abroad. Such crisis-of-the-moment policies, from Washington to Delhi and most points between, have done far more than green lawns to cause the world food problem.

Policies that actually will succeed in helping the hungry will have to be based on longer-range understandings. The first thing to understand is the law of supply and demand. If you restrict non-agricultural uses of fertilizer, for example, you reduce demand and therefore price. Theoretically this will be of some temporary benefit to the farmer in Bangladesh, for he can buy more fertilizer with the same money, if he has any money and anyone can get the fertilizer for him. But in all but the shortest run, the lower price is going to mean that less fertilizer will be produced in the world. Lower fertilizer production does not help feed the hungry.

Realistic policy, further, will understand that the easy and economical production gains lie in the under-developed world itself. In Kansas the easy steps have long since been taken, and in any event the problem of logistics would keep Kansas from supplying the world. The Indian fertilizer industry, for example, is operating at something like 40 percent or 60 percent of capacity, due to the inadequacies of the Indian economic infrastructure and the problems of dealing with the Indian bureaucracy.

In this situation, the U.S. policy that will best feed the hungry is the one that will best encourage India to feed itself ....

Yet if carried beyond a rhetorical position that would be going too far, for the U.S. certainly does have responsibilities to the world. One is to allow the world reasonable access to American markets, to forego export controls and sudden changes of trade policy. Another is to provide relief when disaster does strike abroad.

Claimed to have started as result of overheated pipes, fire completely destroyed the large Quinte Transport warehouse at Glen Miller late Monday evening, causing loss estimated at approximately $10,000.

On Sunday when a resident of Dartford, a Northumberland village, decided to donate blood in the Belleville clinic - fence-high snow faced him for two miles where other Dartford residents were waiting with horses and cutter. He leaped on the back of one of his own horses and plunged his way through the snow to his waiting friends. The four then drove to Belleville and all became blood donors.

This group will meet arising municipal, provincial or Dominion emergencies.

Growth Still Needed

Belt-tightening Sidney Priority This Year

Fiscal belt — tightening is the name of the game for Sidney Township council this year, says Reeve Gord Wilman.

In his remarks to council during its inaugural session this week Reeve Wilman said, "this is a year in which we must tighten our belts."

He said council will work to control spending in an effort to hold the line on the municipal mill rate. "I hope we'll be able to hold it within reason at least," he said.

The reeve looking back over recent years and pointed to strong residential growth within the township that has helped to "offset the mounting pressure of inflation," through a broader tax base. "It is my hope that this active township building will continue," said the reeve.

The reeve said the municipal road program will continue in the coming years as a priority and that the township "has a lot of work to do in co-operation with neighboring municipalities." He was referring to water and sewer services.

In a final note he said a highlight of the year would be the release of an official plan for the township. He said at least a draft plan would be ready for public discussion by April.

Councillors Reg McCurdy and Ernie Kells both said council should consider procedual problems in the coming year so as to "streamline" council work.

"I feel we are spending too many hours getting the job done," said Councillor McCurdy.

Sidney Township council this past election received total acclamation.

Councillor McCurdy prior to the election said he would not seek re-nomination. He consented to having his name stand when no other candidates materialized.

Snowmobiles Still Popular

Dealers Report Strong Sales Despite Unusual Mild Weather

By CASH MAHAFFY
Staff Reporter

Don't feel sorry for the poor snowmobile dealer who, you might think, has hardly sold a machine all through our mild fall and December.

Business has been good.

In fact, most area dealers are doing as well or better than last year.

Jim Irwin, owner of the Belleville Sports Centre, says sales are "as good as last year, and last year was a good year."

"We had quite a run after Christmas and if we don't sell any more, I'll be quite happy," said Alouett dealer Gary Sine.

A note of caution was struck by Bob Blaind, of Bob's Sports: "We don't sell machines any more. Most of the machines that have been sold so far this year are new '73 and '74 models. When they run out, buyers are in for a shock. For instance, our lowest-priced '75 model was going to have to sell for $995 — an increase of about 30 per cent over the '74 price."

Wayne Carrothers, president of Rollie's Sports, however, summed up his sales picture in one word: "Excellent." He estimated sales were up 15 per cent over last year.

"We had snow early and that helped. And we're sure to get more. It all helps."

At Vaughan Automotive and Marine, general manager William Shandraw said sales were just "fair," but added there had been a pickup since the first of the year, as is customary. "We just need a few inches of snow, and away we go."

Election Of Officers Board's First Task

The 1975-76 Hastings-Prince Edward separate school board will hold its organizational meeting Jan. 14 in the board office, 158 George St., at 8 p.m.

The 14-member board will have three new trustees. Herb Brown of Picton replaces Rev. Walter Hamilton and Leonard O'Leary of the Tweed-Huntingdon area replaces Hugh McNulty. Both were elected by acclamation. Paul Wall, a former member of the board was elected in Belleville and will replace Zdeneck Kvarda.

Remaining 11 trustees are Lillian O'Connor of Marmora, chairman of the board for the last two years, Rev. Louis Casartelli of Maynooth, Bert Garrett, Austin Scott and Frank Hyland of Trenton, Angus Yorke of Tyendinaga and Paul Fleming Joseph Chapelle, Michael Collins, John Granville and Msgr. J.P. Sullivan of Belleville.

After they are sworn in Wednesday night, the trustees will elect a chairman and vice-chairman for the coming year.

Church Marks Birthday With Traditional Supper

The Presbyterian Church in Canada is celebrating its centennial and as one of the events St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church is holding a traditional Burns Supper Jan. 24.

The church invites all interested people in Belleville and surrounding to take part in the dinner which will take place at St. Andrew's Church starting at 6:30 p.m.

Guest speaker will be the Rev. Hugh Davidson moderator of the 100th general assembly. Mrs. Davidson served as chaplian in the Royal Canadian Air Force and was sent overseas in 1941.

Upon his return, Mr. Davidson served as minister in two charges before being appointed secretary to the newly-erected board of stewardship and budget in 1960 In that year Knox College, from where he received his masters' degree, conferred an honorary Doctor of Divinity degree on him.

Preceding and following Mr. Davidson's address will be Scottish entertainment. Tickets are available on a reserved basis at $3.25 each by calling 968-8998, 968-7258, 962-2898 or the church office.

Rear Brakemen On Freights Go

OTTAWA (CP) — The final part of the railway arbitration award prepared by retired judge Emmett Hall after the 1973 national rail strike was released Wednesday.

The latest section allows railway companies to eliminate the job of rear brakeman on freight crews but gives protection for employees working in the job before Sept. 1, 1973.

The issue was a major concern of the United Transportation Union, which faced the possibility that the jobs of 5,000 of its members would be lost.

The report released Wednesday came a month after Mr. Justice Hall, a former Supreme Court of Canada judge, ruled that a job security plan, based on attrition should be provided for rail workers with eight years' seniority. This would mean that jobs for employees with the seniority would only be eliminated when they became vacant.

The crew size issue and the job security issue were both left over from the company-union negotiations of 1973, which led to selective strikes and then a national walkout.

Still to come is a calculation of the value to the unions and the cost to the companies of a pension plan negotiated between the parties in 1973 and amended in a new collective agreement for 1975 that was signed last month.

Dr. Noel Hall, a B.C. industrial relations specialist, is still working on that inquiry.

In the latest report, Mr. Justice Hall says the approved reduction in freight crews should be limited to the operation of trains with 120 cars or less.

Mr. Justice Hall says there should be two radios provided on freights to ensure end-to-end communication between the conductor and brakeman. "There has to be an efficient back-up facility on all trains operating with the reduced crew."

Girl Persuades Man To Surrender Rifle

TORONTO (CP) — Five shots were fired between police and a young man with a rifle Tuesday afternoon in the borough of Scarborough, but no one was injured

Police said the man, who fired his gun from a second-storey bedroom, surrendered after a former girl friend who lived in the house talked to him through a police loudhailer.

The man threw his .22-calibre rifle out the window and came out five minutes later with his hands in the air. He has been charged with dangerous use of a firearm and possession of a dangerous weapon.

A neighbor said David Bellinger, owner of the house, told her the man entered the house about 2:30 p.m. when Dale Bellinger, 18, was alone. The neighbor said the man roughed up the girl and threatened to "blow the brains out of anyone who entered the house."

Miss Bellinger escaped when police arrived.

Police said the man is on probation and was prohibited by court order from coming within two miles of the Bellinger home.

CSAO at Odds With Winkler

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario goverment is again at odds with the leadership of the Civil Service Association of Ontario (CSAO) over wage agreements for its employees.

Eric Winkler, chairman of management board of cabinet, said in a statement released Wednesday that the CSAO leadership was intent on maintaining an "atmosphere of confrontation and intimidation" in its latest wage bid for 18,000 workers in the general services category.

Shulman Drinks Water

TORONTO (CP) — Morton Shulman admitted Wednesday that he doesn't really practise what he preaches about the hazards of drinking tap water.

The NDP member of the Ontario legislature for Toronto High Park, who sparked some recent controversy when he warned that asbestos fibres in drinking water from the Great Lakes might eventually cause stomach cancer, said he is still drinking the water himself

But he is buying a distilling system for the home of his married daughter.

"I figure it's too late for me," Dr. Shulman said light-heartedly in an interview. "(You) have to think of the next generation, though."

Takes New Job

Cemetery Broke

PICTON - The Glenwood Cemetery Company, described by spokesman George Inrig as "completely penniless" has petitioned town council for an annual grant of $10,000 to cover operational costs and permit improvements.

Mr. Inrig, a Lindsay district provincial court judge and former Picton resident told council the cemetery's superintendent has been laid off and there is concern regarding proper burial before May 1, 1975, of bodies in the cemetery vault.

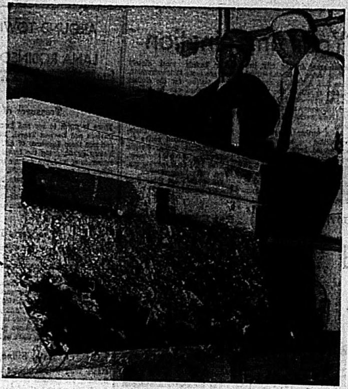
The cemetery company, he said, is not sure the superintendent will be available for re-hire in the spring.

Mr. Inrig said he purchased a plot in Glenwood about six years ago and in subsequent visits was "shocked and appalled" by the neglect of the grounds..

He said the directorate was not negligent but instead, a small group with no solutions for the problems it faced.

Mr. Inrig noted Glenwood is over 100 years old and was incorporated by a special act of legislation. Its only income source is plot sales and each sale its assets depreciate.

A public appeal for donations several years ago raised $2,900 but the cemetery now is completely without funds. The cemetery has received two federal government grants under winter works programs but this provides for labor only.



Junking the Junk

Maintenance supervisor Glen Wilson (left) and mill managerr Richard Portcous talk over operation of the vibrating screen that removes foreign material from the Trent Valley paperboard Mills pulper at Glen Miller. The newly-installed screen is part of a waste disposal system that ends the discharge of junk - among it, plastics - into the Trent River, the company claims. The screening process ultimately removes waste from the cardboard manufacturing operation.

System Costly

New Controls Eliminate Pollution

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

GLEN MILLER — No problems have surfaced in the newly - installed waste processing system at the cardboard manufacturing plant of Trent Valley Paperboard Mills here, says mill manager Richard Porteous.

Inadequacy of the old system was cited last July as the cause of pollution of the Trent River by shredded bits of plastic film.

In an interview this week, Mr. Porteous said the new 15.000 system has worked well since it went into full operation in October, 1974."

An environment ministry official in Kingston said this week visual inspection in December lead the ministry to believe "it'll do the job pretty well."

Under old procedures, Mr. Porteous said an estimated five per cent of the plant's waste found its way directly into the Trent River through the plant's sewer system..

Today, all waste materials - plastics, styrofoam, rubber and wood - are caught and shipped away as trash. Such waste comprises about 80 per cent of the 120 tons of waste paper daily processed by the plant.

Under the old system, the pulper - essentially a large shredding machine at the front end of the process which turns waste paper into cardboard — was completely cleaned of foreign material twice a week. It would simply be emptied on the floor from where men would remove all non-fibrous material.

During the dumping operation, some of the plastics and styrofoam clogging the pulper, would find their way into the plant's sewer system and subsequently into the river..

How much depended on the diligence of the individual workers, said the mill manager.

Bundles of waste paper the plant buys primarily from Toronto and Montreal are not all composed of paper, he said. Sections of two by four inch lumber and half a rubber boot have been found in the bundles.

New procedures eliminate the dumping of the pulper. Pulper effluent consists of water, paper fibres and foreign materials.

Its effluent now is caught in a concrete, water-tight reservoir. From the reservoir, a pump carries water and wastes to a vibrating screen used to separate water from waste. Wastes are carted away and the water is recycled to the pulper.

The catch system, which took four weeks to install, is "completely enclosed" said Mr. Porteous.

Stirling Arena Issue Splits Village Council

STIRLING - The proposed new Stirling and district arena now is up in the air. Stirling council discussed the matter ths week.

Council had received a $10,000 cheque from Sydney Township and $4,000 cheque from Rawdon Township, both with provisions for the return of the money with interest if the arena is not built within three years.

Councillor Wayne Martin called the funds "cheap donations." He went on to say that "I have been lukewarm towards an arena. If it is for minor hockey only, I am not interested. If it is for multi-use, I am interested in a new arena." He came back onto council through acclamation.

Councillor Ruby Tompkins wanted to know if the money could be used for renovations to the old arena if a new arena was not conceived.

Deputy-reeve Fred Brandt, who was the other member of last year's council, said "if we, as a council, don't get behind it, it won't go."

At election time he had said that a new roof should be built over the present ice surface.

Reeve Short said he will approach MP George Hees to see if a grant could be arranged.

"George Lyons got $150,00 for Deseronto," Mr. Short said. "We helped pay for that. Lindsay got $150,000, and we helped pay for that too."

"Fund raising should not cease," the reeve added.

Deputy-reeve Brandt said "The arena is a must. People want this."

Municipal clerk Robert Hulin pointed out to council it must have something to sell, and that the building committee had to come up with a location, plans, and estimate for cost for council.

"We have got to get the townships around us more interested," councillor Tompkins said. "They would use it as much as us. I am afraid they are not going to come in any stronger. They should have been sold before the project was ever started."

Bulletin Board Advertisements Arouse Your Imagination

The market square, the village pump, traditional centres of gossip and trade, long ago disappeared from all but the most picturesque and untouched towns.

But so valuable and necessary were these centres of activity that their modern-day counterparts are surviving and thriving: the bulletin boards in laundromats and supermarkets.

A recent survey of the city's boards reveals that they are well-used, and well read. And, in a way, they tell us much about the lives of the people who use them.

For example, there's a family in town having trouble disposing of a litter of small, black puppies. A bright turquoise notice in the east end of town promises the seven-week-old pups free to a good home.

In the centre of town, the pups are again advertised on a store bulletin board, but now are eight weeks old.

Happily for the family, several of the "telephone number stubs" have been torn off the advertisement, indicating that there's been some interest. Otherwise, we can expect some nine-week-old puppies to be advertised on the west end boards soon.

There are plenty of other dogs for sale and for give-away, ranging from a pure-bred cocker spaniel ($45) whose owners have moved to a no pet apartment, to an Afghan in Bancroft ($50), to a "friendly family dog" (free).

Typical of ambiguous bulletin notes is this one, tacked to a supermarket board. "For Sale: Beautiful red dress, size 16, with white leather trim. Cost $40, will sell at $6.50. Only worn twice. Reason for selling — Too big."

We wonder what's too large, the dress for the lady, or the lady for the dress?

The growth of families is reflected on these community boards. Here, a Cub cap and shirt and a collection of Partridge Family albums, for sale, there, a baby stroller and bathinette ensemble.

There's a wealth of information about "good deals" on these boards. Were you inclined to buy second-hand, you could get a chest of drawers ($30), a spin-dry washing machine, four years old ($60), a pair of size five goalie skates ($25) and men's skis ($25), 190 centimeters long.

Many cagey sellers don't name their price, but leave themselves open to bargaining. "Best offer accepted" is standard for snow tires, end tables, television sets, barbells, bowling balls, dresses, coats and cars.

One of the most fascinating aspects of bulletin board advertising is the combinations of merchandise being sold together. A 200-gallon oil tank, floor polisher and pool table from one source, a Persian lamb hat and humidifier from another ... the result of rather unusual house cleaning.

Here too you'll find announcements from wedding photographers, piano teachers, vacuum cleaner demonstrators and baby sitters, and promises of "extra income and dignified work for men and women of any age" from door-to-door sales companies.

Most businesses allow advertisers free space for as long as they like, although one supermarket in the city has a few rules for customers' protection. All notices are dated and signed by the manager, who daily checks the board and removes material more than two weeks old or unsuitable.

As a further safeguard, no babysitting advertisements are posted here, so that unscrupulous people cannot use them. A rape case traced back to a babysitting notice, at another store in this supermarket chain, has made the management particularly wary.

The boards most closely read are those in laundromats, where waiting for the clothes to be washed can be tedious without something to read.

And by the time the clothes are dried, you've very likely convinced yourself that you NEED a bargain-priced chainsaw, kidney-shaped coffee table, handknit socks, electric hair-setter, snow blower, chrome bird cage, sewing machine, guitar, aquarium ...

And what about those little black puppies?

Household 'Junk' Good for Playbox

Visiting Gramma's house was always a treat.

Peppermints in a glass dish in the parlor, playing dress-up in the attic, and best of all, being given what we called the "treasure chest" after supper.

The chest was really quite a small metal box, in which Gramma kept odds and ends and bits and pieces.

She kept things to be frugal, not as a source of entertainment. But we didn't care about her economizing. We just thought the chest was great fun.

In her marvellous magpie collection she saved old keys and buttons, spools, bolts, nearly empty lipstick tubes, and wonder of wonders, a pocket magnifying glass that could catch a sunbeam to burn brown holes in paper.

It wasn't a spectacular assortment, but it was different from the toys and games we had at home. And if there's one thing that children love, it's novelty.

The world has sped on since Gramma's day of saving every bit of string, wrapping and metal to "have on hand".

Nevertheless, even in this disposable era, we can still create treasure chests for our own children, or grandchildren, or the children of visiting friends.

In a week or two you can put together a playbox to delight — and keep occupied — children up to seven or eight years old. With the addition of regular dolls and toys, the hours of play can extend almost indefinitely.

If you have a small trunk or chest, you have the ultimate playbox already. If not, use a cardboard box covered with leftover ends of wallpaper or Christmas wrapping.

Start by cleaning out kitchen drawers that accumulate things like elastic bands, rubber sealer rings, corks and jar lids, unmated rubber gloves, broken egg cups, cereal box toys, plastic food containers, string, the stirrup-like handles from gallons of milk, and saved bits of aluminum foil for imaginary crowns or silver money.

The kitchen is also a good source for old egg cartons, coffee cans, spools, keys, pretty labels off bottles, yellow net onion bags, and cardboard tubes from inside paper rolls.

Families usually have one "junk" drawer or basket which yields potential toys such as spectacle frames, old playing cards, shells collected during summer holidays, metal film containers and bright plastic boxes that hold colored slides, postcards, belt-buckles and coasters.

The bedroom and bathroom supply empty perfume bottles, empty dusting powder boxes with puffs, ribbons, garters, old jewelry and brooches from which the pin fasteners have been broken, plastic pantihose containers, velvet and leather cases that once held watches or cufflinks, and single socks that make great little hand puppets if yarn and buttons are available.

Clear plastic boxes that held hairbrushes are excellent toys, perfect for Snow White's glass casket, or air travel time capsules.

Scraps of material become curtains, robes and tents, ends of linoleum become walls, floors and islands, and tightly-wound end strips knocked off wallpaper rolls are dandy for party and parade streamers.

Old magazines and comic books provide colored pictures and photos that can be cut out, pasted on cardboard and used as paper dolls.

If the children are old enough to use them safely, add sticky tape, crayons, paper clips and scissors to the box.

And congratulate yourself for straightening up the house and being imaginative at the same time!

Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. William Leslie, 74 Burstall Street, Marmora, celebrated their Golden Wedding anniversary on New Year's Day.

About 80 of their friends and relatives called during the day to extend their congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Leslie at the home of their son-in-law and their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Don Richards, in Thornhill.

William Leslie and the former Alice Plumridge were married at the Church of the Resurrection in Toronto on December 31, 1924. They remember their wedding day very well for one of the worst storms of that winter was taking place that day. Following the ceremony they went by train to London for their honeymoon.

Most of their married life was spent in Scarborough where Mr. Leslie owned and operated the Scarborough Electric Company. He retired from business four years ago and the couple moved to Marmora.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie were the recipients of many gifts in honor of their anniversary.

Later this year, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie will embark on an all-expense paid holiday, a gift from their family. The family also presented them with a Book of Remembrance to record this special day in their lives.

In addition to their daughter Marie and son-in-law, Don Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie welcomed their two sons, William and Roy, their wives, nine grandchildren and one great-grandchild. Mr. Leslie's brother Roy of Toronto and Mrs. Leslie's two brothers, Alfred of Detroit and Harry of Ennismore.

Wants Co-operation

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The World Council of Churches has appealed to the oil-producing countries and the industrialized world to co-operate in an arrangement to stave off "disaster . . . on our doorstep" because of food shortages. The council told its 271 Protestant, Orthodox and Anglican member churches the world food crisis has made apparent injustices in the world system of distributing grain.

CAME PREPARED

VANCOUVER (CP) — Suspicious police officers entered a grocery store and arrested two break-in suspects, both armed with pillow cases to hold their loot. The culprits, both male, were nine and 12 years old.

AROUND TOWN with LANA ROBINSON

(. . . an advertising feature designed to keep you better informed of what's new around town.)

Treasures of the World

There is much to see and learn about in this world. And Davison and Davison Travel, 188 Front St. can help you experience these treasures of art, architecture, archaelogy and history by designing the travel tour for you, combining the resources of land, sea and air transportation to get you to the sights and surprises of Persia, India, Egypt, Russia and Eastern Europe. Kings, emperors, pharohs . . . museums, universities, castles and ruins . . . paintings, jewels, diggings and lectures . . . a world of learning through travel. Let Davison and Davison Travel put this world in your hands; you put yourself in their.

The Parts Department

There are many important segments in the operation of Vaders Car Sales, the Datsun dealers at the corner of North Front and College St. And the Parts Department, run by Les Parks, is a good example of an important segment. If it's a part or an accessory for any type of Datsun, Les will have it. This is a parts department that has parts, not just an ordering outlet. And that means faster service for you right? Les is pretty proud of his department. And you will be too when he helps you get that Datsun of yours in the shape it should be in. After all, we Dastun owners have got to keep our fine cars in the fine shape they merit, don't we?

Sale, Sidney Inn Style

Sidney Inn's Carpet Division located behind the Mutual Life Building, 183 Pinnacle St. is having a carpet sale Box ends at just $2.95 a square yard would be just perfect to use to re-carpet the hall or a small room; mill seconds at $4.95 a square yard and shags at $6.95 a square yard are inexpensive ways to start off improving your home in 1975. I know you've got the ambition. Sidney Inn has the goods. So get yourself down to the Mutual Life building and get at it.

Help With Improvements

It's one thing to say you're going to make improvements to your home and it's quite another to get them done. And you said the same thing last year on your New Year's resolution list, naughty you! Perhaps, part of your trouble is that you just don't know where to start. Well, when it comes to aluminum windows and doors, patio doors, shower doors and glass anything Belleview Glass and Mirror, 354 Pinnacle St. is really the only place to start. They'll help you with selection and costing, measuring and maybe even where to plant the petunias. Who knows? But you won't know what your home could look like with these improvements until you contact Belleview Glass. Drop in, or give them a call at 968-5731.

In On The Ground Floor

Please forgive the pun . . . and it is one, once I tell you that I'm talking about Bernard Interiors, 47A Campbell St. Having Paul Bernard start helping you re-design your home or business right at the start, will save you a lot of potentially expensive heartaches. Paul knows how to design your home or office, what to choose, who to hire to do the job and most important, what the end result should be. If you are going to change, change the professional way, with the help of interior designer Paul Bernard. Then you'll know for sure that the right thing will be done, in the right way too. Call for a consultation with Paul at 962-4976. You won't regret it.

A Valuable Service

Here's a good New Year's resolution from W. Wonnacott and Son Jewellers, 247 Front St. If you bring in your diamond rings — or any other rings, for that matter, they'll be checked and cleaned by the expert staff at Wonnacotts, absolutely free of charge. Now I know and you know how badly you'd feel if you lost the diamond from your ring due to a loose claw. And so do Wonnacotts. Take your rings in this week. And then no one will be sorry, least of all you.

What McCoys Means

This week is the last week you'll be seeing some of the advertisers of this column. Next week we start a new series with some new names, places and products. So today, we are saying goodbye to some of our advertising friends. And McCoy Pharmacy, 213 Front St. is one of those goodbyes. I'd like to take this opportunity to thank the people at McCoys for their friendly co-operation. That's exactly what you'll get when you enlist their help for prescription and pharmaceutical aids. Don't forget they have free delivery — still. And a cross index so that if you lose your prescription number, they can find it for you using your name. And surely, you can keep track of your name, can't you? McCoys Pharmacy is a nice place to go. You'll see.

Getting Ready For The New

Wrays Home Furnishers, 306 Front St. are still offering tremendous savings during their floor sample clearance. This sale has very practical overtones for both you and Wrays, but you and your home can really benefit. Wrays are getting ready for their new stock; they need space and so they are offering these savings on quality, name-brand tables, chairs, lamps, carpet and furniture. They get the space and you get the goodies. See Wrays tonight and tomorrow night until 9, don't forget.

Service Is Really First

The Quinte Sewing Centre in the Quinte Mall is another advertiser in this column you won't be seeing next week. I would also like to thank Mr. Outrim and especially Mrs. Ellis at the Centre for their kindly co-operation during our friendship in print. The Quinte Sewing Centre really is a centre, having everything you need to sew with, including courses on how to use any of the fine Elna, White or Bernina machines they sell. And they'll help you with any sewing problem too, and also repair your machine. They've even been known to repair treadle machines). So, when it comes to sewing, the Quinte Sewing Centre certainly is not mis-named.

A Gord Roblin Reminder

Last week we mentioned getting at listing your property with Gord Roblin Real Estate, 117 North Front St. because the next few months are crucial and active for property buyers and sellers. And that's why this week, we're going to mention listing again. Pretty good reasons too eh? Any of the Gord Roblin salesmen will be glad to help you get your property where it's going to sell. And that's in their listings. Just call now at 968-6475 and start the wheel moving to get that property sold in the next few months. We've told you twice . . . do we have to tell you etc.?

Casual Relaxation

The Hotel Belvedere, 360 Front St. is a place to relax after work or during the evening when you want a place to unwind and listen to country and western music performed live in the John Cabot Lounge. Or, if you want a somewhat quieter spot to rest, then there's the Henry VIII room, something more like a pub. And you can get a hot meal here for about $1.50 up until 9 p.m. And then, there's the Riviera Room for lunch or dinner, open noon until 9, and specializing in Italian food. For casual relaxation remember the Hotel Belvedere.

Water Aquafined

Aquafine Water Refiners will not be leaving us this week; and I'm glad because Aquafined water is really something you never stop talking — or writing — about. If you phone Moira Schuster at 962-4504 and make arrangements to rent one of these miracle workers, you won't be able to stop talking about it either. An Aquafine Refiner will take that hard water at your house and make it as soft as a baby's bottom. And your skin will be in similar condition too. You'll also be amazed at the difference in your grocery bill, with the elimination of shampoos, conditioners, water softening agents and bath preparations, just to mention a few. Here's a chance to luxuriate and save at the same time. And that's not the contradiction it appears to be.

Ann Landers

Advice for Fatty's Wife

Dear Ann Landers: I have some practical advice to the woman whose husband is eating himself to death. Yours was fine—as far as it went. Here's mine:

(1) If you have never worked and have no marketable skills, go back to school NOW, while he is around and still able to pay for it.

(2) If you DO have marketable skills, get them in shape if you are a little rusty. You'll probably want or need to go back to work.

(3 Make sure he has all his insurance policies paid up and ask him to tell you all you will need to know if he should keel over suddenly from a heart attack. Most women are in a state of abysmal ignorance when it comes to their husband's financial affairs. They must then depend on attorneys who discover the estate was left in an awful mess. Sometimes there isn't even a valid will. This can mean real trouble as well as horrendous financial losses.

4 If you don't already know, ask your husband to show you how to change a fuse, how to start the lawn mower, and how to handle balky plumbing. These jobs are very simple—when you know how.

(5 No sex. You don't want to be responsible for his heart attack. And in your situation, you need another baby like you need a case of smallpox.

If you follow my advice you will probably damage his male ego, but you might shock him into taking off those killer pounds. You might also give him additional years so he can enjoy his golden wedding anniversary—and his grandchildren.—Farsighted In Florida

Dear Farsighted: Thanks for an excellent letter. I go along with everything you said—except Point Five.

Sex will not bring on a heart attack—even in the obese. Some men are stricken during sex, but the attack was due anyway.

A denial of intimacy to a fat husband is a punitive act and will not encourage him to lose weight. It will merely provide him with a perfect excuse to seek satisfaction elsewhere.

Dear Ann Landers: I am sure you've already heard mo[illegible] than you want to from women who don't iron their bedsheets and towels, but please, can I have the last word?

In your answer you said, "We iron ours." Anybody with half a working brain knows that a family of two doesn't need more than one person to do the ironing. It came through plenty clear that you have a maid. What you SHOULD have said was, she irons YOURS. I'm signing myself—Reading Between The Lines

Dear Friend: You might be reading "between the lines" but you are obviously missing the whole column from time to time. I straightened out that nightmare several days ago put on sackcloth and ashes and confessed that I hadn't done any ironing for 25 years, which was why my answer was a bummer. I also offered to eat a generous slice of crow. Do you think now I should offer to drink a cup of hemlock? Please rush your answer. I'm waiting.

Confidential to Want To Stand On My Own Two Feet It's awfully hard to do when one foot is in your mouth. Try thinking before you speak.

Doris Clark

Heads Up to Prevent Sags

Here's a thought: Professional singers do not have scrawny necks or sagging throat lines. Why? Because they use their throat muscles regularly, keeping them round and firm. The skin is supported to a smooth covering; their musical notes are also round and full.

And have you noticed that a singer always has a beautifully erect head posture?

What's the message? That we shouldn't bend our heads over washing the dishes or stirring the sauce. That we should lift our voices in song — and I mean lift — the latest in rock melodies, if you wish — or a ballad of the 20's — whatever suits your fancy according to your vintage.

Head up, throat muscles kept in tone. That's the secret!

Dear Doris: Would you please send me your leaflet "Facing Forty"?

Although I am well past that youthful age, menopause and all that goes with it did not become part of my life until I was past 50.

I have put up with hot flushes for a considerable time— more than two years — and it could be there were some prior to the age of 50. I am wondering how long it goes on. I do find that information is dreadfully lacking on this subject.

Past Fifty.

Dear Past Fifty: Facing the unknown is part of the problem. Most people manage to get through those menopausal years without too much distrubance. But I do know of cases where hot flushes have continued for quite a long time — not severe, but occasional and somewhat enervating.

Doctors now have ways of helping, and drugs which relieve some of the symptoms. In any case, you should be discussing the whole thing with your own family doctor.

The leaflet will help your understanding, so I am sending it to you. Also, there are some fine books on the subject right in your own public library, so start reading. Understanding will help. It will help your family too, if they are puzzled or worried about your upsets.

Dear Doris: My husband has a terrible temper but I am afraid to leave him because of his threats. I would have no way of supporting the children and he said he would make sure I never worked in this town.

I have no family in Canada.

Could you please tell me what the grounds for divorce are and also, would I be able to go to England and sue for divorce from there?

Dear Wits' End: If you were to return to England you would have to sue your husband for divorce under English laws. You must be domiciled in Canada in order to sue for divorce under Canada's 1968 Divorce Act.

Your long letter gives what I would consider ample grounds for divorce in Canada on the basis of marriage breakdown — but then a lawyer is the person who could tell you that.

'Not Tokens'

The Women Who Read the News

TORONTO (CP) — Until about two years ago, CBC television in Toronto was an area where women walked softly, never appearing on camera or behind a microphone.

Gradually, that is changing. And this change can be seen especially in one corner of the service—in the local newscasts CBLT produces for Metropolitan Toronto viewers.

For in Toronto, 24 Hours at 6.30 p.m. and Toronto Tonight at 11.20, both products of the same staff which includes 10 women, have more visible women a minute now than any other front-line CBC series.

The key to the change is that these are not token women.

"If you go for tokenism, you hire one girl' not several," Mr. Parker said. "I don't want tokens, I want reporters. We're not interested in doing what so many TV operators do—hiring some giddy female to play weather girl."

The newscasts draw on women from several sections of the CBC staff and in almost all those sections the women remain a small minority—but together, they often emerge as a majority on the screen.

Late in July, Jan Tennant and Margaret Pacsu began alternating on the central anchor desk of the 11:20 Toronto Tonight show.

Meanwhile Miss Tennant, the first woman to anchor the national news at 11, filled in for vacationing Lloyd Robertson.

The anchor desk, the focal point of a conventional TV newcast, must be occupied by a member of the announcers' staff because of CBC union jurisdictional rules.

But whenever the program shifts to on-the-spot reports of some event, that's the job of a reporter, a member of the Wire Service Guild. On one edition, there were six such filmed reports from locations around Metro, and five of them were by women—three regular reporters and two trainees.

This sort of sexual equality was unheard of before Janet Elizabeth Tennant broke the ice on the announcing staff in 1970 and Suzanne Howden did the same with the 24 Hours reporting staff in 1972.

The significant breakthrough was Miss Tennant's. Women reporters had never been taboo—scarce but not taboo. But women announcers? The CBC had tried a few in wartime when many of the men were away.

"But the public didn't like it at all," said Lamont Tilden, a CBC announcer who has trained recruits for longer than he cares to remember. "The audience just didn't respond to the female voice back then—didn't equate it with authority and believability."

Mr. Tilden, who worked as coach in 1970 with Miss Tennant, added: "That's all changed now."

Miss Tennant remained the lone woman announcer on the Toronto English-language staff, however, until a vacancy was posted early last year. There were 52 applicants, nine of the women.

After preliminary tests, there were eight still in the running, only one of them a woman. She was Miss Pacsu, United States-born, a landed immigrant since 1970, fluent in French and English, with experience on the air at ORTF in France and WGBH-TV in Boston, and lately a story editor on CBLT's Weekday. She got the job.

Doctors Responsible For Acupuncture Rules

TORONTO (CP) — Health Minister Frank Miller said Wednesday the government has decided to give the Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons the responsibility of regulating lay acupuncturists

He told a news conference that the lay practitioners will be required to pass examinations drawn up and conducted by the college, possibly as early as next month.

Estimates on the number of lay acupuncturists in the province range from 30 to more than 100

"I have concluded that the intentions of the college . . . to enforce strict medical control of acupuncture . . . is the correct course of action."

The health minister said the regulations limiting the practice of acupuncture to registered physicians and qualified lay practitioners will be issued within a couple of weeks.

The examinations "will provide an essential measure of potection to the public from unskilled and unqualified practitioners," he said.

The Ontario Medical Association's executive board, in a policy statement not yet ratified by its membership, said Monday that doctors should not charge for practising acupuncture and should never refer patients to lay acupuncturists.

About six months ago, the college—regulatory body of the medical profession in Ontario—said acupuncture is a medical act which relieves some types of pain and doctors could charge a fee for it.

Margaret Trudeau Holds Pass on Air Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Although the wives of most cabinet ministers have to ask each time they want a free trip on routes covered by the major Canadian airlines one does not.

Margaret Trudeau, as wife of the prime minister, is given an anual pass on Air Canada, which entitles her to free, first-class travel on any route the airline serves just the same as members of the cabinet and several other selected high government officials.

An airline spokesman confirmed her pass Wednesday night as a matter of routine, but was unable to say if the wives of previous prime ministers had been accorded the same free travel privileges.

CP Air spokesmen were unavailable to confirm reports that Mrs. Trudeau is given similar privileges with that carrier.

Late last year Air Canada applied to the Canadian transport commission for permission to give similar annual passes to the wives of all cabinet members and was turned down in a Dec. 30 decision.

The airline had made similar requests of the commission previously and been turned down. Its routes now cover North America, the Caribbean, and parts of Europe and Asia.

New Education Board Headed by Two Women

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

Hastings County Board of Education will be headed in 1975 by two women.

Jean Mary Hutchison of Trenton was elected chairman at the inaugural meeting of the board Wednesday night, and Miriam Graham of Belleville was elected vice-chairman. Each was elected on the first balloting.

Mrs. Hutchison served for three years on the Trenton Board of Education before being elected to the county board at its inception six years ago.

Mrs. Graham's record of trusteeship parallels Mrs. Hutchison's. She was a trustee for three years with the old Belleville Public School Board before being elected one of five Belleville trustees on the county board in 1969.

Mrs. Hutchison, a graduate of Queen's University and St. Thomas Hospital in London, England, is the wife of a Trenton obstretician. Mrs. Graham, a native of Napanee, is a home economist and wife of city solicitor Ralph Graham.

"I'm sure John Knox is whirling in his grave with this monstrous regiment of women," said Mrs. Hutchison upon taking the chair. Her minister, Rev. Douglas Wilson of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in Trenton, gave the invocation after the chairman's election.

Mrs. Hutchison also made it clear that she and Mrs. Graham would have nothing to do with the superficial trapping of women's liberation.

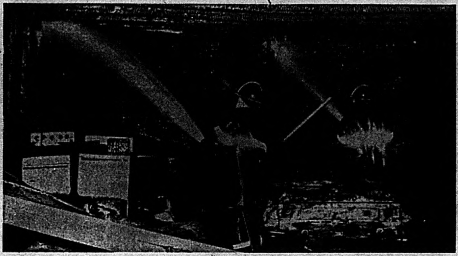
Referred to as "Madam Chairperson," she said: "Let's get this straight — I'm the chairman, and anyone who can't tell I'm woman is in trouble."

Known for the wit and humor she brings to board deliberations, Mrs. Hutchison promised trustee Don Williams at least one quip a meeting for the next year.

Mrs. Graham, who has served as chairman of several crucial committees during her time on the board, noted that Hastings county trustees are noted for "program initiating and problem solving."

Donald Wiliamson of Stirling, chairman two years ago, was elected to the chairman's committee. This committee comprises the chairman, vice-chairman and past chairman. However, since past chairman Mac Smith did not run for re-election to the board, it was necessary to elect the third member.

Mr. Williams remarked that 1975 would mark the beginning of a new era for the board, with seven new trustees and two women in the top trustee positions.



Garage Gutted in Fire

A fire Wednesday night caused extensive damage to a garage at 31 Isabel St. Firefighter Bob Hultquist, left, plays water on the fire while firefighter Bev Hackett takes care of another part of the two-car wood frame garage. A car parked inside the garage was damaged although Fire Chief Leo Culhane said it was of little value. Cause of the blaze which broke out about 10.30 p.m. was unknown. Damage has not been determined.

1975 to Be Year Of Consolidation

The coming year will be one of consolidation and appraisal, newly-elected board of education chairman Jean Mary Hutchison told Hastings County trustees Wednesday night.

"We are now at the point where we can pause and take stock," she said. Mrs. Hutchison referred to curriculum study commitees and to the task force on the needs of special education.

"1975 is a year in which every aspect of life is uncertain — a year frought with pitfalls to the smooth-running of a large board whose income is fixed and that derives from the tax dollar," she said in her inaugural address.

Mrs. Hutchison noted that the board in 1969 determined to be a county board, not one torn by regional partisanship.

"This decision has led to the enviable position Hastings County has in educational fields," she said.

"We have been most fortunate in all aspects and all staffs in the system. I pledge to them our continuing support and interest and ask in return for their help and co-operation.

Changing Over

The Hastings and Prince Edward Mutual Aid Association has a new president. He's Cecil Neal, right, Chief of the Marmora Fire Department. Chief Neal receives the gavel from past president, Steve Watts, deputy chief of the Sidney Township Fire Department. There are 17 fire departments in this Mutual Aid Association.

Meeks Says Aid Program Unclear

There is a need for all municipalities to be made aware of Mutual Aid, how the system works and how it can help in time of need.

This is the opinion of Ald. Stu Meeks, himself a volunteer with two fire departments, speaking to a meeting of the Hastings and Prince Edward Mutual Aid Association Wednesday night.

"A letter should be sent to all the municipalities informing them of how Mutual Aid works. And it should not just be addressed to the clerk but to the mayor or the reeve and the councillors as well.

"Not many people know how Mutual Aid works," said Ald. Meeks. The organization is made up all 17 fire departments, including three full-time ones and 14 volunteers

Ald. Meeks said that full-time fire departments have the advantage of help from the different agencies of the United Appeal while the smaller ones don't have this. The association was formed 17 years ago and aims to help all communities involved with mutual assistance in time of need.

Break-in Discovered

City police report only one overnight incident, a break-in at the Belleville Metal and Waste Ltd. at 130 Church St.

Assistant Police Chief Harold Reid said today nothing was taken in the incident nor was there any damage other than papers strewn on the floor.

The break-in was discoverd at 6:45 a.m. today. Entry, police said, was through a window

Trustees Going Back To Class for Course

Trustees with the Hastings county board of education will begin their new two-year term o. office by going back to school.

An orientation program has been planned by board administrators to acquaint trustees with all aspects of board business. The program comprises 10 two-hour sessions, starting Jan. 13, from 4 to 6 p.m. at the board office. The first session concentrates on board goals and operations.

Subsequent sessions, whose dates, times and places will be decided later, will consider finances, curriculum, support services, trustee - staff - relations, plant and maintenance, and tours of the education centre, schools and associated school groups.

Deputy-director L F. Reid said the orientation program was not costly in terms of money, but is costly in terms of "time, dedication and commitment" on the part of trustees.

Snowmobile Course Scrapped

A training course for snowmobile owners — run by the city's police and recreation departments — has had to be cancelled.

The reason: No participants.

Last year, 24 snowmobilers showed up for the course when it was first introduced, said city police inspector Ralph Blatchford.

This year's training session was set for Saturday at the Pinnacle St. recreation centre. Local dealers had co-operated with time and equipment for the course, he said.

But, by Wednesday there were still no registrations and the instructions were called off, said Insp. Blatchford.

He couldn't explain the contrasting lack of interest from last winter, even though there now probably even are more snowmobiles in operation, he said.

But if interest is shown the course could be re-organized later, said Insp. Blatchford.

Participants should contact the recreation department, he said.

Campbell Speaker

Margaret Campbell, Liberal MPP St. George, will be guest speaker at the Jan. 16 meeting of the Liberal party for the Quinte provincial riding. The Toronto MPP is opposition critic for community and social services and housing. During the meeting, to be held at 8 p.m. at the Canadian Legion on Pinnacle St., the 1975 officers for the provincial riding will be elected.

Demeza Critical

Deaf Driver Ban Draws Fire

Proposed regulation that would bar deaf drivers from obtaining commercial drivers' licences were termed "discriminatory and unjustified" here Wednesday by Sir James Whitney School superintendent J. G. Demeza.

"Hearing impairment should not be a limiting factor in licencing to drive commercial vehicles," said Dr. Demeza. "The safety record of the deaf is above average, and it is borne out by insurance company statistics."

Proposed provincial regulation would bar the deaf and hard-of-hearing from Class A licences, which give authority to drive anything up to a tractor-trailer and from Class B licences, for authority to drive a bus or truck.

Richard Mackie, manager of the driver licencing office within the department of transportation and communication said Wednesday that a driver should be able, under the proposed regulations, to hear a "forced whispered voice at less than five feet in the best ear". If tested by an audiometer device, the loss in the best ear should be no greater than 40 decibels, he said.

Dr. John Derbyshire, audiologist with Sir James Whitney School, formerly the Ontario School for the Deaf, the first school for the hearing handicapped in Ontario, said the noise level within the cab of a tractor-trailer transport "far exceeds" the 40 decibel limit.

"The deaf have a better-than-average driving record," said Dr. Demeza. "The same results have been obtained from studies in the United Kingdom and Canada."

Dr. Demeza said he has known of several former students of his school who have obtained jobs driving commercial vehicles.

"They may not be able to hear, but they certainly get the safety message," he said.

The school for the deaf here has had a driver - training course for senior students — those 16 and over — for several years. It is available to all 16-year-olds at the school. Deaf students receive the same financial advantages in insurance coverage as students at regular public schools — a rebate of about $30 annually on insurance premiums.

Liberal First to Bid In Hastings Election

MADOC — A young Stirling man Wednesday night announced here he will seek the Liberal candidacy in Hastings-Peterborough for the next provincial elec tion.

Gordon Hoard, 22, said he told a meeting of Hastings riding Liberal association executive he will seek the party's nomination in the new constituency.

Mr. Hoard, leasing manager of a car-truck rental firm in Peterborough, lives on the Campbellford Rd., about two miles west of Stirling on Rawdon Township's second concession.

He has been an organizational worker in his area in recent federal election campaigns run in Prince Edward-Hastings by George Cunningham.

Hastings-Peterborough is a new riding proposed for formation in last year's report of the provincial government's electoral boundaries commission. The redistribution would extend the present constituency of Hastings — represented since 1959 by Conservative MPP Clarke Rollins — northwest of the city of Peterborough.

Rolling Along

Steve Holden of Toronto is roller skating to New Brunswick — a project he hopes will raise funds for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. So far he and his brother have raised 14 pledges, the largest being $25. Mr. Holden wore out the last of his roller skate wheels while passing through Belleville and hopes some will be donated.

Allergies More Common Than First Thought

More people are prone to allergic reactions than is commonly realized.

In fact, the professional estimate is that about 20 per cent of all people are subject to allergies of one kind or another, a public seminar at Belleville General Hospital was told Wednesday night.

In fact it can be a major concern in childhood, one of the participating experts cautioned.

Studies suggest that allergic diseases is a significant pediatric problem, Dr. Alexander Ferguson, specialist in children's allergies at Kingston's Hotel Dieu Hospital said.

A major symptom triggered by allergies is asthma. And surveys suggest many children do not shed the condition with childhood, he said

Dr. Ferguson was among local and Kingston medical specialists who participated in the seminar which drew about 80 people — the windup to a day-long program on allergies at BGH's Education Hall.

Earlier in the day, the experts manned a problem to exchange views on the topic with hospital professional and paramedical staff.

Heading the visiting specialists was Dr. James H. Day, director of Kingston General Hospital's allergy division. The group also included Dr Susan Tarlo, of Kingston General, and Belleville physician Dr. Earle MacDonald.

Other suggestions on allergies from the experts:

— Heredity can be a fundamental factor.

— Smoking or smoky environments aggravate symptoms.

— Food allergies cannot be detected — as yet — by body tests; discovery is a matter of case history.

Holding the Line

With most city hotels raising their prices of bottled beer and liquor this week to offset increased costs levied by the government, draft should prove to be quite popular in the future. A survey of hotels in the city showed draft prices remaining constant. Ron Reid, waiter at the Quinte Hotel, fills an order for mugs of draft.

Draft Unchanged

Most Hotels Up Beer Prices Five Cents

By JIM SMELLE
Staff Reporter

Beer drinkers in the city have good reason to cry in their suds this week. So do liquor and wine drinkers with the cost of their favorite 'poison' increased as of Jan. 6.

In fact, the only ones who can take comfort from the whole situation are draft beer drinkers.

On Jan. 6 the price of a case of 24 pints of beer increased 50 cents, bringing the cost to $6.40. A 25-oz. bottle of liquor went up 40 cents from an average of $5.90 to $6.30, while wine increased 20 cents on a 26-oz. bottle.

At the Quinte Hotel, manager Jack Whitley says a pint of beer rose this week from 65 to 70 cents in the Green Door, a price which has increased from 80 to 85 cents with entertainment included.

In Ernie's Corral, a bottle of beer is up five cents to 60 cents, while draft beer remains at 25 cents for an eight-oz. glass. Liquor prices here are the same as for the Green Door.

Manager Whitley attributes the increase as do most other hotel managers, to increased costs "in the minimum wage paid workers, in entertainment and in everything else" he said.

Crystal Hotel manager George Haggis echoes this thought, adding that the cost of supplies has also gone up.

Mr. Haggis said that increases at his hotel have been five cents across the board. A pint is up to 70 cents while liquor now is $1.15 a shot. Draft beer, however, remains unchanged at 30 cents for an eight-oz. glass and 50 cents for a 12-oz. one.

At the Docters Hotel, a pint of beer has also risen five cents to 60 cents, while an eight-oz. glass of draft remains unchanged at 30 cents.

At the Queens' Hotel, owner Ben Yanover also reports a five-cent across the board increase, with a pint now selling for 70 cents in the lounge and 60 cents in the men's side. Draft beer in the men's side is still 30 cents for eight ounces.

Four of the city's nine public hotels report no price change while some say they increased prices a few months ago to cope with the increase in the minimum wage paid to workers.

At the Canadian Hotel, there has been no increase in price a spokesman said, with a pint of beer still 70 cents and an eight-oz glass of draft unchanged at 35 cents. At the Belvedere Hotel, in the lounge a pint of beer is still 65 cents, with increases to 80 cents with entertainment. A large glass of draft is 55 cents increased to 70 cents with entertainment in the lounge.

At the City Hotel, a spokesman said bottled beer is unchanged in price at 55 cents while draft remains at 30 cents a glass.

Both the ANAF and the Legion say they are holding the line at prices for club members and guests of 50 cents for a bottle of beer 60 cents a shot of liquor and draft 30 cents an 11-oz. glass at the Legion and 25 cents a 10-oz. glass. Spokesmen for both places said changes may be pending.

Michael Broadhurst, manager of the Four Seasons said that only prices in the Mad Mechanic have risen. With entertainment, a 12-oz. mug is now 90 cents while a pint of beer is $1, tax included. Prior to entertainment, all drinks are half-priced.

At the Sun Valley Motor Inn, prices were unchanged although they were raised three months ago. A pint of beer is 90 cents with or without entertainment while liquor, mix included, is $1.50. They sell no draft beer.

Prince of Wales Conference

Orr, Vachon Unanimous Choices for All-stars

MONTREAL (CP) — The four teams with the most points in the Prince of Wales Conference will supply the first 12 players to represent the conference in the National Hockey League's 28th annual all-star game at Montreal Jan. 21.

BOBBY ORR

Boston Bruins, second in the Charles F. Adams Division, had four players selected in a poll of members of the Professional Hockey Writers' Association in the nine conference cities.

Buffalo Sabres, leaders of the Adams Division, had their top line, the French Connection, selected. Montreal Canadiens, leaders of the James Norris Division, also had three players named to the starting 12, while second-place Los Angeles Kings of the Norris Division had two players nominated.

There were two unanimous selections—goaltender Rogatien Vachon of the Kings and defenceman Bobby Orr of Boston. Selection for the all-star game is separate from the selection of the league's official all-star teams chosen at the end of the season.

In addition to Orr and Vadnais, the other defencemen picked were Guy Lapointe of Montreal and Terry Harper of Los Angeles. Ken Dryden of the Canadiens was the other goaltender.

Voting was based on five points for a first-place choice, three for a second and one for a third. Following are results for the 12 players selected with their totals in brackets:

Esposito had 14 first-place votes compared with 12 for Perreault in the closest race for top honors.

The 12 players will be augmented by another eight to be selected by coach Bep Guidolin, who earned the right to coach the Prince of Wales Conference this year because he guided Boston to the East Division title last season.

ROGATIEN VACHON

Guidolin now is coach of Kansas City Scouts. When he selects the eight additional players, each of the nine clubs in the conference must be represented.

Lefleur is the only one of the 12 players chosen by the hockey writers who will be making his debut in the all star game.

Veteran of the group is Bucyk, who will be making his eighth appearance. Orr and Esposito have each been in six games; Harper, Vadnais and Martin three each; Perreault two; and Vachon, Dryden, Lapointe, and Robert, one each.

Leafs Have Kelly Smiling

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Maple Leafs finally broke their long drought against Vancouver with help of some scrappy play and some defensive lapses by the Canucks.

The 6-4 victory Wednesday night was the first for the Leafs in nine National Hockey League meetings with the Canucks.

"The Leafs skated hard," said former Leaf Garry Monahan of the Canucks. "But I don't think it was as much a case of their own aggression as our own sloppy, loose play which led to their win."

In other games, Montreal Canadiens tied Detroit Red Wings 4-4, Los Angeles Kings defeated Minnesota North Stars 4-2, Chicago Black Hawks beat Pittsburgh Penguins 7-5, Atlanta Flames edged California Seals 3-2, and New York Rangers beat Kansas City Scouts 6-1.

Leafs' coach Red Kelly was happy with the win.

"We've got three wins in four games and it was a tough schedule with four games in five nights," said Kelly.

"The players wanted the win badly. We set our goals to win three out of four games. It's been a really successful five days for us."

John Grisdale scored early in the third period, reducing Toronto's lead to 4-3. Errol Thompson increased the margin to 5-3 but Vancouver rookie Harold Snepsts made it 5-4 before Leafs' Borje Salming closed out the scoring.

The game featured three major fights. In the first period, Leaf rookie Dave Williams took on Grisdale. In the third period, Lanny McDonald squared off with Canuck Ron Sedlbauer and Brian Glennie ran into Vancouver's Greg Boddy. Former Canuck defenceman Dave Dunn went to Glennie's aid and received a game misconduct for being the third man into the fight.

McDonald, one of Leafs' most aggresive players in recent games, scored his ninth goal of the season.

Defenceman Brad Park scored three goals to lead the Rangers against the Scouts at Kansas City.

New York put four goals behind netminder Michel Plasse in the first 15 minutes to end the Scouts' two-game winning streak.

At Chicago, defenceman John Marks scored twice and assisted on another goal to help the Hawks end a four-game losing streak.

Centre Stan Mikita, setting up a Jim Pappin power-play goal in the first period, earned the 1,200th point of his career and later added another assist on Cliff Koroll's goal and then scored his 18th goal of the season in the second period.

Jacques Richard scored the game winner—his eighth goal in the last 10 games—and assisted on Atlanta's other goals by Tim Ecclestone and Bobby Leiter as the Flames extended their unbeaten string to eight games, a club record.

Serge Savard scored with less than five minutes remaining at Detroit to give Montreal the tie and extend the Canadiens' unbeaten streak to 18 games. That beat Montreal's club record of 17 games unbeaten in 1971.

Nick Libett scored twice for the Red Wings, his second goal giving them a 4-2 lead early in the third period before Savard got the tying score.

Two goals by Butch Goring led a three-goal second-period outburst that carried Los Angeles over the North Stars.

The Kings ran their season road record to 10 wins, two ties and six losses—best in the dropped its sixth loss in a row.

Nordiques Nip Blazers

Tardif Looking For Policeman

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec Nordiques won their World Hockey Association game Wednesday night, but player Marc Tardif and coach Jean-Guy Gendron were far from happy.

Shortly after the Nordiques edged Vancouver Blazers 4-3, Tardif complained that Gendron was not making use of the team's "policeman."

"I'm no natural fighter," said Tardif, who was involved in a second-period fight with Rick Jodzio of Vancouver.

"I can defend myself but that's it. I have already had two fights since I came to the Nordiques and only three all last year. We've got a guy—Steve Sutherland—who is a real policeman but our coach does not use him.

Serge Bernier scored his 29th goal of the season at 18:48 of the third period to give the Nordiques the win.

Olympics Question Mark

MONTREAL (CP) — Confusion has settled over the 1976 Summer Games with Mayor Jean Drapeau offering one view and the Olympic Organizing Committee taking another on the key questions of where—and even if—the Games will be staged.

"We are going to have the Games in the installations as now planned, or there will be no Games," Drapeau said Wednesday.

But spokesmen for the organizing committee said other alternatives are being considered, including using the Autostade, home of Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League.

Work on a proposed $380 million, 70,000-seat main stadium, which includes the swim hall and velodrome, has been suspended since Nov. 27 by a strike of iron workers. They install steel reinforcing rods in concrete and no structural work can be done until they return to work.

Lord Killanin of Dublin, president of the International Olympic Committee, said in a telephone interview "there is anxiety" that the stadium, centrepiece of the Games, will not be ready for the July 17 opening next year.

The only point of agreement between all Olympic planners appears to be that Quebec Labor Minister Jean Cournoyer must act within days to bring labor peace to the main stadium project.

LORD KILLANIN

Developments Wednesday included the following:

—The labor minister said the Games would be seriously compromised and might have to be cancelled if striking iron workers are not back on the job by the middle of next week. He said major modifications to the planned facilities may be necessary.

—Simon St. Pierre, organizing committee president, said the Games hopefully will be held in the installations now planned, but possibly at other sites now being studied. He said one of the possibilities is the Autostade, which might be enlarged to 55,000 seats and serve as the main stadium.

—Killanin received a telegram from Drapeau with assurances everything will go as planned.

—Drapeau went to Ottawa to discuss future Games financing with federal government officials.

—Labor minister Cournoyer returned here from a cabinet meeting in Quebec City and began to prepare for a legislature committee meeting next week that may result in an enforced settlement of the labor dispute.

Bucks Gaining Ground

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Here come the speeding Milwaukee Bucks, and there go the backtracking Philadelphia '76ers.

The Bucks, after a disastrous 1-13 start this season, mainly because centre Kareem Abdul-Jabbar was injured, won their 17th game in their last 24 starts, beating Detroit Pistons 102-92 Wednesday night.

Although the Bucks, now 18-20, still are last in the Midwest Division of the National Basketball Association, the victory pulled them to within three games of first-place Detroit.

Meanwhile, Los Angeles Lakers beat the '76ers 106-98 at Philadelphia for their 15th straight victory over them since 1971. The '76ers have not beaten Los Angeles in Philadelphia since 1969.

In other NBA games, Boston Celtics beat Atlanta Hawks 104-96, Washington Bullets defeated Phoenix Suns 102-95, and New York Knicks beat Seattle SuperSonics 113-102.

In the American Basketball Association, Denver beat San Antonio 130-128, St. Louis defeated Memphis 111-105, San Diego beat Utah 122-113, Kentucky defeated Virginia 113-96 and Indiana beat New York 127-119.

Milwaukee surprised Detroit with its fast-breaking attack, led by Bob Dandridge's 32 points, Abdul-Jabbar's 23, rookie Gary Brokaw's 22 and Jim Price's 20 in snapping the streak.

NOTICE!
ARCHITECTS, BUILDERS AND OWNERS . . .
interested in safe, efficient insulation
THE RAPCO FOAM
Home Insulation System
IT PAYS FOR ITSELF!

Rapco-Foam easily applied in the outside walls and roof of both new and old homes, literally wraps your house in a cocoon of warmth, and it cuts the amount of heating fuel required from 30 to 50%. (Without personal discomfort).

Rapco-Foam is a unique insulating foam developed in Germany.

Skilled applicators inject it into the walls of your home where it flows into every nook and cranny — cracks never reached by ordinary insulation. Then it firms into a permanent barrier against cold, drafts, noise and vermin.

Once installed, Rapco-Foam pays for itself in four or five years and goes on paying fuel saving dividends of more than 30% of the original investment year after year.

No other home insulation offers all these advantages:

- Maximum fuel economy. Rapco-Foam's insulating value (K factor) is 0.2 at 70 degree F, the most efficient available.
- Completely draft free. Spaces around doors, windows and pipes, seldom reached by ordinary insulation, are completely filled by Rapco-Foam.
- Easily installed. Skilled applicators inject Rapco-Foam into the walls of your home like shaving cream. It's usually done in a day from the outside. No fuss, no muss.
- Discourages vermin. Rapco-Foam's patented urea-formaldehyde formula destroys rodents and most insects.
- Reduces noise. Installed in your outside walls and roof, Rapco-Foam reduces street noise levels by more than 30%.
- Fire resistant. Rapco-Foam meets the strict New York City building code for non-combustibility.
- Non-Toxic. Rapco-Foam is non-toxic per the Federal Hazards Substance Act.
- Low cost. Compare the cost of Rapco-Foam with any other insulation.

National League All-stars

AFC Dominates Selections

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Super Bowl opponents Minnesota Vikings and Pittsburgh Steelers claimed five places on The Associated Press' National Football League All-Pro team announced Wednesday.

Minnesota, the National Conference champion, was represented by offensive tackle Ron Yary, who was named to the team for the fourth consecutive season, and defensive tackle Alan Page, elected for the fifth straight year.

Pittsburgh's representatives were defensive tackle Joe Greene, named for a third straight year, and defensive end L. C. Greenwood and linebacker Jack Ham, both of whom made it for the first time.

The American Conference dominated both offensive and defensive teams named by a national panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Only three National Conference players—Yary, Dallas Cowboy wide receiver Drew Pearson and place kicker Chester Marcol of Green Bay Packers—were named to the offensive unit. On defence, the NFC placed just four players—Page, Los Angeles Rams end Jack Youngblood, linebacker Ted Hendricks of Green Bay and Philadelphia Eagles linebacker Bill Bergey.

The high-powered offensive unit was headed by quarterback Ken Stabler of Oakland Raiders, who completed 57.4 per cent of his passes for 2,469 yards during the regular season.

Buffalo Bills' O. J. Simpson, who set an all-time running record of 2,003 yards two years ago and gained 1,125 yards this season, was also named to the backfield along with Denver Broncos' Otis Armstrong, the NFL rushing champion with 1,407 yards. It marked Simpson's third straight all-pro selection.

Riley Odoms of Denver was named the tight end with Pearson and Cliff Branch of Oakland as the wide receivers. That trio caught 164 passes during the regular season.

Besides Yary, the offensive line included Oakland tackle Art Shell, guards Gene Upshaw of Oakland and Larry Little of Miami Dolphins and centre Jim Langer of Miami. It was the fourth straight year that Little has been named an all-pro and also the fourth selection for Upshaw, but the first since 1970.

On defence, besides the front four of Greenwood, Greene, Youngblood and Page, the panel chose Ham, Green Bay's Ted Hendricks and Philadelphia's Bill Bergey as linebackers. Ironically, both Hendricks and Bergey were traded last summer after signing World Football League contracts. Baltimore Colts traded Hendricks to the Packers and Cincinnati Bengals dealt Bergey to the Eagles.

The defensive secondary showed Jake Scott of Miami—former star with British Columbia Lions of the Canadian Football League—and Tony Greene of Buffalo as safeties with Kansas City Chiefs' Emmitt Thomas and Robert James of Buffalo at cornerbacks.

July 1 Opener

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canadian Football League teams will swing into their pre-season schedule on July 1, 1975—the earliest date in history.

The schedule was decided here Wednesday at a meeting of CFL coaches and general managers held in conjunction with the annual meeting of U.S. coaches.

Still to be decided is a date for the CFL all-star game to be held in Montreal, home of the Grey Cup-winning Alouettes. Traditionally, the all-star game is held in the last week in June.

The pre-season schedule:

July 1. Ottawa at Edmonton, Saskatchewan at Winnipeg

2. Montreal at Calgary, Toronto at Hamilton;

3. Ottawa at British Columbia;

4. Montreal at Saskatchewan;

5. Winnipeg at Toronto;

8. B.C. at Montreal, Hamilton at Edmonton.

9. Saskatchewan at Ottawa, Calgary at Winnipeg.

10. B.C. at Toronto.

12. Calgary at Hamilton.

14. Edmonton at Saskatchewan.

16. Toronto at Montreal, Hamilton at Ottawa, Edmonton at Calgary.

17. Winnipeg at B.C.

BUD GRANT

Is Bud Playing Games?

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Coach Bud Grant appears to have created another smokescreen to divert attention from the mounting pressures of a Super Bowl game, another way of psyching up his Minnesota Vikings.

Grant said Wednesday that quarterback Fran Takenton's valuable right arm is sore.

First it was the viral infection that sent Pittsburgh defensive end Dwight White to hospital for four straight nights.

Then it was Tarkenton's brief verbal swipe at Oakland's Ken Stabler and Miami's Paul Warfield, who had criticized both Super Bowl teams.

This was followed by the calf injury that is likely to keep Charles Goodrum out of Sunday's game at Tulane Stadium.

Halfway through the daily briefing Wednesday, Grant mentioned that Tarkenton had a sore arm.

Here, clearly, was an issue to be dealt with.

But, said Grant, "every time he gets a sore arm, he has a great day."

"It's a good omen for us," said Grant. "I think he worries about it and he always seems to throw a little better with it. I'm sure if he's still sore on Sunday, he'll have a great day."

Canadian Football Priority Draft

Defensive Players Popular Picks

WASHINGTON (CP) — The nine Canadian Football League teams went primarily for defensive players Wednesday as they named the 18 Canadian college stars they are protecting under provisions of the league's priority draft.

CFL coaches and general managers are meeting here in conjunction with the annual meeting of United States college coaches.

The 18, two for each club, will be exempt from the general Canadian college draft when it takes place in Toronto on Feb. 19.

Five defensive backs and four defensive tackles made the list, along with three running backs, two quarterbacks, two guards, one linebacker and one wide receiver.

The selections, by clubs:

Montreal Alouettes: Jerry d'Attilio of Montreal, six feet, 200 pounds, a quarterback who played at Northern Colorado University; Pierre Gelinas, Laval, Que., 6-6, 235 pounds, defensive tackle from Iowa State.

Ottawa Rough Riders: Jeff Turcotte, 6-5, 253 pounds, defensive tackle from Colorado; Peter Stenerson, 6-3, 180, quarterback from the University of Carleton. Both are from Ottawa.

Toronto Argonauts: Neil Mairs, 6-1, 180, defensive back from Otterbein, Ohio; Paul Gilson, 6-3, 245, defensive tackle from the University of Guelph. Both are from Toronto.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats: Nick Bastaja, 6-2, offensive guard from the University of Simon Fraser, Vancouver; Angelo Santucci, 5-11, 190, running back from St. Mary's University, Halifax. Both are from Hamilton.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers: Mel Barclay, 6-4, 205, defensive back from Souris, Man.; Doug McIvor, 6-3, 240, defensive tackle from Winnipeg. Both played at the University of Manitoba.

Saskatchewan Roughriders: Larry Remmen, six feet, 205, running back; Ron Moe, 6-1, 215, linebacker. Both are from Saskatoon and both attended the University of Saskatchewan.

Calgari Stampeders: Doug Carlson, 6-1, 190, defensive back from Calgary who played at the University of Colorado; Lloyd Fairbanks, 6-4 230, from Raymond, Alta., guard from Brigham Young University in Utah.

Edmonton Eskimos: Pete Lavorato, 5-11, 195, defensive back from Utah State; Tom Towns, six feet, 210, linebacker from the University of Alberta. Both are from Edmonton.

British Columbia Lions: Mark McDonald, 5-11, 175, wide receiver from the University of Washington; Barry Houlihan, six feet, 205, running back from Simon Fraser. Both are from Vancouver.

Santucchi is the son of Pat Santucci, tackle on the Montreal navy team which won the Grey Cup during the Second World War. The father later played professional football for the Tiger-Cats, the club that is drafting the son.

Santucci was the leading rusher the last three seasons for St. Mary's and most valuable player in the Atlantic Universities' Athletic Association in 1974. He scored 13 touchdowns and rushed for 706 yards on 101 carries for a seven-yard average.

Bastaja led the blocking for Simon Fraser backs for three years and is regarded as a prime factor in Terry Bailey breaking the conference all-time rushing record in 19973.

IN MEMORIAM

COOKE — In fond remembrance of our friend, Roy W. Cooke who passed away January 9th, 1974.

Within our store of memories,
He holds a place apart,
For no one else can ever be,
More cherished in our hearts.

—Always in our thoughts Jack, Mary and boys.

BAKER — In memory of a dear brother Wilfred Baker who passed away January 9, 1974.

A year has passed,
Since you went away,
We think of you night and day,
Memories fond and true,
There is not a day goes by,
That we do not think of you.

—Sadly missed but will always be remembered by sister Mary and brother-in-law Alfred.

COOKE — In loving memory of a dear friend Roy W. Cooke who passed away one year today Jan. 9, 1974.

It's lonely here without you Roy,
For we miss you each day,
Life is not the same to us,
Since you were called away.
They say time heals our hearts,
And helps us to forget.
Your place on earth no one can fill,
We miss you now and always will.

—Ever remembered by Doris and Mrs. M. Thompson.

CARD OF THANKS

Words cannot convey the sincere and heartfelt appreciation that we he family of the las Annie Olivia Brown wish to express to the many friends, neighbors, relatives and hospital staff, who extended their comforting assistance, sent cards, flowers during her illness in Trenton Memorial Hospital and also during this difficult and trying time of recent bereavement.

The family of the late Aaron Tompkins would like to express their sincere appreciation for the many acts of kindness received from friends, neighbors and relatives in the recent loss of a dear husband. Thanks for the floral tributes, charitable donations, calls and cards. Special thanks to Dr. Horne for his care and kindness during his illness, Reverend Alfred Poulter for his comforting words, and the bearers and Bush Funeral Home. Also special thanks to the members of his regiment who served as honorary bearers.

Sincerely, Violet Tompkins.

We would like to extend our sincere thanks to relatives and friends for the many acts of kindness and beautiful floral arrangements in the loss of our dear aunt, Margaret Elizabeth Mott. Special thanks to Dr. John S. Stock, nurses and staff of the I.C.U. and 7th level of the Belleville General Hospital, also to Rev. A. L. Sutherland and Rev. John Uttley for their many visits and comforting words. Thanks to the staff of the John R. Bush Funeral Home for their kind and efficient service.

Verna J. Ashbury and Robert D. Alexander.

The family of the late Theodore Lee wish to extend their sincere thanks and appreciation to their relatives, friends and neighbors for the many acts of kindness received in the loss of a dear husband, father and grandfather. Thanks for the floral tributes, charitable donations, calls and cards and loving sympathy. Special thanks to Rev. McFarlane for his comforting words and to the Pinkston-Luscombe Funeral Home.

I express my sincere thanks and appreciation to all my friends, neighbors and relatives for the lovely cards and treats, personal visits and telephone calls during my stay in Belleville General Hospital. Special thanks to Dr. Kelly, Dr. Briggs and to the nurses and staff of fifth floor, Rev. John May, for his lovely prayers, Faith unit of UCW and since my return home. Many thanks again.

Augusta Sine.

AN AWARD WINNER SUBURBAN SETTING

If one feature stands out above all the others in this house, it is the unusually large dining room. It will accommodate the larger family quite nicely. The kitchen is designed to make work enjoyable. The master bedroom is of a size to handle the larger mediterranean suites. A fireplace is already finished in the basement so when you finish your rec room you will have indeed a warm and welcoming informal area in which to entertain. There is a single garage attached. This house only five minutes from town.

EAST END READY TO GO

We have two homes ready for possession in Stanley Park. One of the most attractive things about each of these is the 10% mortgage. One house is a large high ranch bungalow with built-in garage. You can't find a better plan if you want a future rec room. Kitchen is above average in size. Large L shape living dining room. Faces south. The other house is a long low split with attaching garage, it has three bedrooms and attractive kitchen and L shape living dining room. Faces north.

NEW SUBDIVISION

Visit the new homes under construction in our subdivision just east of North Park Street.

COUNTRY LIVING

Do you want to beat high costs in a tidy, snug cottage, where you can fish, hunt and golf? Do you want the joy of the country, but in a well planned and treed subdivision? Do you want a sprawling old farm house with stores and acres of land? Do you want to run a beautiful summer resort? We have all these and more. We can even supply a greenhouse — complex that is a steal. It is our pleasure to help you realize your dream.

FOR THE CITY AND TOWN DWELLERS

Take the confusion out of house hunting. Prices range from $16,500.00 to the sky. Houses, old, new, and not so new, in all styles, all areas. In fact, it can be down right confusing. To help eliminate some of this confusion we suggest a quiet relaxed chat in the office, where we can co-ordinate your needs to a specific property, and the financial picture to achieve the desired result.

Showbiz Briefs

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — An Indian leader said Tuesday his group has not decided whether to keep actor Marlon Brando's much-publicized gift of 40 acres of California land because it has a $318,000 mortgage outstanding that must be paid before the end of the year.

Brando has said he intends to pay off the lien, but Hank Adams, national director of the Survival of American Indians Association, said in a telephone interview the association is considering whether it might do better to have the actor give them money instead.

NEW YORK (AP) — Soviet emigre dancers Valery and Galina Panov said Tuesday they fired their manager when they learned he expected to make substantial profits from their United States performances.

"He was booking us into sports arenas rather than ballet theatres, and we began to have a feeling he was exploiting us as public figures instead of treating us as serious dancers," they said in papers filed in state Supreme Court.

The Panovs were answering a suit by impresario Maxim Gershunoff to compel them to appear exclusively under his management for the next two years. Justice Sidney Fine reserved decision until today.

The dancers, former members of the Kirov company in Leningrad, received exit visas for Israel last summer and signed a contract with Gershunoff there last July 12.

Under it, they gave five performances in Israel, but Gershunoff said they balked at performing in the United States.

Their first performance now is scheduled for Philadelphia Feb. 4. It was postponed until then from December after Panov claimed he had a hip injury.

DELHI, N.Y. (AP) — Rock singer Wilson Pickett has been indicted by a Delaware County grand jury on charges that arose when pistol shots were fired into a motel room occupied by the Isley Brothers singing group.

Pickett, 33, of Inglewood, N.J., apparently became upset when he missed a bus to New York City after a hunting trip in the Catskill Mountains with the Isley Brothers, say police accounts of the Nov. 21 incident.

After being left in a motel parking lot he fired a pistol into the door of the motel room occupied by the Isley Brothers, Rudolph and Kelly, and two other persons, police said.

No one was injured.

Pickett created a "grave risk the door of the motel room occupants, the grand jury said in indicting him on felony charges of first-degree reckless endangerment and third-degree possession of a dangerous weapon.

OTTAWA (CP) — Four curtain calls greeted a National Arts Centre Orchestra production of Benjamin Britten's contemporary opera, The Turn of the Screw, when Yves Abel, 11, Toronto boy soprano, made his professional debut Tuesday night.

Yves carried the role of an orphan who is essentially good, but is ground down by the recurring appearance of ghosts.

The Turning of the Screw is based on a story by Henry James.

Starring were sopranos Phyllis Curtin as the governess, Mary Morrison as the housekeeper, Mrs. Grose, and Mary Lou Fallis as Miles' sister, Flora.

Kenneth Riegel, tenor, sang the prologue and the part of the ghostly servant, Quint, with Barbara Shuttleworth, soprano, as the ghostly former governess.

The production will be performed in Toronto Thursday.

Restaurant Closes

LONDON (AP) — The Caprice Restaurant, a show-business mecca which opened in 1950 with financial backing from such celebrities as Noel Coward, is closing from lack of business. Managing director Rafael Calzada said, "Members of the particular clique that patronized us have either died or retired."

Wodehouse Knighted

Seated in his Long Island home, humorist P. G. Wodehouse and wife Ethel examine a sabre. The sword was brought to the author's home by his agent and publisher for a mock ceremony shortly after the announcement that Britain's Queen Elizabeth II had knighted the 93-year-old writer, who created the immortal butler Jeeves. Eagleson Gets Offer

TORONTO (CP) — Alan Eagleson says he has been asked by the federal government to direct the professional end of all Canadian participation in international hockey, but is only interested in the job if he is given complete control.

His counterpart on the amateur side would be Rev. David Bauer, who would supervise a program aimed at providing a non-professional team for the Olympic Games program every four years.

Eagleson, a Toronto lawyer who represents a number of professional hockey players, met federal Health Minister Marc Lalonde in Ottawa on Monday to discuss the future of Canadian participation in international hockey.

Stabler Most Valuable

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Quarterback Ken Stabler of Oakland Raiders was named the National Football League's most valuable player for the 1974 season by The Associated Press today.

Stabler, who earlier this week was named the offensive player of the year, also heads the All-Pro team announced Wednesday.

A left-hander who led the NFL with 25 touchdown passes during the regular season, Stabler was an easy winner in the AP poll of sports writers and broadcasters who cover the NFL. He received 36 of a possible 78 votes, easily outdistancing Terry Metcalf of St. Louis Cardinals, who was second with 10. Minnesota's Chuck Foreman was third with five.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Friday, Jan. 10

Aries (March 21 - April 19) Your afternoon will be more interesting than the earlier part of the day. Something of personal pride will be achieved.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) A solution you are seeking for a problem confronting you will come like a bolt out of the blue. Don't sit on the remedy.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) A service you will render spontaneously will make a favorable impression. Later you will be repaid uniquely.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) You need a little change of pace now to freshen your outlook. Do something on the spur of the moment that's fun.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Anything you tackle today of a creative nature you will handle in stride. What's more, you will inspire your co-workers.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Something promising and speculative will capture your attention over the next few days. Proceed cautiously.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) This is a good day to get things finalized. Clean up situations so that next week there are no loose ends.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't hesitate to discard an unworkable plan if a better idea comes to mind, provided it doesn't cost anything out-of-pocket.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You will manage business and commercial matters much more competently today than tomorrow. Stay on top of things.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You will be more ambitious later in the day than in the a.m. You will also get your best ideas in the morning.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Try not to talk to too many people of your plans in advance. If you do, suggested changes will stall your efforts.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) One you will associate with is very sincere about helping you advance your interests. He'll prove it by acting on your behalf.

Receives Bonus

CORBY, England (CP) — John Brodie, a workman at the British Steel Corp. plant in this Northamptonshire town, has received a bonus of £500 ($1,150) for inventing a time-saving procedure. The idea enables the thickness of rolled steel to be checked without stopping machinery.

To Your Good Health

Eyebrows Gone, Return Is Slow

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I tried to thin out and reshape my eyebrows. But I really messed them up and ended by tweezing them all out.

It's been four months now and I'm having a terrible time trying to pencil them on with an eyebrow pencil. I never get them to look alike. One is always higher or lower. They get sore and red.

I spend two to three hours a day and a couple of hours at night when my husband and the kids are in bed.

Will they all grow back the way they were? I'm only 24.—N.R.

Well, a fine mess you got yourself into.

Yes, eyebrows grow back, but unfortunately, they grow in very slowly. As a matter of fact, they grow the slowest of any hair on the body.

The best you can do is leave them alone and hope for the best, although they will very likely grow back in the same lines from which they were so rudely plucked.

Some of the follicles may have been damaged in the plucking, however. Continuing to fuss with the area is not going to help the redness and soreness.

For appearance's sake, I suggest you get an allergen-free brow pencil, because some of the irritation may be due to chemicals in the pencil you are using.

Incidentally, eyebrows serve more than a cosmetic function in women (men too). They provide shading from the sun above the eyes. They should not be unduly tampered with.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband had a myocardial infarction, and the doctor said it was slight. As I understand it, this is death to the heart muscle. Am I right?—Mrs. D.W.

Well, you're almost right.

And using the fancy term "myocardial infarction" instead of good old simple "heart attack" might make explanation easier.

To take the terms one at a time, an infarction is defined as a sharply limited region of necrosis (death) in an organ caused by loss of blood circulation.

Myocardial refers to the myocardium, the heart muscle—and that is what the heart is, one large, highly specialized pumping muscle.

Your husband's "myocardial infarction" did not mean "death to the muscle," as you put it, but very likely death to a small portion of it. That portion that died will become scar tissue and useless. The rest of the muscle will, if he takes care of himself, perform sufficiently well, but not quite as well as before, when it was intact.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had a thorough physical examination within the past year and was told that my cholesterol level is well within safe limits.

However, I am 53 and consider that I should be reasonably cautious. Margarine is acceptable and it is what we mostly use. But I would like to eat butter some of the time. Would you please comment?—J.E.C.

Under the circumstances butter is quite acceptable. The cholesterol-fat problem usually begins at a much younger age and should have become evident by now.

Dear Doctor: I have had a cataract for about four years. I would like to know if there is any danger in leaving it go as long as I can see out of my other eye.—Mrs. H.J.P.

No problem as long as you are having your doctor keep track of its progress, and as long as it isn't hampering your work. Cataracts offer patients the rare luxury of time before treatment is required.

A bird in the hand is known to be worth two in the bush, but a trick in the hand is not always worth even one.

West's queen of diamonds held the first trick and he continued the suit. South ruffed, cashed his ace of spades, led a spade to dummy's king, played a low club and finessed his queen.

West couldn't wait to pounce on that trick with his king. After all, a bird in the hand, etc. He pounced and that was his side's last trick.

"Wouldn't I have looked silly if South had started with ace-queen doubleton in clubs instead of ace-queen-small?" said West.

He sure would have looked silly, but if South had been dealt just two clubs he probably would have led out the ace and then the queen before using dummy's king of spades. Furthermore, East had played the eight of clubs and South could have been sure that eight was either a singleton (in which case nodefense would work), or that East was starting a high-low echo and that king of clubs case no defense would work), or

BCI and Nicholson Senior Squads in Tournament Preview

In what could be a prelude to Saturday's Belleville Collegiate Institute Senior — Junior Basketball tournament action, Nicholson Catholic College seniors lost by a mere two points to BCI seniors in Bay of Quinte Secondary School Boy's Basketball League action, Wednesday.

The Nicks came back from a nine point deficit early in the second half to tie the score 44-44 at the end of regulation time. After a three-minute overtime period, the home BCI squad was back on top 51-49.

"I wouldn't mind meeting BCI in the tournament," said Nicholson coach Gary Duggan. "We'd like to gain a little revenge."

BCI coach, Brian MacKenzie, was apprehensive about predicting an outcome should his team play Nicholson in the tourney. "I wouldn't like to say what would happen."

BCI earned two points in junior and midget games as well. The Red and Black dumped the Nicks in the former 59-40 and defeated them in the midget contest 60-20.

Both BCI and Nicholson senior squads will be playing off on Saturday for tournament honors. All-in-all there are eight teams in the tourney and the host squad and the Nicks, along with the Quinte Saints, are the pre-tournament favorites.

Wednesday night the two senior squads battled through an incredibly tight defensive game.

The Nicks switched back and forth throughout the game from a 2-3 zone to a 3-2 zone defence. BCI started with a man-on-man, full court press and went to a man-on-man half court in the final two quarters of the game.

"We've been very successful with our 3-2 and 2-3 so far this season," said Nicholson coach, Gary Duggan. "Only two teams have ever been able to beat it."

Wednesday night, BCI could not beat it to any great extent. They were forced to stay outside the key area and work the ball around. To counteract the tight zones of the Nicks, the home squad played a 3-2 swing offence with ball handler Gary Donovan doing the pivot work.

"We have to work the ball around to penetrate their defence," said coach MacKenzie. "We have to get the ball inside to Larry (Wilson). We really depend on him a lot."

When Wilson took three fouls early in the second quarter MacKenzie was forced to pull him out and sit him on the bench until later in the game.

"When you take him out you take out our rebounding and half our offence," said the BCI coach.

Duggan doesn't really consider Wilson that great a threat, however. "In our previous two meetings with BCI, he only scored 14 and 11 points. This is the first time he has really done any damage against us."

Six of Wilson's 25 points came in the overtime period. In it, the Nicks jumped in front 48-46. Wilson connected for a field goal and was fouled. He made the foul shot to change the score to 48-47. Nicholson went back in front by two when they connected for a single from the foul line. Wilson tied the score 49-49 with another field goal and with 14 seconds left in the three minute period, the home squad went ahead 50-49 on Gary Donovan's foul shot. In desperate attempts to gain control of the ball, the Nicks fouled Wilson and he made the shot as the clock ran out. Final score: BCI 51-Nicholson 49.

Donovan hit for 12 points on the night and Brian Bell was next with 10. Chris Lachman and Steve Kirby rounded out BCI's attack with two points each.

Nicholson's two big guns only scored 17 points between them. Dale Wilson was held to 12 points and Jeff Boyle could only manage five. Bruce Collins not only did a fine job of ball handling, he also hit for 11 Nicholson points. Danny Kraszewski broke to the inside of the key for his 10 points and Dave Holland and John Lynch got four points each. Mark Soule accounted for the Nicks final three points.

Mike Wright and Chris Niblett had 14 points each for the BCI midgets and Randy Donovan got 11. The Nicks got seven points from Pat Hurley.

Nicholson juniors were up 10-2 in the early going of the first quarter, but BCI hustled back to take a well-earned 59-40 victory. Mike Kirby and Mike Hannah were tops for the winners with 14 points each. Steve Dolan had 10 for Nicholson.

BCI's Larry Wilson hooks a shot into the Nicholson basket despite the defensive efforts of Bruce Collins. Wilson scored 25 points in all to lead the BCI seniors to a 51-49 overtime victory in Wednesday night's Bay of Quinte Secondary School Boy's Basketball League play at BCI.

Yardmen, Rollins Are on the Move

The Belleville Yardmen moved from seventh place into a tie with fifth place Jim's Pizzeria Wednesday through a 7-3 victory over Canadian Durabla. In the Gas House Hockey League's other game, Rollins Construction moved into sole possession of second place with a 3-2 win over Constellation Carpets.

Pat Mullins and Dennis Flesch scored one goal each and picked up an assist in leading the Yardmen to their win. Singles went to Doug MacDonald, Steve Boardman and Rick Marcuschewsky. Doug Thompson drew three assists.

Pat Calnan, Dale Caul, and Dave Muray replied for Durabla. Both clubs played shorthanded, but Durabla had the smallest game roster of the season as they iced nine players.

John Masterson led the Rollin's charge scoring two of their three goals. Mike McDermott added the other.

John Burley and Ken Kerik replied for Constellation.

Nicholson's Jeff Boyle looks more a wide receiver going up for a football than he does a forward trying to pull down a rebound. Boyle just missed hauling down this rebound as he was surrounded by BCI players. Gord Wright (foreground) and Brian Bell put the squeeze on Boyle from both sides and Larry Savage (25) covers from the rear. BCI won the contest 51-49 in overtime to take possession of first place in the Bay of Quinte Secondary School Boy's Basketball League's East Division. BCI seniors now have a 4-0 record and Nicholson stands at 3-1 in second.

Lancers Dig In For Second Win

OSHAWA (Special) — Loyalist College Lancers of Belleville saw a 13-point halftime lead shrink to four points after the interval and their coach Rob Stinson had fleeting thoughts of his club dropping its seventh Ontario Colleges Athletic Association start here, Wednesday night.

But Stinson was able to heave a sigh of relief when it was all over and Lancers had hung on to turn back Durham College Lords 77-72. The Loyalist team's record now stands at 2-6.

"Durham really came back in the second half but our guys dug in and held on," explained a happy coach Stinson.

Peter Scott's 19 points led the visitors. Jim Sutton and Dave Culmer each threw in 12.

Durham's Dave Fitchett had a great night, potting 29 points.

3 Reds Share Scoring In Team's 42-27 Win

Green and White battled to a 37-37 deadlock in the first half of the Quinte Ladies Basketball League doubleheader at BCI Wednesday night. In the other contest, Red dumped Blue 42-27.

White outscored Green 21-19 in the first half, but the tables were turned in the latter half as Green outpointed White 18-16. Nancy Birch was tops for White as she hooped 15 points. Donna Patterson got 11 and Dawn Smith, seven. Debbie Oshimo scored 16 points to lead the Green attack and Gabi Cornellier got eight.

Three players had hot hands for the Red Team. Joan Watson, Carol Northey and Ann Lietar combined to score all 42 of their squad's points. Watson got 18, Northey 14 and Lietar 10. Carol Mott replied for Blue with 13 points and Janet Whelan was next, with eight.

CP News Roundup

Firm Says It Has Way To Get Oil

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian Javelin Ltd. believes it has found a way of obtaining oil from northern Alberta's Athabasca oil sands more economically than current methods and expects to be doing on-site tests in about a year, company spokesman J. V. Allard said Wednesday.

The method, called Javelin Environmental Protection Oil Sands System (JEPOSS), involves processing of oil sands with a solvent together with infra-red irradiation that causes oil to separate from the sand.

Javelin's proposed method is pollution-free, requires less energy than other processes and results in more than 90-per-cent recovery of oil bitumen, laboratory tests have shown, he said.

Because the extraction can be done on the site, Mr. Allard said, an oil pipeline could be built from the area where the sand is located.

The Athabasca oil sands are considered the largest untapped source of petroleum in Canada, but the high cost of extracting oil from them has resulted in little exploitation.

Mr. Allard said the JEPOSS process has been done only on a small - scale in a laboratory. It will take about a year before the scale could be increased and placed on a site.

He said the company had discussed the method with government officials and "they wished us luck."

Sales Good

MONTREAL (CP) — Despite layoffs across North America and depressed automobile sales in the United States, domestic sales by Chrysler Canada Ltd. in 1974 set records, company president Ron Todgham said Wednesday.

Loan Offered

REGINA (CP) — Finance Minister Wes Robbins said Wednesday the Saskatchewan government has been offered a loan of about $400 million in funds from oil-rich Arab nations at eight-per-cent interest.

Output Falls

OTTAWA (CP) — Copper and nickel were the only two of six major metals of which production went up in the first 10 months of 1974, Statistics Canada reported Wednesday.

Payrolls Up

OTTAWA (CP) — Payrolls of governments for nine provinces and the territories grew by almost five per cent during the year to the end of September, Statistics Canada reported Wednesday.

Named Deputy

OTTAWA (CP) — John L. Howard, 43, has been named acting deputy minister of the consumer and corporate affairs department by Consumer Affairs Minister Andre Ouellet.

LCB Appeals

TORONTO (CP) — The Liquor Licence Board of Ontario received leave Wednesday to appeal an earlier ruling that said the board has no right to censor entertainment in the province's drinking establishments.

Gray Asks New Law Be Made Operative

OTTAA (CP) — Provisions of the Foreign Investment Review Act to control new investment from abroad and expansion of foreign-owned companies already in Canada should be proclaimed quickly, despite provincial opposition, says former corporate affairs minister Herb Gray.

He was speaking in Paris today at a conference on international rules for multinational corporations under the auspices of the Organization for Economic Co-Operation and Development. A text of his remarks was released here in advance.

So far, only the first part of the review act—dealing with foreign takeovers of Canadian companies—has been declared in force. Any takeovers must be approved by a screening agency, the foreign investment review agency, before they can be completed.

Mr. Gray said takeovers are not the major form of foreign capital entry into Canada. The second part of the review act, which deals with other major forms of foreign investment like new direct investing from abroad, was to be put in force by the end of 1974, Mr. Gray said.

However the provincial industry ministers, complaining they needed more discussions about how the second part would be administered, joined last month to stall the legislation, he said.

Lawyer Seeks Right To Become Witness

TORONTO (CP) — A lawyer for one of the complainants in the royal commission into Metropolitan Toronto police practices asked permission Wednesday to take the witness stand.

Kevin Jones, lawyer for Thomas Henderson, told Mr. Justice Donald Morand that his own testimony would assist the commission in getting to the truth.

A decision on the request is to be made today. The commission is inquiring into allegations of police brutality.

Mr. Jones said he proposed to give evidence concerning the first conversation he had with Mr. Henderson after the young postal worker and his wife were arrested on drug-trafficking charges Feb. 9.

Conference to Study Native Folk and Law

OTTAWA (CP) — A twice-postponed national conference on native people in conflict with the law will be held Feb. 3-5 in Edmonton, at which the major native organizations and federal and provincial government ministers will examine why many native people are in conflict with the law.

The meeting is the fulfilment of an idea first suggested here a year ago at a federal-provincial conference on corrections, which agreed to hold a special conference last summer.

The meeting had to be postponed until September because of the July federal election. The September meeting was postponed until next month at the request of native organization leaders.

The coming meeting, titled National Conference on Native Peoples and the Criminal Justice System, will seek to identify problems that result in native people running afoul of a legal system operated primarily for and by whites.

This identification process will be done in the first two days of meetings at which native representatives can air their views. On the third day, federal and provincial ministers will meet to discuss what they have heard, decide on priorities and work on plans to correct the situation.

The federal government will be represented by Mr. Allmand, Justice Minister Otto Lang and Indian Affairs Minister Jud Buchanan.

Ideal Venders Closing

Deseronto Losing Firm

By COLIN BRUCE

Staff Reporter

Ideal Vendors, the largest employer in Deseronto, will close its doors in June.

Robert Kavanagh, financial vice president of Eddy Match Co. Ltd., the parent company of Ideal Venders, told The Intelligencer Friday that the plant is now running down its inventory and will be closed by late June.

The company has been a supplier of vending machines and coolers to the soft drink industry in Canada and exports some products to the U.S.

"We are closing as the result of annual operating losses," said Mr. Kavanagh from his Toronto office. He refused to give the amount of the losses, other than that they are "substantial".

Company officials at the Deseronto plant refused to comment on the closure other than offering a pre-written news release which states:"This division (vending machines) has not operated profitably for over five years and in 1974 suffered a very substantial loss."

Mr. Kavanagh said his company is "getting rid of the vending machine business . . . it's on its last legs".

There is a very bleak outlook for the business, he said. "There are too many people in it."

The 220 employees, both unionized and at the minor management level at Deseronto received their notices and severance pay Thursday, said Mr. Kavanagh. From this point the company will work through its inventory and lay offs will take effect as raw materials are consumed, said Mr. Kavanagh. No union spokesman was available for comment.

Mr. Kavanagh said the first layoff will probably take place in April but could not guess how many it will affect. He said production and office personnel would be the first affected, followed by fabrication and shipping departments.

The closure is a tremendous blow to Deseronto. Mayor Peter Dickinson said he had known of the move for two days and that it will have "serious" consequences for Deseronto.

Ideal Venders is one of three large companies in the small community. It has been a major employment and assessment resource since it was founded in 1948. Two years ago the company built a 20,000-square-foot expansion at a cost of $600,000, bringing the plant's total floor space to 161,000 square feet.

"This addition puzzles us," said Mayor Dickinson.

The company made no comment.

"We're going to make every effort to persuade the company to stay" said Mayor Dickinson. He said he does not believe the 220 workers could be absorbed in other area business.

"If we can't persuade them to stay, we'll make every effort to find a buyer for the plant," said the mayor. No companies have yet been approached by the municipality.

For the past year, Eddy Match has been looking for a buyer but has not been successful.

"It was not a case of the price not being right, we just didn't get an offer," said Mr. Kavanagh.

Mayro Dickinson said his council's property and industrial relations committee will now "click into high gear" to find a replacement firm. "We are going to try to get an appointment with company officials today to discuss the situation."

"It's a very serious blow," said the mayor.

Mr. Kavanagh said his company had considered "pulling in its horns" rather than completely shutting down but discarded the idea.

"To make the Deseronto plant pay, it would have to double its production," he said. "The plant could double production but we couldn't sell the machines."

Mr. Kavanagh said the vending machine market is shrinking and business now is of a replacement nature, rather than an expansion.

Deseronto's Ideal Venders Closing Down

Ideal Venders, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Eddy Match Co. Ltd., announced Thursday it will shut down its Deseronto plant by late June. The company employs 220 people and is considered by Deseronto Mayor Peter Dickinson as the community's major industry. The company reports no buyers have materialized for the 162,000-square-foot plant. Mayor Dickinson said a replacement firm is now being sought.

U.S. May Pay Taxpayers To End Slump by Buying

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is toying with a plan to send government cheques to all United States' taxpayers in hopes they will spend their way out of a deepening recession, administration officials say.

The president has not yet decided whether he will propose the unorthodox approach, but several sources confirmed such a plan has caught his interest, and one said the idea was discussed at a recent meeting between Ford and his economic advisers.

The idea was reminiscent of Senator George McGovern's pledge during the 1972 presidential campaign to replace the welfare system with a minimum income grant paid to every citizen. McGovern proposed annual cheques of $1,000.

The plan reported being studied by Ford could fit in with tentative decisions to impose a $3-a-barrel levy on imported and domestic oil and channel that revenue back into the economy in the form of lower taxes or a "rebate" device.

Some sources said such a plan would mean U.S. Treasury checks sent to taxpayers could total anywhere from $15 billion to $30 billion.

But to finance direct payments, the Treasury would have to go into the already strained money market for huge borrowings, driving interest rates up and fuelling inflation.

Officials stopped short of denying a rebate was being contemplated on funds generated by the oil levy, but suggested it was only one of several proposals which Ford may send to Congress.

The president already has tentatively decided on an income tax cut in the $15 billion range, several sources said.

Richardson to Unveil Armed Forces' Future

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister James Richardson is expected to make a major policy speech next week, explaining the future look of the pared-down Canada's armed forces.

The chief of defence staff, Gen. J. A. Dextraze, is expected to follow this with a speech on how the forces will implement that policy and what jobs have been cut because of personnel reductions.

Both speeches are to be made Friday at the minister's annual meeting with the Canadian Defence Associations (CDS), a collection of 13 associations representing 35,000 militia and reserve people across the country.

Mr. Richardson is expected to come under criticism as association representatives fire what could be the last salvos of a concerted, months-long campaign to halt erosion in the forces.

B.C. to Propose Gas Compromise

VICTORIA (CP) — The British Columbia government will announce a major compromise proposal today in the dispute with Ottawa over federal budget proposals for natural gas taxation.

Premier Dave Barrett said Thursday he will make a major announcement on B.C.'s proposals but still hopes to meet with Prime Minister Trudeau next week to discuss the dispute.

"We think it is a compromise and will be acceptable to everyone concerned," Mr. Barrett said.

The dispute, which centres on several proposals to tax gas companies on the fair market value of gas rather than the price they may actually receive, must be settled by next week, the premier said, or it will be too late for drilling companies to proceed with their winter drilling schedules.

It is expected that Mr. Barrett will propose a three-way sharing of oil and gas revenues derived from any future increase in B.C. well-head prices.

Hint Costs May Cancel Olympics

OTTAWA (CP) — Health Minister Marc Lalonde dismissed as "premature" Thursday any suggestions that the 1976 Olympic Games in Montreal will have to be cancelled because of soaring costs.

He told reporters he prefers not to comment on the situation at least until the Quebec national assembly discusses it next week.

Asked whether the federal government is standing firm on its commitment that the taxpayers will not have to subsidize the Games, he replied:

"That policy was quite clearly stated by the prime minister. . . .

"I know of no intention to change that policy."

The original cost estimate for Games facilities has nearly doubled to more than $650 million and labor trouble is the main cause.

News Briefs

Milk Price May Rise

TORONTO (CP) — Representatives of Ontario's 17,000 dairy farmers Thursday asked for "substantial increases" in the price of milk. If the dairymen get their way, the price of milk in the province is likely to rise by at least four cents a quart by April 1. Their request was made to the Ontario Milk Marketing Board, which was meeting here.

Why Spy?

OTTAWA (CP) — The idea of the United States Central Intelligence Agency being involved in commercial espionage in Canada and elsewhere mystified an external affairs spokesman today. "Any Canadian company would be most happy to sell a piece of equipment . . . so it could be dismantled and studied," he said. Thursday it was disclosed in Washington that the CIA recently asked American firms to engage in industrial espionage on civilian transportation systems in Canada, Britain, France, West Germany, Japan and the Soviet Union.

Miller Hopes to Limit Foreign Doctors Here

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Health Minister Frank Miller said Thursday he will ask at the annual conference of federal and provincial health ministers in Ottawa next week for federal government co-operation in a proposal to limit the number of foreign medical doctors entering practice each year.

"Canadian citizenship for our doctors is the logical thing to hang our hats on," Mr. Miller said in an interview.

Savings of $500 million a year within five years might be achieved by cutting in half the influx of non-Canadian doctors, he said.

Mr. Miller said the federal government agreed at last year's meeting of health ministers to give doctors applying to immigrate to Canada a zero points rating for employment, subject to adding of points if a doctor agreed to go to a designated area of need. But new regulations were never implemented

"Basically, we want a system that will allow a province to permit anyone in who is needed," said Mr. Miller. "But we have to have federal co-operation to prevent doctors entering a province unless they are needed."

Health ministry statistics show that half the doctors added to the Ontario register last year were Canadian and 35 or 40 per cent had trained in Ontario. About 1,000 new doctors start practice in Ontario each year although actual need is about 750.

Mr. Miller said it was wrong that people should be able to enter Canada on student visas, then obtain landed immigrant status and gain Canadian degrees.

Mr. Miller also criticized hospital boards which refuse to use empty beds for old aged, chronic-care patients, despite the province's willingness to pay the cost.

Communism Works in China Says Michener

TORONTO (CP) — Former governor-general Roland Michener told a group of businessmen Wednesday that Communism is working in China.

"They (the Chinese) have no fear of inflation, starvation, famine, debt or taxes," he said. "They are content to work for the revolution and do not mind giving up their individualism and expressions of personal pride."

Boy's Father Protests

Sled Slope Fence Is Called Hazard

By HARRY MULHALL

Staff Reporter

The father of a young boy who suffered face injuries last week when the child's toboggan crashed into a snowfence on the West Zwick's sled slope says the fence installation should be looked into as a possible hazard.

Phil Staddon, 565 Victoria Ave., said he reported the incident to city hall.

His 5½-year-old son Jimmy now is recovering at home after hospital treatment for the injuries suffered Dec. 31.

The slope is lined on both sides by snowfence, anchored to steel posts.

Mr. Staddon said the slope surface is pocked with small bumps which can deflect sleds and toboggans off at a tangent on a downward run.

He said the present fencing from where toboggans begin to gain downhill momentum is a hazard.

Mr. Staddon said he reported the incident to Mayor Robin Jeffrey.

Earlier this week parks director Lloyd Syer in a story in The Intelligencer noted one reason for lining the various toboggan hills with fencing was a precaution against snowmobiles which may be using the same area.

The pliability of snowfencing also permitted greater absorption of impact in the event a toboggan went off course.

One problem, he said Thursday, was to find a suitable alternative.

He said the department Thursday marked off the toboggan slope at the Herchimer Ave. reservoir with ropes.

North Bay Building Razed

Flames roar high into the air as firemen try to bring blaze under control after an office building was destroyed by an explosion in downtown North Bay, Wednesday. At least six persons died in the blast. (CP Photo)

Fire Debris Combed After Six Bodies Found

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP) — Officials were still searching this morning through the debris caused by an explosion and fire Wednesday that killed eight persons and levelled a downtown building.

Another 23 persons were injured, eight of whom are in hospital, when the two-storey, brick and concrete Barry Building was destroyed.

The eight-year-old building housed the offices of two dentists and two optometrists on McIntyre Street.

The known dead are: Dr. W. Garnet Julian, 31, a dentist who practised on the second floor; Lajuana Hellauer, 34, wife of a United States Air Force major assigned to the NORAD installation here; Mrs. Hermes Larocque, 47, a mother of four, all of North Bay; Mrs. Sarah Murdock, 76, and Mrs. Elizabeth Hall, 46, both of South River, 30 miles south of North Bay; James Cobean, an optometrist who had an office on the ground floor.

Missing and presumed dead are Mrs. Louise Brosseau and Mary Margaret McDonald, both of North Bay.

Lucille Roy and her three daughters aged 16 to 21, who occupied a basement apartment in the building, escaped with cuts and bruises.

The explosion was followed 45 seconds later by a fierce fire that made rescue impossible. The fire was fed by natural gas which could not be shut off for three hours because of flames that shot up to 60 feet in the air

Dr. H. B. Cotnam, Ontario's chief coroner, arrived Thursday to assist Coroner Paul Grose investigate the deaths and establish identification. He said Thursday night no decision has been reached as to when an inquest will be held.

"As far as we know at this point, the explosion and fire followed a gas leak," Dr. Cotnam said Thursday. "We don't know yet what caused that leak."

He said the natural gas lines leading into the blast area will be removed and examined by experts. Workmen began digging them up today.

Police said a crew from Northern and Central Gas Corp. was working behind the building at the time of the blast. Police and fire officials have not yet determined the cause of the explosion.

"A Northern and Central official said the firm is trying to determine exactly what the crew was doing at the time of the blast.

"Right now, there is a lot of confusion," he said. "We are only beginning to sort things out.

House Plants Need 'T.L.C.'

Ecology is a word that has gained in popularity over the last few years. Very simply defined it means - the relationship between an organism and its environment.

The organisms we are concerned with are house plants and the environment is the living accommodation you provide for them, including the quantity and quality of light available, as well as the degrees of heat and humidity.

And of course, as the supplier of their needs, you are a very vital part of that environment. The question then arises - what are a house plant's needs?

Certainly the basics are as we mentioned - quantity and quality of light, heat and humidity, plus whatever you supply in the way of water, food and "T.L.C.", plus their protection from insects and disease.

But botanists today are seriously wondering if there isn't something more in the way of "tender loving care" (T.L.C.), between a plant that is just growing and one that is flourishing.

In other words, do plants have forms of "emotional" needs as well? Do they have "feelings"? Are they attuned to human emotions? Can they even recognize intent in advance of activity, (do they know they're going to be watered, fed or harmed before the event actually transpires)?

These questions are being asked in environmental laboratories all over the country today and experiments are being undertaken to find answers - sometimes with rather errie results. And one of these days we'll talk about some of those results. But for now let's stick to the accepted fundamentals of house plant care and the known environmental requirements.

Basically house plants should be divided roughly into two categories: foliage and flowering. Because the environmental requirements for each, are for the most part, drastically different.

Flowering house plants are much more demanding in the way of light requirements, watering and temperatures - day temperatures and night - and especially the latter, which are often so critical in bringing flowering plants into bloom in your home.

By contrast, foliage plants are much more tolerant, much more adaptable to living the way you live, without too much in the way of special care.

Now, there are exceptions in both cases. Flowering house plants such as geraniums, African violets, begonias and impatiens can do quite well in a home with only a little extra in the way of care.

And there are foliage plants, such as the Caladium, that do require a little in the way of special treatment. But generally, foliage plants are much easier to care for and live much longer than their more colorful and more temperamental cousins.

Not that there isn't plenty of colour in foliage plants today. Thanks to high-speed, climate controlled transportation, your choice is no longer confined to the old-time staples such as the Rubber Plant, Philodendrum, Boston Fern or Aspidistra. Today, there is a spectrum of colorful foliage plants available from Australia to Zanzibar. And next week we'll talk about some of them.

Literacy Problem Among Students

Ernst Kneisel, director of the Loyalist school of business and communications, told the college board of governors Thursday, "there's a general problem with literacy throughout the college and the whole school system" in the province.

He said part of the problem has developed from the college's practice of flooding the curriculum with specialized courses, leaving no time for teaching English.

Mr Kneisel announced a project to establish a criteria for a certain standard of literacy.

"We are in the process of arranging, program by program, that no student can get a certificate or diploma without reaching an acceptable standard of literacy," he said.

This will be no easy avenue, he pointed out. Mr. Kneisel explained pressures on professional courses have often been exerted by outside associations which use a business language different to normal English.

Trenton Site for New Textile Manufacturer

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Construction has begun on a new $2.2 - million plant for Stearns and Foster Canada Ltd., a manufacturer of non-woven textile products.

Trenton's newest industry expects to employ 130 people five years after its plant on the east bank of the Trent River is completed this November.

Company vice-president Kenneth Dafoe said Thursday the plant will start operations with 50 people. Expansion, he said, is sure to follow.

His prediction came during a press conference called at the town hall to announce the location of the industry here in Trenton.

The announcement Thursday ends months of speculation that a new industry was moving into town.

Mr. Dafoe said construction now is under way on an eight-acre site just west of Moore Business Forms on Douglas Rd., in north Trenton.

In its 40,000 - square foot plant, the company will manufacture a non-woven textile used in disposable diapers, hospital care and filtration products.

Two major markets for its products are already assured, said Mr. Dafoe. Domtar Packaging Ltd. in Toronto will be a purchaser as will the new Proctor and Gamble plant in Belleville.

Location of the latter company in Belleville was one reason Stearns and Foster decided to locate their third Canadian plant here, he said. Other determining factors were the good reception the company received from the town, and the availability of labor.

In Ontario, 13 other centres were looked at, he said.

Stearns and Foster Canada Ltd. has plants in Montreal and Brampton. Canadian headquarters are in Brantford. In the United States, head offices are in Ccincinnati, offices are in Cincinnati, Ohio, from wher it oversees plants, a company release stated.

Its latest Canadian plant here will operate on a 24-hour, five-day week.

Mr. Dafoe said plant will be a clean, non-polluting industry with only small requirements for river water for its manufacturing process.

Plans Outlined

Stearns and Foster Canada Ltd. vice-president Kenneth Dafoe talks to reporters during press conference Thursday when he announced the location of a new $2.2-million plant in Trenton. The new industry, to employ 50 people initially, will manufacture non-woven textile products on an eight-acre site west of More Business Forms on Douglas Rd. Construction, subcontracted locally by Inter-north Construction Ltd. of Toronto, is expected to be complete in November, 1975.

Reverend Part-time Engineer

WELLINGTON — What does a minister do when he's off duty? Some have hobbies, just like Rev. David Hawkins, who owns a model railroad.

Rev. Hawkins said he was interested in model railroading as a young boy living in England, when his father gave him his first train set.

As he grew older, his interest in trains grew along with him.

When asked the difference between a toy train and a model railroad, Rev. Hawkins replied: "Toy train sets are cheaply built and can be set up in no time. A model railroad is better built and can take hours on end to build. You can make your own adjustments and set up the track the way you want with your own equipment."

When Rev. Hawkins came to Canada in 1958, he found little time to build his railroad until he came to Wellington, over three years ago. He has spent over 150 hours building his set, but is still a long way off from completion. He said he hopes to complete his 100-foot layout in the near future.

He shares his interest with members of the Model Railroaders' Club of Picton that have their own train outfit stored at Rev. Hawkin's home.

"I believe that everyone should get involved in some other interest besides one's own profession," he said. "After three years, I am beginning to see results hence it is getting more xciting," Rev. Hawkins added.

Mild Weather Threatens Alfalfa and Wheat Crop

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Alfalfa and winter wheat crops in Prince Edward County may be seriously damaged by loss of winter cover says Richard Hendry, assistant agricultural representative with the Ontario ministry of agriculture and food here.

Mr. Hendry observes frost is leaving the ground because of mild temperatures and rain and the snow cover has been melted. Winter wheat crops now are unprotected and a sudden cold snap could damage this crop considerably.

He notes in mild periods growth begins and a freeze would cause crop proglems for the farmer.

The alfalfa crop, a large one in Prince Edward County also is subject to winter kill through a freeze-thaw action.

Mr. Hendry explained alfalfa has tap roots that are wedge shaped and freeze-thaw conditions can squeeze these roots from the ground.

Another potential hazard in this year's open winter is the threat of an ice cover that prevents crop respiration.

Mr. Hendry commented if rain water lies on frozen ground an ice cover eventually occurs. This stifle s plant breathing. Snow cover is porous enough to permit the gaseous exchange needed for plant life.

Mr. Hendry said concern for crops also has been voiced in the Vineland area and in the Niagara Peninsual where farmers are disturbed by mild temperatures.

You're never sure who's taking the picture. It could be Quenton Sturk or Chris Banks, but it's an enjoyable way to pass the time at the Bancorft Parents' Co-operates Nursery School. Located in the old L'Amable school building, the nursery school will hold an open house Saturday, January 18. Supervisor Carolyn Eves looks forward to enrolling new youngsters to fill existing vacancies.

Town to Pick Up Tab For Collection Ads

PICTON — Town council will assist the Picton Kiwanis Club in "peddling its papers" by paying advertising costs for its monthly paper pick-ups.

The club collects about 10 tons each month and to date has picked up approximately 108 tons.

If placed in the town dump this amount of paper would occupy 18,296 cubic feet of space.

Kiwanians note the waste paper market has become limited, and the club now receives less money for its efforts than it did in the past.

The paper collected by the club is picked up by volunteers and represents a savings in man hours to the town. In addition, land fill space is conserved.

To keep the supply of paper up, Kiwanians insert ads in the local paper at a cost of about $25 a month.

Council has agreed to pay for the ads to permit the service club to continue its paper pick-ups.

Money earned by the club through this collection is turned back to the town through community benefit projects.

Card Choice Criticized

BLOOMFIELD — The Prince Edward County Board of Education's Christmas greeting card apparently did not promote peace on earth among budding student artists this year.

Trustees this week discussed a letter from Pinecrest Memorial School in Bloomfield questioning the board's use of a card design submitted by a teacher after students had been urged to send their designs for possible choice.

It was explained the board had directed a letter to county schools seeking potential card designs but the wording stated from schools, not from students specifically.

Trustees made their choice, selecting a teacher's sketch of the board offices.

Ameliasburg trustee George Cunningham described this action as "very unfair" and said teachers should not have been permitted to submit designs.

Opera Co. Plans Bancroft Visit

BANROCFT — North Hastings resident are going to have the opportunity on Jan. 20 of hearing the well-known and internationally celebrated operatic baritone, Jan Rubes, in concert with a company of 39 performers in the auditorium of North Hastings High School.

The concert, sponsored by the North Hastings Fine Arts Committee, will feature Mr. Rubes and the Canadian Opera Touring Company and Orchestra in selected extracts from well-known operas and operettas.

During the afternoon local school children will have the opportunity of seeing the group perform during a 50-minute concert at Our Lady of Mercy School here.

Advance sale tickets are available from the Bancroft Pharmacy, The Villager or Jenkin's music store in Bancroft or from the Quinte Arts Council in Belleville.

"National Education Week on Smoking"

"Non-Smokers Have Rights" is the theme of National Education Week on Smoking. The opening date marks the anniversary of the release of the U.S. Surgeon General's Report which linked cigarette smoking with major health problems such as cancer, heart and lung diseases.

The purpose of this year's campaign is to continue to press for the recognition of the rights of non-smokers in public places where the right to breathe clean air and the right to smoke conflict. Non-smokers have the right to breathe clean air, free from harmful and irritating tobacco smoke. This right supersedes the right to smoke when the two conflict.

If you must smoke — be more considerate to the non-smoker.

THEREFORE by the virtue of the authority vested in me as Mayor of the City of Belleville, I hereby proclaim the week January 11th to 17th, 1975 as

"NATIONAL EDUCATION WEEK ON SMOKING"

Modular Housing

All of a sudden there has been an acceleration on the world scene of new types of experimental housing.

From Quebec for one there is word of a new modular home being developed in fibreglass by a Granby firm. The government publication, Quebec at a Glance, notes that the processes used in its making have already been tested elsewhere, particularly in Germany and Russia, but the Quebec model was designed especially for Canadian conditions.

Capable of being mass-produced at little cost, the modular home is adaptable, has thermal insulation and excellent acoustics, as well as being lightweight and easy to transport. Each unit is equipped with electric heating, air-conditioning, refrigerator and stove.

A basic 13 by 21-foot model is priced at $7,400 and similar units can be placed together to achieve any desired size.

A photograph of the unit shows a structure that is strictly utilitarian, with little in the way of style, but in an age when available housing is both scarce and costly, this type may appeal to a lot of people.

Not to be outdone meanwhile, Britain's Timber Research and Development Association reportedly has developed factory-built homes which can be erected in a day — as bungalows, two-or-three storey houses or multi-storey flats, and at a cost well below that of traditional methods.

From New Zealand too there is word that the government is planning to buy a 25 per cent interest in a company which will produce fully finished room modules for assembly on-site. These will come in six basic types which can produce no fewer than 1000 different floor plans.

Construction of 3000 of these dwellings is envisaged and government involvement is expected to ensure a supply of dwellings such as project housing, pension housing and state rental-accommodation.

It is one thing though to produce such revolutionary accommodation, but do they conform to local authority standards? This and other questions come to mind, and we are reminded that fly-by-night solutions to such problems are neither possible nor desirable. These developments are interesting however, and municipalities should not overlook their potential.

Consumer Scene

The heading on a current article on consumer spending declaims: Inflation? In some cases you are paying less, getting more.

Among other things the article cites color television as an increasingly good bargain.

Some of us of course are still soldiering on with black and white, like the venerable second-hand Philco one citizen picked up from a downtown dealer some years ago. Cost: somewhere around $80.

Occasionally there is interference on some channels, stemming from a combination of things such as a conventional aerial, rural location, old age — and snowmobiles.

Almost in the classic vein of slapstick, a sharp knock with the hand, or even a kick, restores proper reception. For some reason too, the CTV network provides our friend with his best picture.

Speaking of reception, a television repeat of highlights of the Commonwealth Games in New Zealand was a reminder of the marvels of satellite transmission from faraway places. And incidentally, viewers in New Zealand, first with color in the southern hemisphere (to the chagrin of their big neighbor, Australia) report that British programs exhibit truer color than either U.S. or Canadian.

This is a reminder, for one thing, that television was the invention of a Scot, John Logie Baird, who in the great tradition labored at the technique in comparative obscurity and amid financial strains. If there is any biographical material on Baird, other than in the encyclopedia, it would make interesting reading.

CIA in The Doghouse

Spy Agency Itself Target of Investigations

By PETER BUCKLEY

WASHINGTON (CP) — The sudden rash of investigations being organized into the activities of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) has revived widespread feelings of confusion and skepticism which have been constant companions of the United States spy agency for much of its 27-year history.

Four separate committees of the United States Congress have announced they will look into allegations that the CIA illegally spied on American citizens in their home country.

And President Ford has named a "blue-ribbon" commission headed by Vice-President Nelson Rockefeller to conduct a 90-day study of CIA activities within the United States.

With four congressional committees at work, the likelihood of conflicting purposes and inefficiency seems obvious.

A more fundamental question has been posed by reporter Seymour Hersh, whose recent series of articles in the New York Times first raised the allegations of illicit CIA spying on anti-war activists and others in the U.S.

Why, Hersh asks in a news analysis, did it take a newspaper story to promote the current investigations "when the facts were long since known to government officials and some in Congress."

Representative Lucien Nedzi (Dem. Mich.), who as chairman of the House of Representatives intelligence subcommittee will lead the main congressional study of the CIA, has acknowledged being told more than a year ago about illegal activities but says he did nothing because such actions had already stopped.

"It was historical," he says.

Other congressional leaders, charged with exercising some oversight of the CIA, have apparently turned a similarly tolerant eye in the past on excesses and blunders committed by CIA agents and officials. The standard reason has been "national security."

Meanwhile, the membership of President Ford's newly-created commission has raised eyebrows all over Washington. Senator William Proxmire (Dem. Wisc.) calls the commission "very one-sided," considering its main job will centre around alleged abuses of civil liberties by CIA counter-intelligence.

Rockefeller himself has been a member for five years of the foreign intelligence advisory board, a civilian group responsible for overseeing U.S. intelligence activities. As such, critics say, he lacks the appearance of impartiality which would inspire public confidence in the new commssion.

Several other members of the new eight-man commission have also had more-than-casual connections with U.S. intelligence operations in the past and some have earned sant crespet for their attitudes toward citizens' rights.

When the CIA was created in 1947 as a successor to war-time U.S. spy operations, public debate focussed on whether the United States should countenance the same double standard as its major allies and enemies—that it is all right to conduct activities abroad against foreign citizens and governments of a kind which would not be tolerated at home.

The CIA charter locked in the double standard. It specificially forbade the agency to engage in domestic spying of the type it was being funded to carry on abroad.

From humble beginnings, the CIA is reputed to have become a $750-million-a-year octopus, part of a tangled complex of military and civilian intelligence agencies and departments which published reports say absorb up to $15 billion annually.

During most of its period of growth, the CIA has been surrounded by extraordinary secrecy, abetted by the unwillingness of congressmen and other potential critics to pry too deeply into its cloak-and-dagger affairs.

Ex-Federal Minister May Enter Provincial Politics

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau
Thomson News Service

TORONTO — Confirmation from Herb Gray, former federal cabinet minister from Windsor, that he is considering running provincially and reports that other federal members are considering switching to the provincial field could make a whole new ball game out of the next provincial election.

The biggest handicap the Nixon Liberals now face is a lack of credibility.

There are some good men in the provincial ranks, both in the legislature and outside of it.

But these are not known to the public generally.

It takes its assessment of the party from leader Bob Nixon and Mr. Nixon just doesn't go across with some people.

But if you get men of the stature of Gray in the field this could change sharply.

Gray now is well known nationally. And though he was dropped from the cabinet I would think he also is respected.

This would be important in the public's opinion of the party.

Most voters tend to make their decisions on the senses or emotions rather than any cool analysis.

If a man has been "big" it tends to accept him still as big, at least until he shows himself otherwise.

Gray has been big, and I would believe the public still accepts him as such.

And by changing over to the provincial field he would carry this bigness with him, and reflect it on the provincial party.

Whether federal members when the time comes will actually change-over is, of course, another question.

Although not nearly so minor league as it once was the provincial field is still second fiddle to Ottawa.

And a switch to it from the federal arena is a step down.

In the present house both Liberal Phil Givens of Toronto-Forest Hill and Conservative Osie Villeneuve of Glengarry decided they preferred the provincial chamber over the federal.

And Mitch Hepburn was the classic case of a federal member going from Ottawa to Queen's Park.

But still an Ottawa seat carries the prestige and most members would be reluctant to give one up.

China As Oil Exporter

Brantford Expositor

If Peking watchers are right, China has made a significant shift in her international trade strategy and is counting on rising oil sales to play a major role.

Peking has kept mum on the subject, but current trade trends strongly suggest a new pattern. Hitherto, in pursuit of self-sufficiency, its policy has been to balance imports and exports to avoid a trade deficit. Only twice between 1952 and 1972 was there a failure to emerge with a surplus. But in 1973 and last year purchases abroad of complete factories, power plants, mining equipment, commercial jetliners and technology so far exceeded increased Chinese exports that a deficit of nearly $1 billion resulted. This, itis known, is being financed with credits.

Available trade figures, as put together in the Monthly Economic Letter of New York's First National-City Bank, tell the story. Imports from the U.S. shot from zero in 1971 to $690 million in 1973 and an estimated $1.15 billion last year, while China's sales to the U.S. crept from $5 million in 1971 to $65 million in 1973 and an expected $390 million last year. Britain and the other eight Common Market nations are also selling much more to China. Japan, supplying manufactures and technical know-how in exchange for raw materials, has made herself China's leading trade partner.

Especially eager for oil, Japan got its first and modest Chinese shipments in 1973 - 7.1 million barrels at a bargain $4.59 a barrel. In the year just ended China sent her 30 million barrels but charged four times as much a barrel.

China is evidently looking to oil sales from her seven fields, where production is rising at 23 per cent a year, to move her into the black again on her trading account. By 1977 their output is expected to reach 2.4 million barrels a day, or slightly more than Canada's current production. Already imports of oil-industry equipment have a priority.

In China's rapidly expanding buying, there ought to be a place for Canadian sales of machinery and know-how. But Ottawa says curiously little about it.

Troubles Pursue Cabinet's Mitchell Sharp

by RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA- For the third time in the 23 years he has been a big wheel in the monster tax-and-spend red-tape machine the feds run here in Trudeautown, things are not looking good for Mitchell Sharp.

Botching up the parliamentary pay raise was his third boo-boo – not a bad count, actually, a trio of goof-ups in all that time — but as this is supposed to be the big political league, it could be three no-no's and you're out.

Things can't be cozy in Cabinet for Mitchell Sharp as President of the Privy Council and Government House Leader when the Prime Minister is forced to come right out in public and say that no, he isn't going to fire him.

In view of Sharp's "obvious misjudgement of the public mood" on parliamentary pay, the Prime Minister was asked, what were the chances of him being "replaced?"

Sensitive to the point of irritation over the foul-up, the PM fired back: "Are you losing your job too?"

Since that "too" just possibly might hint of Sharp being bounced, the Prime Minister rushed on to add, "He's not losing his."

No, not now perhaps.

But later?

In the next few months, when the Prime Minister, as he already has forecast, will be getting around to shuffling his Cabinet again?

Last time around, in the Fall, he rolled Cabinet heads, former ministers Stanley Haidasz of Multiculturalism, Herb Gray of Consumer Affairs., and Robert Stanbury of National Revenue.

The first time Mitchell Sharp went off the rails was when he "resigned" - or was fired by former Conservative Trade Minister Gordon Churchill – after nearly eight years as departmental deputy.

The way the Prime Minister of the day, John Diefenbaker, told it, there he was, quietly cooking up that free-trade deal between Canada and Britain, a dish calculated to cater to loyalist Canadian tastes.

Dief got a call, he relates, from a friend in Toronto, who asked him all about the "big British deal," and when the PM asked him where on earth he had heard about it, he blurted out that "the Trade Deputy told me on the train coming down from Ottawa last night."

True or false, Mitchell Sharp was out, whether by way of the boot or requested resignation, with swift unceremony.

Second time Sharp found the ice perilously thin was some seven years ago when he was Government House Leader and acting Prime Minister while Lester Pearson was sunning himself on a Caribbean beach..

Mitch was not watching the House as closely as he should, nor was his Whip counting heads carefully enough.

Terrified, he saw his minority Liberals lose a vote on the budget, and didn't breathe easy again until after the furious Pearson had flown back to Ottawa and sweet-talked the new, (and still) naive Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield into forgetting what should have been, by all established parliamentary rules, the defeat of the government.

Now, just before Christmas – what timing - Mitch stumblebummed it again with the pay issue, and in fury of frustration, lashed out at, of all people, Stanley Knowles, the conscience of the Commons, questioning his integrity, and blaming him for the whole ghastly mess.

His apology later served only to accentuate the stupidity of it all.

It came out clearly in the uproar that Mitch had been dreaming when he talked of "consensus" on the 50 perceut pay proposal.

Worse, he left his Prime Minister hanging there with an itching palm out, still stuck with the proposed $84,000 in salary and expenses which, combined with the new $84,000 Cadillac, the old $74,000 limousine, the new $30,000 swimming pool, the nearly $200,000 on fancying up the residence, the summer lodge and the Hill offices – remember the $35 ash trays – presented an ugly portrait of Grit greed.

They will have to go through the whole thing again later this month when the government reeking with rectitude, will be imploring the poor ripped-off taxpayer to show "restraint."

Dief said it all with the old cry that applied alike to St. Laurent and Howe, to Pearson and Martin, and now, again to Trudeau and Sharp: "The same old bunch!"

UK and U.S. Teachers Abroad

West German Informátion Bulletin

During the 1974-1975 school year the North Rhine-Westphalian Ministry of Education is employing 362 British and American teachers of English.

Two hundred and sixteen of this group have gone to various Gymnasia, the nine-yaar schools whose primary aim is preparation for university training. Of the remaining 146, 62 went to professional schools and 84 to trade scools.

English is the preferred second language in the NRW school system and is offered to all pupils after completion of their fourth year of schooling. Including the teachers from Great Britain and the United States there are an estimated 4500 teachers in the State school system who teach English, most of them in conjunction with other subjects. The number of pupils and students studying English is estimated at 1.3 million.

As rerently as 1969 there were only 79 teachers in the State school system whose mother tongue was English.

Removal of Dead Elm Trees

Kitchener - Waterloo Record

Perhaps no tree disease has ever been more totally destructive in Ontario than Dutch elm disease. The results of its destructiveness are to be seen throughout the countryside.

To encourage farmers to remove the unsightly dead elms, the Ontario government in April, 1971, offered farmers, through its capital grants program, $5 for each tree removed up to a maximum of 20 in any one year..

A number of farmers took advantage of the offer, but mostly to remove dead elms in farm woodlots where they could be cut down and left to rot. Not so many farmers took the trouble to remove trees which stood in the open, the very ones, of course, which offended authorities and passersby.

To emphasize the need to remove trees in the open, the government, in May, 1972, restricted payment for removal to elms standing in the open. Since that time there has been a noticeable lack of interest in the whole program.

The reason is obvious. Trees in the open have to be cut up and hauled away and the $5 payment doesn't begin to cover the cost, even if the trees are sold for firewood

Assuming the government is still as anxious as ever to have these eyesores removed, the answer to the problem is equally obvious. It should increase the grant to at least $25, or send its own highway crews in to remove them. Farmers, we're sure, would be happy to give their permission for the latter course

Yankees Pitcher Draws A $3.7 Million Deal

Cambridge Reporter

Seriously now, sports fans, is there really an athlete worth $3.7 million?

That's the price the New York Yankees are reportedly paying Jim (Catfish) Hunter for his pitching abilities. The total is supposed to include an annual salary of $200,000 for the next five years, a $1 million bonus, $50,000 a year for 10 years in a retirement plan, a $1 million insurance policy, $200,000 in lawyers' fees and $25,000 insurance policies for each of his two children.,

The contract just might have made the four-time, 20-game winner the highest-paid player in North American sports team history - he is definitely the highest paid player in baseball history.

It wasn't too many years ago that entire baseball franchises sold for less than the amount of Mr. Hunter's contract. (The Montreal Alouettes' Canadian Football League team sold for less money just four years ago).

But back to the original questions. The answer is a qualified yes he is worth the amount of the contract to his team provided he can win at least 20 games again, help the Yankees win a pennant, and get them into the World Series and most important, boost the team's attendance record.

Yankee management is gambling he can do just that.

Throughout the years major league baseball has remained the one sport that almost everybody could afford. While ticket prices for professional football, hockey and basketball have climbed steadily, baseball tickets have generally remained within reason.

However a few more contracts like Mr. Hunter's and prices will soon skyrocket.

Then, perhaps there will be a true test of the value of players whose stature is similar to Mr. Hunter's. In the final analysis the fans will decide - if they continue to buy tickets at inflated prices then a strong case may be made that those responsible for convincing the fan to pay the price should share - and share handsomely - in the rewards.

However if the fan decides he's had enough and refuses to pay the price then everyone from the owner to the players will have to re-think their positions on values.

Psychiatry: A Critical View

Editor:
The Intelligencer

Psychiatry has proven over the past many years, beyond a doubt that it does not work

Witness some of the products of psychiatry over the past few years:

Sirhan Sirhan, Lee Harvey Oswald, Charles Manson, all of these people and many many more we have not heard of are the end product of psychiatric treatment.

This is not to say psychiatry caused their problem but obviously did absolutely nothing to help them. Yet these people were allowed to go free.

Could it be that psychiatry cannot detect criminals and terrorists, or are they just helpless to do anything about it? Either would be an admission of guilt which psychiatry is obviously not willing to confront since they are now handling over 50 per cent of all criminal cases and crime rate soars, terrorism soars, and we pay millions to psychiatry to do this.

These things can be handled. I am a Scientologist and I know that there are methods of identifying criminals and they can be honestly and completely rehabilitated, drug addicts can be cured, the insane can become sane

Psychiatry has failed totally and should be removed to make way for those who can and do really make this a saner world to live in.

Snowmobilers Hopeful For Ministry Grant

By CASH MAHAFFY
Staff Reporter

Snowmobilers in the Quinte area are eagerly awaiting word from the provincial ministry of natural resources about what slice of a million-dollar pie they will get to improve their snowmobile trails.

In November, the ministry announced that organized snowmobile clubs could apply for grants to improve their existing trails. A stipulation was that if public money was used to improve the trails, the trails must be open to the public. This caused a number of clubs to back off, since many trails cross private land.

However, the ministry reports that requests for grants amounted to about 2½ times the funds available, and some clubs will have to be content with less than they asked for, a ministry spokesman said.

In the Quinte area, the four snowmobiling clubs in Prince Edward County got together to form the Prince Edward County Association of Snowmobile Clubs. They met with resources ministry parks supervisor for the Napanee District, Chuck Matheson, at the Napanee office to request funds to improve 160 miles of snowmobile trails in the county.

Funds will be allotted, Mr. Matheson said, on the basis of about $50 per mile of trail.

The Londsdale and Deseronto clubs also got together to request funds for grooming 32 miles of trail. The trail runs from Deseronto north to Stoco.

The Lennox and Addington Ridge Runner Snowmobile Club has applied for a grant to cover work on their 20-mile trail in the Camden East area.

Mr. Matheson said he hopes some of the money will be available for improvement work on trails in provincial parks in the area.

The ministry administers more than 450 miles of winter trails in eastern Ontario on Crown land, county forest land and in the region's 16 provincial parks.

Snowmobiling in all parks is temporarily prohibited when snow depth is less than six inches and, in this area, is restricted to park roads only at Outlet Beach. It is prohibited at Sandbanks and North Beach.

At Presqu'ile snowmobiling is restricted to 13 miles of designated trail and at Bon Echo to trails and park roads.

Muppets Headline 1975 Ice Follies

Television's Sesame Street Muppets are headliners of this year's edition of Shipstads and Johnson Ice Follies, which opens January 14 at Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, for 16 performances through January 26.

Back again is diminuitive Janet Lynn for her second tour with the show. The 1974 world's professional women's champion says she is glad she made the switch to professional ranks.

"It wasn't just the money that made the difference. Sure, the money is important, but it is the complete feeling of skating relaxation. I don't have to beat anyone but myself. And I just love entertaining thousands of people night after night. It's really great," said Janet recently.

Richard Dwyer is celebrating his 25th anniversary with Ice Follies and Mr. Frick, the dean of ice comics, returns for his 36th successive season. The precision-skating Ice Follettes form the skating foundation for the 39th edition of the Shipstads and Johnson show.

Belleville Boy Recounts Trip

One of the 1,100 students sponsored by the Oddfellows and Rebekahs, Robert Miller of Belleville told of his experiences on a 10-day visit to the United Nations in New York City at a meeting of the group early this month.

Among about 150 who heard his talk were District Deputy Grand Master Harry Way, who introduced guests from Grand Lodge and visiting lodges. They included Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Ontario, Harry Wade, and a busload of lodge members from western Ontario.

The Exeter Lodge brought with them a travelling gavel that was presented to the Belleville Lodge, to remain for a year. This is the first time the gavel had been taken out of western Ontario.

Snowmobilers Warned

Marmora council will leave it up to local snowmobilers to respect the feelings of residents in the operation of their machines on a volunteer basis before taking municipal action, Reeve Jack Reynolds has announced. He said in response to many calls from villagers protesting snowmobile operation after 11 p.m., snowmobilers will be asked to co-operate by limiting the use of their machines to the daytime and early evening hours.

25 Cents a Call

Information Please to Cost

Beginning Sunday, Jan 12 it will cost Bell Canada customers to dial 411 and ask for a number that is already listed in the telephone directory, Belleville Bell manager George Thompson today reminded customers.

A 25-cent charge will be levied for each unnecessary request for information, Mr. Thompson said. "But there is no need for any customer ever to pay for directory assistance. Charges will be made only when a customer requests a number that is already listed in the directory.

Residence customers also will not be charged for the first three numbers requested in a month from a residence service, but business customers will be charged for all calls."

The handicapped and those over 65 can be exempted from charges by calling the Bell office to obtain a form that can be filled out to free them from the new charge.

Other calls to directory assistance that will be exempt from charge are those placed from pay phones, from hospital, hotel or motel rooms or for emergency calls. There is no charge for long distance numbers that are not listed in the customer's directory.

Grant Brings Dramatic Troupe to Bancroft

BY NAN WHITLAW
Staff Correspondent

BANCROFT — Students in most of the schools in the North Hastings Associated School Group will be enjoying the experience of learning some dramatic and stage skills during the next six month period.

As the result of an LIP (Local Incentives Program) grant, Jaci Winters, Don Buskirk and Naiome McCormack will be visiting these area schools to help the youngsters with classes in dramatic expression.

The grant, $12,818, was applied for by the North Hastings ASG and educational assistant Gary Stevenson is acting as sponsor.

The group, called Pandora's Box, is being supported by the community school policy of the local principals.

"Jaci Winters originally had the idea," said Mr. Stevenson, "and I took it to the principal's cabinet and they supported it completely."

At the moment, Pandora's Box members are spending a half-day weekly in most of the area elementary schools, however at North Hastings Senior Elementary School, they are operating the program during the lunch hour.

"At North Hastings High School, we are working during a spare in the afternoon," said Mrs. Winters, leader of the troupe of travelling players." We presented the idea to 130 students and we have seven or eight participating now."

Mrs. Winters continued that the group is happy about the reception that the program is having in the school.

Puppeteer's Hand-Made Menagerie Teaches and Entertains

Kae Oatman with Ravishing Ravina, Trouble and Myrtle the Turtle

Finger - puppet vegetables teach home economists to teach nutrition. Elmer the Safety Elephant stages a safety-oriented puppet show for children in Hamilton parks. Trouble, the irascable puppy puppet, tells kids when they need to be quiet.

These are the ways Kae Oatman uses her creations to do the work she loves best: teaching children.

Mrs. Oatman, who moved to Belleville with husband Donald just a few months ago, is an accomplished puppet creator but more importantly, an accomplished performer.

She began making puppets, in fact, to broaden her ability to entertain Pioneer Girls around the campfire. That was 20 years ago and Mrs. Oatman has been involved with puppets in one way or another since.

The shows come easily to her, then and now, because of the training she received from the age of three as a ballet dancer. Lat erlater a teacher, a ballet studio in her native London absorbed her interest until she retired to take up other work with children like the Pioneer Girls.

"I love children," Kae Oatman says, "and if you have a real desire to work with children you'll seek out something that interests them."

After starting with simple marionettes, Mrs. Oatman expanded to creating all types of glove and rod puppets. Over the years she's made many puppets and kept more than 70. They've helped her give more than 100 shows, from the library shows in Hamilton to children's classes in puppetry at the YWCA.

Husband Donald has figured largely in her avocation, building her stage and helping with properties. He's an expert carpenter, Mrs Oatman says, and when the pair open a gift shop behind their Elmwood Drive home- former site of the Frontier Shop - his woodworking will be lined up beside the puppets she'll make for sale.

Until now most of her puppets have been for her own use or for the use of organizations like the Hamilton Safety Council which ordered sets of character puppets like Elmer the Safety Elephant to teach safe practices to children.

But beginning in the spring, when they expect to open the shop, she'll sell toy puppets for children priced from just over $2 to professional puppets costing more than $50.

The puppets are made from fur fabric, metallic fabrics, felt and cottons, and trimmed with everything from miniature leather boas to satin gowns.

The characters she creates are legion: Trouble, the puppy puppet who admonishes noisy audiences, Ravishing Ravina, the racoon puppet who wears silver eyelashes and that feather boa, Myrtle Turtle, Ellie Phant and a big furry colorful worm who's the master of ceremonies at the shows.

"The problem is keeping up with the ideas, not thinking of new puppets," Mrs. Oatman says. "The ideas flow faster than the hands work."

More than making the puppets, though, Mrs. Oatman enjoys the work with children. She gets special delight, she admits, when some new idea enchants children.

Recently, for example, she produced a children's Christmas show for a local industry's employees' party using a new type of presentation: silver gloves using mime techniques built a toy soldier puppet right on stage.

"It went over so well," Mrs. Oatman says happily, "I'll be using that one again."

Second Glance

A BELLEVILLE CHURCH HISTORY

> Individualities may form communities, but it is institutions alone that can create a nation.
> — Disraeli (1804 - 1881).

That a beautiful edifice is the creation, the expression of a people's dream, hopes, beliefs is amply revealed by Kenneth S. Hill's history of "St. ANDREW'S BELLEVILLE 1821 - 1967".

"It is my hope if you read this that you will appreciate the heritage handed down by former members of St. Andrew's many of whom rest within the confines of the church property," writes the author, stating that this account "is simply a chronological account of what I deem to be important items" in its history, and "if there are items I have missed, or information about the early history of which you are aware, please let me know."

Here are some facts concerning a "frame edifice painted white," the first St. Andrew's church, built in 1831 . . .

The white frame church seats 300 on planks laid on blocks of wood. The evening service is lighted with tallow candles, and the snuffing of candles was done by an elderly gentleman along with the minister.

The collection was taken up with ladles.

One old gentleman objected when three poplar trees were planted in front of the church years later (1850). He was against "all forms of church embellishment."

Nor was music allowed other than the human voice until 1865. The minister was told by threatening letters that "dreadful things would happen if that 'Kist of Whistles ' was allowed to desecrate the Lord's House." Though the instrument was used, there was no organ prelude to the hymns and "a voluntary would have emptied the church."

Thus the little white church served its members until 1871, when it was decided to build a brick church with a stone foundation.

While the church was being built, the congregation met in the courthouse.

"This second church," writes Mr. Hill, "was an attractive brick edifice with stone basement. It had pews providing sittings for 446 persons.

"Many memorial stained glass windows were installed and finally all the windows were stained glass.

"This church had the only chimes in Belleville, a fine organ and was lighted by gas."

Then September 9th, 1894; a Sunday morning. The entire church was destroyed by fire. Mr. Hill writes:

"The fire alarm was given at 5 o'clock in the morning ... In a few short hours the church was simply a mass of smouldering ruins ... One of Belleville's most handsome churches was nothing but bare walls and charred timbers. This church was free of debt, well furnished and had a flourishing congregation ..."

That very afternoon, a meeting was held, whereby offers of temporary accommodation were made, and that of Robert Bogle of the Business College, was accepted. (The Business College was used as temporary congregation). Plans were laid. The erection of the third St. Andrew's was underway.

Upon compleion its dedication was held November 17th, 1895.

Such is the beautiful St. Andrew's Church which graces our city today.

Mr. Hill's history, with detail, preserves the knowledge, the struggle, the success that helped to bring our community into being and which needs to be told, that our modern age will remember.

ROSLIN ACW

The January meeting of the Anglican Church Women of Roslin was held on Monday evening at the home of Roberta Fisk, who used the new year as her theme for the devotional period.

Plans were made for a quilting afternoon at Annie Bates' home.

The election of officers was conducted by Ethel Gillespie. The new executive is: President, Annie Bates; Vice-President, Marjorie Gray; Secretary, Leola Alexander; Treasurer, Helen Thibault; and other committee conveners, Hazel Wilson, Dorothy Hall, Laurie Martin, Phyllis Sills, Roberta Fisk, Florence Meeks and Marjory Gray.

Laurie Martin was in charge of the evening's program, and talked about getting along with others.

RETAIN TAX

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan legislature has approved a bill retaining the sales tax on restaurant and take-out food. The measure defines just what food will be taxed next year. Michigan residents voted to remove the four-per-cent tax from most food, with the exception of food for immediate consumption.

MASSACHUSETTS TOPS

PLYMOUTH, Mass. (AP) — Massachusetts, where the Pilgrims picked cranberries 350 years ago, is still the leading United States producer of the red berries. Cranberries are as much a part of American Thanksgiving as turkey and pumpkin pie, and as of Nov. 1, the bogs of Cape Cod and the Plymouth area produced 935,000 barrels of berries.

CHURCH WOMEN

The United Church Women of Bridge Street United Church held a special general meeting which included a Christmas devotional. Mayor Robin Jeffrey spoke on the theme, "A Land with Christmas."

GUIDES

The Annual Guide and Brownie Tea will be held February 18 from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. at Christ Church. Admission is 35 cents.

The annual tea, which is held during Scout and Guide Week, will include visual displays and slides with sound. A variety show will highlight the evening.

Ann Landers

Mr. X Ruining Her Marriage

Dear Ann Landers: The firm my husband works for has done some transferring and promoting. Eight months ago he got a new boss. (I'll call him Mr. X.)

Since Mr. X has come into our lives I feel our marriage is falling apart. He is a selfish, rather sadistic bachelor and I disliked him from the moment we met. Mr. X has invited my husband to accompany him on out-of-town trips, fixed him up with "dates," and I find myself alone at least three evenings a week because my husband has to "work late." Last weekend our children went to the circus with neighbors because their dad was "summoned" to play golf and spend the day with Mr. X at his club.

I am not a clinging vine or a nagging wife. I am just a normal woman who feels as if something is going haywire in her marriage. My husband insists I am narrow-minded and if I want him to get ahead, I have to put up with some "inconvenience," as he puts it. What do you say?—Outside Looking In

Dear Out: I certainly hope your husband gets ahead. He can use one—with some brains in it.. Or better yet, he needs some starch in his spine, so he can say no thanks to Mr. X's invitations unless he actually enjoys his new-found swinging disguised as "work." If the latter is true, I suggest you get a counsellor into the act—or go alone if your husband refuses. You are bound to learn something.

Dear Ann Landers: A few months ago I was visiting relatives in Canada. My uncle drove me to the train station. When I told him his voice sounded very raspy, he said, "I should get out of this night air." A few minutes later he confided that he had cancer of the throat but asked that I not tell anyone.

Two months later I received a phone call from my aunt informing me that my dear uncle had shot himself to death. He left no note of explanation and no one knew about his illness.

His business was in perfect order. He had money in the bank. All his debts were paid and his wife will benefit from a very nice insurance policy.

Had my uncle spent his money on hospitals and doctors he would have impoverished his family and suffered a great deal of physical agony. The way I see it, Uncle was a wise man. I admire his manhood and respect his sense of values. What do you say?—Proud Nephew

Dear Nephew: I say two things. First: Your story sounds a little fishy.

It's a rare insurance policy that pays off on suicide. Second: Cancer of the throat is not always fatal. When discovered early the patient has a chance of surviving—as many former throat cancer victims will testify. So, perhaps, Uncle wasn't as wise as you think.

Dear Ann Landers: My 82-year-old grandmother is visiting and we enjoy her immensely.

I've believed since childhood that Granny knows best. Her folk medicine seems to work better than the most expensive prescriptions. But when our five-year-old burned her hand on a hot pan last night Granny quickly smeared butter on it and then sprinkled on a little salt. I read somewhere that the best way to treat a burn is to put ice on it. Who is right?—Fran

Dear Fran: You are. Ice should be applied to burns immediately. Butter is the sure way to raise a blister.

'Culpable Ommission' By Doctors

Dr Bette Stephenson, a Toronto area family physician was addressing an international meeting on prescription drugs and the patient's health

"Viewing the North American scene one would be tempted to postulate that many physicians, mesmerized by the efficiency, specificity, and effectiveness of scientific therapeutic pharmacology, have all but ignored the important therapeutic benefits of salubrious climate, proper diet and appropriate hygiene and exercise," she said..

In addition to what she termed "this culpable omission", many physicians have actually buttressed reliance on drugs by substituting chemicals for "necessary, albeit precious time for communication" with their patients, said Dr. Stephenson.

-excerpt from Alcoholism Research Foundation Journal.

What she means (from where I sit) is, we don't pay enough attention to rules of health, and when illness strikes we try to catch up with our ignorance or sheer neglect by asking our doctor for medicine.

And he tends to oblige us without, even then, teaching us a little about how to keep healthy. Yet, how much can you blame him, considering the crowded nature of his waiting rooms?

Melissa Brown has been wearing contact lenses for 2 years

Contact Lenses for Baby

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Henry P. Brent of the Hospital for Sick Children says soft contact lenses for babies have advantages but there is one problem—the lenses sometimes get lost.

"We wonder if they've eaten them," Dr. Brent said in an interview.

If that is the problem, the only damage would be to the parents' pocketbook. The doctor said soft contact lenses do not harm babies.

Dr. Brent supervises a contact lens clinic held weekly at the hospital. Many children who attend the clinic have had cataracts removed while others have had different vision strengths in each eye.

Dr. Brent said infants as young as six months can be fitted with soft contact lenses and the soft lenses accustom children to wearing a lens.

"If they need a hard lens later for better vision they accept it more readily," the doctor said. Most children can handle lenses by the time they are five or six years old.

Melissa Brown, 3, has been wearing contact lenses for almost two years. She had a cataract removed at the hospital before she was two years old.

"To be effective, contact lenses must be fitted early," Dr. Brent said.

Another patient, Janine Willie, 4, of Toronto had a cataract removed in British Columbia when she was six months old.

As far as her doctors know, she is the only living person born with a cataract in one eye who has developed full vision in that eye.

Elsie Sips at Murray's

Now you're going to ask yourself just what on earth are you going to read about Murray Atkinson's Food Market on Front Street with a heading like that. Who's Elsie? Is this another Murray Atkinson promotion special such as the Crazy Horse at his sidewalk sale last summer? And just what is Elsie going to sip anyway? Well, not to keep you in suspense any longer, Elsie is not a "who" at all, but an "it". Elsie Sips are flavored liquid kids treats which you freeze. And they are on special — 12 for 39 cents, regularly 69 cents. Now if that isn't something special what is? See Murray and take Elsie home with you.

Sale at Jean Smith's

Jean Smith is having a sale at her West Wind Boutique in Actinolite on Hwy. 7. And the fashion focus of this sale are Jean's winter coats — which you know are of exceptional quality just because they're Jean's. Jean needs space for her exciting cruisewear collection and with a little effort on your part i.e. — getting yourself up to Jean's — you can benefit from the demands of her space situation. Also you know you'll have an exceptional new coat in style, quality, and price.

Drift In to the Drift-Inn

You can drift in to the Drift-Inn on Hwy. 33 near Consecon if you really want to, and have a very memorable dining experience in the Squire Room. Or you can play it the safe way and call for reservations at 392-2143. Mrs. Pat Harris will be glad to be your hostess, whatever the circumstance, and you'll be glad you made the effort. There is no other place locally which offers this menu selection at such reasonable prices. So please both your palate and your purse by dining at the Drift-Inn.

Remember Booth's

Today we are saying goodbye to some of the members of this column and Booth's on the Market Square is one of these advertisers. I'd like to take this opportunity to thank the Booth family — all four of them — for the co-operation in the production of the column and I'd also like to remind you of a few of the unique merchandising extras you get when you buy furniture and appliances from Booths: warehouse volume and price advantages; 60 day interest-free buying plan; free delivery within a 50 mile radius, and that big extra — dealing with a family business committed to its community.

Personalized Service

When I first started writing about Richard Ellis Printing, 10 Fahey St. six months ago, I talked about personalized service, something I personally have come to know and believe in with my own association with this full-service printing company. Richard Ellis is a name that has stood for many good things in this area for many years. And the Reid family are carrying on that tradition in minor sports and printing services. We say goodbye to Richard Ellis Printing today too. But not to what it stands for.

It's All There

We are also saying goodbye to W. Frank Real Estate too today. And I would like to remind you of the many resources of this total real estate service company. First of all, W. Frank is a southern Ontario company with offices from Oshawa down to Cornwall. If this is your area of interest, it's certainly theirs too. The extensive membership of W. Frank Ltd. in local, provincial, and national real estate associations means that you have the resources of many other contributing to the sale or purchase of your property Those are points well worth remembering. And the local office number is worth remembering too — 962-9248.

A Clarification

Sometimes words get us into trouble don't they? And my words in the column sometimes do that too. For example, last week I referred to the relationship between ServiceMaster and C. H. Woods products as that of a partnership. I didn't means partnership in the legal business sense, but partnership in a functional sense. We're very lucky really to have the resources of both these cleaning companies, who are experts in their fields, all under one roof — at the rear of 179 Pinnacle St. ServiceMaster is handling G. H. Woods products here. That's what I mean by partnership. And it's a partnership which can benefit you if you visit or call ServiceMaster at 967-1672.

Looking After It All

Trenton Optical, 54 Bridge St. East have made many new friends in the past year. And they are looking forward to making many more too. They are particularly interested in telling people in the out-lying areas around Belleville of their complete service. Just a phone call to their office, 962-9311 and an appointment with a reputable eye specialist can be arranged. You can then bring your eye prescription to Trenton Optical and make your glasses frame selection, all in the same day. Trenton Optical will then mail your glasses to you or you can pick them up whichever is more convenient. The time you save doing everything in one day, plus the prices at Trenton Optical will make the whole experience a very worthwhile one. You'll probably make a few new friends in the process.

Four Seasons After Work

If you've had one of those days or even if you haven't and you're thankful you haven't, may I suggest the Four Seasons retreat as a sure-fire way to heave a sigh of relief. And that's a visit to the atmosphere of the Terrace Bar at the Four Seasons and some easy listening piano company that sooths any furrowed brow. It's cordial here; it's polite and pleasing here; and it's 'welcome to relaxation' here. It's a Four Seasons combination of rare but very simple ingredients which have only one point in mind — you and your comfort. Try it soon, you deserve it.

Remember Ed's Service

Ed's Esso, 112 Station St. won't be with us next week either so I'm going to tell you some of the benefits of dealing with Ed's. Location is certainly one of them. Ed's is located at the corner of Station St. and Cannifton Rd. — leading to Hwy. 401, a handy spot for gas, oil checks and those pre-long drive considerations. "Esso" is another reason to stop at Ed's. All the great Esso products are available at Ed's including camping supplies. The last and most valuable reason to remember Ed's is the last part of their name — service.

Be A Sport

I don't mean to take away from that good advice we hear every day from Jack Devine and Max Jackson about being a sport. But if you're going to take that advice really seriously, you need some help getting started. And whatever your sporting interest, you can find the equipment and the clothing at Bob's Sports, 46 South Front St. And if you're not too shy in asking, I bet you can get all the free advice you want to from Bob Blaind and his sales staff.

Oil Levy Explained On U.S. TV

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau says United States objections to the export tax on crude oil are based on a misunderstanding.

No reasonable person would expect Canada to sell oil at a price below what it pays for imported oil, he said in an interview scheduled for telecast Thursday on the U.S. Public Broadcasting System.

The interview was taped here before Christmas.

Oil produced and used in Canada is fixed at $6.50 a barrel but an export tax equal to the difference between this rate and the going world rate of about $11 is charged on all shipments to the U.S.

"Surely no reasonable person would expect us to sell oil to the United States at $6.50 a barrel when we have to buy it at $10.50 or $11 a barrel," Mr. Trudeau said.

Western Canadian crude is used in all markets west of the Ottawa Valley but imported crude, primarily from Venezuela and the Middle East, supplies most markets in and east of the valley. Canada exports about 850,000 barrels daily to U.S. customers.

Probe Charge

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — An investigation has been ordered into the complaint of a Thorold, Ont., man who says he was beaten at Niagara regional police headquarters last Sunday.

Deputy police chief Jim Gayder ordered the investigation after receiving the complaint from a lawyer representing David Theal, 21, who says he was beaten by a police constable who had arrested him for public drunkeness about 4:45 a.m. Sunday.

Not Careless

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Charges of careless hunting were dismissed Wednesday against a Waterloo man who shot at a rabbit but killed his hunting companion last Oct. 19.

George Walker, 27 said he thought his partner, James Siminoski, 20, was hunting on a hill above him, as they had arranged.

Judge Gordon McConnell agreed with defence lawyer James Neeb's contention that Walker had not been careless under the Game and Fisheries Act.

"Law does not expect perfection," said Mr. Neeb, "but only prudence."

Aid Ships

TORONTO (CP) — Jean Marchand, federal transport minister, has announced that an ice operations centre to aid winter navigation in the Great Lakes has been set up in Toronto.

Large Crop

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — Ontario's 1974 grape crop from Niagara vineyards was the second largest in history, the Ontario grape growers' marketing board said Thursday.

Mint Strike

OTTAWA (CP) — Some 600 employees of the Royal Canadian Mint in Ottawa, Hull, Que.,14 and Winnipeg walked off the job Thursday afternoon in their first legal strike.

Firm Fined

TORONTO (CP) — First Quality Italian Food Products Ltd. of Toronto was fined $5,000 Thursday for putting horsemeat instead of beef into its sausages.

The firm was also fined $1 for processing horsemeat and deceiving the public.

Inland Terminals No Help to Farmers

SASKATOON (CP) — Under current conditions, inland terminals to handle grain from the Prairie provinces will not put more money in farmers' pockets although they could in the future, A. M Runciman of Winnipeg said Thursday.

Mr. Runciman, president of United Grain Growers (UGG), said his firm has engaged consultants to study the concept be-which do not now exist and as a to try and reduce skyrocketing costs of handling grain which are paid by the producers.

He said handling costs through the firm's country elevator system increased by one-third during 1973-74 compared with 1972-73, even though the volume of grain handled dropped slightly.

"This year, with the industry facing a drop in handling of about 25 per cent, the picture is worse," he told an audience at the University of Saskatchewan's Farm and Home Week.

Mr. Runciman said the approach of the Palliser Wheat Growers Association, which is committed to building an inland terminal at Weyburn, Sask., is based on economic factors which do not now exist and as a result the group would have a "tough row to hoe."

He said inland terminals, which would grade, clean and load unit trains rather than the straight grading and loading of boxcars through the current country elevator system, originated in the United States where considerable savings were made for producers.

The savings were basically made on lower freight rates provided as a concession for the handling of unit trains—trains carrying a full load of grain.

But Canadian grain producers now have the benefit of low rates under the 78-year-old Crowsnest Pass agreement and "if railroads already are losing money on Crowsnest rates, it's doubtful they would grant a premium for unit trains though such trains might cut their losses."

Mr. Runciman said the Palliser group also bases its projected savings on farmers being paid for the protein content of their wheat, on unit quotas and special freight premiums which do not now exist.

Mr. Runciman said Otto Lang, minister responsible for the Canadian wheat board, has suggested the government would pay a transportation premium for grain delivered to an elevator that permits more efficient rail service and that the government also has suggested an "examination" of the Crowsnest rates "which has generally been interpreted as meaning he and the government intends to raise them."

"If there is a significant change, either in the form of freight rate increases or in the form of transportation premiums, the case for inland terminals is much stronger."

Civil Servants Arbitration Is Requested

TORONTO (CP) — The president of the Civil Service Association of Ontario (CSAO) challenged the provincial government Thursday to take a cost-of-living adjustment dispute with 18,000 general service employees to an arbitration board.

Charles Darrow presented the challenge in a news release after Eric Winkler, chairman of management board of cabinet, said the union was maintaining an atmosphere of confrontation with the government.

The CSAO is asking the government to negotiate a cost-of-living adjustment in the second year of a two year contract with clerks, typists, stenographers and secretaries who work for the government.

The CSAO says the average wage for the workers is $144 a week, adding that they are the lowest paid provincial government employees.

May Buy Firm

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian entrepreneur George Minden, 37, of Toronto announced Thursday he heads a group of investors interested in buying Aston Martin Lagonda Ltd., the British car maker that went into voluntary liquidation Dec. 30.

Fewer in Prisons, Tensions Decline

OTTAWA (CP) — A dramatic reduction in prison population was recorded last year and the new penitentiaries commissioner says there are indications of reduced tension.

Latest figures show the population in federal institutions dropped more than six per cent last year, a reversal from 1973 when it increased more than 10 per cent, jamming prisons and creating conditions that led to tension.

Andre Therrien, who took over as penitentiary commissioner this month, said in an interview Wednesday that recent reports appear to show a reduction in tension because of the decrease.

The figures show that as of Dec. 24, the prison population was 8,636, compared with 9,219 the same time the previous year—a reduction of 6.33 per cent.

But community corrections centres—half-way houses operated in cities by the service—showed an almost 10-per-cent population increase, reflecting the increasing number being established.

Mr. Therrien, former deputy chairman of the parole board, said overcrowding resulted from fewer paroles being granted while a high number of parolees still were being returned to prison.

There was no way to judge how the population would fluctuate in the future. As paroles increased, for example, more persons probably would be coming back to prison for parole violations.

Whatever the reason for the reduction, unquestionably it is a break for the new commissioner. Overcrowding in recent years slowed a program of prison reform, and increased tension was shown in disturbances in maximum security prisons in Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia and escapes from other institutions.

The government launched a five-year building program last year to provide more space. Mr. Therrien said the priority items of the program are replacement of older high-walled institutions such as British Columbia penitentiary.

Judge Can Make Order Without Interference

TORONTO (CP) — An official of the attorney-general's office said Thursday a judge can impose any order he wants without interference from the government.

"The judge of a court can take this action," Rick Donaldson, executive assistant to Attorney-General Robert Welch, said in an interview. "They don't have to come to us."

Mr. Donaldson was commenting on a ban on publication and broadcasting that remained in effect until noon Thursday in an Ontario Supreme Court trial of two men charged with robbery with violence.

Doctors' President Wants Lang to Quit

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Bette Stephenson, president of the Canadian Medical Association (CMA), said Thursday that federal Justice Minister Otto Lang should be removed from office for "allowing his personal bias to interfere" with his department's stand on abortion.

"In lieu of examining the law for possible revisions, the minister of justice, Otto Lang—and I regret that his actions make it impossible for me to use the title honorable—berates the medical profession and has the unprecedented audacity to usurp the privileges of the court by providing his personal interpretation of the law, with regard to the performing of abortions in Canada," she told the Empire Club of Toronto.

She said the federal government "consistently" refuses the long - promised parliamentary review and frequently-promised debate on abortion."

Parliament revised the Criminal Code in 1969 to allow abortions subject to scrutiny by hospital therapeutic abortion committees.

Dr. Stephenson said that Mr. Lang "indicates what, in his opinion, the 1969 Parliament intended and directs hospital authorities to adhere to that interpretation."

"As if that were not enough, the government of which Mr. Lang is a member, has not seen fit to provide either the public or the medical profession with so much as a ball-park definition of key terms such as the word 'health' which are enshrined in the legislation."

The president added:

"As a final straw, the minister threatens hospital therapeutic abortion committees and encourages provincial attorneys-general to do likewise, simply for doing the best job they can with Parliament's totally-inadequate legislation."

She stressed the need for family planning programs, which she said were far from adequate.

"The 43,000-plus abortions carried out in Canada in 1973 provide the most damning possible evidence of public ignorance of, and apathy to, conception control. This ignorance is fostered by inadequate and inappropriate education, whether provided by home, school, church and meagre and inequitably - distributed family planning counselling services.

"The responsibility for this unhappy situation must rest with the federal and provincial departments of health and the medical profession."

OHIP Fee Increase Of 14 Per Cent Urged

TORONTO (CP) — Speaking at the Empire Club of Toronto, Dr. Bette Stephenson, president of the Canadian Medical Association, said yesterday that medical fee schedules such as OHIP should be raised 14 per cent this year to ensure the average doctor's net income increases by 10 per cent, a figure she said still falls below increases forecast for other Canadians.

The fee schedule in Ontario increased 10 per cent in 1967 and 1969, then remained stable in 1970. A 4.5-per-cent increase in 1971 applied only to doctors in lower-earning groups, and there were no increases in 1972 and 1973.

A 7.75-per-cent raise in 1974 is scheduled to be followed by another four per cent this year, but Dr. Stephenson said the Ontario Medical Association may ask the government to raise the 1975 increase to 10-15 per cent.

Budgets Cut

UCS Divides Donations Among 14 Agencies

By SHARON AIRHART
Staff Reporter

More than $104,000 was allocated to 14 community organizations by the United Community Services board of directors Thursday night.

The funds, collected during the United Way drive, represented about 80 per cent of the drive's goal after expenses and allowance for bad debt.

Two new organizations, Quinte Easy Rollers and the Trenton Citizen's Bureau received allocations along with the YMCA, Minor Sports Association, the Association for Mentally Retarded Children, the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, the Canadian National Institute of the Blind, Red Cross, Volunteer Bureau, Civic Action Committee, Navy League, St. John's Ambulance United Community Services and the Victorian Order of Nurses.

The YMCA, which had an original allocation of $27,500 based on an expected fund drive collection of $140,000, will receive $23,750. In 1974 it received $23,520.

The Minor Sports Association will receive $8,820, its original allocation. The allocations committee of the board recommended Thursday night an increase to $9,000 based on new needs since the allocations were made but the board cut the amount to the original $8,820. Last year it received the same amount of money.

The association for retarded children will receive $8,500, up $170 from last year The original allocation was $9,500.

The arthritis society will receive $2,500, a $500 cut from the original allocation and $391 less than last year.

The CNIB received $13,500, up nearly $200 from last year but a reduction of $3,500 from its original allocation.

The Red Cross will receive $17,750, nearly $4,000 less than its original allocation and $110 more than in 1974.

The Volunteer Bureau will receive $2,500, a reduction of $1,900 from its original allocation. Last year the bureau received $2,171.

Civic Action will receive $2,650, slightly more than last year, rather than the $3,000 originally allocated.

The Navy League will receive $3,450, its original allocation. Last year it received $3,920.

St. Johns Ambulance will receive $4,750 compared with $4,602 in 1974 Its original allocation was $5,680.

The United Community Service will receive $7,150, cut from $9,000. Last year's allocation was $7,045.

The Victorian Order of Nurses will receive $7,000 compared with $6,612 last year. Its original allocation was $7,250.

Bureau Gets $500

The United Community Services board of directors overturned the decision of its own allocation committee Thursday night and awarded Trenton's Citizen's Bureau $500.

In an earlier decision, the budget and admissions committee decided to drop the Citizen's Bureau from its list of 1975 allocations because "it was the opinion of the budget committee that the Citizen's Bureau had not met the condition set by the board of having supplementary funding".

At its meeting Thursday, however, the board decided to make an allocation of $500 after a deputation from the Citizen's Bureau pleaded for temporary funding.

The original allocation was $2,100. Citizen's Bureau chairman Allen Baldwin told the board he felt the supplementary funding condition was introduced to be sure the Citizen's Bureau remained functional. He said the Bureau was continuing to function in spite of lack of funds.

Keegan Says CPR Line 'Thorn in City's Side'

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Alderman Art Keegan told the Quinte Planning Board Thursday the Canadian Pacific Railway track on Dundas Street east is a "major" roadblock preventing proper city development and called for a special meeting of the board to discuss line relocation.

The special meeting was approved by the board Thursday and will take place at its next meeting in February.

The question of relocating the CPR tracks has been on the tongues of Belleville's leaders for years, said Ald. Keegan.

As recently as last July, city council unanimously voted in favor of requesting the Quinte Planning Board to make representation to the provincial government to study track relocation, he said.

"I don't know what's been happening . . . the board seems to have been dragging its heels," said the alderman who is also a board member.

"Those tracks are a major thorn in the side of the city's development," he said.

Urgency was re-kindled in the CPR issue some weeks ago when consultants working on Quinte area official plans notified the board that the railway wants a two-mile wide corridor between Belleville and Trenton for industrial growth.

"Rather than have a corridor slicing through the Dundas Street area, the CPR line should be moved to run alongside the Canadian National line at the north end of the city," said Ald. Keegan.

"Then a CPR corridor would be compatible with the city's existing industrial corridor running adjacent to Highway 401."

"The way it stands the CPR line is cutting up the city and we can't get the proper assessment and development," said Ald Keegan.

"We could have $15 million in assessment if the railway wasn't there," he said.

"By straightening the line from Trenton to Belleville along the CN route, millions of dollars would not have to be spent on grade separations where tracks cross major roadways," he said.

Ald. Keegan said first the board and particularly the affected municipalities of Belleville, Trenton, Sidney and Thurlow Townships must discuss the advantages and disadvantages of re-routing the line. If the concensus is that the line should be moved, the Quinte Planning Board may then apply to the province to have a technical study undertaken. He said such studies are subsidized 70 percent by the federal government.

"The federal government has a fund of $250 million for track re-locations," said the alderman. "The communities that get to the government first will get the money."

"We're way behind and now we have to move damn fast," he said during an interview following the meeting.

Commenting on CPR's request for the corridor, Ald. Keegan asked, "Are we planning and working for the CPR or the people of Belleville?"

He said consideration for residential, green space and school use should preceed industrial development on that portion of Dundas Street which is the western entrance to the city, now occupied by the CPR.

No other board member commented on Ald. Keegan's proposal.

Well Done, Unc!

Hank Ford, left, president of the ANAF Duke of Edinburgh Unit for the past three years, congratulates his uncle, Bill, who succeeded him last night. W. J. Ford, variously known as Bill, Dad and Pop has been a member of the unit since 1931 and was first elected president in 1937. His 1975 term will be the tenth year in the top spot over a 37-year span for the 77-year-old Military Medal holder and veteran of two world wars.

Tax-free Gas Offered To Reserve Residents

TYENDINAGA — Residents of this Mohawk reserve are being urged to pick up as speedily as possible the needed documents which will mean cheaper gasoline on the reserve.

The Ontario revenue ministry recently informed Indian councils that residents of reserves will be exempt from the provincial tax on gasoline bought on reserves.

The gasoline tax in Ontario is 19 cents a gallon.

Indian residents will be issued with identification cards by the ministry for use when they buy gasoline on their reserves.

But application forms must be filled out to receive the cards. The forms are available at the reserve council office, which will return the completed documents to the ministry. In turn, the department will issue reserve residents with individual identity cards.

Elton Brant, reserve administrator, said Thursday all reserve residents should pick up the application forms as quickly as possible.

"The faster we can send the forms back to the ministry the quicker residents will be able to get the tax-free gas," he said.

Gas is delivered by outside suppliers to various sources on the reserve, including farms and for official works opeerations.

Tyendinaga — unlike some reserves — also has a service station already in operation, and a second on the way.

Street Value $4,200

Drug Charges Laid

A combined effort by a tracking dog, RCMP, OPP and city police Thursday night resulted in the seizure of drugs with a street value of $4,200.

A Belleville man has been charged with two counts of trafficking and one of possession.

An RCMP spokesman said a search warrant was executed on a residence on Highway 2, near Wallbridge Rd. about 8 p.m. Thursday. Taking part in the incident were two RCMP officers, one from the Belleville detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police, one from the city police force and Sabre, the OPP tracking dog.

Police said they found about nine pounds of alleged marijuana.

A further search revealed 11 one-ounce bags of alleged marijuana and three vials of alleged liquid hashish in a metal strongbox.

Total street value of the drugs is $4,200, police said. Charged with possession of marijuana for the purpose of trafficking, possession of cannabis resin for the purpose of trafficking and possession of marijuana is Richard McCoy, 24 of RR 3, Belleville.

Operating Grant Raised

Loyalist College will be one of Ontario's 22 community colleges of applied arts and technology to receive an 11-per-cent increase over its 1974-75 operating grant of about $3.5-million to compensate for the impact of inflation, the ministry of colleges and universities has announced.

The increase is for the 1975-76 school year.

It is part of a 15.4-per-cent increase in operating support for all colleges from $173 million to $200 million. Remaining funds will be distributed among the colleges according to their enrolment growth between 1973-74 and 1974-75.

Implementation of the program will be devised between the ministry and the Ontario Council of Regents, the advisory body on matters relating to colleges to minister James Auld.

Ferry Reduced

GLENORA — Effective Saturday, Jan. 11 the Glenora ferry Loyalist will operate on a half-hour winter schedule.

Ferry captain Keith Daubney says the boat will leave the Glenora shore on the hour and half hour and depart the Adolphustown shore at quarter to and quarter after the hour.

The ferry will provide half-hour service for the remainder of the winter.

College to Buy Adjacent Land

Loyalist College will purchase about 25.5 acres of land adjoining its northern boundary and running too Moira St. in view of future traffic problems, the college board of governors was told Thursday.

P. G. Harry, director of finance, explained following a meeting of the board the purchase, with an approximate $73,000 price tag, will give the college one more access onto Moira St.

Loyalist already has three accesses onto Wallbridge Rd., where there is a concern of increased traffic flow in the future due to proposed construction.

Option to purchase the land, popularly known as the Wellman property, was taken out Jan. 3 with 60 days to close the deal. It will not be utilized for immediate expansion, said Mr. Harry.

Funds for the purchase have already been budgetted for, he said.

Students Take to Road For Job Experience

Students are taking the lead in making the 1975 Education Week slogan — Learning, a Co-operative Community Enterprise — a reality.

To get public involvement in Education Week that starts April 20, they are setting up a booth at Quinte Mall Feb. 27 and 28 and March 1.

Purpose of the booth is to inform the public of Education Week and the provincial opening of the week to be held in Belleville, and to get information from the public about what talents its members can offer students and schools. Students manning the booth will also ask people what activities they would like to attend or participate in during Education Week.

At a meeting of the Student Education Week at Quinte Secondary School Thursday, Centre Hastings students decided to take their own booth, in the form of a mobile van, to villages in the county. It will serve the same function as the Quinte Mall booth and will canvass public opinion on Saturdays in late February and early March.

High among the students' priorities for Education Week events is an opportunity to get out into their communities and watch people at work. They are compiling a list of tradesmen, businessmen and industrialists who would be willing to be hosts to students for a few hours or a day. They also are seeking artists and craftsmen who would fill the same function. The names of people volunteering to help with this program will be taken by students at the Mall booth.

Dudley Hilliers, vice-principal at Centennial Secondary School is consultant to the student committee and he maybe be contacted by anyone with a suggestion for, or a contribution to make to Education Week.

Winning Entry

Sir Mackenzie Bowell Senior School didn't have its own crest so a new one was sought. With that in mind who better to design one than the students of the school. Of the 185 entries the winner was Philip Caswell, 13, shown here with his crest. Runners-up were Cathy Wright and Tracey Smith.

Husband Charged After Fatal Madoc Shooting

MADOC — A young Madoc woman, Mrs. Ruth Eleanor Rodgers, 19, was fatally shot Thursday night at her home at 40 Nelson St. The incident occurred at about 7:30 p.m.

In custody and charged with murder is her husband, Andrew James Edward Rodgers, 21. He will remain in the Quinte Region Detention Centre at Napanee until Tuesday, when he will appear for preliminary hearing in provincial court in Madoc.

Investigating OPP officer Constable Ron Lawrenson, said Mrs. Rodgers, mother of two-year-old Christopher, had been shot in the back of the head with a .22 rifle. She was rushed to Belleville General Hospital and then to Kingston General Hospital where she died at 3:25 Friday morning.

Donelan Stays

John Donelan, the Napanee representative to the Loyalist College Board of Governors who resigned in December after seven years' service, will stay on the board a little while longer. Mr. Donelan has agreed to remain until a replacement is found for his position. A member of the original joint board between Loyalist and Sir Sanford Fleming in Peterborough, he is a former chairman for two years and vice-chairman for three years.

White Guest Speaker

Dr. John Wesley White, prominent Canadian educator and evangelist, will speak Monday at 8 p.m. in St. Margaret's Anglican Church here. An associate evangelist with the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association, Dr. White appears weekly on the television program, Agape, shown on Global Television, with Canadian soloist—recording artist George Beverly Shea.

Soutter Moves

Former Intelligencer managing editor, Donald M. Soutter has been succeeded as executive assistant to Ontario health Minister Frank Martin by the minister's personal physician; Dr. Fannell Archdekin. Mr. Soutter is now communications consultant to S W. Martin, deputy health minister.

Film Offered

The film, A Thief in the Night, depicting what could happen when Jesus Christ returns, will be shown Sunday at 7 p.m. in Parkdale Baptist Church. The story includes a young man confronted by a deadly Asian cobra, a young girl's daring escape from jail, and a take-over by the Imperium, that regards as enemies of the system all who are not properly identified.

Students Take Lead

Secondary school students in Hastings County are living up to the theme of this year's Education Week — Learning, a Co-operative Community Enterprise. Here they meet with Dudley Hillier, vice-principal of Centennial Secondary School and consultant to student committees on the week that starts April 20. The students will set up a booth at Quinte Mall Feb. 27, 28 and March 1 to get the public involved in Education Week, for which Hastings is the keystone county this year.

Firms Visit Loyalist for Employees

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

On-campus employment interviews, although on a recent decline, at Ontario's community colleges, are still providing a one-to-one convenience for both employers and graduating students that written applications do not have.

Several large corporations will again visit Loyalist College this semester to interview graduating students and consider them for employment in their related fields.

Charley Benson of the college's student services division explained Thursday, "the basic purpose is to offer the employers facilities to interview prospective graduates and bring the employers and students together."

Not all students interviewed receive jobs with the employers they meet, noted Mr. Benson. The companies travel to a number of colleges and later rate all students interviewed before choosing, he said.

He pointed out the advantages to this system. "It saves the students money in going to apply, and going for interviews. It allows employers who hire through their head offices the opportunity to see the facilities in the colleges ... and interview the heads of the various programs," he elaborated.

Mr. Benson said interviews with the faculty give employers "a different view of the student. Often a good student will choke in an interview ... get really uptight but the employer will find the student is really a sociable person."

However, "the on-campus thing has been decreasing," said Mr. Benson. He said this is due to an increase in the number of graduates in the job market in the last few years.

"Employers have had to go out and look for workers for the last while," he said "But the employers now say, they're coming to us. We don't need to go on-campus."

How are employers invited to Loyalist? "I write to probably 200 and some employers in the fall," outlined Mr. Benson. Included are a list of courses, the number of graduates available, and the college calendar.

About 12 to 15 industries visit Loyalist each year, he said.

Canada Packers was on-campus in November. Companies to visit during January include Simpsons-Sears, Metropolitan Life Insurance, Old Fort Henry, Burroughs Business Machines, Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, and Dupont Ltd.

Pots Three in Bruin Victory

Esposito in Tie with Beliveau

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Philadelphia Flyers coach Fred Shero says he not only doesn't hear footsteps behind him, he's not even listening.

The Flyers' lost 3-1 to New York Islanders on Thursday night, failing to increase their seven-point first-place margin over New York Rangers in the National Hockey League Patrick Division.

Someone asked Shero if he wasn't just a little concerned about the Rangers, who have won seven straight and have been biting into a Philadelphia lead that once reached 15 points over New York.

"I only worry about my team," snapped Shero. "I don't get paid to worry about New York."

Meanwhile, Boston Bruins centre Phil Esposito scored three goals to move into a tie with retired Jean Beliveau in fifth spot on the NHL all-time whose three goals led the Bruins in a 5-1 win over Vancouver Canucks, now has a career total of 507.

In Thursday's other NHL game, Los Angeles Kings beat Buffalo Sabres 5 2.

Shero, unworried about the Rangers, also refuses to worry about his team's recent inability to put the puck in the net.

"You can't be unhappy because the puck is not going in," Shero began. "It will go in eventually. I'd be unhappy if we didn't get any chances."

The Flyers had their chances—31 shots on goal against Islanders' goalie Billy Smith. They had four power-play opportunities, but Smith played them tough in the net. He gave up only a late third-period goal by Ross Lonsberry, a shove-in of a loose puck in front of the net.

Shero was of the opinion that both teams played well. "We worked as hard as we could, but they wouldn't go in," said the Flyers' coach, shrugging his shoulders.

The Islanders victory was their first on Flyers' ice since the Islanders joined the league in 1972.

It was only the second victory for New York in 14 games with Philadelphia over 2½ seasons.

Bob Nytrom, Clark Gillies and Jude Drouin scored the New York goals.

Esposito, who started the current season in seventh place on the league's all-time goal scoring list, could be third by the end of the season at the rate he's going.

Earlier in the season, Esposito passed Norm Ullman of Toronto Maple Leafs, who now has 486 goals. Esposito, now with 41 goals in the first 40 games of his 12th NHL season, could easily overtake Frank Mahovlich's mark of 533 and perhaps even Maurice (Rocket) Richard's 544.

Mahovlich now is in the World Hockey Association while Richard is retired.

Next on the list would be Bobby Hull's mark of 604 and, finally, the all-time leader, Gordie Howe's 786. Hull and Howe are also in the WHA.

Esposito and Greg Sheppard scored to give the Bruins a 2-1 first-period lead and Esposito completed his three-goal performance in the second period.

The win pulled the Bruins to within three points of the leading Sabres in the Adams Division.

At Buffalo, goalie Rogatien Vachon again was the outstanding figure in a Los Angeles victory which came despite the Sabres' 35-18 advantage in shots.

The Kings went ahead 3-2 on Butch Goring's goal late in the second period and goals by Bob Berry and Mike Murphy added to the lead in the third period.

Spitfires Hammer Biltmores

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Windsor Spitfires scored four goals within five minutes late in the second period to defeat Guelph Biltmores 12-5 in the only Southern Ontario Junior Hockey League game, played Thursday.

Windsor held a 4-2 lead early in the second period but led 8-3 entering the third period.

John Tavella had three goals for Spitfires and Bob Thompson scored two. Ian Campbell, Mark Smith, John Reilly, Chuck Bosnyak, Randy Kozar, Bill McCreary and Mark Miller had one each.

Don Forbes, Tim Holder, Bob Gregory, Dave Kennedy and Mitch Giroux replied for Guelph.

Windsor outshot Guelph 40-17.

Cornwall Wins

CORNWALL (CP) — Cornwall Royals scored three goals in each of the first two periods Thursday night and went on to 6-4 in a Quebec Major Junior Hockey League game.

Denis Rochon, Pierre Brassard, Ron Davison, Dan Geofkion, Marc Brazeau and Yvon Disotell scored for the Royals, who led 3-1 after the first period and 6-2 after two.

Four Flyers on Select Squad

MONTREAL (CP) — Seven of the nine teams in the Clarence Campbell Conference are represented among the first 12 players chosen for that conference's participation in the National Hockey League's 28th annual all-star game at Montreal, Jan. 21.

BILL BARBER

Four players of the first-place Philadelphia Flyers of the Lester Patrick Division were selected in the voting among members of the Professional Hockey Writers' Association in the nine conference cities.

The four players picked from the defending Stanley Cup champion Flyers were goaltender Bernie Parent, defenceman Jim Watson, centre Bobby Clarke and left winger Bill Barber.

BERNIE PARENT

Goaltender Gary Smith of Vancouver Canucks, defenceman Denis Potvin of New York Islanders, centre Garry Unger of St. Louis Blues, and right winger Bill Goldsworthy of Minnesota North Stars represent the other four teams.

BOBBY CLARKE

Fred Shero of the Flyers will coach the Campbell Conference team inthe game against Bep Guidolin's Prince of Wales Conference squad.

Shero's Flyers won the West Division championship last season before defeating Guidolin's Boston Bruins for the Stanley Cup. Guidolin now coaches Kansas City Scouts. Shero will pick an additional eight players to round out his 20-man team, but likely will have to select replacements for White and Goldsworthy, both injured.

Voting, tabulated on the basis of five points for a first-place choice, three for a second and one for a third, produced the following results—totals in brackets:

The closest to a unanimous choice was Clarke, who polled 133 of a possible 135 points.

The voting results are for participation in the all-star game only and have no bearing on the official NHL all-star teams chosen by the PHWA from the league as a whole at the end of the season.

Troubled Stags Shade Jets 5-4

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A league takeover of Michigan Stags appears imminent, but the World Hockey Association better not move them out of town if it wants them to win.

Away from Cobo Arena, the financially-troubled team hardly knows the meaning of victory.

At home, Michigan rarely loses, although that hasn't seemed to help draw decent-sized crowds.

Even with Bobby Hull in town, only 3,125 fans turned out Thursday night, but they were treated to an exciting game, which the Stags won 5-4 on Steve West's goal at 4:40 in overtime.

It was the fourth overtime in Michigan's last six home games. The Stags, who have a 1-17-1 road record, now are 12-8-2 at home. They have won 10 and tied two of their last 15 home games.

The latest triumph came about four hours after a Stags news conference—probably to announce the takeover—fell through.

A team spokesman said a "snag" developed and added later the league was miffed because the news conference was through th WHA office.

In other games Thursday, Edmonton Oilers beat Minnesota Fighting Saints 3-2 and New England Whalers tied 1-1 with Phoenix Roadrunners.

The league paid Stags salaries Tuesday and it has been reported the WHA has made arrangements for renting Cobo Arena, an obligation the franchise hasn't been able to meet.

A Stags spokesman said another press conference would be held at 11 a.m. today. He said league lawyer told him that an announcement that the Stags were being taken over by the league would be made at that time.

"That obviously didn't affect us tonight," Stags coach Johnny Wilson said of the off-the-ice problems.

It surely didn't affect West, Tom Serviss, Bill Evo or goalie Paul Hoganson. All were superb.

Serviss scoredtwo goals, his second one tying the score 4-4 at 6:40 of the third period to force the overtime. He nearly won it on a breakaway with the Stags shorthanded, but Jets' goalie Joe Daley made a diving save with 13 seconds left in regulation time.

But as good as that save was, it wasn't nearly as spectacular as the one Hoganson made on Hull in the final period. Hull burst across the Stags blue line and blasted one of his famed slap shots. Hoganson, his limbs going in four directions, made a sprawling glove save.

"I haven't seen a save like that since the 1954 Stanley Cup playoff (when Detroit played) against Montreal," Wilson said. "That's what kept us in the game."

Hull managed to fire the puck past Hoganson in the first period. It was Hull's 36th goal. He has at least one point in the last 12 games and leads the league with 64 points.

Evo scored once for Michigan in the second period and had three assists, including one on West's winner.

At Edmonton, goals by Rusty Patenaude and rookie Mike Rogers in the final 97 seconds of the game gave the Oilers the win over Minnesota.

Rogers scored the winner with only 12 seconds remaining, pushing a loose puck behind Minnesota goalie John Garrett.

Bruce MacGregor got the other Edmonton goal while John Arbour and Ted Hampson scored for the Saints.

Breach of Contract Charged by Player

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. CP) — Bob Channell, 25-year-old hockey player, says he is suing Binghamton Dusters of the North American Hockey League for $60,000 for alleged breach of contract.

Channell, a former St Catharines and London junior A player now with Galt Terriers of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League, says he was dropped by the New York State team this season although he had a three-year no-cut, no-trade contract paying $300 a week.

As team-captain he scored 18 goals and had 47 assists in 52 games before suffering a broken cheekbone last January. He missed three games but says he cam back at insistence of management although still on a liquid diet.

Channell says he had a good training camp this season and scored three goals and five assists in the first three games before being released. The five-foot-8½, 170-pound player says he was told he was too small.

He says all but six of last year's players failed to make the club this year after owner Jim Matthews signed an affiliation agreement with Boston Bruins under which the National Hockey League club pays all but $200 of the weekly salary for players assigned to Binghampton.

Soccer — No Off Season

Indoor soccer is the newest addition to the Quinte area's sports menu.

Monday, a four-team league gets things started with two games at Loyalist College

Organizers have been trying to get the sport under way for about two months now. The main problem was the lack of a place to play.

Rob Stinson, athletics director at Loyalist, came to the rescue, says John O'Neill, one of the energetic soccer enthusiasts behind the league.

The Gym at Loyalist is a very busy place, seven days a week,but Stinson managed to make a 9-11 p.m. time slot available on Mondays and that was all the go-ahead O'Neill and company required

Registrations for the four-team grouping will be limited to 60 and will be handled on a first come, first served basis.

Golden Mile Restaurant on North Front St. will be a very popular meeting place Saturday, when registrations will be taken, for a fee of $3 each, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

John O'Neill asked for this. But he may be sorry he suggested persons interested in playing in the league give him a call at 962-7841. Wouldn't mind wagering you'll wish you had an answering service, John Indoor soccer is big in many centres. It appeals to pro and amateur players alike and is a fast, entertaining sport to watch.

There is plenty of interest in the city. If additional playing facilities become available, it is planned to give the teams more than their one-a-week games and perhaps add new teams to the league.

The grouping will operate from January to April and then its on to the area outdoor pitches for another regular soccer season.

But before the 1975 program can operate, there are many important matters to be decid-

With that in mind, two leagues have meetings coming up in the near future as they plan for Operation '75.

The Premier Soccer League gets things going first with a meeting Sunday at the Belleville Recreation Centre on Pinnacle St. Applications for entry in the league will be taken at this meeting, beginning at 11 a.m.

And the Bay of Quinte Soccer Association (BQSA) is anxious to hear from persons willing to serve as executive members.

If you are so inclined, you have a while to think things over before making a commitment. Give Dudley Hillier a call at 962-9441.

The BQSAs annual general meeting and election of officers is scheduled for Wednesday, January 22 at Trenton Community Gardens at 7:30 p.m.

At least three of the men who served on the executive in 1974 have decided not to return for another season.

There are openings for persons who are willing to help out at the executive level. Now's your chance to lend a hand.

Before the date of the meeting speeds around, the BQSA will kick off a series of referee clinics at Belleville Collegiate Institute with Norris Webster in charge.

Webster, a Grade One Football Association referee who recently arrived in this area from England, will hold forth at five sessions, beginning Saturday at 2 p.m. The clinics will continue each Saturday at BCI until February 8.

With all this activity, can spring be far behind?

SLICES — Included in the program distributed at the Brighton Minor Hockey Association's annual Bantam Tournament staged January 4, was a message from the event's convener, Gerry Poupart.

Said Gerry: "Whether the boys win or lose is really incidental. I know that they will be doing their best and because of this they deserve our support and applause. Above all, they deserve and are entitled to an example of good sportsmanship from the adult spectators."

Well said, sir.

Doug Bastedo is the new president of the Lower Trent Valley Fish and Game Protective Association which has a general meeting scheduled for January 13 at 8 p.m.

Other members of the association's executive are vice-presidents Bev Holdaway and Elmer Rogers; treasurer, Sherman Thompson; secretary, Allan Sheppard and sergeant at arms, Gord McLean.

Evelyn Bryant, publicity convener for the Belleville Minor Hockey Association passes along the information that senior citizens may pick up passes for Ontario Minor Hockey Association games in the city by presenting their cards for identification purposes, at Memorial Arena.

And, thanks to Mrs. Bryant, we learn King Penguins are leading the way in the minor peewee section of the BMHA with nine wins and a tie in 10 starts for 19 points. Canadian Legion is next with 15; Y's Men's Club has 14; Dairy Queen, Bellewood Lumber and Signs Unlimited each has nine points; Police Association, eight; Bob's Body Shop, seven; Cole's Jewellers, six and Reid's Plumbing four.

Although no point totals are available, the bantam major section has Belle Cleaners leading the list with J. F. Nelles Real Estate, Belleville Toyota, Avis Rent-a-car, Sidney Inn and Allied Chemicals following in that order.

Kingston Two Up

Kingston (Special) — Connecting for a pair of goals in the final 37 seconds of regulation time, Kingston broke up a tight battle with Belleville Lions Major Midgets here, Thursday, to win 6-3 and take a 2-0 lead in the best of five Ontario Minor Hockey Association Triple A playoff series.

Third game in the set is scheduled for Cook Brothers Arena here, January 21.

Bob Moses sparked the winners' attack with a pair of goals.

Belleville marksmen were Clint Riendeau, Mary Lowry and Pat McGinn.

This weekend, the Belleville team is in Hull, Quebec for the annual Midget Tournament. Lions have single games scheduled Saturday and Sunday.

Expert and Novice Classes in Club Rally

Quinte Auto Sport Club's first rally of 1975 has been organized by club members Virginia Marshall and Susan Sim. And they've got some surprises for entrants.

The rally is being run in two sections with one for experienced entries and the other geared to appeal to the novice.

Billed as A Mid Winter's Ride, the rally takes place Sunday with the starting point at Belleville Toyota, North Front St.

Registrations will be taken from 12.15 to 12.45 p.m. First car away at 1 p.m., heading for the finishing point at the Wayfare Restaurant, Highways 37 and 401.

Entry fee is $3 per car.

Shell Juvenile winger Ken Just (right) confronts defenceman Roger Chapman at the blue line in Thursday morning's practice session at Dick Ellis Rink. In the background winger Ross Lawrenson wards off defenceman Wayne Clapp. The four will be putting their practice hours to work on Sunday when the Shells and seven other teams compete for the Grand Championship of the Fourth Annual Belleville Yardmen Juvenile Hockey Tournament.

Eight Teams in Juvenile Tourney

Belleville Aims for the Championship

Belleville Shell Juveniles will be hoping to keep the Yardmen Trophy in the city when they face off against seven other teams for top honors in the Fourth Annual Hockey Tournament on Sunday.

The locals wil have their hands full however, as Trenton, Lindsay, Kingston, Peterborough, Brooklin—Whitby, Oshawa and Brampton will all be playing to have their names engraved on the four-foot-high Yardmen award. Kingston is the defending Grand Champion and Peterborough is the defending Consolation Champion.

Shell juvenile manager, Maurice Switzer, is confident in appraising his club's chances.

"We'll be icing the strongest club of the season for this tournament," he said. 'I think we can beat any team in our league with our present club and those teams should be the ones to beat in this tournament"

Oshawa, Kingston and Peterborough are the teams playing in the same Eastern Ontario Minor Hockey grouping as Belleville. Oshawa finished first in the standings with only one loss and that was at the hands of the local squad.

The locals had a rough season playing with an irregular lineup all the way through and Shells had only one goalie.

"Jeff Gorman has come back to play goal for us so we think two netminders are really going to help," said Switzer, "especially in a tournament."

Along with the return of Gorman, the Shells also recently added forward - defenceman Wayne Clapp and centre Mike Crawford, both of whom were playing Junior C in Frankford.

This is the first time this season the locals will have a full roster for a game — 17 players and two goalies. It is also the first time they will be able to ice two complete lines which have played together for any length of time.

Their first line, Martin Thistel, Rick Growden and Ross MacLeod, has been their highest scoring unit this year. Thistel is the club's leading point getter with 14 goals and 17 assists.

Gary Thompson, centres John Murphy and Joe Muldoon form the club's second line. The threesome hasn't played together very long, but they are the hottest trio in recent games.

The third line is a question mark.

"We have six players from which to choose the third line," said Switzer. "It's the first time we've had that many."

Back on the blueline the locals have Roger Chapman and Wayne Clapp. Both those players have seen junior hockey duty this year, Chapman with Belleville Bobcats and Clapp with Frankford. Another steady set of blueline performers are Steve Hedge and Larry Woodley.

The Shells open the tournament at 9:30 Sunday morning with a game against Birt's Handy Stand, of Trenton. Birt's is having another one of its spectacular seasons. The team went undefeated in their first 17 exhibition and regular season contests.

"This could very well be the best game of the tournament," said Switzer.

Because of a city bylaw, there is no charge at the gate until 1:30 p.m., but a collection will be taken about 1:25 p.m. Admission rates are $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

While the Yardmen are putting up the Grand Championship trophy and its keeper, Lloyd Wilson, at Budget Rent-a-Car, is supplying the Consolation trophy.

Shells Top Stirling In Exhibition Match

STIRLING — Ross MacLeod's three goals paced Belleville's Shell Juveniles to a 6-4 exhibition hockey win over Stirling Thursday night.

Rick Growden, Mark Foster, and Gary Thompson added singles for the winners, who went into the third peeriod in a 3-3 tie.

MacLeod's third goal at 18.15 on a play set up by Wayne Clapp and Roger Chapman, proved to be the winner for the Shells, with Thompson getting the insurance goal with only 15 seconds remaining to play.

Rob DeJong got two goals for Stirling, with singles coming from Wally Blakeley and Rob Arbuckle

The Shells open Sunday's Belleville Yardmen Juvenile Tournament with a 9:30 a.m.

Oshawa Here Tonight

Cats Want 3rd To Themselves

When Coach Bob Boyle leads his Belleville Bobcats against Oshawa Legionnaires in Metro Junior B Hockey League action tonight at Memorial Arena, the club will be looking to regain undisputed possession of third place in the eastern division standings. Oshawa is a distant last in the same grouping.

Kingston Voyageurs gained a share of third with Bobcats with a 7-7 home ice tie Friday when they hooked up with second place Pickering Panthers.

Belleville and Kingston are all even at the 28-point level, eight back of second place Pickering. First place Markham has 40 points.

Bobcats, unbeaten in nine of their last 12 league starts, have been putting it all together in recent outings and should give the Oshawa skaters all they can handle in tonight's 9 p.m. game at Memorial.

Sunday, Bobcats are in Peterborough for a 1:30 p.m. game at Memorial Centre.

Benches Clear In QHL Brawl

A bench-clearing brawl marred the action in the Quinte Hockey League at Memorial Arena, Thursday. Involved in the fracas were members of Belvedere Hotel and Stinson Construction teams.

The brawling took place as regulation time was running out in a 3-3 draw.

And in the, other league game, Cornerstone Builders have lodged a portest with league officials following the team's 2-1 loss to Reid's Dairy.

The protest is based on the Cornerstone club's contention that the third period was played straight time instead of stop time. Apparently league rules call for stop time in the third period.

In the Belvedere-Stinson confrontation, Ted Waite picked up two goals for the Hotelmen with one for J. Morris. Rick Rosebush, Dave Horwood and Andy Prudden took care of the Stinson goals.

Ralph Plane and A. Ray each scored once in Reid's squeaker over Cornerstone. Lone marksman for the losers was Terry Pope.

Namath Wants $1 Million

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The price for keeping Joe Namath in football is $1 million for two years—and the next move is up to Phil Iselin, president of New York Jets.

"We have been waiting for Iselin to talk to us, and we haven't heard a word," Jimmy Walsh, Namath's lawyer and business partner, said Thursday "This seeming lack of interest is very strange."

In New York, Iselin said:

"I have advised Mr. Walsh that I am flying to New Orleans Friday and will talk to him about the Joe Namath contract."

Iselin declined to confirm the $1 million figure, which came from a source other than Namath and Walsh.

"Namath is the hottest property in the entertainment world at the moment," Walsh, a former schoolmate of Namath at the University of Alabama, said. "He is another Clark Gable, with tremendous popular appeal."

It was Namath who asked Walsh to advise the Jets that they should draft a quarterback in the National Football League's big player lottery later this month

Broadway Joe, with 10 years of pro football behind him but at 31 apparently with at least two or three good years ahead, insists he is keeping all his options open. These include, besides a few fading football years, a movie and television career.

Johnny Miller

All Systems 'Go' Again This Year

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Johnny Miller was asked to assess his play in the first round of the first tournament on the professional golf tour and paused a moment to consider.

"Well," said the 1974 Player of the Year, "my game is just where it was when I left off last season.

"I'm driving good. I'm hitting my irons good. I'm putting good. Every thing is good."

The combination produced a four-under-par 67—despite a lapse that resulted in a double bogey—and gave Miller a share of the lead in the first round of the $150,000 Phoenix Open.

"I just made one mistake and it cost me," said Miller, who said he should have used a wedge instead of an eight iron to gouge a second shot out of an old divot late in the round.

The lapse led to the double bogey that put him in a tie with Leonard Thompson and John Mahaffey after 18 holes of this season-opening event that Miller won last year.

The group at 68, three under par on the 6,728-yard Phoenix Country Club course, included former Masters champion Tommy Aaron, veteran Bob Rosburg, J.C. Snead, Mike Mitchell and Roy Pace.

Ben Kern of London, Ont., was three strokes off the pace with 36-34—70. Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg shot a 74 and George Knudson of Toronto had a 75.

McKenzie Denies Beman's Remarks

LONDON (AP) — British golf officials denied Thursday that the British Open cuts seriously into the American pro circuit.

"American stars need only be away from the United States for one week to come over and compete," said Keith McKenzie, secretary of the Royal and Ancient Club which runs the British tournament.

He was commenting on remarks by Deane Beman, director of the U.S. Professional Golfers' Association, that the American tour is disrupted by Americans playing in the British Open.

Beman said American players often take a week off before the British Open and another week off after it, and hinted they might be banned rom the British event to protect the U.S. circuit.

McKenzie said he would want to study the text of Beman's remarks before commenting fully.

More than 50 Americans llayed in the British Open at Lytham St. Anne's last year. The Royal and Ancient expects a similar North American entry for the 1975 Open at Carnoustie, Scotland in July.

Ground Game Will Be the Key

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A consistent ground game ranks as one of the keys to success in Sunday's National Football League Super Bowl match between Minnesota Vikings and Pittsburgh Steelers.

"You have to establish a ground game first and go from there," says Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw, who hopes Franco Harris and Rocky Bleier will keep the Steelers going steadily enough so that he can throw because he wants to, not because he has to.

Coach Bud Grant, bringing his Vikings into their third Super Bowl and their second in a row, agrees with Bradshaw assessment. "You can't live by the pass," he said. "You've got to be able to run the ball.

Overshadowed by Harris, who gained 1,006 yards during the regular season, Minnesotas Chuck Foreman is the mainstay of both the rushing and passing attack. The second-year pro gained 777 yards on the ground and, added another 586 yards as the Vikings' leading receiver with 53 catches. He also led the NFL in scoring among non-kickers with 90 points on 15 touchdowns.

"I feel that, for us to win, I have to touch the ball 20 times," said Foreman, who carried only seven times for 18 yards a year ago in the 24-7 Super Bowl loss to Miami. "We have to run the ball and we have to gain 150 yards on the ground. If we do, we'll win."

Foreman was offensive rookie of the year last season and it was a thrill to make it to the championship then. But he pointed out: "Im more excited this time than I was a year ago. Last year, I didn't really know what it was all about...I didn't have the understanding of what it means to be the world champions. I didn't appreciate the importance of the game.

"It's an honor to be here,' Foreman added, "But its more of an honor to win.

The importance of the game is not lost on Harris, either.'

"Its definitely a different feeling," he said. "This is the one we want. All the others were played to get here. Now we've got to go all the way."

For either team to do that, it comes down to which defensive line will do its job the best.

For Minnesota, it means Carl Eller, Alan Page, Jim Marshall and Doug Sutherland closing Harris' rushing lanes, forcing Bradshaw to go to the air, then storming in on him.

For Pittsburgh, it's Mean Joe Greene, L.C. Greenwood, Ernie Holmes and Dwight White (or Steve Furness if White isnt fully recovered from a viral infection) containing the wily, dangerous Fran Tarkenton, a 14-year veteran who has passed for at least 2,000 yards in all but one of those years, and has the league's highest season averages in passes, completions, yardage and touchdown passes.

"I think the experience helps," said Tarkenton. "I think being able to call on 14 years of experience is an advantage in these types of games. And, of course, theres an added incentive for Fran and the rest of the Vikings. "We think it's time we won one of these things," he said. "We sure don't want to be the first team to lose the Super Bowl three times."

Bradshaw, who came into his own only late this season, his fifth, has plenty of incentive, too, and it's more personal with him.

"It all comes down to the quarterback,' he observed. "Im the leader. If I play good, we win. If I play bad, we lose."

Jenkins and Rangers 'Far Apart'

FERGIE JENKINS

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Pitcher Ferguson Jenkins presented a six-point counter-proposal to Texas Rangers front office Thursday on his 1975 contract, but general manager Danny O'Brien said the American League baseball team and the 25-game winner were "far apart" in the negotiations.

The Rangers offered Jenkins, narrowly edged in the Cy Young balloting by Jim (Catfish) Hunter, a package calling for an estimated $145,000.

Asked about Jenkins' proposals, O'Brien said: "Well, he started out asking for a built-in sprinkler system. Of course, I'm just kidding, but what he wanted was darn close to it."

No further talks were scheduled immediately with Jenkins, reported to be in the $120,000 to $125,000 bracket last year.

"We sent him a contract for what we considered a fair raise," O'Brien said.

O'Brien said Jenkins did not use as a negotiating wedge the recent $2.5 million the club offered Hunter, who became a free agent from Oakland A's and eventually signed with New York Yankees for an estimated $3.7 million.

Jenkins was reported to be asking for a package in the $200,000 bracket.

Count Munich Out Says Daume

BONN (Reuter) — Willi Daume of West Germany, vice-president of the International Olympic Committee (IOC), Thursday rejected speculation that the 1976 Olympic Games might be moved to Munich because of a labor dispute in Montreal.

Construction of the main stadium and other facilities at Montreal has been halted for six weeks by ironworkers striking for more pay and there have been fears the Games would be jeopardized if the stoppage continued.

Daume told the West German sports news agency, S.I.D., that Munich, site of the Summer Games in 1972, would not entertain the Games again because of "political, time and financial factors."

He added: "It is of course theoretically possible that nobody will be in a position to step in for Montreal, in 1976." This would make 1976 a non-Olympic year should the Canadians decide to call off the Games.

"That would be a big setback for the Olympic idea, but I am not pessimistic enough to rule out Montreal altogether," Daume said.

Bezics May Miss Championships

TORONTO (CP) — Sandra and Val Bezic, Canadian figure skating pairs champion since 1970, will decide late this month whether to defend their title at the national competition in Quebec City.

Sandra, 18, who has been contending with a thyroid condition since last March and who sprained an ankle two weeks ago, said Thursday the decision will be made three days before the Canadian championships which begin Jan. 29.

"I feel a lot more normal and alive, a lot more with it," said Sandra, who has been under treatment since the thyroid condition was diagnosed last October.

She found her weight, normally around 127, going up for several months before she sought medical help and determined the cause. Since starting to take a hormone to control weight and watching her diet, she has returned almost to normal.

The Bezics, who have gradually improved their international standing, are confident they will be ready to participate in the world championships in ing March.

Miss Bezic is five-foot-five and her brother, just turned 22, is six-foot-one and 175 pounds. They have skated together since they were children and have been moving up in world ratings since 1970. That year they finished 14th, improved to ninth, then eighth, sixth and last year, fifth.

Kingston Ace Among Leaders

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (Reuter) — Mike Walker of Kingston, Ont., scored seven bulls eyes today for a grand aggregate score of 202 and a place among the leaders in the Masefield Aggregate rifle competition.

Walker and several other members of a 24-man Canadian rifle team were warming up for an international match against New Zealand starting Sunday.

The Canadians have been having trouble adjusting to the tricky winds.

"The winds have got to be watched," said Walker, "but perhaps I was a little lucky that it was not changing too much."

Today's second round of the Masefield event was shot on ranges of 300, 500 and 600 yards with seven shots at each range. The Masefield event was part of the New Zealand National Rifle Association championships.

Incentive Program

Canada's petroleum industry emerged from 1974 in a mood of cautious optimism despite increased taxes, inflation and indications that exports will be curtailed. Alberta has announced an exploration incentive program, which industry sources estimate will channel $300-million back to the industry in 1975. Most of the benefits from the plan will go to small, independent, Canadian-owned companies. Photo shows oil drilling crew at work in Alberta. (CP Photo)

Canada's Petroleum Industry Displays Cautious Optimism

CALGARY (CP) — Canada's petroleum industry emerged from 1974 in a mood of cautious optimism despite the impact of increased taxes, inflation and indications that exports will be curtailed.

"I'm optimistic because I believe Canadians have enough sense to let the oil industry keep on working", said Scotty Cameron, general manager of the Independent Petroleum Association of Canada (PAC)

"I'm cautious because of the uncertainty of government actions."

Optimism got a boost in December when Alberta announced an exploration incentive program designed to ease the effects on a federal tax move that would eliminate provincial royalties—a form of tax on production—as a deductible item in computing federal corporation taxes

The plan, which industry sources estimate will channel up to $300 million back to the industry in 1975, was followed by a rally in the western oils index on the Toronto stock exchange, which had plunged to an eight-year low in early December

Most of the Benefits the Alberta plan will go to the small, independent, Canadian-owned companies, represented by IPAC. In explaining the plan, Premier Peter Lougheed said that with the exception of the 30 largest companies the industry located in Alberta would be able to avoid "double taxation"

The Alberta move apparently came too late to stop the over-all downward trend in industry activity. The 30 largest companies mostly controlled in the United States, account for twice the investment by the other 500-odd companies located in Canada.

John Poyen, president of the Canadian Petroleum Association, (CPA) said the industry would be able to do its job "if the Alberta measures lead to further compromises" from Ottawa and the other producing provinces

But Finance Minister John Turner said Ottawa had ready made concessions amounting to more than $100 million a year in its Nov. 18 budget. He said the combined federal-Alberta concessions should put the industry in a "healthy situation" and called on Saskatchewan and British Columbia to take similar action.

The CPA said that before the November budget the petroleum industry was planning to spend $21 billion on exploration and development in 1975, but the budget forced a reassessment and a drop to $1.2 billion in proposed spending.

Drilling activity in Canada was down 10 per cent in 1974 but a more alarming indicator was a 20-per-cent decline in exploration drilling.

"You can find oil and gas only through exploratory drilling" said John Porter, general manager of the Canadian association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors.

Alberta, where about 80 per cent of Canada's drilling takes place, experienced a three-per-cent decline. Saskatchewan drilling was down 50 per cent while drilling north of the 60th parallel was down one-third.

In British Columbia, there was a five-per-cent drop, while on the East Coast offshore activity was about equal to 1973 levels. Manitoba was the only province to show an increase in drilling, one-third, but it produces only one-third of one per cent of Canada's crude oil and natural gas.

The industry originally planned to spend $1.6 billion in Canada in 1974, but actual spending was not expected to exceed $1.2 billion.

Hans Maciej, CPA manager of economic affairs, said that in terms of constant dollars 1974 and 1975 are on a holding pattern with 1973, when industry spending on exploration was $12 billion. But, he said, the cost of drilling has gone up and it would require $1.2 billion to do half of the work that was done in 1973.

Oilweek magazine estimates that total industry expenditures in 1974 were $3.4 billion, while total industry revenue reached $4.7 billion—both records.

But industry sources said even higher profits are needed to finance a continuing search for new supplies on crude oil and natural gas.

Andrew Thompson, chairman of the British Columbia Energy Commission, disagrees.

The industry "has not suffered an undue burden" from higher provincial royalties, he said, and provincial governments, as trustees of natural resources for their citizens, "have a responsibility to capture this enhancement in value."

Mr. Thompson described Ottawa's double taxation of royalties as "ridiculous," but said industry's argument that it should receive all the benefits from increases in the price of petroleum products is also not valid.

B.C. and Ottawa are at odds whether income of the B.C. Petroleum Corp. is royalty or revenue of a Crown corporation; whether Ottawa can tax a provincial Crown corporation; whether royalties should be taxed and whether producers in B.C. are in fact paying royalties.

The corporation buys natural gas from B.C. producers at prices averaging 33 cents per thousand cubic feet and sells it for an average of $1 a thousand cubic fee. B.C. claims the difference in price can not be considered a royalty. Ottawa has a different opinion.

Justice Minister Otto Lang has said that Ottawa will tax provincial Crown corporations if such a move is necessary to enforce the federal government's claim to resource-taxation rights.

Most of 1974 was bad news for the petroleum industry, highlighted by sudden uncertainty that Alberta's oil sands would be developed as quickly as once anticipated. The sands, along with the Arctic Islands, the Mackenzie Delta Beaufort Sea region and East Coast offshore, are considered Canada's major future energy pools.

Carl Nickle, an analyst with the Daily Oil Bulletin and president of Conventures Ltd, said the pools represent 85 per cent of Canada's untapped energy "but they are costly to develop."

Shell Canada Ltd. estimates that oil-sands development will require about five times the investment needed to produce an equal amount of oil from conventional sources in Western Canada.

Encouraging reports filtered out from the East Coast offshore, where several promising natural gas wells were discovered; from the Arctic Islands, where 12 trillion cubic feet of potential recoverable gas reserves have been identified; and from the Mackenzie Delta, where three trillion cubic feet of additional gas reserves have been confirmed.

But Charles Hetherington, president of Panarctic Oils Ltd., said world-level prices must prevail in Canada before the frontier reserves can be turned into usable energy. He called on Ottawa to reduce federal royalties.

Arne Nielsen, president of Mobil Oil Canada Ltd., said the industry also faces a problem in the Atlantic basin—the dispute between the federal government and the Maritime provinces over ownership of offshore minerals.

The political and economic uncertainty of 1974 started an exodus of companies, personnel, equipment and capital to more attractive pastures—primarily to the U.S.

Up to the middle of December, 46 drilling rigs had left Canada and the Canadian Society of Exploration Geophysicists reported the departure of more than 30 seismic crews.

Meanwhile, Premier Lougheed served notice that the price of crude oil produced in Alberta will be increased—to all users—next spring. Under an agreement reached last March between Ottawa and the producing provinces the price of crude oil west of the Ottawa Valley was set at $6.50 a barrel, about 60 per cent of the current world price of $11 a barrel. The agreement expires March 31.

Mr. Lougheed did not specify when and by how much the price will increase, but industry sources predict an initial boost of $2 a barrel.

An increase in the price of Alberta crude would also influence the price of oil in Quebec and the Maritimes, which now depend on imported crude and are sheltered by a subsidy paid by Ottawa out of a $5.20-a-barrel tax on oil exported to the U.S.

Federal Energy Minister Donald Macdonald has indicated that the export tax, which the industry also views as an irritant, will be reduced as the price of domestic Canadian crude oil rises.

Social Worker Types Not Wanted in Prisons

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Volunteers for prison work should be more carefully screened to weed out those not suitable for the job, says Arthur Trono, recently appointed as regional director of penitentiaries in Ontario.

"We don't want just a bunch of people trying to solve their own problems or morbidly curious people or junior league types—society or social worker types whose attitude is, 'We're so far above you, we'll drag you up to our level,' " Mr. Trono said in an interview.

Prospective volunteers should be screened through interviews and those accepted should be prepared for their work through a series of lectures, he said.

"Inmates should be able to expect complete honesty from a volunteer on what pleases or displeases him and vice-versa."

Mr. Trono said the entire penitentiary system is confused about what is an effective program for rehabilitating prisoners.

People working within the penitentiary system were torn between rehabilitation and security.

"One group of people is crying for one thing; a second for another.

"We're sitting in the damned thing with the responsibility."

The 44-year-old director said he favors the solicitor-general's department plan for smaller institutions and the living unit concept which would foster closer, longer-term relationships between guards and prisoners.

He also envisaged as ideal a rehabilitation program that would pay prisoners regular scele wages and make them responsible for paying room and board, saving and supporting their families.

He said better food and entertainment should be offered as incentives for hard work, as a means of bringing some of the values of the outside world inside prisons.

Mr. Trono also said he wants to establish better relationships between management and prison guards.

"Staff in an institution have a pretty hard row to hoe."

He said he intends to make guards "feel safer at what they're doing" and to help them achieve more satisfaction in their work.

Mr Trono was superintendent of the male unit at Matsqui Institution and warden of Joyceville Institution before becoming regional director. He now is responsible for policy, programs and security at the 13 maximum, medium and minimum security institutions in the province.

He replaced John Moloney who was transferred to Canadian penitentiary service headquarters in Ottawa.

Only Spain Still Maintains Censorship in Western Europe

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The fall of authoritarian regimes in Greece and Portugal in 1974 left Spain alone in Western Europe with an officially censored news media.

But in Europe and elsewhere inflation, the newsprint and energy crises and reduced income, from advertising forced some independent newspapers to merge into communications empires or accept government handouts, jeopardizing their editorial autonomy. Some smaller journals died.

Correspondents of The Associated Press, making their annual survey of world news media freedoms, recorded several significant gains on the censorship front.

However, bleak reports came from South America and Africa, where predominantly military governments continued to view the media as a personal threat. The Communist world remained a staunch bastion against any freedom of expression.

EUROPE

The Portuguese media were freed from decades of control when the right-wing dictatorship was overthrown April 25. Circulation doubled but newspapers soon became entangled in a power struggle between the ruling Armed Forces Movement and the Communist party.

The military rulers banned "ideological aggression" against their movement and the vague rule has seen increasing use. Even more restricting has been the formation of Communist-led workers' committees at most newspapers that refuse to set type for stories they deem undemocratic.

In Greece, the exit of the colonels last July brought an abrupt end to 7½ years of censorship and the free flow of news quickly resumed.

Even in Spain, readers received more news than in any year since the civil war. But Information Minister Pio Cabanillas, who instituted the liberal policy of "aperturismo" (openness), was dismissed in October after 10 months in office.

His successor vowed to continue the liberal policy, but almost immediately media criticism of the government dropped sharply.

Sweden's 160-year-old history of news media freedoms was tarnished by the conviction of two journalists as spies after a raid on their magazine by police. They had written a series o articles disclosing a secret Swedish bureau that spied on foreign countries and domestic leftists.

Newspapers in Italy plunged into the red, partially from soaring costs and decreasing readership.

Italy has no censorship, but most papers tailor their news to the demands of their political or industrial sponsors.

COMMUNIST COUNTRIES

The media in Communist countries remained totally in the hands of the party and state.

AFRICA

The African media remained, for the most part, either under government control or largely ineffectual.

The overthrow of Emperor Haile Selassie by military reformers in Ethiopia allowed the media there to flourish only briefly. Newspapers soon began toeing the official line just as they had imperial policy.

Even in countries with significant independent newspapers, like Nigeria, Kenya or Zambia, the flow of information was subject to control and restrictions.

MIDDLE EAST

The best news in the Mideast was from Egypt, where foreign reporters were permitted to acquire Telex transmission facilities. Many other wartime controls were relaxed, but attacks on President Anwar Sadat remained taboo.

Israeli military censorship continued in force as it had from the country's founding.

In Lebanon, home of the most vigorous media in the Mideast, the daily Al Nahar had to buck strong pressure against its independence, including a sharp cut in advertising when the paper went against the government.

ASIA

The Thai media, free since the overthrow of the military dictatorship in 1973, were the liveliest in Asia. Twenty-nine dailies are competing in Bangkok.

In Cambodia, formal censorship of foreign dispatchers was abandoned and seven newspapers were allowed to resume publication.

Three of the papers were subsequently closed again and the others avoided criticism of President Lon Nol, but Western observers agreed the media were freer than ever before.

The new Laotian coalition with the Communist-led Pathet Lao failed to change a liberal government attitude toward the media there. But editors watched warily as the Pathet Lao proposed to impose the total control on the Vientiane media that they already practise in the 80 per cent of Laos under exclusively Communist rule.

South Vietnam's newspapers managed to survive frequent government harassment, and Saigon dailies gave extensive coverage to the growing movement against President Nguyen Van Thieu.

The government often confiscated critical issues, but 29 papers were published daily in Saigon, ranging from pro-government to opposition.

LATIN AMERICA

The media that existed from far left to far right in Chile under Salvador Allende has been effectively stilled since the armed forces overthrew his Marxist regime in September, 1973. The five newspapers all work under a system of self-censorship or direct orders from the military.

Foreign news agencies were carefully monitored but rarely censored.

Reporters in Bolivia, already severely restricted, suffered further setbacks during 1974 as President Hugo Banzer's military government staved off three insurrections.

The harshest measures came after a bloody rebellion was quashed in November. Banzer imposed a "new order" banning all political, labor, student and professional organizations and ordered the country's media not to report anything about the outlawed groups.

In Peru, leftist President Juan Velasco expropriated 10 national newspapers July 10 and effectively suppressed virtually all independent news reporting.

Readers in Brazil, Paraguay and Uruguay continued to get little other than officially sanctioned news.

BIRTHS

NILES — Donald and Kathleen (nee Burshaw) are pleased to announce the birth of their son, Craig Douglas on January 7, 1975. A brother for Christopher and second grandchild for Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Chatten and Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Burshaw. Many thanks to Doctor Fry.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of the late George Hay wish to express our heartfelt thanks and sincere appreciation to our good neighbors, friends and relatives for their kindness and sympathy at the loss of a dearly loved son and brother. To those who sent flowers, Mass cards, and donations to the Canadian Cancer Society we are most grateful. To all those who helped we can only say "thank you" now but will always remember your kindness and generosity. A very special thank you to Rev. Father George Mullen, John R. Bush Funeral Home, Doctor Lisowski, Doctor Pearce and to the nursing staff, 6th level, Belleville General Hospital.
Ralph Hay and Family.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Saturday, Jan 11

Aries (March 21-April 19) Don't discuss your aims in front of persons whose support you are unsure of. They may try to place some stumbling blocks

Taurus (April 20-May 20) You won't be the easist guy in the world to get along with today. Don't blame the rebuffs you get on others.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) It wouldn't be wise for you to take risks on things others have more direct control over than you do.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) Neither you nor your partner are co-operative enough with each other. This could put your team in trouble today.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) You tend to bog down with more responsibilities than you can manage properly. Set aside the less urgent ones for now.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Continue to view propositions offered you with a wary eye. Don't be looking for something for nothing.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Domestic pressures will be a bit heavier most of the day. Try not to let them overpower you. The strain won't last.

Scorpio (Oct. 24N-ov. 22) Tell yourself in advance that all your plans won't work like clockwork. You won't be so frustrated when they get snarled.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be careful regarding financial transactions you conduct. Don't deal with strange persons or firms.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You will take too unyielding a position today in the face of opposition. Back off a bit and compromise.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You will have to shoulder some duties not of your making. Though annoying, they will offer some form of reward.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) For your own good, steer clear of an occasional pal whose affairs are very complicated, or you will be drawn into the mire.

Seek Higher Limits

WINNIPEG (CP) — Civic officials, businessmen and union officers from northern Manitoba have asked the provincial goverment to increase gross weight limits on trucks to 110,000 pounds from 74,000. The increase would conform with regulations in Ontario and Quebec.

Canvassing Banned

WINNIPEG (CP) — The city's charities endorsement bureau has revoked the permit of the Hare Krishna Society to solicit funds following complaints that its saffron-robed members were calling at houses. The permit had allowed society members to solicit money on the street but not house-to-house canvassing.

Pain Detection System Upset

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please discuss "thalamic syndrome." I had a stroke seven years ago and made a quick recovery. I felt like nothing happened. Didn't need therapy and left the hospital in three weeks.

The left side of my body was affected, but everything returned. However, for the past four years I've been having a burning sensation on my left side from head to toes.

Doctors told me it's due to the thalamus, that the sensory nerves were affected.—O.V.

You had the good fortune to have a mild stroke, but even a mild stroke can affect the thalamus, a tiny part of the midbrain which registers pain through an intricate network of nerves. It is often involved in strokes, whether from a brain hemorrhage or a brain vessel blockage.

The result often is a painful sensation, either of burning or undue sensitivity to simple stimulation. The pain system simply has been knocked out of kilter.

This complex is called a thalamic syndrome, and there is no specific cure for it. Ordinary pain-killers are seldom effective. The discomfort may subside to some extent with time, but an irritability will probably remain.

Your history and your present symptoms should be reviewed by a physician to determine where you stand.

Dear Doctor: I am 21, and for at least five years I've had a problem with my bones cracking.

This may sound absurd, but at almost every time I sit, stand or bend my knees and ankles they crack. I get enough exercise, so I don't understand what's wrong.

My mother thinks it is because I don't get enough calcium. Is that true, and if so what can I do about it?—B.L.S.

No problem. Just settle for the noisy joints and tell mom to stop worrying.

It may be due to thin cartilage that allows the ends of the bones to contact each other. More likely it is the tendons riding over a bone end.

Shoulders, elbows, hips and, of course, fingers are most commonly involved. Low calcium is not a factor. Incidentally, have you noticed that the movement in one direction may set off the crack while movement in the other doesn't? That's due to the configuration of your bone endings.

It is rarely painful and not likely to become so.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can a man who had a vasectomy and three months later had a sperm test which said he was sterile get a woman pregnant?—Mrs. L.C.P.

The absence of sperm in the follow-up check would indicate that the vasectomy was successful and there is no chance of the man impregnating a woman.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Recently I have read stories about people who have had their mouths literally sewn shut as a weight reduction method. What do you think of this?—Mrs. T.E.

I agree with Dr. Daniel M. Laskin who is editor of the Journal of Oral Surgery, the official journal of the American Society of Oral Surgeons.

He writes that people who need a "gimmick" such as wiring of teeth to lose weight are probably so poorly motivated that long-term success with weight control is "extremely doubtful."

Opening lead—K ♦

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

It is a good principle of defensive play to stick to leading the suit you have started with. It is a pretty good general principle but there are times when you must abandon it and try for something better.

West opens the king of diamonds against South's three no-trump contract. South can't afford to win that trick since he must take a club finesse later. West continues with the 10 and again South must duck.

At this point a West with a one-track mind will lead a third diamond. South will win; take and lose the club finesse and watch East suffer, since East won't be able to do anything to get West into the lead.

Before leading that third diamond West must realize that the play is hopeless. Maybe nothing else will be any better, but a shift to the 10 of spades might must be a winner. He should make that shift.

It will be a winner! South will have lost two diamonds and will have to lose two spades and a club later.

Congress Will Back Ford's Tax Cut Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has won a pledge from top members of the United States Congress to act quickly on a recession-fighting tax cut of about $15 billion.

Representative Al Ullman (Dem. Ore.) expected to become chairman in the new Congress of the committee that initiates all tax legislation, told reporters after a Friday night conference with Ford:

"I think we have the ingredients for fast action to get relief to the American people."

Ford outlined his tax cut plan to Ullman and called Republican congressional leaders to the White House today for a similar preview of legislation he will propose next week.

Ullman said Ford's plan "encompasses much of what I support."

He would not disclose the president's proposals, but said they were "in some ways wider in scope than I had anticipated."

Ullman indicated he and Ford were not in agreement on implementation of a tax cut but were close to an accord "on net impact"—the total dollar amount involved.

Administration sources have said that figure is about $15 billion.

Ullman said he is notenthusiastic about an idea that Ford has been considering—to achieve the reduction by sending tax rebates for 1974 to taxpayers. It was uncertain whether this feature would survive when the president puts the finishing touches on his recommendations for pumping money into the hands of consumers in order to spur the sagging U.S economy.

Ford's labor - management committee, representing big labor and big business, was unanimous in urging the $15 billion-cut. It called for a $70-tax credit for each exemption plus a five-per-cent reduction in tax, with a ceiling of $375 per return.

John Dunlop, committee coordinator, told reporters the committee favored a tax cut extending over all of 1975 rather than the one-shot rebate Ford was considering.

The labor-management committee also recommended that an investment tax credit rate designed to encourage business modernization and expansion be increased to 12 per cent across the board. The rate now is seven per cent for most industries and four per cent for public utilities.

Meanwhile, one of the main ingredients of the recession—unemployment, was emphasized on three fronts.

Ford Motor Co. announced shutdowns at 17 assembly plants and five component facilities for all of next week. The production cuts bring Ford's layoff toll for the week to 85,175, including 52,525 temporary and 32,600 indefinite layoffs.

In Atlanta, Ga., several thousand persons showed up to apply for 225 new public-service jobs, causing a brief stampede.

And in Washington, the labor department released figures showing the largest two-month decline in non-farm payroll jobs since 1945.

Prisoner Writes To Thank Warden

MONTREAL (CP) — An armed robber given a special Christmas leave from Cowansville Penitentiary has informed the prison warden he does not plan to return to finish a seven-year sentence.

"Since I now feel fully rehabilitated and am now gainfully employed, I don't plan to return to the institution," convict Georges Lebrun, 31, told warden Guy Lemire in a letter.

Lebrun thanked the warden for the attention he received at the institution, 35 miles east of Montreal, saying it greatly helped his rehabilitation.

Lebrun and fellow prisoner Michel Beaulieu, 31, are the only ones still at large of 323 federal prisoners in the Montreal area granted leave at Christmas.

Rocket Debris Falls Into Sea

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A professor at an observatory in Bochum, West Germany, said today a large piece of the second stage of the United States rocket Saturn dropped into the sea between Madagascar and Mozambique about 1:40 a.m. EST, Agence France Presse reported today.

United States officials at Cape Canaveral said they had expected the space debris to fall somewhere over the east coast of Africa, but none of their tracking stations had spotted the re-entry.

Prof. Heinz Kaminski of Bochum observatory said that "if a catastrophe is to be avoided" space vessels should be equipped with self-destroying mechanisms which could blow them up without danger to humanity.

The rocket section—second stage of the Saturn-5 which launched the Skylab space station in May 1973—crashed through the atmosphere at about 1:39 a.m. EST. How much of it survived to reach earth is not known.

Remnants of the 83,500-pound section were the latest of more than 4,000 pieces of "space junk" known to have fallen back to earth since the space age was launched with the Soviet Union's Sputnik-1 in 1957.

Only a handful of pieces of debris have ever been recovered. Almost all the others apparently were vaporised by the tremendous heat generated by friction as they entered earth's dense atmosphere.

The Saturn rocket section had been orbiting the earth for about 18 months.

Liquor Board Issues Hotel Fire Caution

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — An ultimatum to many provincial hotel owners to improve fire safety standards or face prosecution was issued Friday by James Mackey, chairman of the Liquor Licence Board of Ontario (LLBO).

Mr. Mackey said the board will be sending letters to most hotel owners in Ontario informing them that they have until March 15 to show "substantial progress" on fire work orders issued against their premises.

The work orders were issued by LLBO inspectors in connection with a section of the Hotel Fire Safety Act which came into effect Sept. 1, 1974, and requires all hotels of more than three storeys that were in existence on or before Sept. 1, 1971, to construct new fire escape systems.

The fire escapes were to be completed by last September but Mr. Mackey said "a few have done very little to comply with the regulation and the rest have done nothing."

"We've got to get some action on these regulations," he said. "We've let them go since September and we have given hotel owners an additional two months. As far as the board is concerned, the law is the law and appropriate action must be taken."

Letters will be sent to owners whithin 10 days.

Mr. Mackey warns owners that if renovations are not made by March 15 they may be brought before the board to show reason why their licences should not be suspended.

One hotel affected by new regulations is the Sheraton-Brock Hotel here.

Cost of a fire escape system for the hotel was previously estimated to be in excess of $60,000.

Clint Salt, hotel manager, said that if the board presses the bylaw it may force many hotels across the province to close.

Cosmonauts In Orbit

MOSCOW (AP) — Two rookie Soviet cosmonauts guided a Soyuz 17 spacecraft into earth orbit today and toward a possible docking with the Salyut 4 space lab launched 16 days ago.

The Soyuz rocket blasted off from Baikonur space centre in central Asia shortly after midnight Moscow time, Tass announced.

The official news agency said Col. Alexei Gubarev and Flight Engineer Georgy Grechko, both 43, were in contact by radio and television with earth and that all systems were operating normally.

Experts doubted the Soyuz 17 flight was connected with the U.S.-Soviet joint space mission scheduled for July 16.

Tass reported that Soyuz 17 will carry out "joint experiments with the research station Salyut 4" but it did not specify that the two ships would link up.

The Weather

Turning much colder later today. Continuing windy and cold Sunday with chance of snowflurries. Winds south 35 to 45 becoming west overnight and Sunday. Temperatures dropping into the 30s by evening. Lows overnight in the mid 20s. Highs Sunday 25 to 30.

Ottawa Cuts Interest Rate

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal authorities have given the signal that they believe the cost of borrowing money should drop.

The Bank of Canada is lowering its rate for loans to chartered banks to 8¼ per cent from 8¾ beginning Monday.

The retail banks seldom borrow from the federal bank but changes in the central bank tend to influence shifts in borrowing costs.

The announcement Friday follow sa series of rate changes in the United States and R. W. Lawson, senior deputy governor of the Bank of Canada, said there were the same influences here pushing down interest rates.

Davis Prepares

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Premier William Davis hasn't said when he'll call an election, but when he does he'll be prepared.

The premier will open a new constituency office in nearby Bramalea Thursday. He returns to Toronto Sunday from a two-week vacation in Florida.

Asked about an election a month ago, he declined to name a specific date and recent questions on the matter have been met with little more than a smile.

Mr. Davis closed his old constituency office in Brampton shortly after the 1971 election. One of his aides said opening the new office "doesn't indicate anything except that it's something that perhaps should have been opened a year ago."

With Appreciation

For 36 years the Community Concert Association has been providing city residents with fine musical entertainment. Part of the reason for its success has been Jane Hickey, a founding member of the group and now membership secretary. In appreciation of her service she was presented with a citation and an honorary life membership by association president, Robert Orde.

News Briefs

Surgery Cancelled

CALGARY (CP) — All elective surgery at Calgary hospitals was cancelled effective Friday because Red Cross blood bank reserves fell to 100 pints, about one quarter normal inventory, Robert Richardson, blood donor recruitment committee chairman, said enough blood is available for emergency surgery but elective operations have been indefinitely postponed.

Chrysler Criticized

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Dennis McDermott, Canadian director of United Auto Workers said Friday the refusal of Chrysler Canada Ltd. to offer a price-rebate program on new car sales similar to that of the parent comany in the United States is "a dumb public relations move." Mr. McDermott said auto companies could make a profit even if they reduced prices by twice the Chrysler rebates.

Boat Show Opens

TORONTO (CP) —About $5 million worth of boats and marine accessories are on display at the annual Toronto International Boat Show, which opened Friday and runs to Jan. 19. The smallest and least expensive boat is the Peanut, a child's rowing dinghy which costs about $100. The largest is a 44-foot Trojan motor yacht that costs up to $100,000.

Brucellosis Problem

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Ken McDermid, director of the Ontario Veterinary Services, said brucellosis, an infectious disease that wiped out many cattle herds in the 1950s, is again a major concern. He said that in 1974, 4,000 cows, compared to 1,000 in 1973, died from the disease, which causes sterility and often results in loss of milk production.

Cabbies Strike

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP) — Brantford taxi drivers went on strike at noon Friday because of a fare-schedule dispute with the Board of Police Commissioners. Melvin Stenebaugh, a spokesman for the drivers, said the cabbies will be off the job for at least 48 hours in addition to next Friday, their busiest day.

Pills Not Potent

TORONTO (CP) — CBC radio says that the federal government did not inform the public two years ago when it removed two million deficient birth-control pills from the market. On its radio program Exchange, to be aired nationally at 5 p.m. today, the CBC says that federal health department drug analysts and the manufacturer of the contraceptive pill, Norquen, discovered at the same time that some of the pills had lost their potency.

Montreal Confirmed Games Site

AMSTERDAM (AP) — International Olympic Committee (IOC) president Lord Killanin said today the IOC has received no offers from cities wanting to replace Montreal as host of the 1976 summer Olympic Games.

There is no question of any offers, the Olympic head told The Associated Press. The games will be held in Montreal.

Lord Killanin said he and the IOC senior vice-presidents, meeting in Amsterdam, had reviewed the situation in Montreal, where a six-week-old strike by iron workers has stopped work on the $380-million main stadium.

But the IOC president stressed that no alternatives have been offered, although he admitted reading newspaper reports about new bids for the Games. The West German city of Duesseldorf and the Shah of Iran are reported to have made such offers.

Killanin came to the Netherlands for an unannounced meeting with the vice-presidents Friday and today. He said the meeting was not called specially to review the Montreal situation and denied it had taken on an emergency character.

The IOC head said he and the vice-presidents normally meet from time to time between executive meetings of the committee.

Beatles All Over

LONDON (AP) — The last legal links between the four former members of the Beatles pop group have been severed at a private hearing before a high court judge, officials reported Thursday.

The partnership among Paul McCartney, John Lennon, George Harrison and Ringo Starr was officially dissolved almost exactly four years after McCartney issued a writ seeking the breakup.

The four have not performed together since 1969, although each has had help from some of the others on the individual albums and singles they have released.

Solicitors for the four declined to give details of the settlement, but said that all matters in dispute had been resolved.

Attempts to reach a solution had been going on since 1971, when after an 11-day hearing a high court judge granted McCartney's application for the appointment of a receiver to manage the Beatles' multi-million-dollar business affairs pending full trial of the suit.

German Students Arrive

Lahr, Germany, high school students Michael Streif and (background left) Heidrun Keller were greeted by friends at CFB Trenton Friday night. Offering the hearty welcome are Jorg Isele and Birgit Wulfroth. All the German students will return home in the early portion of July. Students are participating in an exchange program in connection with the twinning of Lahr and Belleville.

Ottawa Teachers Reach Agreement

OTTAWA (CP) — A tentative agreement has been reached between the Ottawa Separate School Board and its 1,200 teachers, a spokesman for the negotiators said today.

"It is expected that there should be a return to normal operations Monday for the 75 Ottawa schools which have been without their teachers for a week," the negotiators said in a joint statement.

"The agreement, which would give the teachers an average increase of about 22¼ per cent over a 20-month period, plus a cost-of-living adjustment will be brought to ratification meetings of the teachers on Sunday and the board on Monday," the statement said.

Negotiators Doug Knott for the teachers and Frank Gilhooly for the board said they expected the teachers and schoolboard would approve the proposed settlement.

Mr Knott said he expected the teachers to be "very pleased with the terms of the settlement." Mr. Gilhooly said that although the board anticipated a deficit of about $400,000 for 1975, he believed the board could afford the settlement.

The agreement would give the teachers an increase of 18¼ per cent for the calendar year 1975, an additional four per cent in January 1976 and a cost-of-living-allowance for the period between January and August 1976.

Details of the cost-of-living allowance were not released, but the allowance was described as "a unique cost-of-living clause which will help shape future teacher-board agreements."

Both negotiators praised the work of mediator John Dempster of the Ontario Ministry of Labor who was credited with steering the parties to the agreement.

The settlement will clear the way for a return to classes for most of the 37,000 area separate school pupils who have been without teachers since the Christmas holidays.

However, Carleton Roman Catholic School Board teachers are still on strike. Contract talks resumed here Friday afternoon after breaking down earlier in the week.

Town's Firemen Obeying Law

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

Trenton citizens can thank whatever lucky star each swears by that the town's firemen are gentlemen on top of being law-abiding workers in an essential service.

The firefighters have been men who have exhibited a fair measure of the patience attributed to Job.

With today's double-digit inflation, they are still working under a wage agreement negotiated for 1973. They have been since the first of 1974 and will likely continue to do so months into 1975.

Maybe they have grumbled in private over their wages, for who of us wouldn't, but they have refrained from spreading their differences with their employer, the town, wider. Use of the press and public pressure has not been their tactic as it has with other unions.

This is meant not to ennoble them in any way. After all, they are men after that same, "elusive" dollar the rest of us are.

However, consider the situation as illustrated in November, 1974, in Montreal.

Some 2,400 firemen in Canada's largest city walked out in an illegal strike.

Granted, the three days they were out protesting an impasse in contract negotiations was not long, but the consequences must have sent shivers up the spines of Montreal officials.

Over the three days, some 20 fires broke out.

Supervisory personnel, called out to put the fires to the hose, were badgered by striking firemen at the fire sites.

Police riot squads were called out to quell the disturbances.

A fire chief was sent to hospital after being struck in the head by a bottle.

Hardly pleasant news. Firemen are termed workers in an essential service and are thus prohibited by law from striking. Those laws, as in Montreal, are not necessarily always obeyed. People turn fearful.

The alternative is that followed by Trenton firemen. The 10-man union local of the International Association of Fire Fighters asked for a 24 per cent wage increase for 1974.

Around the table, the town negotiating team offered 14½ per cent and the offer was close to being accepted. However, the near settlement was scuttled when the town decided 14½ wasn't suitable and dropped their offer to 12½ per cent.

Talks were broken off and firemen declared their interest in bringing the matter to an arbitration board.

Hitches developed at that stage, but set-down procedures were followed.

Just recently, proposals for a 1975 contract were submitted to the town. But little progress can be expected until the 1974 contract, with its provision for a retroactive increase, is signed.

Throughout the long process, firemen not so much as hinted strike action was being considered. They have plodded along waiting for a settlement.

A first class fireman will be forced to wait additional months to see his pay cheque climb above the $10,485 paid him in 1973. The wait has been slightly over a year now.

In 1975, he'll see his 1974 increase. Maybe, by 1976, he'll see his 1975 increase. And maybe, just maybe, it might not be cut to worthless shredded paper by inflation.

Fairgrounds No Place for Pool

By MARGARET HAYLOCK,
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Prince Edward County councillors should look before they leap into the Olympic-size pool proposed for the community at Picton fairgrounds.

At council's inaugural session Tuesday new warden Clifford Walker voiced support for the pool and asked what better location there could be than the fairgrounds property which is owned by the county.

Unless operation of the recreational facilities already at the fairgrounds is re-organized the pool would be better located at another site.

Picton fairgrounds is one of the few in the area where main gates are never closed.

Cars can and do wheel into the grounds at any hour of the day or night. Broken beer and liquor bottles littering the paved entrance square indicate it often serves as a secluded spot for drinking drivers to empty a six-pack.

Hot rodders also enjoy the comparative isolation of the fairgrounds square and frequently drive in to squeal their tires.

Before a swimming pool is constructed on the fairgrounds thought should be given to this heedless conduct that could injure a child using the same square to reach the pool.

Take 2

If Prince Edward is to have a community pool it should be constructed in a well-supervised location where traffic is controlled.

It is folly to build a recreational facility for children in an area where reckless driving does occur.

Steps should be taken to close the grounds when events at the County Centre, the Prince Edward Curling Club and the ball diamonds are not in progress. This would quickly eliminate hot rodders and drinking drivers.

When the fairgrounds is discussed as a pool site, council should consider the possible effects on Picton residents living on the borders of the property.

Children enjoying a pool are bound to make noise and that noise may carry to annoy nearby home owners.

Also, when the County Centre was built it was constructed in the centre of the fairgrounds in the infield of the track.

This destroyed future use of the half-mile track for harness racing. Today several harness horse owners assist in maintaining the track and use it year around to work their horses.

If the fairgrounds gates are opened to hundreds of youngsters eager to enjoy a pool many of them probably will wander to the area wher horses are being worked. There is the possibility of interference with drivers training animals on the track.

Before a pool is located on the fairgrounds site, the area should definitely be safe for youngsters.

Also, the addition of a new recreational facility should not interfere with existing use of the grounds.

PICTON — The Prince Edward County office of the Ontario ministry of agriculture and food has a new extension horticulturalist.

Ralph Shaw, a former employee with Produce Processor, Trenton, began work with the ministry here this week.

A graduate of Ontario Agricultural College Mr. Shaw also has been employed with Canadian Canners.

From 1968 to 1972 he worked with the ministry of agriculture and food in London.

He is involved in work in Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington and Frontenac counties through his new post here.

Y's Men Mark 50th Birthday

The Belleville Y's Men Club is celebrating its 50th anniversary in the city. Celebrations were kicked off this week during the regular weekly dinner meeting of the group at the YMCA.

At that meeting, Vern Weir, who joined the club shortly after it received its chartered in 1925 and is still a member, was guest speaker.

In keeping with the 1925 flavor of events, members wore costumes of that era including straw hats, bowler hats and spats.

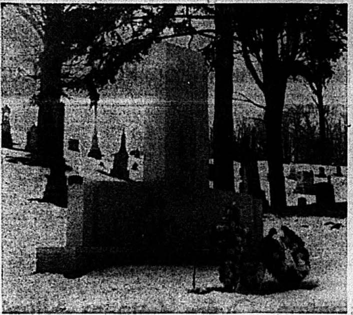
Symbol Swiped

The buck-toothed, flat-tailed creature that is Canada's national symbol may not know it yet, but he's about to be kidnapped.

New York State is proposing to steal the beaver from Canada and make it the state's symbol.

Students at Centennial Secondary School in Belleville have mounted a "save our beaver" campaign and are preparing a petition in support of their stand. The petition will be sent to Hastings MP Jack Ellis with a request for action.

Students were in doubt about the use to which their petition could be put, but they hope some high-level government representation can be made to New York to prevent the theft of the beaver.



Glenwood Former Showplace

Glenwood Cemetry, once a Prince Edward show place is neglected through lack of funds. The board has appealed to Picton council for an annual grant of $10,000. a year. Among the graves in Glenwood is that of Picton's former mayor H.J. McFarland.

Driver Flees After Crash

City police report a busy night with one man charged with two counts of failing to remain at the scene of an accident after striking two vehicles, another charged with auto theft and a third charged with common assault.

In the first incident, police have charged Stephen William Fitzgibbon of Station St. with two charges of failing to remain at the scene of an accident and one of dangerous driving following an incident which occurred shortly after midnight.

Police said a Mustang car was in collision with a tow truck driven by Ralph Townsend at the corner of N. Front and College streets. The two drivers got out, had a few words and the Mustang took off again pursued by the tow truck driver, who was relaying information of the accident to police on his roadio.

The chase continued down N. Front St. and then onto Station St.. From there the Mustang crossed into Oak St. where it was in collision with a car driven by Robert Strahan of Orchard Dr. The Mustang then went across the lown of a house on Lingham and Station St. heading towards Emily St.

The driver of the Mustang then left the car in the vicinity and fled on foot and was caught by Const. Donald Cathers.

In a second incident, David John Casselman, 22, of Dundas St. E. is being held for a bail hearing Monday in connection with an auto theft charge. Poice said a car owned by Jack Wong of 19 Front St. was reported stolen from the rear of the Modern Cafe.

In the third incident, Peter George Scruby, 20, of Wallbridge Cres. was charged with common assault after an incidient at the Crystal Hotel about 10.45 p.m. Friday in which one police officer was kicked and another pushed while trying to evict a man from the hotel.

Trustees Divide Committee Load

AMELIASBURG — the township's new council representatives have taken the oath of office and made the necessary preparations for their first monthly meeting by appointing chairmen to head up the various council committees.

The following appointments have been officially approved.

Volunteer Fire Department — Deputy Reeve Gordon Babbitt; road improvement and maintenance, Stan Goodfellow; waste and disposal, Paul Boyd; and finance, Dr. Robert Vaughan.

Reeve Arnold Weatherall, is a member of all committees.

For the second time in succession township resident Stan Hagerman was appointed to serve a three-year term on the planning board.

Re-elected as chairman of the museum board was curator Harry Bisdee while councillors Paul Boyd, Stan Goodfellow and Deputy Reeve Babbitt were chosen to act as chairmen of the community centre board in the hamlets of Ameliasburg, Carrying Place and Rossmore respectively.

Farm Leaders

The Friday annual meeting of the Hastings Farm Service Club saw Ron Graham, centre, of Shannonville elected president for 1975. Past president, who conducted morning session in the Stirling Legion Hall is Henry Van Winkoop, right, Foxboro and perennial se- [illegible] Hastings agricultural representative Doug Tipper, Stirling.

Graham New Head Of Farmers' Group

Unique in the province, the Hastings Farm Service Club, met in the Stirling Legion Hall Friday to review its past year of activities and elect a new slate of officers.

The Hastings club is the only such club in the province, since it has combined the county soil and crop improvement association, plowmen's association and safety council into one organization in 1967.

This combination gets away from multiple meetings, says Doug Tipper, agricultural representative for the county, and "gets more people involved in agricultural affairs."

President of the club for 1975 is Ronald D. Graham, Shannonville. Five vice-presidents represent the areas of the club's interests and coverage. They are: First vice-president (soil and crop improvement) Donald Sills, Roslin; second vice-president (plowmen's association) Grant Ketcheson, Madoc; third vice-president (v.p soil and crop) Ray Donnan, Stirling; fourth vice-president (plowmen) Robert Burkitt, Frankford and fifth vice-president (chairman, Pancake Hill pasture farm) Bill Langstaff, Belleville.

Additional executive members are from the provincial ministry of agriculture and food staff at Stirling: secretary-treasurer, Doug Tipper, agricultural representative; assistant secretary - treasurer, Wayne Martin and assistant secretary, John Paul.

Nursing Home May Expand

The Maple Haven Nursing Home is in a healthy situation heading into 1975.

That's the word from proprietor Jane Watts after receiving the stamp of approval from a health ministry inspector.

In addition, Mrs. Watts is awaiting government approval for plans to expand her present operation to an eventual 150-bed accomodation.

A Dec. 18 Intelligencer story indicated a number of city nursing home operators were concerned about extensive renovations that might be required to meet new provincial standards.

Mayor: Double Planning Levy Fault of Provincial Government

COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Mayor Robin Jeffrey says she has waited long enough for the provincial government to act regarding inequities in the financing of the Quinte Planning Board.

Virtually since the board's inception, controversy has surrounded the double levy paid by some members.

Sidney and Thurlow in townships and the Village of Frankford — while they are not included in the Hastings County official plan — must help foot the county planning bill.

In addition, three must also pay membership fees in the Quinte Planning Board — the only board which is responsible for their planning.

The Quinte planning area was arranged by the provincial government and the townships were named as compulsory members.

The end result is the group pays twice for planning — once to the county and again to the Quinte board — constituting a double levy.

Finances have been a root of planning board problems — peaking with withdrawal three years ago of three western members, Brighton, Brighton Township and Murray Township.

Mayor Jeffrey said "the province must have an inch-thick file on letters concerning the double levy.

"It is totally inequitable and unfair," said Mayor Jeffrey. "There should be no double levy. A municipality should pay into only that body which provides its planning."

On this point the province seems to agree with the mayor but has failed to take any action other than saying "the matter is being considered," said the mayor.

Quinte Planning Board Chairman, Trenton Mayor Robert Patrick wrote to the province before Chirstmas with a final request for action. A response is anticipated in the next week.

"Another letter of consideration will not be a satisfactory answer this time," saidy Mayor Jeffrey. "If the situation isn't resolved before Jan. 23, the planning board will make an official presentation to the meeting of provincial cabinet ministers to be held in Belleville Feb. 17 and 18."

"The province has already said it is unfair and inequitable but we were never given a good answer," said Mayor Jeffrey.

The reeves of both townships have done everything they can, said the mayor. "They are very concerned."

The mayor said the board will also appear before the cabinet resource meeting for re-definition of the planning board's boundaries. Since the three western municipalities left the board some years ago, the board has overlooked planning in their areas but has never been officially re-drafted.

In addition to the planning board request, Mayor Jeffrey expects the city will be making at least two or three presentations to the mini cabinet meeting.

She declined to be specific as to what areas would be coverd in the delegations.

According to council sources other than the mayor, it is likely that the bridge re-location issue will be given considerable priority followed by bayfront studies.

Mayor Jeffrey said council will be called to a "working session" next week to formulate what issues should be put before the ministers.

Driver Charged

MADOC — A 17-year-old Marmora youth faces four charges following an automobile accident in Madoc Thursday.

Madoc police said Randy Kitcher, of RR 1, Marmora, has been charged with careless driving, impaired driving, consuming liquor while a minor and having a breathalyzer reading higher than the legal limit. He will appear in Madoc court Jan. 28.

Police said the accident occurred about 3:15 p.m. Thursday at the intersection of Elgin and Vic streets in Madoc.

A vehicle driven by Frank Palmer, 70 of Eddorado and one driven by Kitcher collided at the intersection, police said.

Army's Work Aids 1,006

The Salvation Army reports it helped over 1,000 individuals with its Christmas Cheer Appeal.

Capt. Robert Clous said 159 Christmas food vouchers and hampers were given out as well as 721 Christmas sunshine bags and treats for hospitals and nursing homes. He said that altogether 1,006 people were helped by the program.

He added that over the Chirstmas period 50 toys were given to needy children. Much of the money for the program comes from donations given to the Army's Christmas bubbles.

College Tackles Literacy Problem

Loyalist College, in conjunction with two area school boards, will seek to improve the lot of literacy in the area school system and the college.

Ernst Kneisel, college, public relations director, said Friday both the Hastings County Board of Education and the Hastings-Prince Edward County Separate School Board, and the college have pooled funds to invite an expert to speak to all teachers on English improvement in classrooms.

Mr. Kneisel announced Dan Fader, head of the English in Every Classroom program at the University of Michigan, and author of Hooked on Books, will be asked to speak here sometime before the end of the school year. No date has been set.

He said Mr. Fader is well-known for his work with young people in reform schools in Michigan, "who couldn't read their own names."

Mr. Kneisel pointed out the problem of declining literacy is apparent in every classroom, and usage of the English language require upgrading every subject, not just English.

QUINTE MALL — BELLEVILLE

No Decision Reached

Potter Ponders Political Future

By BARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Ontario — its population and politicians — are pondering the timing of the next provincial election.

And Richard Potter is assessing his running in that campaign — whenever it's called.

But, he quickly quashes any inference that such musing may be mistaken to mean he may not run again.

To date, he says his decision has been that he will stand again for Quinte riding — the Belleville — Trenton area constituency he has represented in the legislature as backbencher or cabinet minister since 1967.

"At the present time, that's my intention," he said in an interview this week with The Intelligencer.

In other words, he indicated, the fact he's thinking hard about running again doesn't mean he won't.

And, with his personal viewpoints on political careers, he says, there's nothing unique or singular about the process of pondering his political intentions at such a time.

"One thing I've alway said is I know enough when to quit. I've seen too many politicians that didn't. So naturally, one does give a lot of thought to this."

But, "as far as I'm concerned I still have a job to do and I'm still prepared to do it," he added.

The Belleville physicain and former mayor of his native city went into provincial politics with a particular job in mind. In the late 1960s the province's medicare program was in its controversial formative stages.

The blunt-talking Dr. Potter became a backbench skirmisher — often firing fusillades at his own reigning Conservative party. But, he moved into the cabinet — first as minister without portfolio, then to the post closest to his avowed ambitions — guiding restructure of Ontario's health programs. He became health minister in 1972.

Then, in February last year he was given the correctional services appointment.

At that time, he looked to having more time to spend in his riding.

But, he agreed, it hasn't quite worked out that way.

"I haven't had the opportunity to be down there as often," said Dr. Potter.

"I admit the work is different. And certainly I'm not under the pressure I was in health. But there's still plenty to keep me going. It's very, very difficult to get in all the things."

"Actually I'm around the riding a fair amount — much more than I was before. But it's only natural I don't see everybody."

He has a telephone answering service in the riding and constituency matters are "dealt with on a daily basis," he said.

"I don't think anyone can complain about the service they've got in the riding. ...If anyone says they've been neglected I'd like to hear from them — personally," said the minister.

Dr. Potter said he no comment on any ministerial reshuffles — moves, he says, Premier William Davis keeps "very, very close to his chest.'

He said his own cabinet appointments have come at short notice — his key health assignment just 24 hours before the announcement.

And the present government could go on through to 1976 before it needs to call an election, he added.

"Whether the premier is going to call an election this year, or go to next year, I don't know," said Dr. Potter.

Cabinet Visit

What an opportunity for citizens to really display some participatory democracy.

We refer to next month's visit to Belleville of Ontario cabinet ministers. To judge from the lineup there is a wealth of potential subject matter that could be discussed. Like tourism, energy, environmental matters including pollution, labor issues, not to mention the twin problems of inflation and recession.

From Agriculture Minister Stewart there will be an opportunity to seek assurance on such matters as the purity of the food available in stores — a subject that was of some concern of late with regard to meat.

From Transportation and Communications Minister Rhodes too we should expect a progress report on the Bay Bridge — a project that, what with inflation and neglect, could be threatened with oblivion unless decisions are made soon. Decisions that is, as to location, design and construction.

The cabinet people will be here, and this is the Quinte area's chance to say its piece.

International Image

Belleville Rotary Club in recent years has been reflecting more and more the international character of the service club organization.

Exchange visits by young businessmen from Australia as well as by students from the same country and from South Africa have been a feature of club activities.

Tom Wilkinson of Belleville Collegiate was a student representative of this area on the exchange program, spending a year as guest of the Nambour, Queensland, club, and he recounted his experiences at a recent meeting. BCI's Finnish visitor, Taina Boman, also told members about her homeland.

Then this summer the club is to have visitors from New Zealand and Japan, who will be in Canada for the Rotary International convention which this year is being held in Montreal.

Let's hope in this general context that Quebec's construction shutdown, already threatening the 1976 Olympics, will not drag on indefinitely.

Canada at large, and Quebec in particular, stand to lose much by way of both prestige and economic gain if necessary construction is not completed. As it is, inflation has boosted costs far above original estimates.

With such a large gathering of international visitors to Montreal this year, the progress or otherwise of Olympic preparations will affect Canada's image considerably. If by then the work is still falling behind it will be a discouraging state of affairs, both for this country, for its relations with other countries, and for sport.

Rotary meanwhile, along with other service clubs, reflect the sort of positive outlook and pride in accomplishment on behalf of others which the world needs. In its international work lies the potential also for better understanding among peoples everywhere.

Dangerous Practice

The senior citizens of Stirling and their spokesman, Albert Light, have brought some useful "people power" to bear on the situation regarding unshovelled snow and hot-rodders on snowmobiles.

If Belleville has witnessed some falling off in snowmobile activity (although not entirely, as a recent complaint about Christmas Day operations close to residences testified) it appears surrounding communities have as much of it as ever.

According to Mr. Light, snowmobiles are being driven at 50 to 70 mph in line abreast — a situation that should not be tolerated.

Clearly this poses a danger to citizens and snowmobilers alike, as does the fact of unshovelled sidewalks.

There are reports too of a similar situation regarding snowmobiles in Maynooth, in north Hastings. The OPP reportedly have caught some offenders there, and it looks as if a little disciplinary action is required of the law and local council in Stirling too.

Historical Forces at Work

World Economic Crisis Too Much for Political Cures?

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

There's been a sharp renewal of interest in cyclical patterns in business and the economy

One reason is that the world's major economies are all in a mess, despite unprecedented efforts by statesmen to "manage" economic affairs. This raises a question as to whether historical forces are just too powerful for politicians to handle.

Another reason is the uncanny persistence of regular cycles in nature and in human affairs.

Economists have carefully studied the statistics and found convincing evidence of regular cycles in wars, starting in 600 BC (a 17.7-year cycle), grouse abundance in Aberdeenshire (5.9 years), copper production, the rabbit population in Canada, and so on.

In the nineteenth century, the Hudson's Bay Co. was using cyclical studies of the prevalence of lynx in the Canadian North to employ enough trappers when the animals' population could be expected to reach a peak.

But long before that—since 1091, in fact—the Aztecs of pre-Hispanic Mexico had formalized a 52-year cycle that governed all aspects of community life for nearly five centuries.

A cycle is defined by economists as a period of expansion and contraction of business activity. At the upper turning point, contraction replaces expansion and continues until the trough is reached and a revival begins.

The upside of a cycle is characterized by brisk demand, rising prices, labor shortages and improving living standards. The downside brings declines in national income, in production and in employment.

Perhaps the most eminent student of business cycles in economic history was Prof. Nikolai D. Kondratieff, who was head of the Businss Research Institute of Moscow after the Russian Revolution of 1917.

Kondratieff studied price trends in the United States, France and Germany, trade in France and the United Kingdom, and the production of gold, iron, coal and other commodities throughout the world.

On the basis of what he found, he formulated his theory of cycles, and published it in a series of articles between 1922 and 1928.

But the Communist Party denounced his theory as being insufficiently anti-capitalist. In 1930, Kondratieff was arrested on charges of heading an illegal political party, and banished to Siberia.

His theory, taken up later by the well known Harvard University economist, Joseph Schumpeter, and others, was this:

In a depression, cheap money and cheap labor form a base for a sustained expansion that eventually ends in a war and massive inflation.

Then the economy begins to decline, deflation replaces inflation, and a full-scale recession gathers momentum. The process repeats itself over and over.

Kondratieff's cycles take about 54 years to run their course. The first began in the 1780s, peaked with the war of 1812-15, and bottomed in 1844-51. The second reached a peak in the American Civil War in the 1860s, and bottomed in 1890-96. The third cycle peaked just after World War I in 1920, and hit bottom in the Great Depression of the early 1930s.

Economists who subscribe to Kondratieff's theory—which was bolstered by much more detail than is given here—say the fourth cycle peaked with the Vietnam war, that the world is now in the first decade (deceptively pleasant) of a slide, and that a depression is due in the early 1980s.

Communist Takeover Feared

President Ford in Dilemma Over Vietnam Situation

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

The war in Vietnam, finished for the United States with the truce signed two years ago this month, has never ended there.

North and South Vietnam have maintained the struggle with the same bitterness, cruelty and determination which has marked the war from its beginnings in the early 1960s.

An estimated 200,000 Vietnamese on both sides, soldiers and civilians, have been killed or gone missing since the so-called truce got the Americans out of the conflict.

In the last few months, the build-up of Soviet and Chinese weapons for the forces of Communist North Vietnam, is beginning to pay off for the North Vietnamese who have about seven regiments of regular troops operating deep in the Republic of South Vietnam.

The most recent evidence of this was the overwhelming force of weapons and especially armor (Soviet heavy tanks), used to capture the provincial capital of Phuoc Binh, the first such city taken since the truce by the Communists.

Contrary to traditional reports about the fighting effectiveness of South Vietnamese forces, Phuoc Binh was very heavily defended with a suicide force of 1,000 defenders apparently dying to a man before they were overwhelmed by the tanks.

Beleaguered South Vietnamese Premier Thieu has requested more military aid from President Ford, aid of a kind forbidden the president by laws passed in Congress in 1973 against further assistance to South Vietnam.

This is presumably not the way President Ford wants it, since he has always been a hawk on Vietnam during his political career.

But he will not violate the wishes of Congress, (the new one dominated by the Democrats being more anti-war than the one which passed the anti-aid laws). If he did, it would be a repetition of former president Nixon's indiscriminate use of presidential powers as he did with the brief but intensely controversial Cambodian invasion in the summer of 1970.

Nevertheless the Americans cannot re-enter Vietnam, where they spent about $30 billion and lost 100,000 American lives to stop the Communist take-over of the south.

It looks closer today than ever before. In fact, the Communist Viet Cong Liberation Movement and regular North Vietnamese forces now control more of South Vietnam than when the late president Johnson severely escalated the American military role in 1964-66.

President Ford's military commanders, (who were by and large Nixon's military commanders), feel the president should intervene on behalf of the South Vietnamese.

The admiral in command of U.S. forces in the Pacific theatre said as much a few days ago, speaking out-of-turn politically, but with a military concern for a deteriorating situation which is understandable.

Unfortunately the admral is talking about a new landing of American forces, not just more military aid to the South Vietnamese, the former now being more opposed by Congress than the latter.

President Thieu who operates another oppressive South East Asian regime and is allegedly unpopular in much of South Vietnam, is anathema to many in Congress. But he is now an ally in trouble and is again asking for support.

Mr. Ford's dilemma in all these regards is substantial. He will be damned whether he refuses aid, or if he steps in to help Mr. Thieu.

Mayor Jeffrey's Address Sparks Reaction

Editor
The Intelligencer:

Having wiped the tears from my eyes after listening to the inaugural session of council I paused to read over again the comments of Her Worship Mayor Jeffrey.

One of the things that impressed me was the mayor's insistence that "city politicians" must take grass roots consultation with the citizenry before endorsing priorities. This is most comforting. No doubt the citizenry of Elizabeth Crescent will be pleased to hear this.

I heartily endorse Her Worship's sentiments "that such discussions must be frank". My impression of the past two years of council philosophy was that the last thing they wanted or appreciated, was frankness. Perhaps times are changing..

In the light of the "frankness" theme, may I be frank and say that I expect the citizenry at large to be exhorted to underwrite the cost of burying the construction details regarding roads, etc., to allow for construction of Century Square. I expect we will be told that this will be "our contribution".

One area Her Worship was perfectly correct in was the assumption that society, as a whole has lost the confidence they used to have in politicians. That goes at the municipal level too.

I don't think we have any corrupt people on our council, but I would hesitate to say that we have no incompetent or irelevant people holding down civic offices.

Public faith in Belleville's council was not, and has not been shaken - the turn out for the election proved it has never existed.

UCS and Citizens' Bureau

Editor:
The Intelligencer.

At this early date in the new year I hate to say "I told you so." The article in Thursday's issue "U.C.S. may withdraw Bureau support" is the very thing that I suspected from the very day the Citizens' Bureau was taken under the wing of the United Community Services.

U.C.S. president Virginia O'Rourke says the Bureau should not receive funds and suggests strongly they are not servicing the people of Belleville.

I would suggest that Mrs. O'Rourke contact the Citizens' Bureau where she will find that 80 per cent of the present case load comes from the city of Belleville.

Be that as it may, the kindest thing that could happen to the Citizens' Bureau is for them to be dropped or to leave the UCS on their own accord.

The name has been used and many have donated to the campaign because of a belief in the Citizens' Bureau. Those people have been misled.

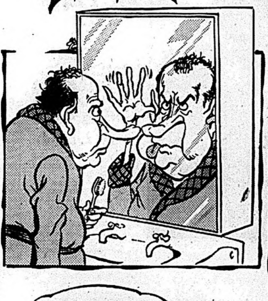
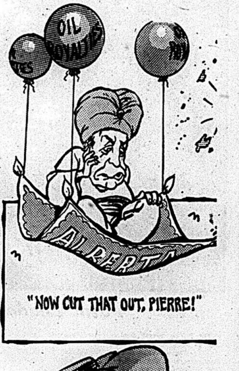
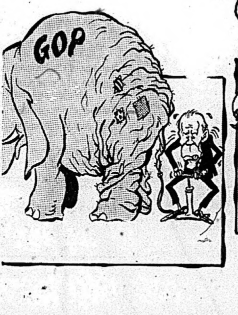
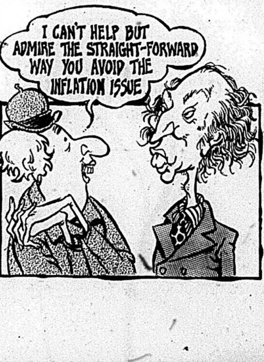
SAY, DIDN'T YOU USE TO BE ROBERT STANFIELD?

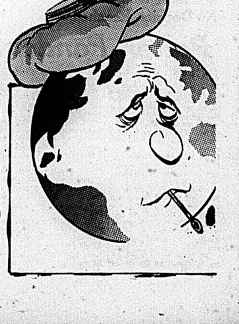








I CAN'T HELP BUT ADMIRE THE STRAIGHT-FORWARD WAY YOU AVOID THE INFLATION ISSUE



Deep Religious Faith Needed As Just Society's Foundation

by
Dr. Gordon C. Smyth

The larger part of at least one generation has emerged from our secondary schools believing that cleverness and wisdom are identical. All a person has to do to gain an audience on behalf of this identification is to wave the banner of "democracy"..

But what really constitutes a free society? One in which citizens acknowledge statutes approved by a general consensus of opinion. One in which they realize that a culture has a soul as well as a body..

Behind census figures, including religious affiliation, are individuals. These figures should be brought to light on the issue of religion in our schools. There seems to be a conspiracy of silence over them.

Perhaps we all need to be reminded of the influence of Christianity on the society into which the vast majority of us were born and others glad to enter. For instance, Lord Acton wrote a number of famous essays on "Freedom."

In one he made this observation, "Our Lord not only delivered the precept, but created the force to execute it. The new law, the new spirit, the new authority, gave to liberty a meaning and a value it had not possessed in the philosophy or in the constitution of Greece or Rome before the knowledge of the truth that makes us free."

An impartial and comparative study of world religions is no substitute for the option of a previous, non-sectarian and intensive study of the Christian religion.

How can those who are basically ignorant of their own spiritual inheritance be adequate interpreters of western culture to those who have been trained in other religions? How can illiterates wisely appraise the significance of the non-Christian religions?

I need not comment on what has been happening in the U.S.A. But I feel that many of my readers may be unaware of how extensively Ontario has adopted the American philosophy of education. The transplant is producing bitter fruit.

That is why a fundamental requirement of education is less in the field of ethics than in the field of religion. Only a deep religious faith can provide the foundations of a just society, as it reveals what God can do for the transformation of man far more than what man can do by himself.

Morning Prayers Held At Cleaning Business

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Like hundreds of small employers, Ed and Doris Fisher hold meetings with their employees every week.

But the Jackson franchisers preach neither efficiency nor profits. They discuss neither work assignments nor problems in their carpet-cleaning and custodial business.

They pray.

The non-denominational gathering is required of nobody at the Fishers' ServiceMaster Co., but Ed Fisher says most of his firm's 25 employees take part regularly.

ServiceMaster Industries Inc., with 1,000 North American franchises, was founded by Marion Wade, who took the name as a shortened version of "Service to the Master," Fisher said.

It is a goal that keeps the Fishers going.

"I have three loves, My God, my family and my vocation," said Fisher. "We're working to serve the people. Were not in it just for the money.'

Ed Fisher was a pickle salesman working in Adrian until 1968, when he and Mrs. Fisher decided to start the cleaning business. Until this year, the franchise operated out of their home in Jackson.

"Salvation" came in 1971 for the Fishers, he said, through the inspiration of Mrs. Wade, whose ServiceMaster motto is "If you dont live it, you don't believe it.'

The Fishers began to live it.

Fisher said he believes his religious revival has been the key factor in boosting his business in the past three years. The firm was honored by the home office last year as one of its top six ServiceMasters.

"I've seen a lot of people find themselves through their jobs here," Fisher said of the early-morning prayer meetings. And business has doubled in the last year.

One-time Catholic Now Lutheran Pastor

CAMBRIDGE, Ont. (CP) — John O'Connor is an odd name for a Lutheran. It's even stranger when Rev. John O'Connor is a Lutheran pastor, but then Mr. O'Connor is not a traditional Lutheran.

He is pastor of the 114-year-old Lutheran church here although he started life as a Roman Catholic and even studied for the Catholic priesthood.

But he doesn't see a great difference between his original goal of the Catholic priesthood and his present Lutheran ministry.

"The only change is where I send my forms," he said in an interview.

"The traditions are difficult to change, the cultural things that grow up around religion. I've really just changed problems—I've exchanged the things that used to bother me about Roman Catholicism for the things that bother me about Lutheranism."

After entering the Maryknoll Catholic seminary in New York in the 1960s he eventually met his future wife Joan and found a job outside.

He was counting money in a vault of the Wells Fargo security transport organization—he couldn't work on the trucks because he refused to carry a gun.

"They trusted me because I was a seminarian," he recalled. "If we balanced within $40 at the end of the day, we went home."

His next stop was the Episcopal parish of East Los Angeles where he observed the church's work with Mexican-Americans.

Although he considered entering the Episcopal ministry, he dropped the idea when told he would have to spend two years studying.

Eventually he followed his wife's lead—she is a former Lutheran deaconess—and enrolled in the nearby Waterloo Lutheran Seminary.

Now he takes part in a pulpit exchange with the two other Lutheran churches in the Cambridge area.

His style is far from traditional, too. Once the bearded young minister delivered a sermon on the parish as a team, wearing a gym suit and dribbling a basketball

As for the way his congregation regards him: "I think they're getting used to me."

Mr. O'Connor would like to become accredited as a hospital chaplain. He was instrumental in starting the first on-all ministerical service for South Waterloo Hospital and that service now has 20 ministers from a variety of Protestant faiths.

Religious Leaders Seek Ulster Peace

DUBLIN (AP) — Irish religious leaders today sought the help of Prime Minister Liam Cosgrave in getting the Irish Republican Army (IRA) to extend its ceasefire in Northern Ireland again.

The churchmen also may ask for the release of Kevin Mallon, an IRA leader who helped arrange the ceasefire and was arrested in Dublin Wednesday. But government sources said there was little chance that Cosgrave would make any gesture toward the illegal guerrilla army

Mallon, who escaped from Portlaoise Jail southwest of Dublin last August, was one of the IRA men who met secretly in December with representatives of Northern Ireland's Protestant churches to arrange the ceasefire.

The meeting was held at a country hotel inside the republic and apparently was not cleared with the government. Because of this, the delegation Friday included none of the Protestants who attended that meeting. Instead it was made up of William Cardinal Conway, the Roman Catholic primate of Ireland; Dr. Temple Lundie, moderator of Ireland's Presbyterian church; Dr. George Simm, primate of the Protestant Church of Ireland; and Rev. Desmond Morris, president of the Methodist Church.

The IRA ceasefire began Dec. 23. It was scheduled to end Jan. 2 but was extended to Jan 16 after the British government released some IRA men from prison and internment camps and hinted that it might make more concessions if the truce continued.

Jesuits Disturb Pope Paul

VATICAN CITY (Reuter) — Father Pedro Arrupe, superior-general of the Jesuits, said Wednesday Pope Paul was grieved by the behavior of the members of the order and unhappy about the way it was being run.

Addressing the 32nd congregation of the Roman Catholic Church's largest order, Father Arrupe said the Pope was especially wounded by members who unjustly criticized his actions and the church hierarchy

Father Arrupe said he had always informed the Pope of the affairs of the order and followed his advice.

The superior-general said the violation of secrecy by individual Jesuits was among the major reasons for the difficulty of governing the order and criticized priests who published his own letters and secret documents in the press without permission.

"If these cases were to recur, the government of the order told 230 delegates to the congregation, which opened here last month. The order has 23,000 members.

Adversary System Harms Children

SASKATOON (CP) — The adversary system now used in court cases involving custody of children in marriage breakups is a disadvantage to the children, Mr. Justice E. D. Bayda of Saskatchewan Court of Queen's Bench said Tuesday.

Mr. Justice Bayda, a member of the Law Reform Commission of Saskatchewan, told the University of Saskatchewan's annual Farm and Home Week meeting that the adversary system—in which one party must win and the other lose—works well in some cases but should not involving custody of children.

He said the whole area of rights of children in divorce cases should be examined because while each parent might be represented by lawyers there is no on to speak for the children.

Mr. Justice Bayda said it was fortunate that in many cases parents in a divorce situation recognize they should not use their children as "pawns," but there are substantial numbers of cases in which separating parents "cannot decide in a mature way what is best for their children."

Diane Pask of Saskatoon, a research officer with the commission, said orders for the maintenance of children are difficult to enforce and need review.

She said studies in Ontario showed that only 20 per cent of such orders were fulfilled in the first year and Saskatchewan statistics probably would be about the same.

Jail can result if such maintenance is not paid but this is a recourse which Saskatchewan courts "use with great reluctance," she said.

She said there are proposals for alternatives including one in which payments would be made from public funds to avoid the often bitter and humiliating situation for wives after a divorce or breakup.

"The state would then seek reimbursement by taking action against the defaulting spouse."

Earlier Tuesday, the audience was told the commission is suggesting changes in Saskatchewan's matrimonial laws based on the concept that marriage is a partnership of equals.

The traditional idea that a man and woman become one in marriage no longer is considered acceptable by society.

Prof. Brian Grosman, commission chairman, said many questions remain to be answered before a final report is made to the government recommending legislative changes.

Prof. Grosman said the commission's first and immediate proposal is that the courts be given wide discretion to order the division of property between spouses in the case of a marriage breakup.

It also is proposing legislation to provide for co-ownership of the matrimonial home to give "some measure of security" to both partners.

The Dallas Fashion Mart, the second largest wholesale fashion market in North America, has opened a new section called The Territory. Texas Fashion Mart 'Big Business'

By MARGARET NESS

DALLAS, Tex. (CP) — It's big business when 3,000 international store buyers turn up for a fashion show breakfast. And that's what happened at the 10th anniversary of the opening of Dallas' Fashion Mart, the second largest wholesale fashion market on the continent after New York.

Fashion marts are a comparatively new concept. The idea is to house apparel manufacturers in showrooms in one building. This is for the convenience of store buyers who shop a market at least two or three times a year. There aren't many such marts in the world. Even New York hasn't one—the industry crowds along Seventh Avenue. In Montreal the apparel firms are scattered and in Toronto they tend to congregate along centretown Spadina Avenue.

Dallas opened its apparel mart in 1964. Actually it's one of six buildings that make up the huge Dallas Market Centre, including furniture and the brand new World Trade Mart. It's the world's largest wholesale marketing complex in one location and under one ownership. The first market drew 5,000 buyers. Now, 10 years later, the spring market (held in October) topped 14,000 including buyers from Canada, Mexico and 12 foreign countries. There now are 1,250 permanent showrooms.

Last fall the mart added two new sections. One is for high-fashion clothes. Ten leading American designers moved in and showed their spring lines here before the New York market.

The other section is called The Territory. It's exclusively for western wear manufacturers and the 40 permanent showrooms were snapped up immediately. All the showroom fronts look like early frontier buildings and there's a courtyard area complete with false-front replicas of a saloon, hotel, opera house, barber shop and sheriff's office. There's also a patio snack bar.

Visitors are permitted to wander through the apparel mart except during seasonal buying weeks. Focal point is the Great Hall, 280 by 150 feet and up nearly 60 feet to a free form skylight.

The hall has five huge tapestries in a series of Arabian Nights tales. In them Scheherazade dresses her younger sister in extravagant gowns for formal court presentation. It's probably the first fashion show recorded in literature.

The new World Trade Centre has import and export showrooms and offices for everything connected with trade, including some foreign consular offices. It has a huge Hall of the Nations with flags hanging out from the fourth-floor encircling balcony.

Fashion director of the huge apparel mart since its inception is Kim Dawson, a native Texan and former fashion model. She even crashed modelling in haute couture houses in Paris.

For the new look this spring she sees a strong return to skirts.

"Everything is fluid and in motion" she says, "so the fabrics are softer than they've ever been." Two-piecers are prevalent for spring and include skirts with tops, also three-piece dresses which include top and jacket.

The army fatigues look is new and she thought women may soon see city shorts. Colors will be either soft and muted or strong, as acid green, chrome yellow or burnt ginger red.

ILO Report:

Working Wives Treated Unfairly

GENEVA (AP) — The International Labor Organization (ILO) says working women spend more time on household chores than their husbands and suggests equal sharing of the burden.

An ILO report entitled Equality of Opportunity and Treatment for Women Workers, says married women with children are the worst victims of overwork, enjoying less than two-thirds of the free time enjoyed by their husbands.

Mothers who also have outside jobs put in between 70 and 80 hours of work a week, says the report prepared for next June's annual ILO conference as its contribution to Internationalt Women's Year—1975.

Citing recent studies in several countries, the report says that in Finland urban, women workers spend four hours daily on housework and men less than two; in Leningrad, two-thirds of working women complain of fatigue; and in France and Japan, women work three times as long as men on household chores.

"Where does the solution lie?" the report asks. Answering its own question it says: "Perhaps in three directions"

"First, as one of the prerequisites of sexual equality, a more equal and equitable sharing of the burden of housework and the care of children between men and women.

"Second, a greater rationalization and mechanization of housework so men and women have more leisure.

"Third, the shifting of a large part of housework outside the individual family."

Ann Landers

Troubled Teen Should Relax

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like to say a few words to that 16-year-old guy who said he was "laughing on the outside and crying on the inside."

His folks keep telling him that high school years should be the happiest of his entire life, but he complained that his social life was dull as dishwater and he wasn't very popular with either boys or girls. Everywhere he looked people seemed to be having a great time.

You answered, "Teen years can be the roughest," and told him he was not alone. I'm in agreement with you, Ann, but I have some suggestions that might help.

The surest way to be unpopular is to think you are. Stop being so concerned with people's opinion of you. Relax and enjoy yourself. Go out of your way to be pleasant and thoughtful. Start really listening and being interested in what others have to say. You'll be surprised at their reactions.

If you'd like to get to know a girl better, ask her for a date. She won't ask YOU. Start showing more friendliness—to everybody. You sound like a nice young man with deep feelings. There are plenty of people who would love to be your friend. So take my advice and I'll bet you'll notice a big change in your life before long.—Pulling For You

Dear Pulling: Thank you for a truly constructive letter. You've done a nifty job of zeroing in on the problem. I can vouch for the fact that if all lonesome teen-agers would follow your advice they'd be a lot happier.

Dear Ann Landers: I just read "Married In Name Only"—the minister's wife who had celibacy forced on her. Let me tell you MY story, and I'm praying for some solid answers, as are thousands of other women who are in the same boat.

My husband wasn't a minister but we had a wonderful marriage. At the age of 42, even though he told me I was still very attractive, a wonderful wife, a lovely mother, a fine cook, great in bed, and he loved my sense of humor, SOMETHING was missing. He didn't know what. I found out "what" when I caught him with a woman old enough to be his mother. He wanted a divorce so they could be married. I agreed.

It nearly killed me to lose this wonderful man, but with the help of some generous and considerate friends I pulled myself together, got a job, and began to raise our son—alone. It was plenty rough at the age of 40 to put my sex life on "hold."

The minister's wife didn't ask me, but if she had I would have told her that living without sex wouldn't kill her. Praying for Divine Guidance may work for her, but it didn't work for me. My husband was a marraige counsellor and he knew all the answers. Suggestions, anybody?—D.E.S.

Dear D.E.S.: This might sound like a mighty feeble response—and to be perfectly truthful, I'm not very proud of it, but your advice to the minister's wife might be the answer for you.

In the meantime, keep it altogether, stay alert, attractive and in the mainstream of life. Don't hang around with widows and other divorcees. A woman who has all the qualities your ex-husband attributed to you shouldn't have to spend the rest of her life alone. Good luck, honey.

Doris Clark

Little Mary Was Right

The phone rings. Dad, tired from his day's work, says: "If that is for me, tell them I'm not home." Little Mary looks at him, runs to the phone.

It is for him. She says, "Yes, he's here. Just a minute." Grubbling, he takes the phone out of her hand.

A few minutes later, Dad gets a reproach from Mary. "Daddy I'm sorry but I couldn't tell that man you weren't here. You were here, you know. And you know how you talk to me about the importance of always telling the truth." Dad sheepishly acknowledged she was right.

Mother grinned to her self as she overheard from the kitchen.

Makes us adults think a little about the impression we are making, doesn't it?

Dear Doris: I had my last cigarette two months ago (I hope). I was addicted. I found it very hard to stop, but I did, and I am still fighting it.

Everything I do, and I mean everything: parties, hockey game, coming out of church, etc., reminds me of having a cigarette. I even dream about smoking, and when I wake up I wonder if I really did smoke.

For me it is a constant battle. It is getting better and I hope to win out. I want to be a non-smoker I started smoking when I was 18 and I am now 38, so it is hard to break a 20-year-habit.

I'll tell you what really did help: the "7th Day Adventist" five-day no-smoking plan. I heard about it from a friend, and it did help, but mostly it is perseverance, and I don't think a person who has never smoked can judge or even understand the plight of a smoker; can you imagine what an alcoholic suffers? I imagine mine is easy compared to that.

I feel better, but I eat more, and I've gained weight. My clothes don't smell os smoke my purse is not full of bits of tobacoco, my fingers aren't brown — but it is a real fight.

Sorry this turned into an essay — and if you decide to put some of it in the paper, please just sign me—

Still Fighting.
(after 70 days)

Dear Still Fighting: Orchids to you! Keep pushing ahead. Don't be like the little girl who struggled to get to the top of the hill and gave up too soon. Imitate the little engine who puffed his way up, saying: "I think I can ... Puff, puff, I knew I could!" as he sailed over the top.

You can do it. Thousands have. An the day will come not far off I'd say, when you'll wonder what you ever saw in those coffin nails.

OFTEN

JOHN R BUSH

R. DOUGLAS RUSHNELL

Q. HOW MUCH SHOULD A FUNERAL COST?

A. The Cost is decided by the Family and should be based on present finances. According to statistics Canada in 1972 i nOntario, the average cost of a Funeral was $807.00. This is not the price of the casket alone but consists of the following:

1. Professional Services
2. Provision of Facilities
3. Use of Automotive Equipment
4. The Casket Chosen

THIS COST WILL VARY ACCORDING TO THE STYLE AND QUALITY OF THE CASKET YOU SELECT.

IF YOU HAVE A QUESTION PLEASE WRITE TO BOX 43, ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER.

The Consumer — Sharon Airhart

Grisly Riddle: What's Worse Than Dieppe?

"The Empress of Ireland collision in the St. Lawrence saw 1,024 men, women and children lost. Dieppe in the Second World War saw 937 Canadian killed. These two tragedies are constantly talked about, even today. Yet the 1,959 victims of Ontario's roads in 1974 somehow do not seem to warrant the same attention, let alone preventative action from the powers that be."

The speaker is Fred Ellis, general manager of the Ontario Safety League.

He says that the number of persons killed every year on Ontario roads can be substantially reduced if the province would implement a few proven measures.

First, persons applying for driver's licences should be required to produce evidence of satisfactorily completing a course of standardized professional driving instruction.

Secondly, drivers who have accumulated a significant number of demerit points should be required to take a defensive driving course.

"In jurisdictions where this program has been undertaken," he says, "less than half the graduates had further infractions."

An important fact, I think, when bad drivers are usually incorrigible.

Mr. Ellis also recommends two controversial steps. They are, of course, mandatory seat belts and reduced speed limits.

"The Ontario Safety League is the first to admit that mandatory safety belt usage would be difficult to enforce. Yet we believe that there is a hard-core majority of law abiding citizens who would buckle up simply because it is the law.

"Mr. Ellis adds that Australian statistics — seat belts are mandatory there — prove that safety belts save lives.

As for speed limits, Mr Ellis says that "someone in our government must be either misreading U.S. statistics," or not getting current information.

The figures for the first eight months of 1974 show a substantial decrease in accident fatalities. The fact that the reduction in traffic deaths was greater than the reduction in injuries indicated that reduced accident severity — thanks to slower speeds — had pushed many potential fatalities into the injury classification.

Building a backyard skating rink this month doesn't mean you'll regret it in May if you build it the right way.

Horticulturalist R. F. Gomme of the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food recommends that you start the rink after a deep layer of snow has accumulated on the frozen ground.

Don't scrape away the snow. "Build the rink on top so grass under the ice benefits from air in the snow," Mr. Gomme says.

Outline the rink area by moulding the snow into a ridge. Place boards or plywood on edge inside the ridge for hockey cushions. Level the snow inside the edging by dragging a snow shovel or toboggan over the rink area.

To build the base, sprinkle water many times for short periods, either directly on the snow or one large plastic shet covering the snow. A garden hose or lawn sprinkler is ideal for this job, he says. (Mr. Gomme must be one of those persons who gets everything done in season; my garden hose is lying under a foot or two of snow). At any rate, tramp the area around the rink edges to prevent water from draining away.

Patch roughspots or holes with snow, then soak with water. Clean the ice surface before each flooding. Once a good base is formed keep the ice smooth by frequently giving it a light spray.

A Night Out for the Family Doesn't Have to be Costly

There's a better way to spend a long winter's afternoon or evening than sitting around the house staring at the kids staring at the television.

Getting out and into something interesting and perhaps even a little exerting is good for your head and your body. And it might even do something for your family's appreciation of each other. And it doesn't have to be expensive.

Let's talk about a family with a 10-year-old and a 12-year-old and two parents.

You might want to try bowling some Sunday afternoon. You can bowl at the Belleville Plaza Bowl from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. on Sunday or from 9 p.m. to 11. It will cost 75 cents per person per game - junior rates don't apply on Sunday - and you'd likely bowl three games. Five pin bowling is a little cheaper - 60 cents. You'll want to rent shoes too, at 30 cents per pair. Total cost: $10.20.

If bowling doesn't catch your fancy but you're looking for an indoor sport, take the kids roller skating. You can skate at Ben Bleeker Auditorium from 7 to 10 p.m. on Friday and from 1 to 4 pm. on Saturday. Sunday hours are 2 to 5 p.m and 7 to 10 p.m. Costs are $1 per adult and 50 cents for children. If Dad and the little tots want to sit it out, they can watch for 25 cents. The ordinary fee includes the cost of the skates. Our family would spend $3 for three hours of skating fun.

Watching a sport appeals to some people more than taking part: You can see a Junior B hockey game every Friday night at Belleville Memorial Arena between now and February 2 at 9 p m. There's a game on Sunday, January 19 at 8 p.m. Adults are admitted for $1.75 and children for $1. Our family could see the game for $5.50.

If sports doesn't appeal, you can enjoy a pleasant afternoon at the Hastings County Museum any day of the week except Monday. Museum hours are 1 to 5 p.m. and fees are minimal: 50 cents each for adults; children admitted free with parents. Take grandma and grandpa along while you're at it: senior citizens are only charged 25 cents. The family of four would pay just $1.

Quiet times can be had too at the library where an evening or afternoon of browsing is free. Unfortunately, the library is closed on Sunday. There are frequent public programs at the library; check the bulletin board.

You can swim at the YMCA during public swimming hours on Friday from 7:30 p.m. to 9 and Wednesday from 8:30 to 10. Costs are 75 cents for adults and 35 cents for kids: our family would pay $2.20 for the evening's swimming.

For the outdoor-oriented - or better for those who haven't tried — there's free walking any day of the week in Vanderwater Park north of the city on Highway 37.

If you're adventurous, rent snow shoes from Quinte Rent-All for $2 a pair a day. They have children's sizes and the day will cost you $8 for a family of four.

If snowshoes don't appeal, how about cross-country skiing? At the Batawa Ski Club you can rent boots, poles and skis for about $6 a person a day and children's equipment is available.

Get Your Photos

Our files are full, and need to be cleaned out!

They're full of wedding and engagement photos that have appeared in The Intelligencer during the past several months.

As soon as a photo has been used, it may be picked up from the Women's Department (upstairs in The Intelligencer's editorial room) between 8.30 a.m. and 2.30 p.m.

If you want to retrieve photos from weddings and engagements that occurred during 1974, please do so during the coming week.

If you plan to be married and to have photos taken for use in the newspaper, tell your photographer that a black and white glossy print should be made of the picture you choose to send. Color prints, and those with a matte finish, do not reproduce as well as black and white prints.

Wedding forms are available from The Women's Department. Filled out forms must reach The Intelligencer within three weeks of the wedding for inclusion in the newspaper. Tell your photographer that this rule also applies to photos.

KEEP ME WARM ONE NIGHT

By Harold B Burnham
Dorothy K Burnham

Prince Edward and Hastings Counties figure largely in the textile history of Eastern Canada, the subject of this massive and exhaustive study of early handweaving.

The book, published by the University of Toronto Press with the co-operation of the Royal Ontario Museum, is the product of a quarter century of research conducted for the museum by the authors and their predecessors in the Textile Department.

The clothes, carpets, blankets, linens, and most importantly, coverlets of the 19th century are recorded in the book in innumerable photographs Many are from the Quinte area some brought from the United States by the Loyalists.

There is for example, a widely popular coverlet of the day "Beauty of the Lake". Donated to the Royal Ontario Museum by a Bloomfield resident, the coverlet was woven in indigo blue on white cotton about 1840. The book says: "This county, surrounded by the sparkling waters of Lake Ontario, must have been breathtakingly lovely when the first settlers came in the 1780s. That beauty is commemorated here."

The book, which would be useful to antique buffs, history buffs and weavers alike (patterns have names like Whig Rose, Freemason's Felicity, Indian Plains, Monmouth and Wellington's Army in the Field of Battle.) is available at Corby Library.

Male Doctors Have Hang-up

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Bette Stephenson, president of the Canadian Medical Association, told the Empire Club Thursday that she has never felt that she required liberating.

Dr. Stephenson said she could count on her fingers the number of times she has been aware of any sexual discrimination by her profesisonal colleagues.

She said most of the predominantly male audience have no concern about their wives visiting a male obstetrician but would have serious reservations about asking her to examine their prostate glands.

"The hangup, gentlemen, is yours—not mine. I am simply a physician."

Frozen Branches Need Gentle Care

A tree is a tower of strength - except when it is frozen and brittle.

To avoid injuring frozen trees and shrubs, especially gnetly when removing snow and ice. Brush off the snow and prop ip ice-laden branches until melting begins.

Carefully help branches back into place when they have been weighed down by snow or ice. "Remember, rough, sudden shaking can cause branches to snap," warns Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food horticulturist D.B. McNeill, "so be gentle!"

If evergreens are wrapped in twine or plastic mesh with branches pointing upward, the snow and ice will slip off more readily and will not need to be removed so frequently, he suggests.

Turkey Replaced

NEW YORK (AP) — Kentucky fried chicken replaced roast turkey this year at the Salvation Army's traditional Bowery Thanksgiving dinner for 2,000 homeless persons. The switch in the almost 100-year-old menu was made when the Colonel Sanders organization donated its specialty as part of its co-operation with the Salvation Army's new food drive.

Special Admission for those not eligible...

...under the normal regulations. A maximum of fifty persons, who would not qualify under regular admission criteria, will be admitted as full-time students in the Faculty of Arts and Science, Queen's University, if they show potential for university work.

Application:
Applicants must have reached the age of 18 by September 1, 1975, and have completed a minimum Ontario grade 10 or the equivalent. Persons who are presently registered as full-time high school students are not eligible. Preference will be given to persons under 21 years of age at the end of 1975, and to those who have not previously attended a university. Persons 21 years of age or older, who have not attended a university, and who have been out of school for three years, may apply for admission under the Mature Student Regulation.

Selection:
A variety of tests and other selection procedures will be carried out during March and April, 1975. Successful candidates will be chosen on the basis of ability, achievement and motivation.

Deadline:
Due to the nature of the selection procedure, it is in the best interests of applicants to make enquiries as early in 1975 as possible. All enquiries must be received by March 3, 1975.

Miller Dazzling, Even to Himself

Ariz. (AP) — Johnny Miller was almost blushing. He actually giggled.

And when he spoke, there was a question in his voice as though he couldn't believe it all. "Sometimes ... sometimes I wonder if I'm for real."

Miller, the 1974 Player of the Year, has the rest of pro golf's touring gypsies wondering just the same thing.

The object of awe this time was a 10-under-par 61 in Friday's second round of the $150,000 Phoenix Open golf tournament, the kickoff event on this year's tour.

It gave him a 128 total, 14 under par on the 6,726-yard Phoenix Country Club course. And it gave him a whopping six-stroke lead after 36 holes.

The 61 is within one stroke of an all-time tour record, Miller's second on this course, and matches the lowest competitive round shot in the United States since 1957.

The 128 for two rounds is within two shots of the all-time tour record and is the best on the tour in at least five years.

Mike Hill, who had the unfortunate experience of shooting 63 and losing ground, was the only man in the field even able to keep Miller in view. He was second at 134.

It was another three strokes back to Roy Pace and Dick Lotz at 137. Lotz had a 68, Pace 69. At 138 were Jim Ahern, Gene Littler and the two men who shared the first-round lead with Miller, John Mahaffey and Leonard Thompson. Thompson and Mahaffey had 71s, Littler 67 and Ahern 69.

KERN 12 BEHIND

Ben Kern of London, Ont., shot his second 70 for 140 but was still 12 strokes off the pace. Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg had a 71-145 and George Knudson of Toronto also made the cut with a 74-145.

U.S. Open Champ Hale Irwin had 70-145 and PGA titleholder Lee Trevino 70-143.

Jack Nichlaus, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player are not competing.

Miller needed only 23 strokes on the greens. And he was thinking of a score in the untouched '50s.

Ali to Defend Title

CHICAGO (AP) — Muhammad Ali has agreed conditionally to defend his heavyweight boxing title March 24 against Chuck Wepner in Cleveland but a fight with Ron Lyle is still in the picture, his manager said Friday.

Herbert Muhammad said the Wepner match clearly wasn't the fight he wanted for Ali but it was the best that could be arranged after more than a month of negotiations trying to schedule a Madison Square Garden fight with Lyle.

"After more than a month of hawging. I got sick of it and got caught playing the hand I was bluffing with," said Muhammad in a telephone interview.

He said the Wepner fight is conditional on promoter Don King's raising a guaranteed $1.5 million for Ali. If King doesn't come up with the money by Tuesday, Muhammad said he will sign with Garden officials guaranteeing $2.2 million for Ali to fight Lyle.

Two other promoters offered more than $2 million for an Ali-Lyle fight in New York, Muhammad said, but refused to come up with an additional tax money.

After the Wepner fight was arranged, Garden officials said they would come up with the extra money, according to Muhammad, who said he assured them Thursday that if the Wepner fight falls through, Ali will sign for Lyle in the Garden.

Harris Hands Over Toro Reins

BILLY HARRIS

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Billy Harris, citing family illness, has stepped down as coach of Toronto Toros, leaving the job to Toros left winger Bobby Leduc.

As a parting tribute to Harris, the World Hockey Association team scored a rare home-ice victory Friday night by a 4-3 score over San Diego Mariners.

Harris, Toros coach for 2½ seasons, told a news conference after the game he was taking a two-week leave of absence and there was only a slim chance he would return.

"I had a meeting with Johnny Bassett (Toros president) yesterday and requested this time to think things over," said Harris. "The chances of my returning are slim, however.

"My wife (Sylvia) is sick and has to re-enter hospital. My six-year-old daughter (Patty) requires major surgery and then there is the hockey team.

"I can't handle all three. I can only handle one. Johnny asked me who I thought should take over as coach and I suggested Bobby. He is a team leader and has the respect of the players and management."

In other WHA games Friday, Quebec Nordiques maintained their three-point lead over the Toros in the Canadian Division by beating Winnipeg Jets 6-1, Cleveland Crusaders defeated Vancouver Blazers 6-4, Chicago Cougas beat Michigan Stags 5-2 and Edmonton Oilers tied 3-3 with Indianapolis Racers.

Despite leading the Canadian Division for most of the first half of the season, the Toros have had trouble winning at Maple Leaf Gardens and there have been rumors Harris might be fired.

"I wasn't fired and I didn't quit," said Harris. "The players understood that I didn't quit on them. I made this decision for personal reasons."

He also denied that Bassett had put any pressure on him to step down although he heard that other club directors had pressured Bassett to make a coaching change.

However, Harris conceded that "maybe a coaching change is what the team needs."

"We've won only five out of our last 14 or 15 games here (Toronto)."

Harris, 39, said he was already relieved at quitting the job.

"Coaching is not my life. I don't love it. I've been active in hockey for 25 years and I don't find the coaching part of it enjoyable. It's very mechanical."

A former National Hockey League regular, Harris started coaching in junior hockey in 1970, then coached the Swedish national team for a year before joining the Toros. He was also head coach of the WHA select squad known as Team Canada which last October managed a win and three ties in an eight-game series against the Soviet Union national team.

Harris said he thought he might work as a scout with the Toros and would try to help Leduc.

"It will be difficult taking over as coach considering that I've played with these guys for a couple of seasons," said Leduc, 30, who has been with the club since they started as Ottawa Nationals.

"I feel I have a few seasons left as a player and I will miss playing. It will be nerve racking at first and I'm quite nervous about taking over at this point."

Leduc said the whole team was anxious to win Friday's game for Harris.

"That's why we came back like we did," he said, referring to their rally from behind a 2-1 first-period deficit. "There was no way we were going to let Billy Harris leave with a loss."

The Toros pelted San Diego goalie Ernie Wakely with 44 shots, many of them from close range.

"I was seeing Toros jerseys all game," said Wakely. "They played so consistently they were coming at me the entire 60 minutes."

At Chicago, Gary MacGregor scored twice—his 16th and 17th goals of the season—to lead the Cougars over Michigan which stretched its windless streak on the road to 19 games, including 18 losses and one tie.

Edmonton watched Indianapolis take a 2-0 lead in the second period and a 3-1 lead midway in the third before rallying with goals by Bobby Sheehan and Rusty Patenaude to force an overtime session in which goalies Ed Dyck of the Racers and Chris Worthy of the Oilers kept their nets clear.

At Winnipeg, the Jets opened the scoring with a goal by Danny Spring but the Nordiques took over in a rough match which saw a total of 114 penalty minutes assessed. Goals by Rene LeClerc, Steve Sutherland and Michel Parizeau gave the Nordiques a 3-1 lead before the end of the first period and J. C. Tremblay made it 4-1 with a shorthanded goal in the second period.

Skip Krake, Russ Walker and Jim Harrison scored first-period goals to give the Crusaders a 3-1 lead which they never relinquished in beating the Blazers at Cleveland.

Flames Fizzle in Third

ATLANTA (AP) — "You won't see a much better hockey game than tonight," said coach Marc Boileau after his Pittsburgh Penguins had come from behind to tie Atlanta Flames 3-3 in a National Hockey League game.

"There was good checking and both goalies were superb," Boileau said of the game.

Flames coach Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion agreed the play by the goalkeepers was excellent, but added: "I'm sick and tired of my lines not checking. They've got to learn that that's part of the game too."

Bob Kelly flipped a short backhand shot into the Atlanta net midway through the third period to tie the game.

Bryan Hextall put Atlanta in front at 1:27 of the first period with a 15-foot shot from the right side. With two minutes left in the period Chuck Arnason scored to tie the game.

Eric Vail gave Atlanta the lead again in the second period, but Pittsburgh's Rich Kehoe scored on a rebound to tie the game 2-2 with 15 seconds left in the period.

With 12:04 left in the third period, Vail scored again for Atlanta. But 21 seconds later, Kelly scored his tying goal.

The Flames are 19-15-7 for the season, including nine consecutive games without a defeat, and Pittsburgh is 14-17-8.

In off ice action, Kansas City Scouts swapped goaltenders with the Penguins Friday and picked up a defenceman in the trade.

A Scouts spokesman said Michel Plasse will go to Pittsburgh in exchange for goalie Dennis Herron, 22, and Jean-Guy Lagace, 29.

TRY THIS NEW PIPE FOR 30 DAYS.'

So different that it's patented by the CANADIAN GOVERNMENT
patent number 800357

This top grade Mediterranean briar incorporates a sensational invention that contradicts every idea you've ever had about pipe smoking. It completely eliminates breaking-in. Tars, sludge, bite, and bitterness never reach your mouth. You get cleaner, cooler, tastier, moisture-free thoroughly enjoyable smoking.

E. A. Carey

It's the first pipe in the world that's guaranteed to give unadulterated pleasure to smokers. You get the best smoke of your life or it won't cost you a cent.

Give it 30 days—

No cigarette, no cigar, nor any other pipe can give you the full rich flavor, aroma, deep down satisfaction, enjoyment, and peace of mind that you get from a Carey Pipe.

You may be a pipe smoker with a rack full of pipes and still searching for the ideal smoke, or perhaps you would like to switch to a pipe to cut down on cigarettes or expensive cigars.

The Carey Pipe may look like any ordinary pipe, but it's a lot different! In fact, there's nothing like it in the whole world. The Carey Pipe is made of the finest aged mediterranean briar—but, its big secret lies in the exclusive patented "MAGIC INCH," cleverly concealed in a bite proof nylon stem.

Not My Magic But Nature's Own Magic

There are no gadgets, no traps, no coils, no filters, no baffles, no tricks, no moving parts YET: the "Magic Inch" harnesses four of natures laws. It creates a VACUUM which draws in and mixes with the smoke a metered quantity of cool oxygen. It causes CONDENSATION which squeezes out excess moisture, and DRIES the smoke before it reaches the mouth. It employs CAPILLARY ATTRACTION to absorb precipitated moisture and prevent formation of sludge and goo. It promotes EVAPORATION to further cool the smoke and throw off into the air the moisture that otherwise would form sludge. In addition it eliminates "BREAKING IN". From the very first pipeful down to the last puff, the smoke is mellow and sweet with all bitterness and bite removed. No "breaking in" is needed with a Carey Pipe.

Today, over two hundred thousand pipe smokers smoke Carey Pipes almost exclusively. They were all granted the same option, an option which is yours also. After 30 days, if you agree that the Carey Pipe is the best smoke of your life, you may keep it: if you don't agree, whack it with a hammer and return the broken pieces to me. The trial has cost you nothing! How many businesses are that sure of their product?

Make Your Own 30 Day Test

Fill in the coupon below and mail it to me TODAY. I'll send you a full color brochure, absolutely free, so you can select your favorite style and shape for your 30 day trial.

E. A. Carey, Dept. 642A, 26 Duncan Street,

Oldtimers Expect Federal Aid

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — The Canadian Oldtimers' Hockey Association, dedicated to providing playing opportunities for former professional and amateur players, is seeking federal government recognition.

John F. Gouett of Peterborough, executive director of the association, says it expects to receive official backing from the fitness and amateur sport branch of the health department. An announcement is to be made in Toronto Jan. 15.

The first annual national oldtimers' tournament is scheduled for Peterborough Feb. 21-23 and sponsors are counting on participation of 60 teams and more than 1,200 players from all 10 provinces.

Cats Take Legionaires With Greatest of Ease

"When it rains it pours". The Oshawa Legionaires found this statement very applicable to their situation last night at the Memorial Arena, being clobbered by the Belleville Bobcats 10-4 in Metro Junior B action.

The score was in every way indicative of play as the last place Oshawa club failed to muster much of a showing against the Cats.

Cats' coach Bob Boyle summed up the 60 minutes. "There's not too much you can say about a game like this one. Its hard to get the team up for a match with the last place club, but whether you win by 12 goals or one it still counts as two points in the standings and thats the main thing."

Scott Samis, always a hard worker in the Belleville front ranks had, his best evening in a while picking up three goals and an assist.

Steve Keech was next in the scoring with a pair of goals with Grant Goegan and Eric Powell also adding two. Andy Ricketts rounded things out with his single to account for the local scoring.

Belleville started out slow in the opening 20 minutes and at the 1:17 mark fell behind 1-0 as Tom Olsen put the Legionaires ahead with net minder Bruce Clark stickless.

Alert thinking by Goegan tied things up a little better than four minutes later as he took his own blocked shot and fired it through a maze of players for the equalizer.

From here on in things got steadily worse for the visitors as the Cats' used the Oshawa netminders for target practice.

The locals held a 3-1 lead at the end of the first period, with Powell and Keech each picking up their first.

The only action in the final two periods appeared to be at the canteen as the steady flow to and from the area showed the fans disappointment in the action.

Samis chose the middle frame for his barrage against the Oshawa goalies, scoring all three of the goals in that period.

Dave Andrews took over from goalie Dan Porteius at this point allowing only one goal in the remainder of the 20 minutes. Score at the two-third mark of the game was Belleville 7, Oshawa 2.

Both teams were on the ice in the final period, in body at least, but seemed content to go for a skate as Belleville out scored the opposition 3-2.

Goegan and Powell each notched their second goals of the night with Ricketts single finishing things off in the scoring department for the Belleville squad.

The Cats now retain sole possesion of third place in the standings and coach Boyle is looking to bigger and better things.

"This game on Sunday against Peterborough is a very, very important one. We're aiming for second place and if we can pick up six points in the next three games we'll have a chance," he said.

Game time for Sunday's contest in Peterborough is 1:30 p.m. at the Memorial Centre.

SHOTS ON GOAL
By Belleville 28
By Oshawa 21

Eric Powell (10) had no mercy for a sprawling Oshawa Legionaire goalie, Dave Andrews, as he lifted the puck into the net. Powell connected on this one despite the defensive efforts of Oshawa's Keith Johnson (9). Bobcat Al Jeffery and Legionaire Kevin Laing watch idly as Powell finds the mark for the second time in Friday night's Metro Junior B contest at the Memorial Arena. Powell added an assist to his two goals to help the Bobcats dump Oshawa 10-4.

Super Bowl Ghosts Return to Haunt Minnesota's Bud Grant

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — It's nervous time for Bud Grant. He won't pose with the Vince Lombardi Trophy because of superstition and if he needs anything else to bother him, Joe Kapp's around

The two ghosts of Super Bowls past are here to haunt him as his Minnesota Vikings get ready to face Pittsburgh Steelers in Sunday's National Football League Super Bowl championship match.

The Minnesota coach, a two-time loser in these gaudy spectacles, gave an indication Friday of his uptight posture by refusing to pose for pictures with the Lombardi Trophy, emblematic of the National Football League championship. The reason?

"I did that before," he said. "I picked it up five years ago and I don't want to do it again."

Grant, former coach of Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Canadian Football league, obviously saw something mystical in touching the trophy in 1970 because the Vikings lost 23-7 to Kansas City Chiefs. He didn't say anything about last year, when he didn't touch the trophy, but the Vikings still lost to Miami Dolphins, 24-7.

Another ghost of the past presented itself to Grant on the eve of pro football's biggest game. Kapp, who quarterbacked the Vikings in that loss to Kansas City five years ago, was making news again.

Kapp, who has since become the pivotal figure in one of the sport's most far-reaching legal decisions, was the major topic Friday when NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle conducted his annual pre-game news conference.

Several years ago, Kapp refused to sign an NFL contract, calling it illegal, and sued the league. Last month, a San Francisco judge ruled in his favor. And Rozelle says the league has begun what will be a lengthy appeal process.

Far from the news conference and from the Kapp decision, another Minnesota quarterback was hard at work with his team-mates. Fran Tarkenton, who brought the phrase "scrambling" into the NFL lexicon, worked out in a rain drenched, wind-swept Tulane Stadium, which became the Super Bowl site when construction of the Louisiana Superdome fell behind schedule.

The weather, however, was not expected to be a factor in the game. The rain was expected to subside today and the game time prediction was for clear or partly cloudy skies with temperatures in the high 40s. The kickoff is set for 3 p.m., EST.

What is expected to be a factor, though, is the probable absence of Dwight White, Pittsburgh's big defensive end and one of the driving forces of the Steelers' front four which led the NFL in quarterback sacks with 52.

White was in hospital for four days with a viral infection, released Thursday, then readmitted Friday morning. He is listed as doubtful for the game,

Not All Downhill for Goodman

HUNTER MOUNTAIN, N.Y. (CP) — Russell Goodman of Montreal continues to hold a slim lead in the men's division of the Can-Am ski series following a second-place finish in the giant slalom Friday.

Peter Dodge of St Johnsbury, Vt., who trailed Goodman by eight points in the standings after racing Thursday, won the giant slalom Friday to pull within three points of first place. Goodman has 122 points and Dodge 119.

Two giant slalom events were held in the women's division Friday, with Becky Dorsey of Wenham, Mass., picking up victories in both.

Leslie Smith of Killington, Vt., finished second in both races.

In the women's over-all points standing, Miss Smith has 130 points for a five-point edge over Miss Dorsey. Top Canadian in the over-all standings is Susan Aslett of Toronto, in eighth spot with 23 points.

First three finishers and Canadians in races Friday:

Men's Giant Slalom

Women's Giant Slalom (First Race)

Dorsey, 72.16; Smith, 72.21; Margaret Crane, Plymouth, N.H., 72.36; Aslett, 5th, 72.65; Joan Wilson, Port Hawkesbury, N.S., 10th, 73.75; Andrea Esson, Toronto, 16th, 74.90; Louise Senecal, Laval, Que., 19th, 75.91; Tracy Annard, Pettawawa, Ont., 20th, 76.04; Joan Tidball, Toronto, 76.20; Elise Martin, Montreal, 29th, 76.58.

Women's Giant Slalom (Second Race)

Dorsey, 74.16; Smith, 74.41; Pam Noyes, Ipswich, Mass., 75.06; Wilson, 8th, 75.87; Aslett, 14th, 77.09; Esson, 17th, 77.38; Tidball, 20th, 78.11; Sarah Satow, Vancouver, 21st, 78.29; Venita Haining, Montreal, 23rd, 78.80; Martin, 26th, 78.93; Annard, 32nd, 80.16; Senecal, 33rd, 80.42.

The series now moves to St. Sauveur, Que., for racing Monday and Tuesday.

Alain Cousineau, one of Canada's top slalom skiers, will be out of action for at least a week after pulling tendons in his arm during a race Thursday. Cousineau, 21, of Brownsburg, Que., is tied for fourth in the over-all men's point standings with 80.

Tehran Last FISU Hope

ROME (AP) — The 1975 Summer World University Games may be staged in the Iranian capital of Tehran or be cancelled altogether, the president of the International University Sports Federation (FISU) said Friday.

The games were to be held in Belgrade in September. Yugoslav officials cancelled them two months ago on grounds they had failed to raise the money to cover expenses. FISU has sought a new site ever since.

"I guess Tehran is our last hope," said Primo Nebiolo, president of FISU. "We have studied various possibilities but only the Iranian capital can offer adequate facilities and accomodation for all the events."

Tehran, however, had entered a bid to stage the games in 1983 and the Iranian officials appear reluctant to stage the upcoming games.

IN MEMORIAM

PARKS — In loving memory of a dear husband and father Jacob Franklin who passed away January 12, 1974.

Asleep in God's beautiful garden,
Away from all sorrow and pain,
Someday when life's journey is ended,
We shall be together again.

—Always remembered by wife Blanche and family.

DAWSON — In loving remembrance of a dear husband Edward, who passed away Jan. 11th, 1970.

Surrounded by friends I am lonesome,
In the midst of my joys I am blue,
With a smile on my face, I've a heartache,
Longing, dear husband for you.

—Sadly missed by wife Evelyn.

IN MEMORIAM

PARKS — In loving memory of a dear grandfather Jacob who passed away Jan. 12, 1974.

There is a link death cannot sever,
Love and remembrance last forever.

—Always remembered by grandchildren Gail, Dinah Rae, Roy and Wayne.

YOUR OWN HOME FOR $600.00 DOWN to one N.H.A. mortgage. If the purchase is not your first home, down payment increases by $500. These condominium town houses will be available for early spring possesison. There are three and four bedroom models. Monthly repayment is variable depending on income, and number of children. Payment of interest, principal and taxes could go as low as $165.00 Those interested in four bedroom models should apply early as there are not too many of those.

BARGAIN DAY IS HERE

Save $3,500.00 over new building price for this three bedroom side split on the West side. The house is completed in all respects even to a fully sodded. There is an L shaped living dining room, large kitchen for day to day meals. The three bedrooms are of adequate size to accommodate double beds. There is a handy entrance from outside directly to basement. By the way, the mortgage is at 10%. We will negotiate down payment to suit. This is a very popular model.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Sunday, Jan. 12

Aries (March 21-April 19) Dont try to be the centre of attention. It will encourage another to step into the spotlight and try to upstage you.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) The plans you have made for yourself today are likely to be overshadowed by the ideas of a companion. You will have to switch.

Gemial (May 21-June 20) A source that you were expecting something material from will be temporarily cut off from you.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) You are apt to reverse your position regarding a decision you thought was all worked out because of another's actions.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Be extra-sensible about your health habits now. A good time to begin a diet if that old waistline has expanded.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't make the pursuit of pleasure your sole goal today or you may partake of too much of the good things.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Keep a toe in the door at this time in a matter you don't want to be excluded from or you could be locked out.

Scorpio (Ot. 23c-Nov. 22) Don't try to commit important information to memory. Make notes to have an accurate frame of reference later.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You could do something silly today like buying something only to leave it on the counter if you are casual with possessions.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Yesterday you were a bit too obstinate; today you are overly complacent. Strive for the medium where you will be most comfortable.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You are very good at keeping confidential matters to yourself today, though you will be tempted to share what you know.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) A project you've been involved in for the past month or so will be terminated. Something better will be found shortly.

Aries (March 21-April 19) You are very effective where you deal with several persons at the same time regarding an issue of collective interest.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) For the next few days you'd be wise to devote your energies and attention to major goals. Chances of success look favorable.

Gemial (May 21 June 20) People who are essential to your plans will now give you a friendly ear. Be sure your proposals are well-thought-out.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) Today and tomorrow channels will open to make it possible for you to gain materially through other than normal sources.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Align yourself the next few days with one who shares a common cause. You can achieve as a team what can't be done alone.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be alert for unusual circumstances that you can use to advantage to further yourself where work or career is concerned.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You are more in the minds and hearts of others than you may realize. Something pleasant comes through a social encounter.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) What you want to accomplish can now be done successfully, if you don't call too much attention to your methods.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You will be getting some very creative ideas over the next few days. They won't pay off unless you do something with them.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Conditions that could enhance your material security are promising now. Look for new ways to add to your income.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You will do better today and tomorrow as a leader, not a follower. Know where you are going. You will get others to follow.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) Things will be coming your way easier now than in the past few days. Move in harmony with the tide of events.

Workmen Protest

NORWICH, England (CP) — Workmen employed by South Norfolk district council have refused to wear orange safety overalls because they say the garments make them look sissy. The council, which selected the color to make the men look more conspicuous on the roads, has agreed to revert to the traditional blue.

Tourism Suffers

LONDON (AP) — European tourism suffered a 25-per-cent drop in business last summer, forcing some resorts to shut down while others reduced staff 50 per cent. Operators placed much of the blame on the huge increase in jet fuel costs.

Problem Created By Sleepwalking

By G.C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am desperate about my 18-months-old baby boy. He sleeps in a youth bed but wanders about at night anyway.

I worry about his wandering because he is getting old enough to unlock doors. He seems to be awake but is asleep instantly if I pick him up or as soon as I lay him down.

He always centres his wandering around our room. Sometimes I wake up and go through a frantic search only to find him in our closet or under our bed.

Sometimes he wakes with a thirst or is hungry or lonesome and cries, but stays in his bed.—Mrs. K.S.

Sleepwalking is not unusual with children, and it is not nearly as serious as when it occurs with adults.

If it is going to occur at all, 18 months is just about the age for it, and it often continues through the pre school years. At 18 months, a child is beginning to learn that his ability to walk gives him access to all sorts of new experiences, so when he awakens his first instinct might be to get around and explore.

At his age it is difficult to distinguish between this kind of nocturnal wandering and genuine sleepwalking.

It is also possible his restlessness is due to anxiety, even fear, and he simply wants to be near those who offer him comfort. The atmosphere in which a youngster spends his last few minutes before going off to sleep can be important emotionally.

Is he hustled off unceremoniously and left hanging, so to speak, between day and night? Are you and your hsuband prone to arguments within the child's hearing in the evening? Are his last moments before bedtime filled with activity?

These could be subconscious causes of his inability to sleep. You might also be insisting on too lengthy naps.

Often, correction of any of these factors will solve the problem.

Meanwhile, you might want to put a little gate across his bedroom doorway, and perhaps a dim night light in his room so that you can sleep yourself without worrying about the wandering. I would mention it to your doctor.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Will you please explain what severe neuralgia pains are?—Miss L.J.

Neuralgia is a pain along the course of one or more nerves. There are various types of neuralgia depending on the area involved. The pain of shingles, for example, is a form of neuralgia; so is tic douloureaux. Sciatica due to irritation of the sciatic nerve is another.

There is no significance in the use of the term "severe" except just in what it implies: neuralgia pain that is especially harsh.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My doctor told me I must quit smoking. He has given me two weeks. Then I must see him again.

I have tried to quit, but the nervousness gets to me and I start all over again. I have heard that hypnotizing a patient and placing the "quit" suggestion to him works. I'm willing to try and believe it could help me.—S.J.A.

The most important factor in quitting tobacco is motivation. Apparently the fear of future sickness and pain is not sufficient for most smokers. But in your case, the apparent presence of an existing ailment that prompted your doctor to order you to quit is another story. It should be enough.

If that isn't motivation enough, then what is?

Hypnosis has been used, but I can't say with what results. Your local medical society could tell you which, if any, doctors practise hypnosis in your area, if you should want to give that a try.

The Medium and the Magician

By ALLEN SPRAGGETT

It's often said that a good magicialn can duplicate anything a medium can do.

The implication is that the medium, like the magician, uses trickery.

However, there have been some memorable encounters between magicians and mediums which the medium won.

In the early years of this century, Howard Thurston was considered the world's greatest master of stage illusions. Houdini was the expert at breathtaking escapes but Thurston was without peer at making women float in the air

Like many magicians of that era, Thurston devoted part of his performances to duplicating the feats of bogus mediums. For years he was out spokenly convinced that all mediumistic phenomena were tricks. Then, one day in 1908, he met a remarkable woman named Eusapio Palladino

She was a semi-literate medium from Naples who had become a centre of controversy. Her supporters, including a number of scientists, said she could cause objects to float in the air and phantom hands to materialize out of thin air. Her detractors labelled her a pure fraud.

Thurston, the great auhority on phony spirit phenomena, was invited to test Palladino for himself. A psychical researcher named Hereward Carrington arranged for Thurston to have a private session with the medium in her New York hotel.

On the way to the meeting, Carrington, who knew Palladino well, warned Thurston that she would cheat if she could. It was easier for her than doing the real thing. But if scolded, said Carrington, she could and would perform genuine psychic feats.

Thurston said that he knew all the tricks and would be ready for her.

The portly medium sat down at an ordinary wooden table which Thurston had examined first for any wires. Thurston sat beside the medium, his wife beside him, and Carrington beside her.

The medium breathed deeply and the table gave a little jump. It was obvious to Thurston that Palladino had moved the table with her foot.

"That won't do," he said sharply "I didn't come here to see tricks. If you can do anything else let's see it or I'm leaving."

The medium threw him a dark look, scowled, breathed more deeply and appeared to pass into a trance. Thurston wasn't impressed by her heavy labored breathing — until suddenly the whole table twitched, then rose straight into the air to a height of four feet.

The lights in the room were on. Thurston dropped to his knees and crawled under the table. All four legs were off the floor. The table was floating!

There were no wires, no mechanical contrivances.

At a word from the magician, the medium exhaled slowly and the table returned to the floor. Once more, at the signal from Thurston, the table rose and again he searched beneath it. Nothing.

"There was nothing visible holding the table up," said Thurston.

He was so impressed that the next day in the New York Times he offered $1,000 — a very sizable sum in those days — to any magician who could duplicate what Palladino had done.

"I believe I understand the principles governing every known trick," said Howard Thurston, "and I'm willing to stake my reputation as a magician that what this one medium showed me was genuine."

Pessimistic Pete hitched up his suspenders and looked over dummy. He could count on two spades and three diamonds, but needed four tricks in hearts and clubs to bring home his three no-trump contract. If both the queen of hearts and king of clubs were placed nicely in the West hand he could score 12 tricks, but Pete couldn't remember when two finesses had ever worked for him.

How about one being right? That was possible. Pete was a pessimist but not a paranoiac. Which one should he try? East was more likely to hold the king of clubs than to hold the queen of hearts. He had made a vulnerable spade overcall, but that wasn't the determining factor. The factor was: If he lost a finesse to the queen of hearts he could still make his contract if West held the king of clubs, but if he lost a finesse to the club king he would be unable to come to nine tricks by means of a successful heart finesse.

So, after winning the spade lead, Pete led his jack of hearts and let it ride. East could do no better than take his ace and clear the spades but Pete now had nine tricks. Not that he was satisfied with nine. He won the second spade, cashed all the red cards and finally threw East in with a spade and made him lead from the king of clubs.

THE RAPCO FOAM
Home Insulation System
IT PAYS FOR ITSELF!

Rapco-Foam easily applied in the outside walls and roof of both new and old homes, literally wraps your house in a cocoon of warmth, and it cuts the amount of heating fuel required from 30 to 50%. (Without personal discomfort).

Rapco-Foam is a unique insulating foam developed in Germany. Skilled applicators inject it into the walls of your home where it flows into every nook and cranny — cracks never reached by ordinary insulation. Then it firms into a permanent barrier against cold, drafts, noise and vermin.

Once installed, Rapco-Foam pays for itself in four or five years and goes on paying fuel saving dividends of more than 30% of the original investment year after year.

No other home insulation offers all these advantages:

- Maximum fuel economy. Rapco-Foam's insulating value (K factor) is 0.2 at 70 degree F, the morst efficient available.
- Completely draft free. Spaces around doors, windows and pipes, seldom reached by ordinary insulation, are completely filled by Rapco-Foam.
- Easily installed. Skilled applicators inject Rapco-Foam into the walls of your home like shaving cream. It's usually done in a day from the outside. No fuss, no muss.
- Discourages vermin. Rapco-Foam's patented urea-formaldehyde formula destroys rodents and most insects.
- Reduces noise. Installed in your outside walls and roof, Rapco-Foam reduces street noise levels by more than 30%.
- Fire resistant. Rapco-Foam meets the strict New York City building code for non-combustibility.
- Non-Toxic. Rapco-Foam is non-toxic per the Federal Hazards Substance Act.
- Low cost. Compare the cost of Rapco-Foam with any other insulation.

Forty Five Die

U.S. Midwest Gale Worst in 35 Years

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Severe storms raged through the midwestern and southeastern United States during the weekend, killing at least 45 persons. Rain and snow were expected to continue disrupting widespread parts of the U.S. today.

The Midwest blizzard—described by a national weather service spokesman in Minneapolis as the worst in 35 years—whipped winds to 90 miles an hour and left at least 44 persons dead between Friday night and today. Another person died in a Florida tornado.

"The storm was as large as any hurricane," the weather service spokesman said. It downed power lines, stranded traffic. Michigan officials estimated damage at $1 million in that state alone.

By today, storm-related deaths had climbed to 11 in Nebraska, where 16 inches of snow fell, eight dead in Iowa, nine in Minnesota, four in North Dakota and two in Michigan, eight dead in South Dakota and one each in Illinois and Wisconsin.

Six members of a family from the northeastern South Dakota community of Summit were found dead in their home late Sunday, apparently the victims of asphyxiation, authorities said. Three other members of the family were in serious condition today at St. Bernard's Hospital in Milbank, hospital spokesmen said.

Frigid blasts continued over the upper Midwest, keeping temperatures in most of the area below zero today, but skies were generally clear.

Winds averaging nearly 60 miles an hour whipped through the central Rockies. Rain, freezing rain and snow slammed the Pacific Northwest. Travellers advisories for winds and high wind warnings were posted for southern California mountains and deserts, and for Colorado and Wyoming.

Meanwhile, snow, rain and tornadoes battered the southeastern United States, only two days after another series of twisters left 12 dead on Friday. In Sunday's storms, one person died and several others were hurt in a Panama City, Fla. twister. Other tornadoes touched down in northern Florida and Georgia.

Ontario's 'Spring' Vanishes Sunday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A severe drop in temperatures and snow in many parts of Ontario ended the spring-like weather that swept through most of the province Saturday.

A storm accompanied by strong winds Saturday hit northwestern Ontario and blizzards resulted. But temperatures soared to unseasonable highs in other areas.

Toronto had a high of 54 Saturday, tying a record for Jan. 11 set in 1880. At Kingston, a 97-year-old record of 47 degrees was broken by a 50-degree reading. Hamilton's 53-degree reading toppled a record of 44 set in 1911.

At Trenton an all-time record of 55 was reported.

The Toronto weather office said six-to eight-foot high waves pounded the city's shoreline Saturday afternoon due to southwest winds at 40 and 50 m.p.h. Environment Canada issued a high-water-level advisory for the northeast shoreline of Lake Erie.

In Thunder Bay, high temperatures turned what might have been a 19-inch snowfall into 1.9 inches of rain.

In Sudbury, a food store had to be evacuated when the gale blew in front windows, cutting one woman. No other injuries have been reported.

Meanwhile, winds were downing trees and causing power failures throughout 13 rural areas of the Georgian Bay region. Parts of Toronto also were without power for short periods.

Temperatures began a steady downward trend early Sunday and winds subsided. By late afternoon, most off the province had recovered from the storm.

Manitoba Blizzard Is Worst Since 1966

WINNIPEG (CP) — Conditions in southern Manitoba began returning to norma today after the worst blizzard since March, 1966.

The storm brought all but the most essential outside activities to a halt. It also contributed to the deaths of at least two persons.

While more winds and drifting snow were expected in some areas early today, the weather office was predicting a return to temperatures as high as 15 degrees above zero—a welcome change from the weekend's weather.

More than seven inches of snow fell on southern Manitoba between late Friday and early Sunday, accompanied by winds of 60 miles an hour or more.

Northwestern Ontario had up to 17 inches of snow in some areas.

Two Gunmen Escape

Bazooka Shots Miss Airliner at Paris

PARIS (Reuter) — Two gunmen made a bazooka attack on an Israeli airliner carrying 149 people at Orly airport here today, but they missed their target and hit a near-empty Yugoslav plane nearby.

The only casualties were a steward and a policeman who were slightly wounded aboard the stationary Yugoslav DC-9 airliner.

The unidentified gunmen escaped from the airport in a private car which was later found abandoned in the Paris suburbs.

The men fired two or three bazooka shots from an airport terrace at the El Al Boeing 707 as it was moving towards the runway ready for takeoff on a flight to New York and Montreal.

The shells struck the nearby Yugoslav airliner which had just cleared its passengers after a flight from Zagreb.

An El Al spokesman said: "Our pilot accelerated rapidly as soon as he heard the first shot, which missed. This may have been the reason our plane was not hit."

Pierre Saradet, a Swissair official who witnessed the attack, said: "I was standing by the counter when I heard an explosion. Suddenly we looked out through the window and saw two men standing by a car at the terrace and aiming what looked like a bazooka at two planes.

"One of them, a big, tall, dark man aged about 30, carried the bazooka on his shoulder.

"The second explosion was much stronger. I saw the man with his bazooka recoil with the backfire and smash his car windscreen.

"Next I saw the two driving off in their car."

The two men were standing near a police post but the whole attack took less than a minute, Saradet said.

A police marksman patrolling the airport terminal roof was at the other end of it during the attack.

Ontario Liberals Now Top of Poll

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Liberal Leader Robert Nixon said Saturday a recent Gallup Poll indicates that his party "would form a majority government if we went into an election today."

The poll, taken in November and early December, was greeted with jubilation by Mr. Nixon at the annual meeting of Toronto and district party members.

The poll showed his party has a substantial lead over the Progressive Conservatives, led by Premier William Davis.

It gave Liberals 41 per cent, Conservatives 33 per cent and the New Democratic Party 26 per cent.

"It's nice to be on top of the polls for a change," said Mr. Nixon at a news conference. "I know what it's like to be at the other end."

Mr. Nixon predicted Premier Davis likely will call an election in the fall and he told about 700 delegates he foresees a Liberal victory "whenever they call it."

The party leader said a spring election is unlikely because of the ebb in Conservative support. If Mr. Davis waited beyond fall, "his support—which is already eroding—would fall right off the bottom of the charts."

Mr. Nixon said the next provincial election would be won or lost in the 30 ridings in and around Metropolitan Toronto on issues such as housing and transportation.

Kidnapping Of Prince Considered

LONDON (AP) — The Irish Republican Army (IRA) made plans to kidnap Prince Charles last year, three London newspapers reported today.

The Daily Mail said an IRA spokesman told it the guerrilla army planned to kidnap the 26-year-old Charles last summer and take him to Ireland.

"The ransom would have been the end of internment (of suspected guerrillas without trial), withdrawal of British troops (from Northern Ireland) and unification of Ireland," the source said.

The Sun, quoting a source in Belfast, said IRA sympathizers in Australia also were on the alert for a kidnap attempt when Charles visited Australia in October.

The reports said the kidnap plans finally were vetoed by David O'Connell, the chief of staff of the IRA's Provisional wing.

Farm Control Under Attack

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — A Senate staff report called Sunday for government action against growing corporate control of farming and price-fixing in food processing and retailing in the United States.

Kissinger Asked to Talk About Gas Price

SEATTLE (AP) — U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger was asked to review with Canadian officials a proposed price increase for natural gas exported to the United States, in a telegram Saturday from Senators Warren Magnuson and Henry Jackson.

The two Washington Democrats urged Kissinger "to review existing economic agreements with Canada and to marshal all diplomatic and economic resources to stop the unfair treatment of U.S. natural gas consumers."

THE MISSING PEACE

Pope Asks All Seek Peace Of Conscience

ROME (AP) — Pope Paul called on all men Sunday to seek 'the peace of conscience' to help bring real peace to the world.

Speaking at noon from the window of his study at the top floor of the papal palace, the pontiff told about 1,000 persons outside in the rain that "God is the judge of our way of living."

"This last part of the 20th century (had been) laden with the most upsetting experiences," he said, and urged mankind to come to terms with "the problem of the peace of conscience which can be tackled satisfactorily only by the courageous sincerity of remorse, the need for forgiveness and the hope of renewal."

Saskatchewan Power Workers Go on Strike

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan Power Corp. (SPC) employees who walked off their jobs Saturday voted Sunday to stay out, despite an appeal by Premier Allan Blakeney that they return to work before the province passes legislation forcing them to do so.

Premier Blakeney, at a hastily-called news conference following an emergency cabinet session Saturday, said the legislature will meet Tuesday to pass legislation ordering the 1,200 workers back to work.

Cosmonauts at Work in Space Station

MOSCOW (Reuter) — Cosmonauts Alexei Gubarev and Georgi Grechko were well into their first working day of scientific experiments today aboard the orbiting Salyut-4 space station.

How long they will stay in space has not been announced, but some observers believe they may be preparing the ground for a much longer mission by a second crew, perhaps aiming to rival the United States record of 12 weeks on Skylab.

The two 43-year-old cosmonauts, blasted into space on Soyuz-17 on Friday night, made an apparently pinpoint docking [illegible] Sunday morning—the minimum of fuel was said to [illegible] expended.

"A fantastic picture," Gubarev told ground control as Soyuz approached the gleaming white Salyut, it by the sun's rays 195 miles above the earth.

They doffed their spacesuits, transferred into the 25-ton spacelab, activated its systems and looked over the equipment in Salyut—which has been in space for two weeks—before dining and retiring after a 20-hour working day.

According to Tass news agency, their work includes examination of space and the earth, tests of their own physical reactions in weightlessness and checks on the modified design and systems of their space home.

The longest time ever spent in a Soviet spacelab was 24 days by the three crewmen of Soyuz-11 in 1971. But that mission ended disastrously when the men were killed, on re-entry into earth atmosphere, by a leak in their craft.

Education Beat

Attitude Main Learning Factor

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

How much your child learns in school doesn't depend on his teachers, his school building, the curriculum or even the competence of trustees and administration.

It's a shame to raise the subject this week, when one new board of trustees has just been sworn in with seven new members, all, presumably, gung-ho to tackle educational issues. And the separate school board will get under way for another two years next week.

A study conducted in Great Britain in the 1960s ferreted out the one factor that has the greatest influence on how much and how well your child learns.

It's the parents' attitude toward school.

The attitude doesn't have to reflect reality. The school can be a bad one, the home not conducive to the best learning opportunities, but if the parents give the impression that school is good and learning is great, their kids will come through.

"The contribution of parental attitude to the variation in educational performance of students is greater than either home circumstances or the state of the school," says the Plowden report, a highly respected educational document.

MORE

Education Beat Take 2

The importance of parental attitute could go a long way to explain some of the variations in learning patterns.

Why do some children from intellectually-oriented families, with parents who set a high priority on learning, tune school out at an early age? And why do some children from disadvantaged families, whose parents haven't much formal learning and perhaps don't even speak English, end up taking every scholarship in sight and have brilliant academic careers?

So if you want to start your children off on the right path in this new year, change your attitude toward school. Even if you think the schools are lousy, the curriculum cock-eyed and the teachers cretinous, grit your teeth and keep it to yourself. Give your children the impression that schools and teachers are wonderful and learning is exciting and, if the Plowden report is right, they'll astound you with their accomplishments.

Or, as grandmothers used to tell youngsters, "think the best of people and things and they'll usually not disappoint you."

Chaos Planned?

Rev. Charles Carpentier, in a joke told to Murray Township council members during their swearing in for office recently, said politicians plan chaos. Standing left to right are councillors Angus McKee, Clifford Wannamaker, and William Ellis. Standing beside them at right is municipal clerk Ken Rose, who administered the oath. Seated, clockwise starting at the left are deputy-reeve James Quinn, Rev. Father Francis Fitzpatrick and Reeve Harry Lafferty.

Little Flame Says:

Easy Tips For Safe New Year

In the second part of our safe home series we'll discuss fire prevention in the bedroom, bathroom and cellar.

BEDROOM

1. Don't smoke in bed — even if you just lay down for a minute do not light a cigarette.

2 Dispose of matches and burning tobacco carefully in ash trays, never in waste basket.

3 If you awake at night and smell smoke, feel your bedroom door before opening it. If it's hot, don't open it, (gases, heat and smoke may kill you.). Don't jump from the window; wait for help, if you leave the room, close the door to impede spread of fire.

4 Don't string electric cords or wires around the room, under rugs, or over nails.

5. Watch lamp or appliance cords for dangerous wear — and don't roll beds or heavy furniture over them.

6. Be sure electric circuits are adequate for all appliances being used and watch carefully the electric heater if you use one.

7. Gas heaters should be permanently and rigidly attached to outlet, with metal piping if possible, and a shut-off valve on metal, not on rubber or flexible tubing.

BATHROOM

8. Precautions for heaters and electric circuit apply here. Be careful of possible shock hazard if you touch a metal electric switch, outlet or appliance while you are in bath water or touching water faucet or radiator. Be careful with radios in your bathroom.

CELLAR

9. This may be the most dangerous part of your home, clean up and keep it clean and in order.

10. Fireproof material should be used on walls and ceiling near heating plant. Floor also should be of a fireproof material.

11. Pipe entering chimney should fit tightly and have metal collar. Pipe should also be solid and without holes or cracks that would emit sparks.

12. Papers, rubbish and litter anywhere in the cellar, especially near the furnace, form dangerous hazard and should not be allowed.

13. Use metal barrels for ashes: wooden containers will burn when hot ashes are put in them, and they can smolder for hours before bursting into flames.

14. Paints, turpentine and painting materials should not be near the furnace, and if possible not in the basement at all.

15. Do not hang laundry near heating plant or electric wires.

16. Door at the head of cellar stairs should be of substantial construction, fit tightly, and be kept closed.

Take 4

17. Do not use open lights, candles or matches in hunting gas leaks; telephone your gas company. Don't use blow torch on gas or water pipes. Thaw frozen pipes with warm water, or call plumber.

Next time I will carry on to the garages and other areas around your home:

Missing Plane Found

TRENTON — Two men whose missing light aircraft was spotted by a search plane from CFB Trenton were later rescued from a lake near Sudbury Sunday.

An armed forces spokesman said the plane carrying Rev. David Bould and passenger Willard O. Noland, was reported missing Saturday night on a 180-mile flight to Gore Bay on Manitoulin Island from South Porcupine, Ont.

The ski-equipped, single-engine aircraft was spotted on Welcome Lake, 40 miles north of Sudbury, by the crew of a searching Hercules from CFB Trenton.

The search aircraft circled the area and both men appeared in good condition. But high winds prevented a pararescue team from jumping to them.

The men were later taken from the lake by an Ontario Hydro helicopter, said a spokesmen here.

Vehicles Damaged

City police are investigating two separate incidents this weekend in which a convertible top and interior front seat covers of a car were slashed.

Police said that sometime between 4 p.m Saturday and noon Sunday, the convertible top of a car owned by G. W. Goodkey of Ottawa was slashed causing about $300 damage. The car was parked in the Four Seasons parking lot.

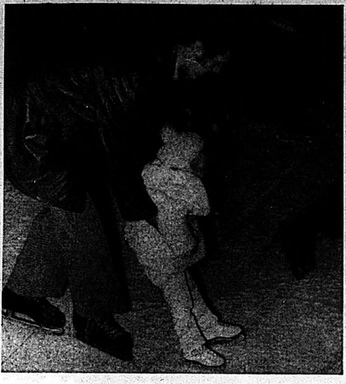
Police added that the interior front seat covering of a car belonging to Joseph Thibodeau of 178 Bridge St. E. was slashed sometime between 6 p.m. Friday and 4 p.m. Sunday. The car was parked in his driveway and damage amounted to $200, police said.

Money Demanded

City police said today a juvenile girl was approached by a man Saturday at the intersection of Queen and Foster Streets and told to turn over her money.

Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said the incident occurred shortly after 6 p.m. Saturday after the girl and a companion had gone to a variety store on Victoria Ave.

Police said that when the two were at the intersection, a man approached and asked one of the girls for money. She gave him $2 from her pocket. The incident is under investigation.



Just A Beginner

Tanya Young, 2¼-years-old, gets some needed assistance from her father, Terry, at Trenton Community Gardens during the public skating session Sunday. The youngster is learning to skate for the first time this year. More than 500 people attended the skating session Sunday.

Zoning Bylaws Within Provincial Standards

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Belleville's zoning and planning philosophy will withstand Ontario Municipal Board (OMB) scrutiny, says Belleville Mayor Robin Jeffrey and Quinte Planning Board directer Bert Kenny.

The question of zoning bylaw acceptability recently arose in the Northern Ontario community of Sault Ste. Marie and a subsequent OMB judgment ruled in favor of the landowner saying zoning by-laws cannot implement "detailed plans on an area".

In that case, the municipality sought to govern the size of lots within a 30-acre parcel, lot location, capacity and names or roadways in the development.

The OMB ruled that zoning bylaws may only impose "general standards", and may not dictate all technical aspects as those imposed by Sault Ste. Marie.

The ruling comes at a significant time for Belleville and the Quinte Planning Board. Currently, zoning bylaws are being researched and produced for both Belleville and Trenton. Soon such bylaws will also be required for official plans now under way for Sidney and Thurlow Townships.

Mayor Jeffrey said the board's planning and bylaw approach is "within the accepted limits".

In a telephone interview Sunday, the mayor said the OMB ruling will not affect Belleville.

"Zoning bylaws for the city are designed to state the general standards and requirements for a particular area," she said.

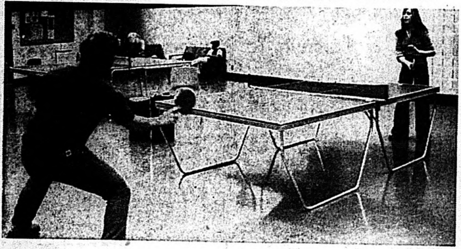
Planning director Bert Kenny, actively involved in the construction of a set of city zoning bylaws, said from the information available on the OMB ruling, Belleville's planing approach meets with OMB approval.

He added that with continuous contact between the city and the provincial government, "if there was any problem with local planning philosophy, we would have heard about it by now."

Mayor Jeffrey said that while the city does make demands on developers similar to the Sault St. Marie demands, "they are made in a plan of subdivision or in the subdivider's agreement."

In this agreement, discussed mutually between city council and the developer, all aspects of the development are detailed

This type of agreement is acceptable to the OMB, said Mr. Kenny. However, any council ruling may be opposed by area ratepayers and in the event of an objection, an OMB hearing would be called.



Serving a Need

No, it is not a mini-battle of the sexes, but just two Loyalist College students engaging in a friendly match of table tennis in the games room at the college. When free time is available between classes, the student body can take advantage of recreational facilities for some physical activity, refreshing themselves for another round at the books.

McFarlane Gendron Lays Off Workers

An unspecified number of McFarlane Gendron Ltd. employees will be laid off this week. This action marks the second layoff in two weeks for the Belleville manufacturing outlet.

Company spokesmen preferred not to comment in detail on the two layoffs.

Local plant manager Les Young was not available for comment.

The plant's telephone receptionist confirmed there had been a layoff last week and a second is expected this week but preferred not to comment as to how many employees are affected.

A Toronto spokesman for the firm said the layoff is "normal at this time."

"It's a normal seasonal adjustment ... an annual thing," he said.

He said employees affected by the layoff will be re-hired and possibly be back on the job by spring or early summer.

Students Hold Service

Five theological students, proceeding toward Holy Orders in the church ministry, conducted last Sunday's service at Christ Church here. Four of the students are Christ Church members, and one is from St. George's Church in Trenton. Preacher was Robert Wright, in his final year in the theology course at Huron College in London. Service of Mattins was sung by David Wright, in his second year at Trinity College. Litany of the beautitudes was said by David Kirby, in his final year at Trinity. Scriptures were read by Robert Bailey of Elim College in the United States, and Reginald Gilbert of Queen's Theological School at Queen's University in Kingston.

Chairman Elected

Wilf Wilkinson, Trenton representative to the Loyalist College Board of Governors, has been elected to his second year as board chairman. A chartered accountant, Mr. Wilkinson, a seven-year board veteran, served as vice-chairman in 1972-73. Married with four sons, he sat on the Trenton Board of Education from 1969-73 Re-elected vice-chairman was G A.. Wishart of Belleville.

Hoard Starts Early On Campaign Trail

STIRLING — Gordon Hoard and his political competitors will have more than rivalry in common in coming months.

They'll also mark up many a mile.

Mr. Hoard last week became the first Liberal to declare his intention of bidding for the party's provincial election candidacy in the new riding of Hastings - Peterborough.

No one knows when the election will be. And officially, the riding doesn't yet exist. It will come into being with legislature approval of the province's new electoral boundaries.

The redistribution proposes amalgamation of much of Peterborough constituency with the present riding of Hastings — creating a sprawling electoral district that includes 35 rural townships and various villages and settlements in 5,000 square miles.

As such it would be the biggest riding in southern Ontario, and the second largest in the province, says Mr. Hoard, a 22-year-old native of Rawdon Township.

"It's such a massive riding. It's going to take a lot of travelling to make contact with the local party organizations whose support any nominee needs to win the nomination convention," he said.

Mr. Hoard, leasing manager for a Peterborough vehicle rental firm and who lives on the Campbellford Rd. two miles west of here, believes there is more opposition to the redistribution in the Peterborough - area townships. Both Liberal and Conservative local organizations in the present Peterborough riding "haven't been too happy" with the proposal.

The present Peterborough constituency which includes both Peterborough city and county, now is held by Conservative MPP John Munroe.

As a result of the pending legislation riding organizations are in a state of flux.

Late last year, Liberals in Hastings formed a new executive at its annual meeting and appointed a president who ties in both Hastings and Peterborough counties. Dave Hobson teaches at North Hastings Secondary School in Bancroft, but he lives at Apsley in Chandos, one of the Peterborough County townships proposed for amalgamation into the new riding.

Jim Watson, Liberal vice-president in Hastings, says his association is awaiting passage of the redistribution bill before moving to reorganize its executive to reflect membership from the 12 new townships

GORDON HOARD

He predicts the legislation will be among the first bills approved by the legislature as soon as the legislature reconvenes.

As yet, attitudes are mixed on the calling of a nomination convention, said Mr. Watson.

"There's a lot of feeling we should be having nominations early. But, since the election doesn't have to go until up to 1976, we're playing it progressively," said the Liberal organizer.

Liberals across the province expect an election maybe in April, not later than the fall, he said.

"They expect it will be in 1975 and that the Conservative government is looking for a significant issue to go to the public," said Mr. Watson.

His own riding association expects other bidders for the Liberal nomination in the new constituency and these "will be making their announcements in due course".

Chamber Plans Active Year

The city's Chamber of Commerce is starting the new year with a full list of activities in the coming months.

Their annual meeting and dinner will be held at the Royal Canadian Legion Feb. 1. Guest speaker for the night will be television personality, Henry Morgan.

On Jan. 20, the city's chamber along with the Canadian Chamber of Commerce will conduct a national affairs seminar for area members. It will take place at the Four Seasons Hotel and on the agenda will be a report of current Canadian Commerce activities related to recent legislation and committee activities.

Also to be discussed is policy development. As well there will be an audio-visual presentation and workshop sessions. The public is invited and may contact the chamber offices on Front St. for further information or tickets.

On Feb. 21, also at the Four Seasons, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, E. R. Olson will be guest at a luncheon meeting.

Mr. Olson is from Lanigan, Saskatchewan where he is president of Alwinsal Potash of Canada Ltd.

Windy Ride

Fair or foul, the tweather is always right for Peter Prennen when it comes to playing. Despite the gusty winds of Sunday, several city residents arrived at Zwick's Island to take a stroll. The youngsters outlasted parents who soon took shelter in parked cars.

Questionable Methods

Conditions more akin to a medieval torture chamber than a modern youth detention centre employing enlightened training methods were described in a series of three articles in the Montreal Gazette recently.

Refused permission to interview inmates and staff of Maison Notre Dame de Laval, reporter Gillian Cosgrove, using her middle name of Leigh, spent two weeks there as an "educator."

What emerged was a harrowing picture of young girls who on the admission of a senior educator had "done nothing wrong," held in solitary confinement and strapped down, as punishment for failure to conform to house rules or for "disturbing" the other girls in the 15-cell group living units upstairs.

Children, aged eight to 17 — the retarded, the emotionally disturbed, the products of broken homes, to quote The Gazette article — are locked away for as long as a year and subjected to punitive discipline.

Reporter Cosgrove told of a frail 14-year-old, the same one presumably (only assumed names or ages were given) who wrote a poignant poem about "the kind of love I understand," strapped down to a mattress on a cement slab, her nightmarish screams ringing down the corridor. She couldn't stand it, the girl told her later and was screaming to be let out.

Miss Cosgrove said she had wanted to unlock the heavy metal door and take the girl into her arms.

And maybe that is the crux of the whole problem: why the youngsters find themselves in such an institution in the first place, and why their life inside smacks of something from the days of the rack and other instruments of torture from less enlightened times — a simple lack of love.

Certainly this is not the kind of thing one reads in the Quebec government's glossy monthly booklet, Quebec at a Glance. Miss Cosgrove says runaways, school truants, the mentally retarded, and those awaiting psychiatric assessments are mixed with drug addicts, petty thieves and the sexually promiscuous. Which suggests the senior educator quoted earlier was not entirely correct in saying "these girls have done nothing wrong."

Be that as it may, this is not grounds for the sort of treatment described. And no excuse either for the fact that "no positive rehabilitative opportunities are offered for either protection cases or delinquents."

It is a latter-day horror story, with the difference that the events related are fact and not fiction. It is happening in Quebec. We can only hope it is not happening in any other jurisdictions in Canada.

Making Do

Never throw off anything that might come in handy in an emergency.

In Tasmania for instance authorities in Hobart are pressing the old harbor ferries into use again following destruction of part of the harbor bridge by an off-course ship.

And India is finding that with the cost of fuel taxing its hard-pressed economy, there is renewed interest in the traditional oxcart. Thousands of these reportedly are being brought back into service, to transport goods from place to place. If the method is slow, it is certainly sure.

Probably nobody in the West imagines India as a food exporter, but it is. According to current information, the total exports of processed foods from India in 1973-74 amounted to approximately 310.3 rupees, compared with 224.8 million the year before.

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi meanwhile told a Bombay merchants group in December that a million tons of food grains were being distributed throughout the country every month.

And in an observation of great subtlety, aimed at critics who doubt India's material and political durability, she said: "I shall not deny to critics the right to reveal inadequacy of their understanding, but I request others not to underestimate the tremendous vitality and resilience of our nation."

It is good to know too that the oxcarts can help in such a task, and that in another far-flung part of the world the humble ferry boat still has its uses.

New Year Runs to Form

Price Advances Have Outnumbered Declines on Market

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Stock markets have been a source of good news in the early days of 1975. On both Canadian and U.S. markets, price advances have been out-numbering declines.

However, that's what usually happens in the first several trading sessions of a new year. After selling stocks in late December to establish tax losses, people frequently re-invest the proceeds in early January.

It's worth remembering that it was Jan. 11, 1973, that the Dow Jones industrial average reached its highest level in history—and then began a steep, 20-month decline.

What are the prospects for a continuation of the recent recovery in stock prices? Let's examine the bullish view first:

—Stocks are cheap in terms of earnings, yields, cash flow and almost every other traditional measure.

—Throughout the post-war period, stock prices have always started to recover after short-term interest rates have reached a peak and turned downward. Short-term rates appear to have peaked four or five months ago.

—The Ford administration in Washington appears to be turning away from an anti-inflationary stance, and toward an expansionary, tax-cutting, big-spending program to counteract the recession. That will probably stimulate business, which in turn would make stocks more attractive.

—The public can boycott the marketplace for only so long, before things wear out and have to be replaced (cars, for example). New and replacement demand for housing is growing constantly, and will have to be met eventually.

The other side of the picture suggests that the stock market is still in deep trouble. Here is the bearish view:

—The stock market in recent years has been dominated by institutional investors such as life insurance companies, pension trust and mutual funds. The conventional wisdom has been that the institutions can stay out of the stock market for only a limited time before they are forced back in by the sheer volume of savings flowing in to their treasuries.

Wrong. The insurance companies and pension funds have been socking money into fixed-interest securities—bonds, mortgages and the like—to ensure extremely high rates of return. And mutual funds are no longer the source of stock-market strength that they used to be.

—Stock prices are not cheap when you look twice at "record" corporate earnings. Those earnings are bloated by one-shot inflationary increases in the value of inventories, and by failure of industry, by and large, to provide adequately for depreciation and replacement in an inflationary era.

—The full impact of the big jump in energy costs has yet to be felt by North Americans, especially Canadians. When it is felt here our standard of living will suffer and corporate earnings will decline.

In the final analysis, the stock market is the mirror of investor confidence.

The bears would say that confidence no longer exists and that restoring it will be a long slow process—just as it was after the Great Depression.

The bulls would argue that even if the recession continues and deepens, there are always opportunities to make money on certain types of well situated stocks.

Among the categories currently favored are western oils (because of insatiable demand and the prospect of a federal-provincial stand-off on royalties) and stocks that are sensitive to short-term interest rates.

The 'Wild West' Maynooth - Style

Peterborough Examiner

There seems to be a light touch of Wild West in what's happening at Maynooth these wintry days.

When the saloon shuts down at night, the young bucks head for their steeds and go whooping along the main street to annoy the good townsfolk. Naturally, the sheriff has to hop on his steed and take after them to maintain the right.

The script has been done to death by the movie men but Maynooth's new twist is that the horses have been replaced by snowmobiles and the popping of sixguns by the roar of the infernally combusting engine.

Whether it's horses and guns or machines and their roaring, the effect is the same for the bystanders: the young bucks are a deliberate nuisance and a danger to themselves and others.

It is a welcome change to find the Ontario Provincial Police equipped and ready to catch the marauders at their own game. Too often, police are unable to do much about transgressing snowmobilers because they simply can't catch them.

In Maynooth, the OPP have their own snow machines and are catching troublemakers. Good hunting, OPP

Fifty Die In Cambodian Massacre

The Christian Science Monitor

Simply to report the tragic episode is to provide a commentary on it: When eyewitnesses visited a ruined Cambodian village after its recapture from Communist-led insurgents, they found more than 50 civilians, including at least 10 children, massacred. The victims appeared to have been shot or bayoneted before their homes were burned by the insurgents.

The world was properly outraged when the American killing of civilians at My Lai was disclosed. Similar outrage is called for by the Communist killing of civilians at Ang nuol.

But beyond outrage there must be pity for the victims, compassion for the bereaved, and repudiation of such inhuman excesses. The horror of My Lai roused the heart and conscience of America to a renewed certainty that it did not want such acts perpetrated in its name. The massacre at Ang Snuol ought to speak to the heart and conscience of those whose cause it has so grimly disserved.

British Win 'Most Courteous' Title

Ottawa Journal

Those North Americans - including a healthy percentage of Canadians - who get their kicks from abusing the British will be unpleasantly surprised by the results of a recent series of popularity polls in Europe.

It is easy to get the impression that, because the Lion is not so bright-eyed these days and still busily licking old wounds, there is none of the old charm left.

Well, the European surveys, undertaken to try to determine who are the most civilized, the most polite and courteous in that part of the world, have turned up popularity stakes which put the British at the top. Dr. Giorgi Napple, the Italian millionaire head of a big management consulting agency, spent three weeks wandering about the islands talking to everybody from squires to factory workers. His comment was: "The trouble with the British is that they are Texans in reverse. They exaggerate their shortcomings and minimize their virtues "

Then there was Vision Magazine, said to be one of the most respected business periodicals in Europe. It conducted a study of the nine countries of the European Economic Community (including Britain). The study concluded that "Britain is the most enjoyable country to live in "

But - and this is a gigantic But — a nationwide survey in France of all places revealed that three out of four Frenchmen professed a strong liking for the islanders. From the other side of the Iron Curtain a Polish television commentator said to his viewers that, "It is the British tolerance, acceptance of eccentricity, their willingness to let law-abiding citizens do their own thing, which is the most surprising."

That part is certainly true, at any rate. Those visitors, some summers ago, who saw the man in running shorts and vest calmly jaunting down the Strand at the height of the London traffic and observed the fact that practically nobody among the teeming pedestrians or drivers paid any attention to him, will not forget. Also, any country which can be so consistently unpopular and arouse so much enthusiastic contention must have something. After all, we don't usually bother abusing people we have no time for at all.

Citizens Coalition Offers Prize

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau
Thomson News Service

TORONTO — Citizens Coalition, the London-based group led by Colin Brown which pokes its nose into politics, has come up with a good idea.

The coalition is going to sponsor a contest

It intends to offer a $500 prize for the best proposal for more economy in government.

The timing couldn't be better, with inflation the great threat it is and governments really not paying much more than lip service to it, and particularly their own contribution.

And though such a contest will attract its kooks, it could get the public, and perhaps even governments themselves, thinking in terms of economy.

And there is a lot of thinking that can be done.

This is not an entry in the contest but here are just a few thoughts on possible steps towards economy.

How about a couple of commissions?

One would go into staff and have every deputy minister justify in detail his complement.

There undoubtedly is a lot of fat in the government service Big savings could probably be made in public relations alone.

Ministries are loaded to the gills with PR people and lord only knows what they all do.

The second commission would look into all government programs and investigate where these are out-dated, overlapping or could be pared. Anyone close to government knows there is a good area for saving here.

These commissions, incidentally, would be one - man inquiries, along the lines of the Glasso Commission in Ottawa.

The Glassco report showed us how efficient a one-man inquiry can be. And in contrast we had the ultra-expensive multi-bodied Committee on Government Productivity here which was practically a disaster

Then we could have a really effective central purchasing program.

A central purchasing program supposedly was initiated six or seven years ago. But it has been largely ineffective because individual ministries are jealous of their prerogatives, and nobody has been willing to order them to co-operate.

And finally there could be substantial savings in printing.

Hundreds, perhaps thousands, of publications are issued by government every year, in all manner of shapes and sizes but almost uniformly more expensive than the need, if there is one, calls for.

A standard format for all routine documents such as annual reports, and a rule that extravagant color productions be permitted only when called for such as in the promotion publications of tourism and industry, might end up in saving a big chunk of money.

(It would also be a relief to librarians who now are under constant trial in trying to fit their shelves in some order the myriad of shapes that government publications now take when they reach their desks)

Fonteyn To Dance In Canada Soon

John Fraser
in
The Globe and Mail

Dame Margot Fonteyn will not appear at the Royal Alexandra Theatre this month as originally planned. Instead, Hamilton Place has managed to secure the area option on the famous ballerina and she and a small troupe will dance in the Great Hall on March 10 and 11.

The deal with the Royal Alex fell through because of timing: Dame Margot could not perform when the theatre wanted her and the theatre couldn't take her when she wanted.

So those who want to see the world's most famous ballerina before she retires had better plan on travelling to Hamilton. It should be pointed out that her retirement is expected annually and annually it is put off. Dame Margot is 56 now, but she still fills theatres wherever she performs. She can't go on much longer, but then that's what everyone said last year and the year before that.

The two stars of the small troupe that is accompanying her are Andre Prokovsky, formerly of the New York City Ballet, and Galina Samtsova, who will be remembered affectionately by many Torontonians from her days as a leading ballerina with the National Ballet.

Egyptians 'Fed Up'

Sadat Faces Discontent At Home

By ROD CURRIE
The Canadian Press

Against the continuing threat of another Arab war against Israel, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat also is facing domestic discontent that unexpectedly erupted recently in anti-government riots.

It's a new experience for Sadat, who in the past had persuaded his people that the war sacrifice must have absolute priority, at the cost of social and economic development.

Now, as the poor get poorer, inflation soars and food shortages bite, the people appear to be fed up with the continuing "war economy," and no longer content to bask in the glory of the Egyptian crossing of the Suez canal against Israel in the 1973 October war while also preparing for the next battle.

The official Egyptian line is that the riots and street demonstrations are the work of a few Communist ring-leaders.

But outside observers remain skeptical, suggesting the organizers include non-political intellectuals, literary figures, workers disappointed over promised pay increases and the poor who no longer can cope.

For townspeople, particularly in overcrowded Cairo, and for peasants, it seems, worry over food and footwear has long since overtaken concern about the Sinai or Israel.

In recognition of this, the cabinet—after an unusual 10-hour session—coupled the announcement of emergency measures to round up troublemakers with promises of cheaper food and other necessities.

But the promises of greater imports of lentils and beans—the common substitute for meat, which few can afford—and increased production of castor, the cheap flannel cloth worn by the poor in winter, were vague, with no indication given as to how the government plans to achieve such increases.

Tea, sugar and cooking oil are rationed and such items a coffee and soap sometimes unobtainable, making life near intolerable for the urban poor and even for an unskilled worker.

In this atmosphere, Sadat apparently must play for time and peace, if possible, for Egypt is virtually broke; some experts say that even the cotton crop, a major export, is mortgaged for the next 20 years.

But the Suez canal soon may be operating again, bringing in hard currency in fees. If the Israelis would agree to pullback from the Sinai desert, such a victory without war would certainly enhance Sadat's prestige, permit rebuilding of destroyed canal-side towns and thus take pressure off Cairo.

Economists predict such developments would open the flow of Arab capital and perhaps stimulate the United States investment heralded during U.S president Richard Nixon's state visit last summer.

LETTERS

The Law On Rental Properties

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

I note the comments contained in a letter about rental accommodation from Mr. Hockley.

In particular I am interested in the paragraph which reads as follows:

"Tenants who are served with eviction notices should be aware of the fact that they can file a dispute. In the Small Claims Court this has to be done within 10 days."

Even though Mr. Hockley does not define what he means by the words "eviction notice" I should like to make the following comments:

1. If a Landlord serves a Tenant with what is properly called a Notice to Quit the Tenant may ignore the Notice to Quit and stay in possession of the rental premises. The Tenant does so, however, at his own peril. The Tenant acts at his peril in that should he fail to vacate the premises the Landlord is at liberty to bring a Motion in the County Court to obtain possession and other relief. If successful the Landlord can recover from the Tenant any rent owing, occupation rent, possession and his costs of the motion The Order for possession is enforced by the Sheriff of the County and may be executed immediately.

2. If the tenant is served with a Notice of Motion under Section 106 of The Landlord and Tenant Act, which is the type of Motion referred to in paragraph 1, the Tenant can, in fact, file a dispute

Section 106 (3) of The Landlord and Tenant Act reads as follows:

"The tenant may dispute the landlord's claim by appearing on the return of the motion or by filing with the Clerk of the Court before the day before the return of the motion a statement in writing setting out briefly the grounds upon which he disputes the landlord's claim."

I would point out that the dispute must be filed with the Clerk of the County Court and not in the Small Claims Court as stated by Mr. Hockley. I would also point out that The Landlord and Tenant Act provides for as little as four days notice to the Tenant. It is conceivable therefore that the tenant would have only four days in which to file his dispute and not the minimum of ten days as stated by Mr. Hockley.

I advise that the comments contained in this letter refer only to "residential tenancies". It is obvious from Mr. Hockley's letter that he was solely concerned with "residential tenancies."

While I am sympathetic with the efforts of the Citizens' Bureau I urge persons who have legal problems to consult a person who is trained in the law. I further urge Mr. Hockley not to give legal advice when he is obviously not competent to do so.

"Heaven and earth shall pass away: but my words shall not pass away." Mark 13:31

This is what Jesus has to say about His word. Every Christian schould take pride in having part in sharing something that is going to be around a long time after everything else has vanished. Today give out a portion of His word knowing that He will bless it. "My word shall not return unto me void."

Waste Study Foundation for Future Controls

The waste management study for Hastings County municipalities — including Belleville and Trenton — is a necessary preliminary for participation in future provincial government reclamation programs, Ald. Jean Smith said Thursday.

Disappointment in the study was voiced recently in Thurlow Township council by Reeve Horace Casey. The reeve said the study "offers no alternatives in waste disposal from current procedures."

The comments came as township council discussed a letter from the county canvassing local governments' reaction to the study, finished late last year.

Ald. Smith, chairman of the Area Waste Management Committee, which requisitioned the $20,000-survey, said at the time it was presented, the study had no conclusions on reclamation of municipal garbage. But provincial government moves since have altered the situation.

As a local project, county municipalities could not have afforded their own reclamation operation. The study's conclusion was to present means of waste collection by a system economically feasible while attaining the best possible ecological benefits.

Study proposals involved a combination system of collections and container depots for the future. The container depots would have eventually phased out about 40 small existing dumps in county rural areas.

Since then, the provincial government has announced plans for the future which include locating waste reclamation plants at various points in the province. Among them is Kingston — which will be the project nearest to the Quinte district.

Ald. Smith said the study — with its proposals — now will prove a needed prerequisite for participation in the future provincial program.

Loyalist Alters Programs Offered

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

The School of Business and Communication at Loyalist College has announced various subject changes for improvement in its system.

A major development will occur in the department of national defence program where a new industrial management subject is planned.

"We're trying to get 20 seats in industrial management," reported school director Ernst Kneisel in a recent interview. Loyalist is still awaiting approval of the move from sponsoring federal department of manpower and the provincial ministry of colleges and universities, he added.

The government body has already allocated 100 seats in the defence program — 60 for assessment, business administration and accounting, and 40 for two technological programs.

Mr. Kneisel outlined the changes to the college board of governors Thursday, when he also described the purpose of the program.

"It is an innovation which took place here ... for getting retired people from the department of national defence ... to come away, having been readjusting to civilian life in one position or another," he said.

Students' ages range from 38 to 55 years of age he said.

"They're a terrific group. They're eager and they never miss a class," commented Mr Kneisel. "Our placement experience with them has been fabulous."

A name change has been requested from the ministry in the Communications Studio Techniques program (CST), he said Friday. The school would like CST broken down into four options of radio and television arts, community journalism, graphics and advertising, and media assistant.

"We want to separate them out as recognizable options that can be printed on diplomas," noted Mr. Kneisel. He explained the name CST alone means little in describing what subject a student has been educated in.

Also slated for revamp is the Hotel Management course. He said the class is split between instruction at the college and at the Four Seasons Hotel at present.

But the Four Seasons class "feels estranged" because it is present at the College only one day per week, pointed out Mr Kneisel. The class will be combined in future for initial instruction at the college, followed by later on-site experience at the hotel "to learn the realities" of the business.

The present two-year secretarial program will be changed to a concentrated, three concurrent semester system to maintain high standards of typing skills.

Mr. Kneisel said this will be accomplished without hiring new teachers. He said it is hoped to combine the teaching resources of both the college and the department of manpower.

The new program will operate for 45 weeks, with semesters to begin each January, April and September. "We hope to get a lot of university graduates in the summer," he remarked.

School Entered, Two Youths Charged

Ontario Provincial Police here have charged two youths with break-and-enter after two people were apprehended inside Bayside Secondary School early today.

Police said two constables answered a call to the school about 12.10 a.m. today and when one went inside to investigate found two persons inside the school.

A rear window had been found broken but it hasn't been established if anything was taken, said police.

Police said Wade Allan Grier, 19 of Fouth St., Belleville and Ronald James Brewster, 17, of Herchimer Ave., Belleville haven charged with break and enter.

INTERNATIONAL WOMEN'S YEAR.

IT'S NOT A SLOGAN, IT'S AN ATTITUDE.

Sure, we have a button for you to wear during International Women's Year. But there's something else you should wear. Not just this year, but all the time.

It's an attitude. An attitude that says no one will ever again deny you an opportunity just because you're a woman. That no one will ever pay you less money than a man when you perform the same job as a man. That next time a prejudice or a precedent says "No, you can't", you're going to ask "Why not?"

It's a question that raises a very serious point.

And the point is that, despite numerous laws which outlaw discrimination against women, many opportunities are still denied us, many avenues are still closed to us and far too many prejudices still cloud the minds of men and women alike.

There aren't many women lawyers in Canada. There aren't many women doctors. There aren't many women stockbrokers or airline pilots or bus drivers or mechanics. There still aren't enough women Members of Parliament.

And what we should be asking ourselves is "Why not?" because, unfortunately, change will not come until we demand it.

We must tell ourselves that nothing is beyond us. That, if we have the ability, we must have the confidence to be anything we want to be. That, if we have the conviction, we must have the right to try.

Every housewife should be accepted as the equal of her husband, but too often she's not. An intelligent, capable bank teller should be given the same opportunity to become president as her equally capable male colleague, but she's not. Why not!

Is it all a hangover from the past? If it is, let's put the past behind us. Let's keep on reminding ourselves that this is 1975, not 1875. Let us tell ourselves, and those around us, that we will no longer settle for a secondary role in society.

Let us look upon the progress we've made in the past with pride. And the challenges we face in the future with determination.

If you'd like more information on International Women's Year and the status of women in Canada, all you have to do is write us or fill in and mail the coupon below.

Quinte Cuisine

Marion Casson's cheese fondue recipe brings back happy memories of pleasant evenings spent with Swiss friends. Mrs. Casson is widely known as a weaver and potter, and, among friends as an excellent cook. Mrs. Casson and husband Richard and son Garrick live at Carrying Place; they're expecting another child in February.

Swiss Fondue

one clove garlic
13 oz. dry white wine
½ lb. swiss emmenthaler cheese
½ lb. swiss gruyere cheese three tbsps. potato flour cold water
one-sixteen tsp nutmeg
salt and pepper
four tbsp. kirsch (cherry brandy) optional

Rub the inside of a fondue pot with garlic. Heat the wine in the pot on top of the stove. Grate the cheese. Added grated cheese a little at a time to the wine. Heat mixture, stirring constantly until the cheese is melted and blended with the wine. Stir in the potato flour which has been mixed to a paste with a little bit of cold water, season with salt, pepper and nutmeg. Stir in the kirsch, keep warm over a low flame; serve with plenty of wine. Guests spear pieces of crusty french bread with their forks and dip them into the fondue

An old Swiss custom says anyone who loses their bread in the fondue must kiss all members of the opposite sex as a forfeit.

Do you know any good cooks? The Intelligencer is looking for cooks in the area willing to share their recipes with our readers. If you're a good cook, or if you know one, write The Women's Department, The Intelligencer. Be sure to include his or her address and phone number.

Doris Clark

Fortified with Truth

Dear Doris: My advice to 'Alone and Unarmed' about the daughter bringing home Ceylenese fiance, would be this:

In advance of the visit, publish in the social pages of the local newspaper(s) an official announcement of the marriage. Once done, the onus to display good manners and Chirstian charity falls on the shoulders of friends and family. If they cannot rise to the occasion, then they aren't worth much.

If the mother holds her head high — and why on earth shouldn't she? — she'll come through with flying colors.

Tell the mother she isn't alone. She has many friends now across the country who are with her, and her daughter and new son-in-law, all the way. And she isn't 'unarmed' either. Knowing the truth, as she does, that in the sight of God all men are equal, and all His children, she is strongly fortified with the best weapon of all: Truth.

I hope the newlyweds have many years of real happiness ahead of them.

In Christian Charity.

Dear Doris: I am from Ceylon and I understand her position and also the position of the parents of the Ceylenese. They will undergo the same abuse from relatives and friends. This may come as a surprise to some WASPs.

Bigotry and racism exist even in Ceylon. There are Ceylenese families here and I am sure they will be glad to accept this couple as friends.

Nothing is lost. My advice to 'Unarmed' is to keep her chin up and accept the happiness of her daughter as the first priority. I will face the same problem when my children growup, but I am sure that there are quite a number of people in this world who have a large heart to accept others, no matter what race, color, creed or religion one is.

Sam.

Dear D. S. and Sam: Thank you, both of you , for giving us your idea on 'Unarmed's' predicament. Your support cannot help but give her the courage and understanding to hold her ground and help to smooth the way for her young people — although her home town is 2,000 miles from yours.

Those Argyle Sox Wrecked Her Life

Dear Ann Landers: When I read your advice regarding the five-year-old boy whose mother put ribbons on his blonde curls and gave him a tea set for Christmas, I decided that maybe you could help me, too.

I am a girl, 52 years of age. My problems started when my father knitted me a pair of argyle sox for my fifth birthday. Those sox did something to my life, Ann. From then on I wanted a crew cut. I refused to wear silk underwear like the other girls in my gym class and insisted on green jockey shorts. Now I hate dresses and I go everywhere in jeans and boots.

Lately I've been thinking of changing my name from Esther to Ralph. But deep in my heart I want to be straight. Is it too late for me?—Gay in Connecticut

Dear Gay: My spies have located you "In Connecticut" and would you believe they traced your letter to New Haven?

Look, kids, Yale is a very tough school. If you want to stay there you're going to have to spend more of your time hitting the books. Please save your stamps (or write to your folks) and let me alone.

Dear Ann Landers: A couple was having hard sledding. They were rubbing each other the wrong way. The bickering and quarrelling were ruining their relationship. Finally the man said to his wife: "I'm sorry, dear, for the way I've been treating you. Perhaps you should have married a better man."

She replied, "I did. The expected pattern is to progress, to improve year after year, but too often we go backwards. The persons we were in our younger years are often better than the people we now are. We allow defeats and disappointments to dull the lustre of our lives. We let habit blind us to the good qualities of those who are closest to us.

"Love is something you must work at. It cannot be sustained unless it is cultivated and nourished. One way to renew the original thrill of young love is to take time to count the things for which we should be grateful."

"You should have married a better man,' said the husbamd. "I did, replied the wife. "That better man can still be found, if only we take the time an trouble to revive him."—Rabbi Samuel M. Silver, Temple Sinai, Stamford, Conn.

Dear Rabbi Silver: Your words are pure gold. Thank your for a beautiful message. I'm sure many readers saw themselves in this column today.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a secretary who conducts herself like a lady. For the one hundreth time I have heard. "Thanks, Hon," or "Hold all calls, Dear," or "Sweetheart, please make five copies of that last letter."

This is supposed to be a business office. I'd like to tell my boss to cut out the affectionate and cutesy names, but unfortunately I don't have another job waiting. Besides, I have several years of seniority and one doesn't just walk out these days.

If you will print this letter in the paper I will put it on the bulletin board—where the clod can see it.—A Woman With A pronounceable Name

Dear Woman: Here's your letter, but I notice you didn't ask for an answer, so I won't give one. While Im sure some secretaries in my reading audience feel as you do, Ill bet there are a greater number who attach little or no importance to those affectionate names which are more a habit than anything else.

Demanding and Satisfying— She's Learning to Be a Blacksmith

GREELY, Ont. (CP) — Community college student Daphne Lane has shattered a stereotype in another male-oriented trade. Miss Lane 24, is studying to be a blacksmith.

"It took a lot of work to get accepted into the program," she said. The federal manpower department was at first reluctant to let a woman enrol in the physically demanding course.

"I've always loved horses," Miss Lane said. "In my high school years I really did a lot of riding."

She herself had doubts about the course at first. But a girl friend who lives in British Columbia encouraged her to go ahead. Her friend is a practising blacksmith who took a similar training course at Dawson Creek, B.C., a few years ago.

Miss Lane said that despite the intense physical exertion, she finds the work satisfying.

"It can be frightening," she said of horses that refuse to co-operate while she is trying to shoe them. "But I enjoy the work and I'm learning a lot."

Miss Lane is not the only new aspect of blacksmith training. While horseshoeing is centuries old, the idea of having a college course in blacksmithing is a new one. It is the first college horseshoeing class in eastern Ontario.

In a barn at Equidae stables in this community 12 miles south of Ottawa, Miss Lane and nine other Algonquin College students—all the others male—work soot-spotted in long leather aprons and gloves.

Much of the time they are assailed by the clanging of cold metal on hot metal in classes that run eight hours a day five days a week.

The Canada Manpower Service asked the equestrian management branch of Ottawa's Algonquin College to devise the 20-week course when it noticed a rising demand for blacksmiths in the area. It is patterned after the original program at Dawson Creek.

Students are selected and sponsored for the course by the manpower service. Practical matters are stressed.

Before they progress to shoeing live horses, they practise on hooves severed at the fetlock, which serve blacksmith students as cadavers do medical students.

Dan Dunwoodie, a blacksmith for a dozen years, teaches the anatomy and physiology of horses, drawing particular attention to hoof defects. Mr. Dunwoodie also teaches how to deal with balky horses.

His pupils learn to "roll a shoe from bar stock," a technique practised by blacksmiths a century ago. They make their own tools with hammer and welding torch.

With a recent survey showing 10,000 horses in the Ottawa Valley and about a million across Canada, employment opportunities for graduates are promising.

Blacksmiths are needed because horses must be shod regularly to prevent injury to their hooves and serious financial loss to their owners.

Mr. Dunwoodie says students should have no trouble finding work once they are trained.

"At the moment, about 15 blacksmiths are working in the area and they're always overbooked."

Like pizzerias, blacksmiths make house calls.

"Probably, these students will have mobile units once they set up operations," said Mr. Dunwoodie.

"It's often easier to go to the customer than have the customer come to you."

Housing Slump Hits Trenton

TRENTON — Construction of single family homes and apartment dwellings in Trenton fell in line with a slowdown in housing starts across Canada last year.

As represented by 1974 year end statistics of building permits issued by the town, Trenton fits into the national trend.

In Trenton, both the number of individual buildings and the living units they represent dropped last year over 1973. Apartment building construction showed the most dramatic decrease.

Builders and realtors have blamed the slowdown on high interest rates, lack of mortgage money and higher labor and material costs.

Local realtors say builders in 1974 were cautious in their construction plans However, the Trenton housing picture is expected to brighten in spring this year, they say.

Based on 1974 figures, 102 single family homes were built in Trenton as opposed to the 139 in 1973. Total value of the construction was $1,828,700, down $650,000 from a year earlier.

The value of apartment construction fell by a little less than a half of the $3,182, 000 recorded in 1973.

MORE

Housing Take 2

The number of units the dollar value represents was also halved. Only 12 building — a total of 154 units — were put up in 1974. By comparison, in 1973, 23 apartment buildings on 339 units went up.

The only increase noted in residential building in 1974 over 1973 was in the number and value of additions to apartments. Additions totalled $101,224 in 1974, up $57,050 from 1973.

Repairs to existing buildings remained fairly constant with only a marginal difference of $2,129 between the two years.

In 1973, the number of units and their dollar value was the highest in four years.

Crane Plant Busy

TRENTON — While layoffs have stricken many labor areas in the Quinte district, Trenton's Crane Canada Ltd. reports bristling business with no reduction in employees foreseen.

The forecast comes from W A. Brown, manager of Crane Supply, a division of Crane Canada Ltd. in Kingston. The wholesale outlet handles the output of the Trenton plant.

"There's not once chance in 1,000 of a layoff at that particular plant," Mr. Brown said. However, he said layoffs at a number of the 10 other plants in Crane's Canadian division may be forthcoming.

Any layoffs of employees at the company's plumbing and heating products manufacturing plants are due to a drastic slow-down in both residential and industrial construction foreseen for the coming year, he said.

And 1974 was "a year you'd sort of like to forget about," he said.

Mr. Brown said he also foresees a drop in industrial construction this year. Several companies Crane supplies have postponed plans for expansion of their plants.

"For 1975, it's pretty dismal as it looks now," he said. "Jobs that started in 1974 were completed."

The Trenton plant however, will not suffer as greatly from the slowdown in sales, he said.

The manager of the Kingston wholesale outlet said Crane's Trenton output represents about five per cent of his volume of sales.

The Trenton plant and two other pottery plants on the Canadian east and west coasts are working at "full tilt".

"I don't think there would be a layoff for maybe a year or more," Mr. Brown said. The plants have a backlog of orders to fill, he said.

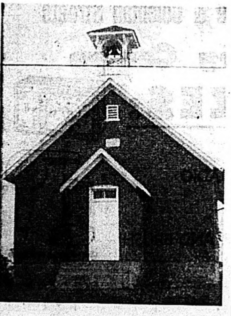
Picton Plant Re-opens

PICTON — Employees of the Picton plant of Proctor-Lewyt Division of SCM (Canada) Ltd. returned to work today following a one-month layoff.

It was announced in December, 1974, workers would be temporarily laid-off because of a build up in inventory.

Plant manager J. W. (Bud) Stewart confirmed Sunday employees' will return to the job this week but said he could not "off-hand" state the number. He indicated all who had been laid-off last month would return to work.

Mr. Stewart stressed there was "no problem" and added it was "just an inventory build-up by the distributors."



School Survives

Woodville School, SS II Sophiasburg officially closed in 1965 but its history has been recorded by a Scarborough educator, Cecil Wilkinson, who purchased it as a summer home. The school, built in 1893, has been well-maintained by its owners.

Evangelist Visits

More than 500 people gathered at North Hastings High School Friday evening to hear Dr. John Wesley Whyte, host of the Global Television program Agape, speak. Dr. Whyte, who is sponsored by the Billy Graham Associates, is a well-known evangelist both in Canada and Britain The Bancroft event was sponsored by St. John's Anglican Church.

Preparations Under Way For Astra Carnival

TRENTON — Preparations will soon begin in earnest for the third annual Astra Winter Carnival, CFB Trenton's biggest bash of the year.

So says Astra deputy chairman Capt. Brian Nix. The week-long carnival, Feb. 2-8, is "definitely the high point of the winter season at the base," he said.

"It's easily the most highly - attended event of the year," said Capt. Nix. "Everyone has recovered from the holiday season and is ready for something else."

That "something else" is the carnival — a week-long affair that pits representatives from the 10 provinces against each other in various competitions.

It's all friendly competition, insists Capt. Nix.

"We try to eliminate the professionalism from the competition," he said. Ice oriented sporting events — hockey, curling, broomball — are slightly modified for that purpose.

Broomball shoes are prohibited. Getting a footing on ice is thus difficult. Curlers will be throwing plastic bottles filled with sand and not proper rocks.

Points are awarded each provincial team for their success at such competitions and are totalled to at the end of the Astra carnival. The team with the most points receives, among other awards, the right to name their provincial princess the carnival queen.

In the last two years, Miss Nova Scotia has been so honored. She will preside over the annual Feb. 2 Astra Winter Carnival parade which for the first time will be held on the streets of Trenton proper.

Little Red School House Model for History Book

WOODVILLE — In September, 1965, Sophiasburg Township's 13 little red school houses did not re-open to pupils preparing for the new term.

Instead, students were bused to Sophiasburg Central School, newly constructed in Northport.

One of the rural one room schools affected by this change was Woodville School, SS11, Sophiasburg Township

Unlike many country schools, this red brick building constructed in 1893 did not fall into disrepair. It has been carefully maintained complete with bell and became the model for a book on early day education by its new owner, Cecil Wilkinson, a prominent Scarborough educator. The book is called History of Education in Ontario, A Historical Sketch of SS11, Sophiasburg.

Sophiasburg's first school was constructed in 1803 on High Shore Rd., and was the forerunner of Woodville School.

In 1828, the first Woodville school, a building 22' by 24' was opened overlooking the Bay of Quinte.

Early records show 45 pupils enrolled in 1850.

In 1893, a new Woodville School, the red school house that stands today, was constructed.

Minutes from board meetings of trustees of Woodville School SS11 Sophiasburg show teacher Maggie Ward received a salary of $275, paid in full for the year 1893.

Rules for teachers applicable in 1872 stated their duties included filling of lamps, cleaning of chimneys and trimming of wicks. Also, the teacher was required to bring a scuttle of coal and a bucket of water for the day's session.

Male teachers were permitted one night each week for "courting purposes" or two evenings a week if they attended church regularly. After 10 hours in school, teachers were to spend their remaining time reading the Bible or "other good books".

Female teachers who married or engaged in "unseemly conduct" were dismissed.

The rules also made it clear that frugality was essential if teachers were to avoid becoming a burden on society in their declining years. It was suggested every teacher should save for his retirement.

To provide incentive for teachers who performed their duties "faithfuly and without fault for five years", trustees offered a pay increase of 25 cents a week "providing the board of education approves".

Teachers also were told those who smoked, drank, frequented pool halls or were shaved in barbershops gave good reason for suspicion of their "intention, integrity and honesty".

Despite these stringent rules the Woodville school recorded a number of teachers who remained for two or more years.

Topic for discussion at the meeting will be aluminum wiring as opposed to the traditional copper wiring.

Alive and Well

School Spirit Changing Direction

PICTON — Is school spirit dead at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute?

John Singleton, students' council president believes it isn't.

"I don't think it is as bad as everyone says it is," he said, "School spirit has just changed its priority, with some things fading out, but a lot of new things starting up, he added.

Mr. Singleton does agree that in some areas of activity there is a lack of interest. "Take sports, in some, people are afraid their team will lose, so they don't bother coming out to support it," he said. Mr. Singleton also agrees that the minority doesn't want to support the students' council. "In our recent candy campaign, all but about $150 have been handed in and it's really been hard trying to get that money from people who don't care if they hand it in or not," Mr. Singleton explained.

Mr. Singleton also said that in the first term of 1974, the students council made more money in dances than ever before, showing that a large part of the student body attends the dances.

PECI was also the highest ranking school in Ontario last term in its support of UNICEF.

Ontario May Alter Mines Tax

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — Ron Meredith, manager of the Sudbury and District Chamber of Commerce, says the provincial government plans to modify Ontario tax laws on mining to encourage more processing of ore in Northern Ontario.

Mr. Meredith said Saturday that Treasurer John White believes " that the taxes relating to the mining industry are not in equitable proportion to other industries."

At a recent meeting, Mr. Meredith said, Mr. White told him a new tax structure was designed after the government had reviewed the general tax structure relating to all industries in the province.

Legislation to revise tax laws will be introduced in the legislature within three weeks, Mr. Meredith said.

Federal tax policies that will not permit mining companies to claim royalty payments as tax deductions caused the provincial treasury to make the changes, he said.

"This modification resulted in the province formulating processing allowances that would encourage processing of the ore in Northern Ontario into more advanced stages," Mr. Meredith said.

"These allowances would also encourage increased production in existing mines and development of new mines."

The new legislation, he said, will "offset additional taxes and "would result in increased employment for Northern Ontario."

Whey Converted Into Export Food

WINCHESTER, Ont. (CP) — A cheese plant here has developed a process to turn whey—once a waste product—into an export commodity which is cheap to buy and nourishing if mixed with the right ingredients

Ault Foods Ltd. converts liquid whey into a powder which can be used in infant foods and other food items. The whey powder contains protein, the reason for its value as a supplement.

"There's a scarcity of food and protein in the world," said Keith Henry, vice-president of the firm in this community, 30 miles south of Ottawa.

"We're exporting the infant food to developing countries because it's less costly and some people in those countries cannot afford to pay for top food products.

"The infant food has the nutritional value required by these developing countries and we're using some of the protein content of whey as a base."

Before being dried, whey from the Ault plant contains about 94 per cent water, slightly less than five per cent milk sugar, eight-tenths of one per cent protein and small quantities of minerals and fats.

A spokesman for the health protection branch of the federal health department said whey has a lower protein content than skim milk and the best form is whey with its minerals removed.

"Demineralized whey would greatly increase the processing cost. If whey was demineralized it would remove the high content of sodium and potassium and the lactose (milk sugar) which causes diarrhea.

People in Latin American countries are especially lactose intolerant and very prone to diarrhea, especially if the whey is mixed with Latin American water."

The Ault plant does not remove minerals from the whey in its production process.

It was the government of Mexico which encouraged the development of powdered whey. A government agency was buying milk products and asked for help in developing a new food supplement.

Sam Ault, company president and son of the founder, was on a committee advising the Canadain Dairy Commission when he learned about the Mexican inquiries, Mr. Henry said.

"So a program was created with federal government assistance."

Ziegler Says Nixon Is Political Exile

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Former president Richard Nixon is in "political exile" following his resignation in the wake of Watergate, said former White House press secretary Ronald Ziegler, as he decried the "vindictiveness" of various Washington officials.

"You only have to be here to sense it is exile—the abandonment by friends, the isolation, the vindictiveness of some in Washington, including some in Congress and some in the Ford White House."

"The fact that he has survived this period to me is remarkable," Ziegler said.

Ziegler, 35, will resign from Nixon's staff shortly to begin a lecture tour at a reported fee of $2,500 a talk. He said he decided to speak out because he is "fed up with Richard Nixon taking it in the ear."

In particular, Ziegler commented bitterly on a White House announcement that Nixon will be billed $8,440 for the flight in Air Force One from a point over Missouri when Nixon's resignation became effective to his landing in California.

"He was president when he left Washington," Ziegler said. "What was he going to do—alight in Jefferson City, Mo., and make his way out here by train?"

There's no place like home . . . and that's just where the Belleville Yardmen's four-foot-high trophy will remain, at least for this year.

The Belleville Shell Juveniles came up with a thrilling 2-1 third period victory over a very competitive Brooklin - Whitby team to win the 4th Annual Yardmen Juvenile Tournament held in the city on Sunday.

The locals looked surprisingly sharp in the final game of the day after playing two games earlier against some stiff opposition.

Belleville trailed the Whitby team 1-0 going into the final period, the result of some costly penalties.

"The penalties hurt us in early going," said a jubilant Belleville coach, Reid Mallory, "but we sat down and talked it over between the second and third periods and just decided to play hockey without the penalties."

The simple but effective tactic proved to be all that was necessary, besides a little help from lady luck to give the home team the trophy.

Don Thompson, playing his second game of the day in net for Belleville made several remarkable saves without his stick early in the third before Martin Thistel tied the game up.

"We had a thousand chances in the final period," said losing coach Dave Lomax after the game. "If you can't capitalize on THE chances you're just not going to beat a team like that (Belleville)."

One of the newest additions to the Belleville squad, Mike Crawford, formerly of the Frankford Junior C team, came up with what turned out to be the play of the game in the latter stages of the contest.

After putting some excellent moves on the visitors' forwards, Crawford saw the puck roll off his stick, just out of reach, near the net, but a diving swipe at the puck sent it to winger Thistel who had an open net and made no mistake.

"We have a system where everybody has to be on the ice and playing his position and today the team did just that," summed up Mallory.

Assistant captain of the Whitby team Jim DeMille voiced the opinion of his teammates and coach in a few words, "We lost to a great team."

In the first game of the day for the locals they came up with superb effort, especially on defence to hand the Birt's Handy Stand of Trenton a 4-2 setback

The Trenton team later in the day went on to win the consolation championship over Peterborough 4-3.

Belleville held a slim 3-2 margin over the Trenton team in the latter stages of the game when the locals managed to slip the puck by the Trenton goalie.

The netminder quickly scooped the puck out of the net, eluding the sight of the referee who was right on the spot. Luckily justice was served as Thistel shot the puck into the net in the final minute of play.

Belleville's style of strong forechecking and hard hitting paid off in their second game as they handed the defending champion Kingston Juveniles a 6-1 thumping.

Another new recruit for the locals, Jeff Gorman, took over netminding chores for Belleville in that game. Gorman looked sharp when called upon in the early going.

Belleville held a 3-1 lead at the end of the second period, coming from behind in the first 20 minutes, before exploding for three goals in the last period.

Whitby in their first game, edged Peterborough 4-3 and then took a decisive 5-0 victory over Brampton to advance to the finals against Belleville.

Coach Mallory is optimistic for the future of the local juveniles "We've finally got the team we want. With these last victories, the guys have got some pride and confidence back and you're going to see a different brand of hockey."

Juveniles Prepare For Playoffs

The mood of the Belleville Shell Juneniles must change: from jubilation over winning Sunday's Belleville Yardmen Tournament to seriousness as they prepare for their first round of Ontario Minor Hockey Association playdowns.

By finishing third in their four-team eastern Ontario AA group, the Shells earned the dubious distinction of meeting first-place Oshawa in the first round. Kingston and Peterborough tangle in the other series.

Belleville's was three wins, four ties, and nine losses. Oshawa, meanwhile, only lost three points in their 16 league games, but two of those came on a 4-3 Nov. 6 loss to the Shells.

First game in the best-of-five set in scheduled for 7 p.m. Wednesday night in Oshawa, with the second meeting back in Belleville's Dick Ellis Arena at 8:15 Saturday night.

Kinsmen Bantams Win Aurora Consolation Title

AURORA (Special) — Belleville Kinsmen Bantams went undefeated in four outings Saturday and Sunday to earn the Consolation title at the Bantam Tournament, here.

Though they did not lose a game on the scoreboard, they did drop their opener on overtime shots on goal. In the tourney opener they tied Sudbury 4-4 after regulation time and remained tied with them after a five minute overtime period. Sudbury outshot the locals in the period and Belleville was forced to drop into the Consolation round.

"They worked their butts off," said Kinsmen coach, Hyalie Bryant, "it's good to see a team who hasn't done so well in regular season come back and put it together at the end of the season like this."

Bryant says, "winning the consolation title should help give the boys a lift in the Ontario Minor Hockey Association playoffs this week."

The locals faced Thornhill in the final and defeated them 3-1. Mike Bryant, Danny Duffy and Danny Vance did the locals scoring.

Bruce Bell was in net for all four games and did an "outstanding job", said Gord McInroy, team manager.

In the Consolation semi-final Belleville dumped Warren, Michigan 5-2 Danny Vance scored twice and Ward Morrison, Gary McInroy and Pat Wilman got one each.

The Kinsmen's second game of the tourney was against Newmarket. In it Danny Duffy and Danny Vance scored twice each to lead the locals to a 4-1 win.

Team captain Gary Thompson is accompanied by Shell Juvenile teammates Martin Thistel, (right) and Steve Hedge as he accepts Belleville Yardmen Benefit Fund Trophy. Making the presentation on behalf of the Yardmen is Tom Cavanagh. Shells captured the A title in the annual juvenile tournament, Sunday at Memorial Arena.

BCI Juniors Blaze Own Trails

While the BCI seniors were busy winning their own Tournament Title the Juniors of Belleville Collegiate were right behind them.

The juniors took a tough 32-26 decision from Quinte in the tournament opener and rolled to a 69-46 victory over Kingston's KCVI in the A semi-final. In the A final, Centennial fell prey to the highflying Red and Blacks 63-48 and in the Grand Championship game, it was Moira who came out on the short end of the 54-27 score against the home team.

"We played well all day," said BCI coach, Bill Miller (who was also tournament convener). "The team just seemed to get better every time we went on the court.

Though the csore did not indicate a close game, through most of the first quarter and the majority of the first half BCI and Moira were in a neck and neck battle. At the end of the quarter the two were tied 12-12 and at half time it was only 24-18.

In the second half, particularly the third quarter, BCI came on with a spectacular offensive surge They outscored the Trojans 21-7 in the third and 30-9 in the half to walk away with junior honrs.

"I think it may be a psychological thing between Moira and us," said Miller, "because of the wide margins we've beaten them by in the past, once we started to pull in front tonight they simply gave up."

"That's the only reason I can come up with," he said. "otherwise, they played good ball all day."

Junior basketball take ma

Moira fought their way into the Grand Championship edging KCVI in their opener 42-40 after holding just a two-point lead at the half. In the B semi-final the Trojans outscored Quinte by four points in the second half to win by that margin 42-38. In the B final the Trojans added to a slim first half lead to earn a 47-39 win over Oshawa Central.

BCI held the Trojans big gun, Scott Sisson, to just four points, all, in the first half, and stopped their number two scorer, Kent Manning at just nine points. John Lowe added four for Moira, Roger Sprague got three, Brian Maloney and Colin McKay had two each and Bruce Yateman rounded things out with a foul shot.

For the Champion BCI squad, Bruce Miliken led the way with 13, followed immediately by Mitch Hannah, with 12 and Mike Kirby with 11. Dave Franklin was next with seven, John Guthrie had four, Gord Van Vliet, Chris Adams and Ron Bell had two each and John Geen had one.

Lions Snag Cats

PETERBOROUGH (Special) — The Belleville Bobcats hit a snag in their bid for second place here on an afternoon contest with the Peterborough Lions who downed the Cats 6-3.

Cats' coach Bob Boyle offered little other than the quality of the refereeing lacked. "They (Peterborough) deserved to win, but when you have to take penalities like the ones we did, it takes a lot of stamina out of the team."

The Cats' were again awarded a 10 minute fighting major for being the aggessor in a fight. Rick Langstaff was the victim of the penalty in which "there was hardly a punch thrown," according to the Cats' coach.

At the end of the first period Peterborough held a 4-2 margin over the locals Grant Goegan and Erick Powell accounted for the Belleville goals.

John Pollock of the Lions was the big gun for the winners counting his team's last four goals. Peterborough held a commanding 6-2 lead going into the final frame when midway through the period Jim Richardson's goal rounded out the scoring for Belleville.

Rich Get Richer in Broomball

There's nothing inconsistent in the Belleville Broomball League. Sunday night first place A and J's Drive-In Restaurant, Trenton, dumped fourth place Art's Esso 4-1 and second place Golden Mile Restaurant blanked Northern 2-0.

Gary Donovan recorded the shutout for the Milers and got all the offensive help he needed from John Paul. Paul got both his club's goals.

Ron Cannons collected two goals and added a pair of assists to lead A and J's to their victory. Larry Wannamaker had a goal and two assists and Kevin Allen added a goal and an assist.

Jim McLaren scored the lone goal for Art's.

BCI Captures Senior Championship

By MIKE BRADSHAW
Sports Staff

For the first time in the four year history of the event, both the senior and the junior titles of the BCI Senior-Junior Tournament have stayed in Belleville. Remarkably enough the home BCI squads earned both of them.

The Belleville Collegiate seniors routed Quinte Saints in the Grand Championship game 86-46 and the juniors dumped Moira Troans 54-27 in their Championship meeting.

"This is the first time we've ever had four local teams in the finals," said Tournament convenor, Bill Miller. "That just goes to show how much basketball has improved in the Bay of Quine area."

The senior final appeared to be somewhat anticlimatic as the home squad rolled to victory. The Saints just didn't have it against the Red and Black machine.

"We came up pretty flat," said Quinte coach Jim Murray. "We couldn't get it together and they couldn't do anything wrong."

BCI jumped into an early 10-2 lead in the first quarter and went on to take a 16 point, 22-6 lead at the end of the opening period.

"I know when they took that big lead that we didn't stand a chance," said Murray. "I just didn't want to admit it."

"What really did us in was the game against Nicholson," said Murray. "We came off that one feeling really tired."

The Saints had to face Nicks of NCC in the final for the B Championship. Neither Quinte nor Nicholson had been undefeated previous to that game and both were rated pre-tournamnet favorites, along with BCI.

Quinte earned the right to advance to the Grand Championship game when they downed the Nicks 51-42 in a tight defensive battle that could have gone either way during the first three quarters. At half time the score was tied 24-24.

BCI faced Orillia District in the A final. At half time Belleville was behind 25-22, but in the second half they bounced back to earn an easy 53-38 victory.

Against Quinte, in the Grand Championship, BCI could do no wrong.

"We've been playing good ball all day," said Belleville Collegiate coach Brian MacKenzie. "We played exceptionally well in this game, though."

Quinte set up a box defence through most of the first two quarters to keep BCI's high scoring Larry Wilson out of the points column.

"We figured they were going to box Larry," said MacKenzie, "so we decided we'd play without him for a while. Just use him for rebounds and defence."

Even though the Saints were keeping Wilson boxed out of the play and holding the rest of the BCI squad outside with a tight 2-3, and 2-1-2 zone, they couldn't keep the hot outside shooters from connecting.

"They must have 70 percent from the floor," said the Saints coach. "How do you defend against that?"

Starters Garry Donovan and Brian Bell did an outstanding job of gunning from way outside. Donovan moved the ball up the court well and popped in 13 points on the night and Bell hit for 19, including 10 in the first quarter.

Midway through the second quarter, the Saints switched to a full-court, man-on-man defence, but it didn't hold the highflying Red and Black back either.

Despite boxing Wilson out for most of the first half, the BCI centre scored 22 points on the night.

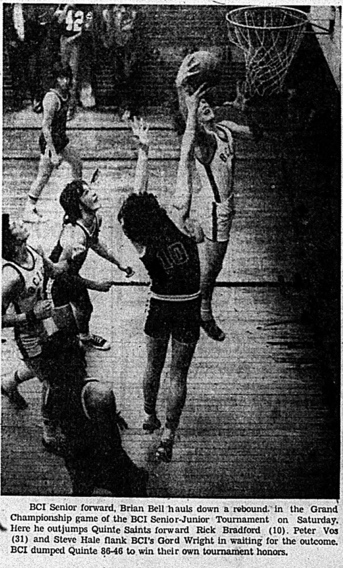
BCI's pressure defence (they use an aggressive full-court, man-on-man) kept the Saints off balance all the way through the game. Quinte consistently threw the ball away and handed it to the home squad on countless turnovers.

When BCI looked like they were in command, MacKenzie began subbing in from the bench. His club's depth really shone through when his subs started gunning.,

Russ Simonds, who is just recuperating from an operation, made his presence off the bench felt with eight points and some smart ball handling. Steve Kirby threw in six points and moved the ball up court particularly well. Other subs with points were Glen Watson, four, Richard Burrowes, two and Mike Lynch, two. Starters Gord Wright and Chris Lachman rounded out the 86-point attack with six and four points, respectively.

Quinte's Steve Hale and Steve McCracken led the way for the Saints with 14 and 16 points, respectively. Ron Crook was next with eight, Rick Bradford had four and Pete Vos and Rick Culkin got two each.

In the tournament's opening round BCI upended Trenton 49-19 and Quinte downed Orillia 53-43. In the A semi-final BCI dumped North Albion from Toronto, 67-30 and in the B semi-final Quinte beat Fellowes, from Pembroke, 54-41.



BCI Senior forward, Brian Bell hauls down a rebound in the Grand Championship game of the BCI Senior-Junior Tournament on Saturday. Here he outjumps Quinte Saints forward Rick Bradford (10). Peter Vos (31) and Steve Hale flank BCI's Gord Wright in waiting for the outcome. BCI dumped Quinte 86-46 to win their own tournament honors.

Ipswich Honors Shared by Scot

LONDON (Reuter) —Ipswich Town took a clear lead in English First Division soccer on Saturday, but had to share the honors with a young Scot playing his first full game in the league.

While Ipswich scored a 2-0 home victory over Middlesbrough to move one point in front at the top, Alfie Conn came into the side for Tottenham Hotspur and the result was a startling 5-2 triumph away against Newcastle.

Conn was bought from Glasgow Rangers last summer, but injuries have kept him out of the side since then. He came in as a replacement last week, however, and looked good, prompting manager Terry Neill to give him his place in the starting lineup Saturday.

He scored one goal after 15 minutes and by the time he got his second after 42 minutes, Cyril Knowles and John Duncan had also scored and Spurs led 4-0.

Newcastle got one back from Mickey Burns, but Conn scored again eleven minutes later and Spurs finished the winners by 5-2.

Ipswich got an early goal from Roger Osborne and a late one from David Johnson to take a clear lead ahead of Everton, which jumped into second by beating Leicester City 3-0 at home. The goals came from Gary Jones, Jim Pearson and Mick Lyons.

Ipswich has 32 points and Everton 31. Right behind them with 30 are Middlesbrough, Stoke City and Burgley.

Stoke City, one of the six sides which has led the division this season, stayed close by drawing a scoreless game with Birmingham.

Burnley appeared to be shaken still by its FA Cup loss to Wimbledon last week, but Queen's Park Rangers had no finishing power and Burnley escaped with a 1-0 victory. The goal came from Ray Hankin in the 58th minute.

Liverpool and Derby County played at Derby's baseball ground and the home side came out with a 2-0 victory. Henry Newton scored after 31 minutes and Francis Lee added the second late in the game.

The two clubs both have 29 points and are tied there with Manchester City, who managed an away point against Sheffield United in a 1-1 draw.

Leeds United beat West Ham 2-1. Keith Robson scored first for West Ham in the tenth minute, but Allan Clarke scored for Leeds before the half. Duncan McKenzie's goal late in the contest won it for Leeds.

The victory left Leeds in 10th place, but with 27 points, just five behind Ipswich.

In the Second Division, Manchester United Extended its lead to six points by beating Sheffield Wednesday 2-0. Sunderland lost ground by going down 4-2 to Portsmouth, but the two leaders meet in Sunderland next week.

Glasgow Rangers moved two points in front of Celtic atop the Scottish League with a 5-1 victory over Dumbarton while Celtic dropped a 3-2 loss at home to Motherwell.

Tommy MacLean scored three goals for Rangers and Derek Parlane and Derek Johnstone scored the others.

Willie Pettigrew scored twice to lead Motherwell's win over Celtic. Harry Hood got both Celtic goals.

League Leaders Fall

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chatham Marcons defeated league-leading Welland Sabres for the third time this season, downing the Sabres 3-1 Sunday in Southern Ontario Junior Hockey League play.

Chatham is the only team this season to hand the Sabres three defeats. Welland has a 25-8-3 record and is two points ahead of Windsor Spitfires.

The teams were tied 1-1 going into a scoreless second period.

Mike Cosentino, John Bellio and Marc Corbeil scored for Chatham, playing at home before 1,800 spectators. North Lalonde replied for Welland, which was outshot by fourth-place Chatham 43-34.

In other league games Sunday, Windsor edged Niagara Falls Flyers 5-4 and Guelph Biltmores and Detroit Junior Wings played to a 3-3 tie.

On Saturday, Welland blanked Detroit 5-0.

Spitfires 5 Flyers 4

Ian Campbell scored twice for Windsor while Scott Miller, Bill McCreary and Gary Anderson added singles.

Windsor took a 5-1 lead after the first period and hung on to win.

Murray Markle, with two goals, Peter Alco and Willie Plett replied for Niagara Falls on home ice.

Windsor and the Flyers each had 36 shots on goal.

Pilon Is Hard To Beat

MONTREAL (CP) — Claude Pilon, Canada's national heavyweight wrestling champion four of the past five years, won the heavyweight class at the Montreal Open Olympic tournament during the weekend by pinning John Major of Oakland University in the final.

The 220 pound Pilon, who trains at Ottawa's Carleton University, won the Saturday final in less than a minute by hoisting Major, 265 pounds, to his shoulders and to the mat.

In other events Victor Zilberman, a former Russian national team wrestler now living in Israel, won the 177-pound class.

Bob Price, 1974 Canadian champion in the 118-pound class, was injured in his final, losing to Lee Keppler of the New York Athletic Club.

Tim Davidson of the University of Waterloo won in the 134-pound class and Joe Dell'Aquilla of Toronto's Ryerson Polytechnical Institute won the 142-pound class.

Festivals Set Record

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hull Festivals, with new coach Lally Lalonde behind their bench, set a team record Sunday night by scoring 13 goals in a 13-6 win over Shawinigan Dynamos in one of five Quebec Major Junior Hockey League games.

In other action, Cornwall Royals downed Chicoutimi Sagueneens 9-4, Quebec Remparts smashed Laval Nationals 10-1, Sherbrooke Beavers topped Montreal Juniors 8-3 and Sorel Black Hawks edged Trois-Rivieres Draveurs 4-3.

At Hull, Denis Pomerleau scored three goals and Glen Sharpley and Nelson Burton each had two goals for the Festivals with single goals going to Bill Young, Pierre-Yves Giroux, Garry McFayden, Ted Bulley, Scott Hunter and Jim Montgomery.

Richard Dubreuil and Benoit Gosselin scored twice for the Dynamos with Jacques Rodrique and Regis Vallieres getting the others.

Lalonde was making his debut after replacing Wayne Maxner, dismissed by the Festivals late last week.

Pierre Brassard scored four goals—three in the first period—to lead Cornwall past Chicoutimi.

Ed Cleary, Yvon Disotell, John Markell, Dan Geoffrion and Denis Rochon scored the other goals for the Royals

Alain Cote scored twice for the Sagueneens with Daniel Poulin and Daniel Lecours adding one each.

Three goals by Gaetan Boucher and two each by Luc Vigneault, Daniel Beaulieu and Robert Sauve carried Quebec to its one-sided win over Laval.

Serge Laperriere scored the other Quebec goal with Jean Trottier scoring the lone Laval goal.

Jere Gillis scored three goals and Sidney Veysey and Claude Larose each added two as Sherbrooke trounced Montreal.

Michel Brisebois got the other goal for the Beavers with Garth McGuigan scoring twice for Montreal while Mike Backman added the other.

A goal by Guy Dupuis at 10:12 provided the Draveurs with their winning margin over Sorel.

Michel Comtois with two and Pierre Lagace scored the other Trois-Rivieres goals.

Harris Sets Bowl Rushing Record

Steelers' Fierce Front Four Just Too Much for Vikings

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Mean Joe Greene, leader of Pittsburgh Steelers' ferocious front four, finally made an old man's dream come true.

Not that Franco Harris didn't have something to do with it. After all, a Super Bowl rushing record is not to be overlooked.

But in the long run, it was Pittsburgh's front four that ultimately gave the Steelers and their 73-year-old owner, Art Rooney, their first National Football League championship after 42 years of frustration.

The Steelers dropped the Vikings 16-6 as Greene, Dwight White, Ernie Holmes and L.C. Greenwood held Minnesota to just 21 yards rushing, making the Vikings the first club to lose three Super Bowl games.

If there was any deceptiveness, it was only in the final score. The six points the Vikings got weren't really of their own making. They were the result of a blocked punt. So, in effect, the Steelers defence came up with a shutout.

"They've never played a better defensive game, never," coach Chuck Noll said. "Our defence has been fantastic all season and I think it's appropriate that they should finish things off like they did."

They finished off the Vikings not only by shutting off their running game but by turning quarterback Fran Tarkenton back into a scrambler. He'd sort of lost that image in the last season or two. But in chilly, overcast, windswept Tulane Stadium, he nearly lost a few limbs

Tarkenton spent virtually the entire afternoon trying to avoid Greene and his line-mates. Rarely did he have a chance to set up and scout around for a receiver.

And when he did throw the ball, the Steelers were usually there to spike it back down his throat, tip it away or intercept it. Of his 27 passes, only 11 wound up in a team-mate's hands, the end result being 102 of the Vikings' total 123 yards.

Tarkenton had praise for the Steelers' front four: "They are a devastating group. They were aggressive and had great penetration."

Unlike Tarkenton, Pittsburgh's Terry Bradshaw usually threw the ball not because he had to but because he wanted to. He completed nine of 14 attempts for 96 yards, four of them coming on a fourth-quarter touchdown pass to tight end Larry Brown that sealed the Vikings' doom.

Harris pounded out 158 yards on 34 carries, breaking the Super Bowl records of 33 carries and 145 yards by Miami's Larry Csonka He also scored the Steelers' first touchdown on a nine-yard sweep in the third quarter.

The Steelers were surprisingly subdued after the game.

"We knew what we could do and we went out on the field and did it," said Harris. "We're not jumping up and down . . . but we may be, later, when it all sinks in."

Andy Russell, who shone at linebacker before he was sidelined with a pulled hamstring in the second half, was similarly subdued. "When you expect to do something and you do it," he said, "there's no shock, just a deep sense of personal accomplishment."

Like Harris and the rest of the Steelers, Greene was still riding a euphoric wave of calm after the victory. "I knew we were going to win," he said, "But it's still hard to believe. It's going to take a couple of days to sink in. We are undisputed, you know. We are undisputed . . . heroes. That's what we are."

The Steelers first points came on a safety in the second quarter when Tarkenton mishandled a pitchout and had to recover the fumble in the end zone where he was immediately surrounded by Pittsburgh tacklers.

The safety, the first in Super Bowl history, was the only scoring in the first half.

But Bradshaw was unconcerned. "We knew the defence was getting the job done and we knew they could keep on doing it. That meant we'd be getting a lot more later on. So we didn't change anything when we came in at the half. We just stuck with what we'd been doing. We knew it had to start working for us sometime."

It started working the moment they got their hands on the ball in the second half, when Bill Brown of the Vikings fumbled away the kickoff. Harris boomed through the left side for 24 yards, lost three on the next play, then ran in for the touchdown and a 9-0 lead.

It stood up until Matt Blair blocked a Bobby Walden punt early in the fourth quarter and Terry Brown scooped up the ball in the end zone for the Minnesota touchdown.

Fred Cox' extra point was no good, hitting the left upright. So the Vikings trailed by three points instead of two.

The Steelers took the ensuing kickoff and, moving from their own 34-yard line, got into range for Bradshaw's touchdown pass to Brown.

For the Steelers' fans in the crowd of 79,997 there was joy—unrestrained by them, restrained by the cherubic Rooney, who had paid $2,500 for his team decades ago and now saw each of his players pocket five times that amount for their triumph.

Vikings coach Bud Grant, who four times coached Winnipeg Blue Bombers to the Canadian Football League Grey Cup championship, now is the only coach to lose three Super Bowls.

They're Too Good Says Tarkenton

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "They were just too good for us," said Minnesota quarterback Fran Tarkenton after Pittsburgh Steelers whipped the Vikings 16-6 in Sunday's Super Bowl game for the National Football League championship.

But Viking defensive tackle Alan Page said in the Minnesota dressing-room he wasn't sure some of the players on his club were good enough, either.

"It doesn't bother me to lose," said Page. "What does bother me more is that we had some players who didn't want the win when it was there."

In their dressing-room the Steelers felt too good to pop any champagne corks or toss their coach in the shower.

All they could do after winning was slap hands, hug one another and bask in the mellow satisfaction of the first NFL title in the club's 42-year history.

"I'm sick and worn out but I'm a happy, happy man," said defensive end Dwight White, who played most of the game after spending a week in the hospital with viral pneumonia and losing 18 pounds.

"I feel so good I'm almost weak," tackle Joe Greene said as he milled around the subdued, steamy locker room.

"I just want to sit back and savor it," quarterback Terry Bradshaw said between puffs on a victory cigar, courtesy of Art Rooney.

Rooney, 73 and the only owner the Steelers have ever had, refused to take any credit because "my sons Dan and Art and coach (Chuck) Noll have been running the team."

"But this is still the greatest thrill in my life," he added.

Offensive tackle Jerry Mullins said after the team gave Rooney a game ball that "this entire team dedicated this effort at winning the Super Bowl for Mr. Rooney."

Viking coach Bud Grant said he wasn't sure either team played well enough to deserve the win

Grant said officials "blew" two calls that might have cost his team the victory.

Needing about two feet to go for a first down in the third quarter, the Vikings tried to draw the Steelers offside with a long count.

"We were going to keep our count going until they jumped offsides or we got called for delay of game," Grant said.

"It looked to me like they jumped, but the officials ruled no play. They didn't call both teams offsides, just no play.

"Their guy came across the line and our centre snapped the ball. But there were no flags. They made no call, so technically, I guess, nobody saw anything."

Braves' McAdoo In High Gear

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bob McAdoo put on quite a show Sunday afternoon for the 15,377 fans who turned out at Buffalo's Memorial Auditorium to watch the hometown Braves play Boston Celtics in a National Basketball Association game.

McAdoo scored 41 points and pulled down 13 rebounds to lead the Braves to a 114-101 win over Boston.

By winning, Buffalo snapped a seven-game Boston winning streak and drew within one game of the first-place Celtics in the NBA Atlantic Division. Boston had beaten the Braves 108-100 in Toronto Thursday night, adding to the importance of Sunday's clash.

"If we lose two in a row to them, especially here at home, it would have really been bad for us," said McAdoo. "It would have given them a lot of momentum against us. So we needed this one."

In Sunday's other NBA games, Milwaukee Bucks downed Philadelphia 76ers 99-88 and Chicago Bulls trimmed Seattle SuperSonics 127-123 in double overtime.

In Saturday's games, Phoenix Suns topped New York Knicks 113-107, Milwaukee downed Cleveland Cavaliers 91-81, Chicago defeated Golden State Warriors 114-105, Detroit Pistons overcame Atlanta Hawks 118-113 and Washington Bullets defeated Los Angeles Lakers 102-90.

A game between Philadelphia and Kansas City-Omaha Kings at Omaha, Neb., was postponed because of a snowstorm.

In Sunday's only American Basketball Association game, San Diego Conquistadors beat the Memphis Sounds 110-107.

In Saturday's games, Kentucky Colonels dropped Utah Stars 95-89, San Antonio Spurs whipped Denver Nuggets 130-108 and San Diego edged Indiana Pacers 121-119.

Toronto NBA Entry Now Termed Doubtful

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Toronto, expected to become the 19th member of the National Basketball Association next season, might not join the league as scheduled, The Associated Press learned Sunday night.

"The economic crunch may delay expansion," a leading NBA Executive told the news agency "There has been on applicants for the franchise that I know of, and the Toronto situation hasn't moved forward, mostly due to the economic situation."

Toronto was a charter member of the league, but the team, known as the Huskies, played only during the first season, 1946-47. At that time, the league was known as the Basketball Association of America.

Toronto was expected to rejoin the league for the 1975-76 season, after the city was awarded a franchise last June 21 by the NBA's board of governors.

Pro basketball returned on a limited basis to Toronto during the 1973-74 season when Buffalo Braves played nine regular-season games and one exhibition at Maple Leaf Gardens, averaging over 7,700 fans per game at the 16,000-seat arena.

This season, Buffalo played two exhibition games in Toronto and has six regular-season games scheduled there.

When Toronto was granted the franchise, three groups were reported to be interested in purchasing the team. One was headed by Harold Ballard, owner of Maple Leaf Gardens.

"But he never pursued it" said the league official.

The cost of an NBA franchise is $6.15 million, the price New Orleans paid for entering the league this season as the 18th team.

Toronto lawyer Ruby Richman, a member of Ballard's original group, said in Toronto last week he was having trouble getting backers for a Toronto franchise bid.

Richman, who said he was going to Los Angeles to look for investors, planned to attend an NBA meeting here Tuesday which is to discuss the Toronto franhise.

Ballard's ecnthusiasm for a basketball seemed to decline this season as attendance for the Braves' games in Toronto slipped.

"I'd like a small piece and would rent them the building, of course."

The owners are gathered here for a meeting Tuesday, prior to the 25th NBA all-star game at Veterans' Memorial Coliseum.

The owners will also hear a report from its selection committee on the search for a successor to NBA commissioner Walter Kennedy, who said Sunday he didn't expect the committee to make any formal recommendation for a successor at the meeting.

Changes Made

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gloucester Rangers, used to being among the leaders in the Central Junior Hockey League, have had a tough time this year staying out of the cellar of the six-team league.

They are fifth, only six points ahead of Brockville Warriors. They don't like it and hope to change the situation.

So after losing 10-7 to Pembroke the Rangers announced Frank Chiarelli would replace John Bonnar as coach and would have Bill Upper as assistant coach.

Connection Is Broken

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

No sooner was Buffalo's French Connection line reunited Sunday night than another injury threatened to break up the explosive trio.

Rick Martin, playing in his first National Hockey League game after missing seven games with a thumb injury, when he ran into a hip check by opened the scoring at Buffalo to start the Sabres to a 5-1 victory over Vancouver Canucks.

But centre Gil Perreault, who helped set up Martin's goal and two others by left winger Rene Robert, suffered a knee injury Vancouver defenceman Mike Robitaille in the third period.

Perreault was taken to hospital and there was no immediate word on the seriousness of the injury to his left knee—the same knee on which he had surgery last year.

In other NHL games Sunday Toronto Maple Leafs edged New York Islanders 4-3, Chicago Black Hawks beat New York Rangers 4-2, Philadelphia Flyers defeated California Seals 2-1, Montreal Canadiens whipped Washington Capitals 7-2 and St. Louis Blues beat Detroit Red Wings 2-1.

Saturday, Montreal blanked Philadelphia 6-0, Boston Bruins beat Chicago 5-1, Pittsburgh Penguins defeated California 6-3, Los Angeles Kings beat Toronto 7-5, the Rangers defeated St. Louis 5-3, Kansas City Scouts defeated Washington 5-3, Atlanta Flames and the Islanders tied 2-2, Buffalo and Detroit tied 3-3 and Vancouver's game at Minnesota was postponed because of snowstorms.

The Sabres' victory kept them four points in front of the Bruins atop the Adams Division while Vancouver's lead over Chicago in the Smythe Division has slipped to seven points.

Vancouver goalie Gary Smith was also knocked out of the game midway in the second period when struck on the head by a Jerry Korab slapshot. Ken Lockett replaced Smith in the nets and gave up Buffalo's last four goals.

At Detroit, Garry Unger's 20th goal of the season gave the Blues a 2-0 lead in the second period and St. Louis hung on for the win. Marcel Dionne scored his 21st of the season for Detroit in the third period.

Defenceman Andre Dupont stepped out of the penalty box at Philadelphia and, taking a clearing pass from Ross Lonsberry, scored the Flyers' winning goal after picking up the rebound off his long shot at California goalie Gary Simmons.

Dupont's goal midway in the final period spoiled an otherwise strong performance by Simmons, who stopped 46 shots while Flyers goalie Bernie Parent made only 17 saves.

Rookie defenceman Clare Alexander, a minor-league replacement for injured regular Jim McKenny, scored the winning goal for the Leafs with less than seven minutes remaining at Toronto. Alexander's winner came five minutes after Bob Nystrom had tied the score for the Islanders.

The hospital shuttle service was busy at Toronto, too, with Islanders' Eddie Westfall taken away for treatment of a bruised thumb and defenceman Denis Potvin helped off with a charley horse. Both went out in the first period.

Centre Stan Mikita's 450th career goal early in the second period at Chicago gave the Hawks a 2-0 lead over the Rangers, who twice pulled within in one goal but couldn't get closer.

At Landover, Md., the Canadiens enjoyed their fourth romp of the season over the expansion Capitals, led by rookie Yvon Lambert's two goals.

Seven-goal Third Powers Marlies

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A third-period rally of seven goals helped Toronto Marlboros trounce Haoilton Fincups 12-6 and extend their unbeaten streak to 17 games Sunday in Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A play.

League-leading Toronto led 2-1 after the first period but trailed 5-4 going into the final 20 minutes. The win brings the Marlboros to within one game of tying the club record for an unbeaten string.

John Anderson paced the Toronto attack with three goals while Bill Wells and John Smrke each scored a pair. Singles went to Mike Kitchen, Craig Crawford, Trevor Johansen, Ed Saffrey and John Toneill.

Dan Shearer and Glen Richardson led the Fincups with two goals each and Greg Clause and Archie King scored the others.

A crowd of 8,300 saw Toronto outshoot the visitors 39-33.

Toronto, remains 14 points ahead of second-place Peterborough Petes. Hamilton is tied for third place with Ottawa '67s.

In other league games Sunday, Peterborough defeated Ottawa 6-4, Kingston Canadians dumped Kitchener Rangers 5-3, Sudbury Wolves beat London Knights 6-3, and St. Catharines Black Hawks downed Oshawa Generals 6-2.

In the only game Saturday, Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds edged London 6-4.

League play resumes Tuesday with Kitchener travelling to Hamilton and St. Catharines visits Oshawa.

Petes 6 '67s 4

Defenceman Pete Scamurra and captain Doug Jarvis each scored two goals and set up two other goals to spark second-place Petes to the win.

Red Laurence and Glenn Wagner got the other Petes goals before a home crowd of 2,327 spectators.

Peter Lee and Tim Young scored two goals each for Ottawa.

Canadians 5 Rangers 3

Kingston scored three goals in the final five minutes after Kitchener held 3-1 and 3-2 period leads.

Ken Linseman and Alex Forsyth gave the Canadians a 4-3 lead late in the third period before Larry Murphy scored into an empty net with 28 seconds remaining in the game.

Mike Crombeen and Barry Scully scored the other Kingston goals.

Dan Djakalovic, Ken Campbell and Dwight Foster replied for the visitors before 2,463 spectators.

Kingston outshot last-place Kitchener 48-29.

Wolves 6 Knights 3

A three-goal performance by Bobby Russell and two goals by Richie Hansen led Sudbury to the win after taking period leads of 3-1 and 5-1.

Randy Carlisle got the other goal for the Wolves, playing at home.

Terry Martin, Dennis Riggin and Rick McIntyre replied for London, dropping their second game in as many nights.

Hawks 6 Generals 2

Gary McAdam and Kevin Kennery scored two goals apiece to snap St. Catharines' four-game losing streak.

Doug Caines and Greg Craig scored the other Hawks goals.

Playing in St. Catharines, Oshawa got goals from Brian Dillon and Tom Olson.

The Hawks outshot Oshawa 46-32.

Greyhounds 6 Knights 4

Sault Ste. Marie built up a 4-1 lead after the first period, then matched the Knights during the rest of the game.

Paul Woods, with two goals, Greg Keating, Randy Borbely, Cary Farelli and Bill Stephenson scored for the Greyhounds. Greyhounds.

Dennis Maruk led London with two goals, with Vern Stenlund, and Ron Zanussi adding singles.

A Sault crowd of 1,914 watched the Greyhounds outshoot London 51-44.

Hicks Skates To Gold Medal

BRANDON, Man. (CP) — Kevin Hicks of Windsor, Ont., kept his winning streak alive Saturday with a brilliant free skating program that earned him the junior men's singles gold medal at the Central Canada Figure Skating Championships.

He earned marks ranging from 5.0 to 5.3 from all five judges for both technical merit and artistic impression. A perfect mark is 6.0

Hicks had 113.92 points in five ordinals over-all, compared to 98.19 points and 13 ordinals for runner-up Gordon Modde of Chatham, Ont. Billy Smith of Windsor finished third, ahead of Robert MacCormack of Ilderton, Ont.

Hicks last year won the Canadian novice men's singles after sweeping through his sectional and divisional championships and hasn't been beaten in a major competition since late 1972.

Carol Ann Simon of Mississauga, Ont., won the novice women's title. She finished with 77.96 points and nine ordinals, compared to 76.22 points and 14 ordinals for Patrice Black of London, Ont.

Carolyn Skoczen of Windsor won the free skating program and moved up from seventh to third place over-all. Sherry Chambers of Burlington, Ont. was third in free skating, which gave her fourth place over-all.

The top four finishers in the novice and junior events are eligible to compete in the Canadian championships later this month in Quebec City.

In the only senior event with more than one competitor, Lee Armstrong of Chatham, Ont., turned in another solid free skating performance to win the men's singles gold medal.

The 1972 junior Canadian champion finished with 121.93 points and the minimum five ordinals. His competitor, Jamie McGrigor of Cambridge Ont., finished with 114.75 points and 10 ordinals.

Kathy Fahlgren of North Bay, Ont., reversed last year's junior women's results with the best free skating performance to win the gold medal

She was the only junior girl to receive marks above 4.9 from the judges. Fahlgren compiled 111.15 points and six ordinals, compared to 106.46 points and 11 ordinals for Julie Bowerman of Woodstock, Ont. Heather Beaton of Boissevain, Man., was third and Michele Black of London was fourth.

Lisa Trahan and Douglas Brett of London combined first-place finishes in both compulsory and free skate programs to win the junior dance gold medal. They finished with 90.07 points and six ordinals.

Anita and Allan Huppie of Winnipeg finshed with 84.65 points and 13 ordinals to edge Sharon Sudicky and Allan Simoni of Hamilton. Fourth were Janice Blakeley of Cambridge and Michael DeLaPenotiere of St. Thomas, Ont.

Swede Is Tops

Austria Loses Hold on Title

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ingemar Stenmark, an 18-year-old Swede, ended a string of Austrian domination in World Cup ski competition by winning Sunday's men's slalom race at Wengen, Switzerland.

He edged out defending World Cup champion Piero Gros of Italy by a mere four-hundredths of a second to win the event, his second slalom victory this season.

But the Italians still had five men place among the top 10, including Gustavo Theoni who placed fourth and took the Lauberhorn Trophy combined event, based on Saturday's downhill and Sunday's slalom.

Stenmark had a time of one minute, 39.87 seconds down the two runs with a vertical drop of 155 metres. He set the fastest mark by clocking 50.03 seconds on the first run through 59 gates and 49.84 past 61 gates on the second run.

Gros's times were 50.52 and 49.39 for a 1:39.91 total. Paolo de Chiesa of Italy finished third with a time of 1:42.12 and Thoeni was fourth in 1:42.40.

Only 44 of a field of 95 competitors finished the race. The only Canadian finisher was Ken Read of Calgary who placed 41st in 1:5290.

On Saturday, it was an Austrian sweep with Klammer taking the men's downhill and Annemarie Proell-Moser winning the women's giant slalom.

Mrs. Proell-Moser, 21, won the Staufen Cup giant slalom at Grindelwald and appears certain of taking the women's over-all World Cup title for the fifth straight year. She has won five of eight races this season.

The 20-year-old Klammer finished a little more than 3½ seconds ahead of Herbert Plank of Italy on a 2.6-mile course at Wengin, to win his fourth consecutive downhill race.

Mrs. Proell-Moser was clocked in one minute, 20.34 seconds for the three-quarters of a mile race, leading second-place Fabienne Serrat of France by six-tenths of a second. Third-place Hanni Wenzel of Liechtenstein was clocked in 1:21.54.

Betsy Clifford of Old Chelsea, Que., was the only non-European entry to collect a point. She finished in a 10th-place tie with Martine Ducroz of France in 1:23.55.

Kathy Kreiner of Timmins, Ont., was 23rd in 1:25.13 and Betsy's sister, Susan, was 34th in 1:26.33. Canada's over-all points total is 33—the women have 31—for 10th place.

Mrs. Proell-Moser also leads the giant slalom division after three races with 75 points. Kathy Kreiner is the top Canadian with eight points for ninth place.

Klammer's winning time was 2:35.19. Plank was timed in 2:38.73 to 2:39.26 for third-place Werner Grissman of Austria.

Jim Hunter of Calgary was 16th in 2:41.74; Dave Irwin of Thunder Bay 31st in 2:44.21 and Gary Aiken of Trail, B.C., 36th in 2:44.78.

Jeff Jacques Fires Four Goals

New Toro in Impressive Debut

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

When Toronto Toros announced a coaching change last Friday, one man involved in the shuffle was overlooked but he didn't take long to make himself conspicious Sunday night

Jeff Jacques was a left winger toiling with Mohawk Valley Comets in the North American Hockey League until the Toros called him up Friday to replace Bobby Leduc, named to take over the coaching task from Billy Harris who quit at least temporarily due to family illness.

Jacques joined the Toros just an hour before their World Hockey Association game Sunday at Houston but came up with four goals in a 7-4 Toronto victory over the defending league champion Aeros.

The remainder of Sunday's WHA schedule was cut by storms in Western Canada and the United States. The Vancouver at Minnesota and Indianapolis at Winnipeg games were both postponed because of the snowstorms and Quebec Nordiques were an hour late arriving at Edmonton where they rallied for a 3-1 victory over the Oilers.

The only other game played saw Cleveland Crusaders beat Phoenix Roadrunners 4-2.

The San Diego at Michigan game was postponed by the league due to the Michigan club's financial instability. The Stags' home game Tuesday was also called off by the league which took over the club last week.

Saturday, Houston beat Phoenix 6-4 and New England Whalers beat San Diego 4-3 in overtime.

Jacques scored three of his goals in the third period and earned an assist in a five-goal Toros outburst to snap a seven-game Aeros' winning streak.

"I was just lucky, really," said Jacques "There will be lots of nights when I won't be lucky, nights when I have good chances and don't score."

An angry Bill Dineen, Aeros coach, said if it hadn't been Jacques it would have been somebody else.

"Five goals in one period is ridiculous," Dineen fumed. "This club should never give up five goals in one period. We're just not knocking anybody down.

"We've got to clean up the slot. We're letting guys set up seven and eight feet from the goal. And when guys stand around in there, they're going to score."

Tony Featherstone and Pat Hickey also scored for the Toros in the final period while Mark Howe managed the lone goal for Houston.

Andre Hinse, Jim Sherrit and Frank Hughes scored for Houston in the first period and Tom Simpson and Jacques scored for the Toros

Quebec maintained its three-point lead atop the Canadian Division with the third-period rally at Edmonton where the game started an hour late because the Nordiques had been held up by the storms at Winnipeg.

Renald Leclerc broke a 1-1 tie with less than four minutes remaining in the game and J. C. Tremblay scored into an empty net in the final minute to clinch the Quebec win.

At Cleveland, the Crusaders held their own in a penalty-filled second period and broke loose in the final period for the win over Phoenix.

After 20 minutes of scoreless hockey, Phoenix jumped off to a two-goal advantage in the second period which saw 40 minutes of infractions assessed. But the Crusaders roared back, taking advantage of two power plays for goals by Gerry Pinder and Garry Jarrett and then Skip Krake and Terry Holbrook scored in the third period.

McConnell Pots Three For Comets

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Napanee Comets earned their eighth win this season, defeating Orillia Terriers 9-7 in the only Ontario Hockey Association Senior A game Sunday.

In Saturday's only game, Whitby McDonald's downed Cambridge Hornets 6-4. Play resumes Thursday with Brantford Foresters travelling to Whitby.

At Napanee, Wayne McConnell paced Napanee with three goals while Dick Cherry and Rick Gerow each scored twice. Singles went to Ron Riley and Jim Sunstrum.

Bob Clayton scored three goals for the visitors, with Hank Monteith, Colin Gordon, Norm Metcalfe and Marty Zuchotski.

Napanee goaltender Carl Bagnell, playing his second game as a Comet, faced 42 shots while Orillia's Lloyd Vaughan and Ted Lessen handled 48 shots, before 428 spectators.

At Bambridge, Wayne Weller scored twice, with Pete Vipond, Bob Munro, Brian Welch and Bill Murray adding singles.

Jim Springwall, with two, Gord Tucker and Pat Bester replied for last-place Cambridge, outshot 29-28 before about 1,000 spectators.

After the weekend action first-place Barrie Flyers hold a 12-point margin over Brantford. Orillia and Whitby are tied in third spot, with Napanee two points behind in fourth place.

Canadian Shooters Shaded

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (Reuter) — A New Zealand team narrowly defeated a touring Canadian rifle team by a score of 2,247.144 to 2,233.146 in a one-day shooting match today.

The competition, staged at the end of the New Zealand annual championships, was over ranges of 300, 600, 900 and 1,000 yards.

Colin Ambrose of West Vancouver, B.C., had the best aggregate of the day with 192 out of a possible 200. Roly Canmock had the top score for New Zealand with 191.

Gord Higgins of Halifax, the oldest member of the Canadian team, celebrated his 69th birthday by scoring 188.

Canadians also competed during the week-long New Zealand championships and Bob Pitcairn of Vancouver won the Marlborough match at 600 yards with a perfect score of 500. Duane Salloum of Burlington, Ont., won the Southland match at 800 yards with a perfect score.

The Canadian team now goes on to Melbourne and Sydney for matches against Australian teams.

Eagles Treat New Coach

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Syracuse Eagles treated new coach Cal Ewenson to a real rarity Sunday night.

They won a hockey game on their own ice

The Eagles picked up their first home victory since Nov. 19 when they upset Hershey Bears 6-4 in an American Hockey League game. The win was only the ninth anywhere this year for the Eagles, who joined the AHL as a replacement for Jacksonville Barons this season.

Swenson was named interim coach of the Eagles Thursday night, replacing Art Stratton. Sunday's game was the first since the change.

Wayne Bianchin got the Eagles off on the right foot, producing the fastest goal in the league's 39-year history when he scored at the four-second mark.

Bianchin finished with two goals and Swenson, Dick Sarrazin, Jean-Rene Losier and Al Rycroft got one each for the Eagles. Michel Deziel scored twice and Yves Bergeron and Mario Faubert once each for the Bears.

In Sunday's other AHL games, Nova Scotia Voyageurs tied Rochester Americans 2-2, Providence Reds blanked Baltimore Clippers 3-0, Richmond Robins trimmed Virginia Red Wings 7-1 and Springfield Kings downed New Haven Nighthawks 4-0.

In Saturday's games, Nova Scotia tied Hershey 5-5, New Haven topped Springfield 6-4 and Virginia downed Richmond 5-2

Mike Moser Dead

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP) — Mike Moser, a member of the Canadian national basketball team during the last three years, died Sunday in St. Petersburg, Fla., after he had entered hospital for treatment of what was believed to be the flu.

A spokesman for the University of Waterloo, where Moser was a student, said the university's team was in Florida for an exhibition tour when Moser became ill last Thursday and was taken to hospital Friday morning.

An autopsy was to be performed to determine cause of death.

The 22-year-old student of kinesiology—the science of movement—was a Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union all-star the last two years. He has been on several tours with the Canadian national basketball team, including a 1972 tour of China and the 1974 world championships at Puerto Rico.

Toronto Mayor's Office Women Are Paid Less

TORONTO (CP) — A mayor's committee studying the status of women in Toronto says that women on the staff of Mayor David Crombie are paid less than their male counterparts.

It says that eight of the 10 persons on the mayor's staff are women but they earn only 67 per cent of the payroll.

The figures indicate that "female employees in the mayor's office have not successfully achieved, or have been denied access to, higher wage categories and job classifications," the report says.

Mayor Crombie said Sunday he will bring the report to the Metropolitan Toronto executive committee's meeting Wednesday, urging that the recommendations be adopted.

Sudbury Man Tries To Help Dying Girl

TORONTO (CP) — A Sudbury, Ont. businessman is attempting to ensure that a 14-year-old American girl dying of a rare cancer disease gets her last wish.

Heidi Biggs, who weighs 62 pounds, is in a Belleville, Ill., hospital and wants to visit Hawaii. And she might get there because of Russell Penny, 40, who read of her plight in the Sudbury Star last month.

Mr. Penny telephoned Heidi on Christmas Day and he was so touched by her spit that he decided to visit her.

"What a kid," he said in an interview Saturday. "So happy, yet so sad.

"When she told me her last wish was to go to Hawaii I couldn't help myself. The tears ran down my cheeks. Here was this kid dying and being so calm and cool about it."

The next day, the Heigi Biggs Fund was set up at the Belleville police station.

Union for Short Time To Keep All Working

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Members of Local 195, United Auto Workers, have voted by a 6-to-1 margin in favor of working a three-week month to preserve jobs of 231 workers at the Kelsey-Hayes Canada Ltd. plant.

The company had planned to lay off 81 workers indefinitely today and another 150 at the end of the month.

The auto-parts manufacturer, which employees 720 workers under normal conditions, approved of the plan

Three Drown

MONTEZUMA, N.Y. (AP) — Three young brothers drowned Saturday in a pond in this Cayuga County community.

Police said Patrick McCarthy, 6, fell through the ice. His brother Michael, 8, tried to rescue him, followed by Kevin, 9, both of whom drowned in their attempt.

Wounded Pheasant Made Hunter Artist

EDMONTON (CP) — The pheasant he had wounded fell into the dried grass and lay so quietly that he couldn't find it for an hour.

When he did stumble across it, a strange thing happened: "It was like I had broken the harmony. I saw the linkage between myself and the bird, and I had broken the link."

So, 18 years ago, Harry Savage put away his gun and decoys, turning to art forms that could describe—and diffuse—his empathy with animals.

An art instructor at the University of Alberta, he and three co-workers have been especially successful with 10 black-and-white posters, each portraying a Canadian animal and bearing the slogan "Let It Be."

About 70,000 of the posters have been sold, making them perhaps the most popular posters in Canada.

"They probably did more good in terms of conservation than all the words we could write," said the 36-year-old Mr. Savage. "They were a form of mass communication but had meaning, not like the psychedelic stuff we get out of San Francisco.

"Those images appeared in Norway, Greece . . . Minnesota bought thousands. They appealed to the five-year-old and the 75-year-old."

Among the 10 animals were the seal, bear, muskox and Canada goose. But most in demand is the wolf.

"That's because men and wolves have a lot in common," said Mr. Savage, whose experience in photographing a wolf for the poster series led to the creation of an illustrated book.

He was photographing the caged wolf from a ladder and the book takes the same perspective—a man, treed by his fear of the wolf cry, speaks with a wolf standing below.

"The wolf's inquisitive nature got the book going. I got to thinking if only he could speak. . . ."

In the book, for which zoologist Neil Everenden did the writing, the wolf and man discover their fears are mutual and the man finally comes down from the tree.

Aside from posters and illustrations, Mr. Savage has found self-expression in silk-screened prints. One set of eight silk-screened "stamps", entitled "Eight Cents Worth of Canada," deals with senseless animal death.

Perhaps the most dramatic of the stamps shows a dead, skinned coyote as background for a series of film-like frames of a maroon snowmobile "zooting over the landscape."

"The last frame is the hooded face of the fellow on thesnowmobile. You can only see his eyes and teeth and the fur around his collar, the same as the coyote's fur."

Mr. Savage said he created the print after he saw 26 dead coyotes piled at a municipal dump.

"It reminded me of pictures of Auschwitz. They were skinned, their legs were broken—somebody had made a little money on their fur.

"Those are the types of things that make me angry. There's a silent majority that shoots at everything that moves.

"There's the man who takes his family to the mountains and photographs his daughter feeding the deer, then later he brings the deer home on the front of is car and his daughter takes the picture.

"It's inevitable that species will disappear if this keeps on."

No Notice When Pills Found Weak

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government did not alert the public when it recalled deficient birth control pills two years ago because there was no health hazard involved, a health department spokesman said Sunday.

Nine separate lots of the pill, Norquen, were recalled from the market by the manufacturer, Syntex Ltd., when it was discovered that some of the pills had lost part of their potency. An estimated two million pills were involved.

The spokesman said the government decided to make no public statement at the time because the deficiency was technical in nature. There was no health danger to the women who took the pills, he said.

Nor was there any evidence that women taking the pills could become pregnant because of the deficiency, he said.

Only the affected lots of the pills were removed from the market at the time. There was no general recall of the Norquen capsules, he said.

Big Jade Job

Gunther Geyer of Mission, B.C., about 40 miles east of Vancouver, plans to turn this giant piece of jade into a carving of a rearing stallion. He plans to rought out the shape with an electric jackhammer to skim off the waste. The time-consuming part of the estimated six-month job is sanding and grinding for final shape and polish. The jade came from a large bed in southern B.C. (CP Photo)

Peterborough Takes A Pair

Peterborough exploded for seven unanswered goals in the third period Saturday to earn a 9-3 victory over the McInroy-Maines Minor Bantams in Ontario Minor Hockey Association action. Sunday, Peterborough came right back with three goals in the third period to dump the locals again. This time by a 7-4 score.

Mark Crawford scored twice on Saturday and Shawn Mulroney scored the third. On Sunday, Steve Murphy scored twice and Rick Cartwright and Jeff Simpson added singles.

John Sim (left) registers Derek Payne for entry in Sunday's Mid-Winter Ride organized by Quinte Auto Sport Club. Rally began at Belleville Toyota on North Front St. and finished at Wayfare Restaurant, Highways 37 and 401.

Zakos Guides Lancers

New Coach Gets Win

BROCKVILLE (Special) — The Loyalist Lancers made Paul Zakos' coaching debut a successfull one Sunday afternoon as they edged Brockville Bulls 2-1 in Eastern Ontario College Athletic Association hockey action, here.

Zakos recently took over the coaching reins because of the termination of former coach Burce Cameron's internship at the College.

Zakos commented after his win, "everyone played their positions well and we came up with a solid defensive effort."

The Lancers came back from a 1-0 defecit with less than five minutes to play in the game and won 2-1. Bernie Gannon scored one goal and Dave Horwood got the other.

Paul Shepard replied for the Bulls.

Brockville kept Lancers' goalie Glen Ogden busy as they outshot the visitors 31-24. Loyalist took 12 of the games 21 penalities.

The Lancers next game is a home encounter with Kingston Big Blue at Dick Ellis Rink, at 8:30 p.m., Friday.

Huskies In Sweep

FRANKFORD (Special) — A pair of weekend wins have turned Frankford Huskies into giant killers in Ontario Hockey Association Junior C action.

Huskies, 5-4 winners over league leading Lindsay Muskies, Friday, in Lindsay, returned home Sunday to turn back Cobourg Cougars 6-4.

Pete Crawford and Jean Doucette each scored twice for Huskies in Sunday's win. Lou Doucette and Curt McLean had the other Frankford goals.

Cobourg couldn't handle Huskies in the third period for three unanswered goals.

Cougars got single markers from Ian Williamson, Terry Irwin, Bill Whitelaw and Pat Rutherford.

Friday, Huskies' Gary Payne fired two goals including the winner while Crawford, Ken Jacket and Al McIntosh each checked in with one counter.

Lindsay goals went to Steve Lytle, Vaughan Wright, Steve Doyle and Steve Brooks

Bantams Trip Rollins

Down 3-0 early in their exhibition game with Frankford Bantams, at Dick Ellis Rink, Saturday night, Belleville Rollins Major Peewees battled back, but finished on the short end of a 7-3 score.

Jamie Robertson, Charlie Doran and Greg Horwood connected for the Belleville goals. Horwood's counter came on a sharp three-way passing play with diminutive linemates Danny Rose and Tye Cole.

At the Major Atom level, Belleville Towers—Food City played a 5-5 tie with Napanee, Saturday, and in Peterborough, Sunday, the team lost 6-1.

Chris Coates had two goals in the tie with Napanee. Singles went to Gordon Slaughter, Robbie Stinchcombe and Kirk Baker. Napanee got a pair from Mike Foley and one each by Kevin Benn, Terry Gray and Kevin MacDonald.

Baker was Towers' lone marksman in the loss to Peterborough which was led by the two-goal production of Terry Downer.

Belleville McDonald's dropped a 4-2 decision to Peterborough in Minor Atom play. Monaghan and Runham clicked for McDonald's. Kevin Evans had two for the winners.

Your Horoscope

BERNICE BEDE OSOL
TUESDAY, JANUARY 14

Aries (March 21 - April 19) You can rely on others to do as you direct but first you'll have to build a fire under them. A pep talk will do the trick.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) If you feel your work merits g eater compensation, this is a good time to call this to the attention of your superiors.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Much can be accomplished today if you arrange your schedule in its order of importance. Attack one problem at a time.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) Others are willing to share things of vaule. Don't look gift ho:ses in the mouth. Be grateful for what's offered.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Agreements today will be longlasting and benefit both parties equally, especially if one of the opposite sex is involved.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept 22) Don't be hesitant to mark-up the price tag for your skills or talents. The buyer will still get a bargain.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're luckier than most today in situations that have elements of chance as a partial ingredient. Follow your hunches.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Check you sources agin to see if something you've been wanting for the house can now be gotten on better terms.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Several people you haven't heard from recently will be getting in touch shortly. An old relationship will be revived.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19) Something is developing in a rather mysterious and unique manner that will prove to be of profit to you.

Aquarius (Jan 20-Feb. 19) Work closely today with the two people most able to assit with your present hopes. Don't wait for them to call you.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) Be sure to keep stritly to yourself anything told you now by a confidant who insists up on secrecy.

Seeks Tight Controls

EDMONTON (CP) — A report prepared for the Peace River regional planning commission urges tight controls over development in river valleys and lakeshores, which it describes as the most important recreational resource in the area. It says they should be designated as landscape corridors with almost no development permitted.

Pep Pill a Crutch For Heavy Drinker

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you let me know what the effect of taking a pep pill once a day every day for the past 14 years is. This person is under the care of his doctor, who is afraid not to give them to him as he would get them somewhere else and the doctor wouldn't have the control he has now. He also has from four to seven drinks (usually martinis) a day.

What effect would this have on the sex life of this person or on his personality? He is 51.—M.S.

These "pep pills" are amphetamine or one of its derivatives, also known as "speed.

There are a few legitimate uses for these drugs, but too often they are prescribed unwisely and indiscriminately as appetite depressants or to combat fatigue. This is dangerous since, in the latter case for instance, no effort is made to determine the cause of the fatigue. So the pills are essentially masking an important symptom.

Prolonged use results, of course, in a psychological dependence as opposed to a physical dependence with the so-called hard drugs. Too often, the difference gets blurred.

Psychosis and profound neurotic symptoms can follow since the pills can cause a person to go beyond physical endurance, making him or her a hazard as a driver, for example. The pills do not enhance sexual drive, but can cause personality changes.

The individual you speak of sounds like a neurotic personality who drinks to excess, then uses stimuants to lift him out of the resulting depression.

True, he could probably get the drug from another source if his physician cut him off. He can be weaned off the drug carefully, but treating of the the original problem anyway) will likely require psychiatric attention.

As things look now, your friend is heading for a heavy fall.

In fact, the chances are pretty good he is already getting an additional supply elsewhere, since it is common in these cases for usage to increase in quantity over the years.

Dear Doctor: My husband and I are in our late 70s. We have had a good sex relationship during our married life. About four years ago, out of the blue, my husband became impotent.

One year ago, my husband had to have surgery for removal of the prostate gland. We have accepted his impotence as a matter of course, but are wondering what might have caused it. Is this a usual thing?—Mrs. N.

The impotence occurring three years before prostate surgery is not unusual at his age. The causes are not clear. Some are probably psychological, others may be related to problems of age such as arteriosclerosis, diabetes, or neurologic ailments.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Recently a doctor told me to take eight aspirins a day for arthritis, which I did for about two months.

But the doctor has been out of town and I had distinct burning and some nausea. I stopped taking the aspirin and now feel better. I wonder if the aspirin caused the problem?—Mrs. L.R.S.

Could be. Aspirin in small or large amounts can irritate the stomach and cause ulceration and bleeding. This is why it is wise for those susceptible to this to take the aspirin after a meal or with an alkali such as baking soda.

If this doesn't help, you can switch to other forms of salicylate (aspirin) such as coated sodium salicylate.

Charged With Arson

CALGARY (CP) — The Calgary fire department says 136 persons were charged with arson in the first nine months of 1974 in cases involving fires causing $596,890 damage. The department said a total of 204 fires, causing $2.3 million damage, were deliberately set during the nine-month period.

Oswald: "A good rubber bridge player should learn to be generous. He doesn't mind letting an opponent win a trick now and then as long as the lost trick does not cost his contract."

Jim: "Today's declarer was a little stingy. He had bid four but wanted to make six. He discarded a diamond on dummy's ace of clubs and led a heart to his ace; then he played the king of hearts West showed out and the contract was now in jeopardy."

Oswald: "The way the cards lay there just was no way to bring it home. South tried to get a diamond discard on dummy's fourth spade but East ruffed the third spade lead and spoiled that plan."

Jim: "South had overlooked a generous safety play. East had played the eight of hearts on the first heart lead and South should have stuck in his nine. This would have cost him a trick if hearts had broken 2-2 but as it was would have insured his contract since East would never be able to lead a diamond through South's king."

Oswald: "If East had played the queen or jack of hearts on the first heart lead, South would go back to dummy with a spade; take a finesse against the last heart honor and wind up with an overtrick."

A — This is a very tough spot. Five clubs is a slight underbid but should be made except in a well-developed expert partnership where a four-heart call will be read as a mild slam try in clubs and not as a delayed heart raise.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of rebidding two no-trump your partner has jumped to three hearts over your one spade. What do you do now?

Television Sex School Advocated

LONDON (Reuter) — A leading British psychiatrist said Sunday that a case can be made for television sex demonstrations—but said that less violence should be shown.

Dr. Richard Fox, a consultant psychiatrist, author and broadcaster, said society is becoming increasingly violent and television violence leads viewers to imitate it.

But there is scant evidence that sexual themes do harm, he said, and added: "Indeed from vast experience of people miserably frigid, impotent or sexually-deviated as a result of ignorance and prejudice during their upbringing, I could make a case for explicit sex instruction films to include practical demonstrations.

"It is immensely sad that would-be reformers and censors concentrate on sex to the exclusion of the more vital areas of violence and greed."

Dr Fox made his statement as evidence to a committee on the future of broadcasting.

Saturn Pieces Fall in Ocean

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (Reuter) — The 41-ton Saturn rocket that launched the Skylab space station in May, 1973, plunged through the atmosphere Saturday and a large piece landed in the Atlantic Ocean about 1,000 miles west of Gibraltar, the U.S. space agency said.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) said one large chunk of the rocket fell into the ocean at 34 degrees north latitude and 19 degrees west longitude.

There were no reports that any fragments fell on land or of damage or injuries.

The agency said a few fragments may have fallen into the Sahara desert, several hundred miles south of Marrakesh, Morocco, but no sightings were reported.

Idol Sues

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A religious idol allegedly stolen from India has become a plaintiff in a $5.5-million suit to wrest it away from millionaire art collector Norton Simon.

The complaint in the case was amended Friday to include the idol—the Sivapuram Nataraja—after the Indian government said that under Indian law the idol is a "juristic person and a legal entity ... and thereby entitled to own property and may sue or be sued to vindicate its rights."

Recall Cereal

PITTSBURGH (AP) — H. J. Heinz Co. says it is recalling all its instant dry baby cereals from distribution after small metal fragments were found in two boxes of its cereal.

A housewife in Charlotte, N.C., reported finding the fragments in two boxes of cereal last Monday.

Franco Healthy

MADRID (AP) — Premier Carlos Arias Navarro describes Gen. Francisco Franco's health as normal for a man of his age—82—and says he displays "extraordinary mental lucidity" at cabinet meetings. He made the comments in an interview published Sunday in the Madrid monarchist newspaper ABC. Last July, Franco was reported in critical condition after a blood clot formed in his leg.

Office Burns

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario Fire Marshal's office is investigating a fire early Sunday that destroyed the headquarters of the United Auto Workers, which represents employees of American Motors.

There were no injuries and cause of the fire is not known.

A fire department spokesman said damage to building and contents will exceed $100,000.

Regional Government Probe Advocated by Robert Nixon

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario needs a commission to investigate the province's regional governments to ensure that they are working for the people, says Liberal Leader Robert Nixon.

Speaking at a news conference Saturday during the annual meeting of the Toronto and District Liberal party, Mr. Nixon said the province needs good local government, not an extension of the Queen's Park bureaucracy.

The Liberal leader, buoyed by the latest Gallup poll published in The Star which shows his party leads the ruling Progressive Conservative party of Premier William Davis, said if he was elected premier, he would appoint a commission composed of provincial and municipal politicians to look into regional government.

"I get the feeling that the Niagara region, for instance is perhaps three times too big," Mr. Nixon said.

He added that he would not abolish regional governments but would appoint the commission to ascertain what areas should be cut and what areas might be improved.

He said the commission could "make recommendations to ensure that local government is in fact local."

" ... In fact just because it (a local government) is big doesn't necessarily mean it has to be good," the Liberal leader said.

Mr. Nixon also repeated that there should be a limit on the money political parties should be allowed to spend in an election campaign.

He said his own party would be ready for an election this spring but expected it in the fall and revealed that in the 1971 provincial election, it spent between $800,000 and $1 million on campaigning.

Mr. Nixon said there was general disenchantment throughout the province with the leadership of Premier Davis and that Liberal party workers never felt more hopeful.

"I think that sometimes the Liberals are the last ones to be convinced but I think they finally feel we're winning—that we're going to win," he said.

Ford Says He Expects To Achieve His Goals

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford says in an interview with the Washington Post he is confident he will be able to achieve the goals he as set for prosperity and peace."

"And I would hope we could do it in conjunction or in co-operation with the Congress," Ford said in the interview published in the Post's Sunday editions.

Ford said that because in the first five months of his presidency he has had to deal with problems and policies inherited from the Nixon administration, it will be another six months before he can assess fairly his own strengths and limitations as president.

Ford said one goal of his presidency is "to restore that integrity which is important in the government, as far as the public is concerned, from that relatively low point" of last Aug. 9 when Richard Nixon resigned.

He said another goal was to meet "the ravages of inflation which we haven't experienced in this country certainly during during my lifetime, and at the same time meet the simultaneous dangers which we face today of the deteriorated economic situation."

Ford said he doesn't think he has the capacity to electrify people displayed by some previous presidents, notably Franklin D. Roosevelt.

However, he said, "I think I do have a capability of communication ... that is one of straightforwardness, complete honesty and just talking straight."

Democrats Hedging Says McCarthy

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Former United States senator Eugene McCarthy, saying the Democratic party has begun to "hedge and compromise" too much, Sunday announced his candidacy as an independent for the United States presidency.

McCarthy made the formal announcement at a theatre in downtown Madison, a city in which he drew solid support in his unsuccessful 1968 bid for the Democratic presidential nomination.

His candidacy was supported by the Wisconsin Committee for a Constitutional Presidency, whose leaders said they hope to put independent candidates on ballots in all 50 states.

"The committee asked if I would be its candidate, and I answered in the affirmative," the former Minnesota senator said.

He said the Democratic party is "no longer an adequate instrument through which candidates can be selected and elected."

McCarthy said he began to wonder about the party's vitality because of its inability to defeat Richard Nixon in two presidential elections.

Halt Building

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Supreme Court has granted an interim injunction halting construction of a partly-completed building in Bradford, about 35 miles north of here.

The court said in a written judgment that a company partly owned by a former town councillor operated "in blatant defiance" of West Gwillimbury Township bylaws in the construction of a commercial building.

The building was being erected to house the Bradford Witness, a weekly newspaper.

Heroin Seized

LONDON (Reuter) — Police seized heroin with a street value of more than $2 million in weekend raids in central England. The haul of 10 pounds of pure heroin was one of the biggest ever made in Britain.

Dief Finds King Diaries Back Him

OTTAWA (CP) — John Diefenbaker disagrees with the publication of Mackenzie King's diaries—"he said in his will they were to be destroyed"—but the former Progressive Conservative prime minister probably will gain something himself from the diaries.

Four weeks ago, Mr. Diefenbaker spoke into CBC microphones about Mr. King's spiritualism, affection for his dog and obsession with the hands of clocks.

Without publication of the diaries, Mr. Diefenbaker said some of his stories might have been laughed at. The television series, a year or so away, will form part of Mr. Diefenbaker's memoirs.

"Oh, I know a lot of people were surprised at the things King put in his diary, but nothing surprised me whatsoever. I knew most of these things."

Mr. Diefenbaker knew the former Liberal prime minister even before running against him in Prince Albert in 1926, because his father taught King and "always said that even as a little boy King lived in a ghost world."

Mr. Diefenbaker remembers the day Paris fell to the Germans and he and several other MPs entered Mr. King's centre block office to talk with the Liberal prime minister.

"It was about 10 a.m. and we went into a small room off the office where there was a built-in bed. King was in some kind of night garb and he explained he had been up until 2 a.m. working on his diaries.

"We asked whether the reports were true that Paris had fallen to the Germans. King didn't know, but in a few minutes a secretary confirmed the news.

"King went over to the clock in front of the fireplace and studied it. At exactly 10:20, when the two hands formed a straight line, he ran his hand along the line, paused to study it again and said 'Diefenbaker, we're not going to lose this war — we can't lose now'

"I also remember him telling me that 'Gladstone fully agrees with the stands I have taken,'" recalls Mr. Diefenbaker. "I knew he was talking about extra-terresterial communications."

He says he wasn't the only MP aware of the extent of Mr. King's reliance on spiritualism. "I know of two Liberal cabinet ministers who also knew all about it. I've heard them say 'I wonder who he's (Mr. King) been talking with today.'"

What was Mr. King like as a political opponent?

"Well, you could never trap him. If you began to read something he said in hopes of trapping him, King would say 'read on.' He knew that a few paragraphs later he would be reversing himself."

Native People Angry At Buchanan's Stand

OTTAWA (CP) — Indian and Eskimo organizations in the Northwest Territories, angered by weekend statements by Northern Affairs Minister Judd Buchanan, said Sunday they were uncertain whether to continue legal arguments based on land claims against the proposed Mackenzie Valley natural gas pipeline.

"Has the federal government already decided what it set up the Berger commission to determine?" asked the Northwest Territories Indian Brotherhood and Inuit Tapirisat (Eskimo Brotherhood) in a joint news release.

The reference was to hearings to begin March 3 by Mr. Justice Thomas Berger of the British Columbia Supreme Court on a Canadian Arctic Gas Pipelines Ltd. application for a right-of-way through the Canadian North.

The natives say the pipeline, which is to deliver Alaska and Mackenzie Delta gas to southern Canada and the United States, should not be built until their land claims are settled.

Judge Berger is to determine possible social, environmental and economic effects of the pipeline and recommend conditions which might be imposed in granting a right of-way.

In Yellowknife Friday, Mr. Buchanan set up a federal-territorial study group to consider proposals by three major oil companies which want to install feeder lines if the pipeline is approved.

Mr. Buchanan said "it is not my intention to refer this application to the (Berger) inquiry for specific advice."

In their release, the native groups noted that Judge Berger already has said it would be essential, in view of the land claims, for him to consider gathering lines for the main pipeline.

The Indian and Eskimo groups said Mr. Buchanan's statement was another example of Ottawa trying to restrict Judge Berger's inquiry.

"Can the federal government limit the Berger hearings ... without orders-in-council varying the terms setting up the inquiry," asked the groups.

20 Malaysians Held As Opium Smugglers

BRUSSELS (AP) — Austrian and Belgian police joined forces Saturday to seize nearly 90 pounds of heroin worth between $2.5 million and $3 million, officials said.

Police in Brussels and Vienna said they arrested 20 Malaysians travelling from Kuala Lumpur, the Malaysian capital, aboard a Belgian Sabena airliner.

Austrian customs officials found about 40 pounds of the narcotic during a routine customs check at Schwechat airport. The find led to 10 Malaysians—seven men and three women—and a three-year-old boy travelling with them.

The similarity of the arrested Malaysians to others aboard the flight led Vienna police to suspecting there might be more drugs on the plane and they informed Beligan police.

When the plane landed in Brussels, police arrested 10 other Malaysians and found the rest of the heroin, hiddin in luggage, bottles, cans and even melons

An official at Vienna airport said the Malaysians probably were only "transporters" for an international drug-smuggling ring.

Police said the Malaysians indicated in initial testimony that they received an advance of $200 for the trip and were to be paid $1,000 if the task was successfully completed.

Cigarette Smugglers Doing Big Business

LANSING Mich. (AP) — Cigarette smugglers are costing the state of Michigan millions of dollars in unpaid tobacco taxes, and their black-market business is booming.

The exact amount of tax revenues lost to smuggling is unknown, but a study two years ago put Michigan's annual loss at about $9 million. The state collects 11 cents a pack in taxes.

Other sattes have it even worse. Ohio, with a 15-cent tax, puts its annual loss at $25 million; Illinois estimates a $30-million loss, and New York, $50 million to $80 million.

Cigaratte sales in Michigan now are estimated at more than $600 million a year, bringing the state $138.1 million in tax revenues for the last fiscal year.

The most common way smugglers operate is to buy cigarettes in the southern states where taxes are low, drive truckloads of them into Michigan and sell them at plants and factories.

Smugglers buy cigarettes in Virginia, with a 2.5-cent tax; North Carolina at two cents, and Kentucky at three cents, ship them north and sell in high tax states.

Some tractor trailers can hold 10,000 cartons and subtracting the $1.10 a carton Michigan state tax, that means $110,000 to the smuggler.

Nine People Charged With Dozen Murders

DETROIT (AP) — First degree murder counts were lodged Saturday against nine members of an alleged armed robbery gang in connection with a dozen killings on Detroit's near west side.

Most of the victims which the gang is accused of killing in the last six months were either shot, stabbed or strangled in their apartments, police said.

The nine arrested, two of them women, were held without bond in several jails, police said. Gang members range in age from 19 to 25.

Police Chief Philip Tannian said all the killings were committed during armed robberies that netted small amounts of cash, stereos, television sets and, occasionally drugs.

Star Workers Reject Strike Suggestion

TORONTO (CP) — Employees in The Star's editorial, circulation, advertising and business departments were back on the job today after voting Sunday to accept a final company proposal.

The workers, members of the Toronto Newspaper Guild, voted 874 to 381 in favor of accepting of the proposal despite a union recommendation that they strike. There are 1,800 employees in the bargaining unit.

The Star proposed a one-year agreement dated Jan. 1 to Dec. 31, 1975, offering weekly pay increases of from $19.58 to $42. The guild had sought weekly increases ranging from $40 for employees with salaries at or under $129.99 and $60 a week for employees with salaries at or above $269.50.

The guild also sought a four-day, 32-hour week but The Star retained its five-day, 35 hour week in the latest offer.

The company offer was submitted to the guild bargaining committee early Friday.

Star publisher Beland Honderich said he was "grateful" a strike was avoided.

"A strike would have been costly for both the company and employees ... ," he said.

PLEASE DON'T BECOME A STATISTIC

How many times have you gone to a party with a cold? Have you taken a common cold capsule beforehand so you'd feel better? How many drinks did you have at the party? Did you drive home yourself?

Some people feel that a cold pill combined with alcohol, acts like another drink. A tranquilizer with alcohol may make a person drunk, rather than calm him down.

COMMUNICATION IMPORTANT

This is where pharmacist-consumer communication is extremely important. At Shoppers Drug Mart stores, we urge our customers to discuss the potential hazards of mixing both prescription and over-the-counter drugs with alcohol.

A recent Canadian Magazine article discussed studies done by the National Research Council in Ottawa on the relationship between drugs and alcohol. The purpose of the research was to see "whether a single, normal dose of an easily-obtainable over-the-counter or prescription drug, such as cold pills or cough syrup, would, when combined with a moderate intake of alcohol, seriously impair driving skills."

PILLS AND BOOZE

The National Research Council soon found that taking a cold pill, then drinking booze to a "safe" level, can thoroughly impair a person.

One cold pill, one tranquilizer, one dose of cough remedy or one sedative can turn one human being into a statistic. Sometimes a drug can double impairment.

STATISTICS NOT CONSISTENT

On the other hand, the National Research Council's statistics were not consistent. Some people drove better "drunk" than when "sober". Most were careless, aggressive drivers calmed down by drugs or "lackadaisical dreamers forced to compensate against extra wooziness by concentrating for the first time. No one knows the categories he belonged to, but either one is probably as hazardous as the other." In any case, the computer printout termed them as abnormal.

A consumer and her spouse discuss a newly purchased prescription with a Shoppers Drug Mart pharmacist. The pharmacist explains to the customer the necessary precautions to take while on the medication.

All the statistics are interesting, but how does this affect you? What can you do to lessen your chances of becoming a statistic?

CONSULT YOUR PHARMACIST

First, don't mix drugs with alcohol. Second, don't mix drugs without consulting your pharmacist or doctor.

Speak to your pharmacist and ask him any questions you may have. Keep your Shoppers Drug Mart pharmacist's telephone number handy, so you can call to discuss any concerns regarding medication and other drug-related subjects. Or, just drop in to see him while you're shopping.

The minute it takes to discuss "that question I have about my prescription" with your pharmacist, just might add many wonderful, happy years to your life!

MAKING FITNESS A HABIT YOU WONT WANT TO KICK

by Peter R. Elson
Physical Fitness Consultant

You have heard people say, "I have no trouble going on a diet, I've done it thousands of times!" What isn't easy is to do it once and stick with it, and this also applies to exercise programs. Use these hints to stick with yours - cut them out and put them on your fridge.

Enjoy it. If you don't like the program you are doing, change it. Try some other activity: you don't have to hurt to keep fit.

Set realistic goals. There is no sense in a crash exercise program or diet. Set your goals in relation to your present activities - increase your exercises slowly, and avoid doing too much too soon.

Incentive. Give yourself a good reason for what you are doing: such as a definite weight loss or smaller dress size.

Rhythm. Exercises done to rhythm are more enjoyable and better for you. Put on your favorite record, then exercise to it!

Atmosphere. Try to create a positive environment when you are exercising-music, locale, or dress will all help put you in the mood.

Variety. If the program you are following presents both a physical and mental challenge, it will be easier to stick with. With outdoor activities, change your route, if you are near a park, use it. Change your activities with the seasons or combine activities such as swimming and cycling - jogging and Yoga, etc.

Reward yourself every once in a while. Give yourself points for each day you exercise, them do something special. Make a deal with your husband or friend to celebrate after a certain number of points.

Check yourself regularly. Mark down each time you exercise. Self discipline is important and you will find that when you exercise with the greatest frequency, the better you feel.

Group support - as long as it isn't competive, is good. Proper group exercise will provide variety, support, and a chance for discussion and evaluation.

If you have any questions about fitness and would like them answered in this column, write:

CONSULT YOUR PHARMACIST ON 100 UNIT INSULIN

If you are diabetic or you know someone who is, it is especially important that you understand the forthcoming changes concerning insulin preparations.

Albert M. Fisher, President of the Canadian Diabetic Association, recently announced that insulin preparations will be distributed only in a strength of 100 units per c.c. in Canada and the United States. This means that in Canada, preparations containing 80 units per c.c. were discontinued near the end of 1974. Preparations containing 40 units per c.c. will be phased out by mid-1975.

Why the change in insulin strength? After a series of studies, the American Diabetic Association found serious errors in insulin dosage and recommended that these could best be overcome by having insulin preparations available in one strength.

Although the change is not complicated, insulin users must not continue to use the syringes they are presently using with the new 100 unit preparations.

They must use:

1. A disposable plastic syringe with 100 unit capacity.
2. A reusable glass syringe, 100 unit capacity.
3. A reusable glass syringe. 35 unit capacity, for small doses, which will be available soon!

(The new syringes can be used with the Busher Injector. A reusable plastic adapter is available for this purpose.)

When you purchase a supply of a 100 unit insulin preparation, be sure to also buy the 100 unit syringes. It is very important that you do not purchase any of the items unless you can purchase all of them.

Diabetics must discard all old syringes. If old syringes are left lying around, errors in dosage could easily be made with the new 100 unit insulin.

Your pharmacist has the insulin and syringes you need. If he does not have the insulin you desire, ask him and he will get it for you promptly. Your pharmacist is there to help you and is a trusted member of the health services team in your community. If you are a diabetic and you have questions regarding your dosage be sure to consult with your pharmacist, doctor, or Diabetic Clinic.

At Shoppers Drug Mart stores, our Consumer Health Education Centres now have two pamphlets supplied by the Canadian Diabetic Association. One is entitled, "Diabetic Check Facts" and "Helping Diabetics To Help Themselves and Other Diabetics." These pamphlets are free to consumers as well as material on drug abuse, pregnancy prevention, cancer detection, alcoholism and other health-oriented subjects.

Diabetics, more than ever, need a concerned pharmacist. Insulin, a life-giving drug, was discovered in Canada. In order for the drug to remain life-giving to a diabetic, the doctor, pharmacist and patient must work together. Co-operation is the key to fighting diabetes.

Mayor Suggests Full-time Centennial Chairman for Belleville

By BARRY McCULLAGH
and COLIN BRUCE

Belleville is looking for someone to fill a full-time position of Centennial Chairman.

Mayor Robin Jeffrey, speaking to the Rotary Club Monday said such a chairman would be the "key" figure in 1978 city Centennial celebrations and that great care must be exercised in making the right choice.

The chairman will act as the city's official host during the year-long social spree and will be required to have a thorough knowledge of the city and surrounding area said the mayor.

Mayor Jeffrey said during a telephone interview today, the chairman will receive expense allowances and will receive an additional honorarium for his work.

"It won't be a pay cheque but a token of thanks," said the mayor.

The position will be more or less part-time this year, and possibly next year, but will turn into a full time responsibility as 1978 draws closer, said Mayor Jeffrey. The chairman will be required to co-ordinate each of the eight committees working on the birthday program.

The mayor said a prime need at the moment is the hiring of a secretary on a full-time basis to perform receptionist duties and to handle telephone inquiries. "This person will similarly need a sound knowledge of the area," said the mayor.

The mayor said a list of eight names is available to the centennial committee as candidates for the chairman's post but this does not exclude any other city resident. The mayor said the chairman could be either male or female.

While the city has set aside $100,000 in the capital works budget over the next three years for a centennial project, no operating budget has been struck for the total cost of centennial celebrations.

The mayor said she believes the costs for office space and the secretary will be small this year but she could not estimate how the budget might swell as 1978 moves closer.

Africans Warned Fighting Is Likely

SALISBURY (Reuter) — The Organization of African Unity (OAU) has told nationalist guerrillas to prepare for intensified fighting if white minority regimes in southern Africa remain inflexible over majority rule.

The warning was contained in a tough new policy document formulated Monday by the OAU's liberation committee, and aimed at Rhodesia, Namibia (South West Africa) and South Africa.

The document, called the Dar-es Salaam declaration, pledges the organization's full weight behind efforts to rid the region of minority rule and the "inhuman system of apartheid."

The policy means the bulk of OAU finance and material support allocated for African liberation will go to Rhodesia's newly unified nationalist movement, the African National Council, and the Southwest Africa Peoples' Organization.

The declaration said war was not the goal, "but whether the solution takes the form of an intensified military confrontation or negotiations would entirely depend on the response of the racist and colonialist regimes."

The liberation committee called for renewed international pressure on South Africa to relinquish its illegal occupation of Namibia and to end apartheid.

The declaration was issued as the Rhodesian government and its black nationalist opponents appeared deadlocked over who should make the next move toward the country's planned constitutional conference.

At the heart of the impasse lies a difference of interpretation about the terms of last month's Lusaka peace pact, which was supposed to have ended Rhodesia's guerrilla war.

Under the accord, the Rhodesian government agreed to release black politicians from detention and convene a conference on the country's political future, while the black nationalist guerrillas undertook to lay down their arms.

More Men Are Jobless

OTTAWA (CP) — The number of men unable to find work increased substantially in December, boosting the over-all unemployment rate to 6.1 per cent from 5.5 in November, Statistics Canada reported today.

The jobless rate was the highest in almost two years and the worsening unemployment situation, while spread throughout most of the country, hit hardest at Quebec and the Atlantic provinces.

The participation rate also rose in December. This is the proportion of the population working or seeking work and the increase meant the number of people competing for jobs was increasing faster than the number of jobs available.

The unemployment rate for men over 25 rose to 4.5 per cent from four in November. The highest rate among the major age groups was 12.4 per cent for men 14-25, up from 10.9 in November.

For women over 25 the rate was 3.5 per cent, up from 3.2 and for younger women 9.4 per cent, up from 8.7.

Right Wing Extremists Hold Rally

TURIN, Italy (Reuter) — Right-wing extremists from 11 European countries held a secret meeting in Lyon, France, last month—and informed sources said Monday they were members of an organization seeking the overthrow of the existing political system in Europe.

Justice officials said about 30 extremists, five of them Italians, belonging to a clandestine umbrella organization called New European Order, met in a Lyon hotel Dec. 27-29. They came from Sweden, Denmark, Belgium, Holland, France, Switzerland, West Germany, Spain, Italy, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia the officials said.

Nobody Wants To Catch Ball

TORONTO (CP) — The commissioner hearing allegations of guard brutality at the Toronto jail expressed concern Monday about the effectiveness of investigations into prisoner complaints.

"You have a situation where no one wants to catch the ball," Judge B. Barry Shapiro said after hearing testimony from government inspector Victor Villeneuve. The commissioner also said he wondered whether complaints from James Frost, a former prisoner at the jail, had been "just left to evaporate."

Strike Threatens Project

Quebec Assembly Tries To Save Olympic Plans

QUEBEC (CP) — A special committee of the National Assembly meets today in a last-ditch attempt to find a solution to a lingering strike that threatens the 1976 Summer Olympic Games in Montreal.

The Games are in jeopardy because of a strike by 1,200 Quebec iron workers that has halted work at about 30 major construction projects in Montreal, including work on the games site in city's east end.

The workers have formed a common front of three labor federations—the Quebec Federation of Labor (QFL), the Confederation of National Trade Unions (CNTU) and the Centrale des Syndicats Democratiques (CSD).

The chairman of today's special committee, Art Seguin (L—Pointe Claire), said the three labor federations and three employer groups including Quebec's largest—the Montreal Construction Association — are scheduled to testify.

Mr. Seguin said Mayor Jean Drapeau of Montreal is scheduled to appear before another legislative committee later this month to explain why the Games costs had skyrocketed to $580 million from $250 million.

Labor Minister Jean Cournoyer last week warned the Olympics could be cancelled if the strike is not settled by Wednesday, but during the weekend indicated he had "found the solution" for Quebec's strike-plagued construction industry.

Mr. Cournoyer, armed with new emergency legislation which gives the government power to amend a 1973 decree governing working conditions—including wages in the construction industry—said his solution is "an offer the parties in the dispute shouldn't refuse."

Mr. Cournoyer declined to give details, but said the solution "likely" will have to be enforced by Wednesday.

May Scrap Village Plans

MONTREAL (CP) — The Gazette says a private consulting firm hired by the Olympic Organizing Committee recommends the Olympic Village plan be scrapped.

The newspaper says a report prepared by the Consultants en aeroports internationaux de Montreal (CAIM) claims the cost of the village will be $55 to $58 million.

The last estimated cost of the project, to house 10,000 athletes and officials during the 1976 Summer Olympic Games, was $30 million.

McKeough Treasurer

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Premier William Davis shuffled six members of his cabinet today including Darcy McKeough, who becomes treasurer of the province for the second time.

In other changes, Attorney-General Robert Welch becomes head of the new ministry of culture and recreation; John Clement, minister of consumer and commercial relations, succeeds Mr. Welch as justice minister and attorney-general, and Sidney Handleman, minister without portfolio, takes over as minister of consumer and commercial relations.

Another minister without portfolio, Dennis Timbrell, 28, assumes Mr. McKeough's energy portfolio.

Crossing Guards Asked To Talk About Wages

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Belleville's school-crossing guards are being invited to talk wages with city manager Wilbur Purcell this week.

Mr. Purcell said Monday that any guards who wished to discuss pay were being requested to meet with him Thursday morning.

"Subsequent to that, I'll be reporting back to council," said the city manager.

In December council deferred action on a suggested $3.50 raise which would bring the guard's salary to $37.50.

One guard, 72-year-old Albert Barker, asked council to raise the pay to $45 because of increased living and car costs.

At the beginning of the year, the guards automatically received a $3 raise to keep their wages in line with the minimum necessary to qualify for unemployment insurance.

Jelinek Proposes Splitting Olympics

OTTAWA (CP) — Otto Jelinek, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Toronto High Park-Humber Valley, has asked the International Olympic Committee to decentralize the 1976 Summer Olympics scheduled for Montreal.

The former figure-skating champion suggested in a press release Monday that track and field events be moved to Toronto's proposed 50,000-seat stadium and that swimming and diving events be moved to Winnipeg.

Ford Plans to Spoil Appetite for Oil by Higher Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has proposed to spoil the petroleum appetite of the United States with an $18.2-billion price hike and has threatened oil import quotas if higher prices don't cut demand.

The president's plan drew support from Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, but sharp criticism from some congressional Democrats.

Ford's proposals would increase the price of gasoline and fuel oils about five cents a gallon and the price of natural gas about 37 cents a thousand cubic feet, a 32-per-cent increase in the average price of residential gas.

The alternative—direct limits on oil imports—would mean self-imposed oil shortages similar to those imposed last winter because of the Arab oil embargo.

Although Ford proposed to return the oil-and gas-price increases to the public through direct payments and tax credits, Representative Henry Reuss (Dem. Wis.) said the plan would "sock it to the moderate income customer."

Senator Frank Church (Dem. Idaho) said it would "drive the price still higher for everything oil touches, from heating homes to manufacturing plastics."

Anoter Ford proposal, to postpone for five years the strict 1977 anti-pollution standards for automobiles in return for a 40-per-cent improvement in fuel economy, drew enthusiasm from spokesmen for the auto industry, which has been urging the postponement.

Administration sources said further energy proposals will be announced Wednesday in the president's State of the Union address.

Ford said Monday his goal is to reduce oil imports by one million barrels a day by the end of this year and another one million barrels daily by the end of 1977.

An administration source said this did not mean an absolute reduction from the current U.S. oil consumption, but rather holding future consumption one million barrels below the levels it would otherwise reach.

To do this, Ford said he will use his executive power to increase tariffs on imported oil $1 a barrel in each of the next three months for a total increase of $3 a barrel.

He asked Congress to impose excise taxes on all oil and natural gas, and informed sources said his proposal would call for a tax of $2 a barrel on oil and an equivalent 37 cents a thousand cubic feet on natural gas.

Democrats Back Ford's Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Early enactment of a tax cut in the United States appears certain because President Ford and the Democratic 94th Congress agree that such a step is necessary to fight a recession.

However, the president and the Congress appeared divided today over how much of the reduction should go to lower-and middle income taxpayers.

In a broadcast speech Monday night, the president proposed an across-the-board tax rebate of up to $1,000 on 1974 tax payments.

Most Democrats in Congress favor a tax cut about equal to the $15 billion reduction in personal and corporate income taxes that the president proposed. But they reacted Monday night against the president's proposed $30 billion in oil tax increases which they said would raise gasoline prices up to five cents a gallon without easing the economic burden or curbing reliance on foreign fuel.

Republicans generally backed Ford's proposals.

The president unveiled his $46-billion program "to put our domestic house in order" in a speech from the White House a few hours after House of Representatives Democrats outlined their economic proposals and two days before he was scheduled to address a joint session of Congress for his State of the Union speech.

Lottery Planned For Trail Funds

The Quinte Hastings Recreational Trail will seek to raise funds by a process which has soared in popularity — a lottery.

Trail directors will hold a special meeting in Madoc Friday to iron out details.

Meantime, directors Monday also decided to distribute jacket crests recently designed for sale throughout the district. At $1.50 each the crests were produced more for promotion than direct fund-raising.

The meeting also discovered just how close the voluntary organization operates close to the financial line.

The year-end financial statement showed revenue of $1,424 and expenses of $1,397 — for a $26 surplus.

Major donors were the Highlands of Hastings Tourist Council ($700); Madawaska Tourist Council ($200) and the Belleville and District Employment Committee ($100).

Directors Named

Twelve directors of the Hastings County Historical Society were elected Monday night at the group's annual meeting.

The new directors will choose senior officers among themselves.

The board of directors of the society, which administers the Hastings County Museum, Glanmore, are Cecil Becker, Judy Carty, Don Finkle, Kay Crowe, Marta Wishart, Harold Carruthers, Shirley Morton, Barbara Cass, Rodger Grieg, Pat Bennett, Muriel Gibson and Jerry Stapely.

Trenton Passes Minimum Home Standards Bylaw

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — By a four-to-one vote, town council Monday passed a minimum standards housing bylaw that will regulate both the outward appearance and structural soundness of homes in Trenton.

Provisions of the bylaw include creation of a property standards committee and a bylaw enforcement officer. Both will be appointed by council.

Sole opposition to the move came from councillor Peter De Groot, who said the bylaw goes "too far" when it attempts to legislate the painting of the exterior of a house — a bylaw provision.

He suggested council table the matter for clause by clause consideration in a committee of the whole session.

"We should go through it a little more carefully," he said. As it now stands, it will invite a neighbor to complain against another unliked neighbor.

He said the bylaw should only need to satisfy health and safety regulations.

The legislation provides for a maximum fine of $500 a day for work not completed as ordered.

A homeowner must appeal the officer's decision to the property standards committee within 14 days. In turn, the committee can confirm, quash, extend the term over which repairs must be made, or otherwise alter the order.

In brief, the bylaw sets down minimum standards to which a homeowner must adhere. Provisions extend to the structural composition of interior walls, ceiling, floors, stairwells, electrical and other appliances.

Outside, the chimneys, roof and shingles, balconies, brickwork, wood trim and other structures must be sound.

The appearance of homes also falls under the provisions of bylaw, number 75-3032.

Councill passed the bylaw, said Mayor Robert Patrick, to comply with the town's official plan provisions, as well as requirements made by the provincial government under the Neighborhood Improvement Program (NIP).

Council Rejects Ban on Smoking

TRENTON — An attempt by councillors Robert Wannamaker and George Greer to ban smoking in council chambers evaporated like a puff of smoke Monday in a tied 3-3 poll vote.

In supporting his resolution, Mr. Wannamaker, a non-smoker, said it is "hard for me to sit through pillars of smoke" during council meetings.

His requested ban would only be limited to the chamber itself, he said. As councillors, they should set an example for children, he told fellow council members.

Chosing to vote, Mayor Robert Patrick, another non-smoker, supported the resolution.

In opposition were Pete Aziz, Peter De Groot, and Ron Price. With the exception of Mr. Price, both smoke. Councillor Edward Todd was absent from Monday's meeting.

Mr. Todd, a smoker, holds the deciding vote.

Upon its defeat, Mr. Wannamaker said he would raise the matter again later in the year.

Bylaw Ends Lengthy Terms on Committees

TRENTON — Several long-standing members of town committees lost their seats as town council Monday appointed new members under a new policy that will limit the tenure on committees and boards in future.

Prior to making appointments Monday, Mayor Robert Patrick announced a policy he said council has reviewed "carefully."

Members who serve on boards or committees with one-year terms will henceforth not be appointed for more than three consecutive terms.

Those who serve under a two-year term cannot serve for two consecutive terms in future.

The policy will apply to those re-appointed to boards or committees again this year.

In a prepared statement, Mayor Patrick said, "In the past, individuals were appointed and many have served on the same committee for a great number of years."

Public criticism, said Mayor Patrick, has forced council to examine its policies.

It is felt, he said, new thoughts will be generated through new appointees and thus end possible stagnation in the committee system.

Numerous Trenton residents, including council members, were appointed by bylaw to one-to three-year terms on a list of 17 boards and committees.

Acting mayor, who will each serve for consecutive two months in both 1975 and 1976, were appointed from among the councillors.

Also by bylaw Monday council gave its stamp of approval to an amendment to Trenton's official plan for removal of what has been termed "excessive" restrictions placed on land use by hazard land designations.

Prepared jointly by the Quinte Planning Board and the Trenton and Suburban Planning Board, the amendment will erase nearly all existing hazard land designations from the plan.

Only in the as-yet undefined flood plains of Mayhew Creek and the Trent River will high-risk areas remain. Low hazard designations have been placed on an area north of Mount Pelion and south of Dundas St. West near the railway yards.

The amendment must still gain provincial approval.

Student's Musical Ability Overcomes Handicaps

HILLIER — Playing many different kinds of musical instruments and speaking several different languages may be hard to do for the average person but for 17-year-old Joey Alderman, of RR1, Hillier, who has a hearing and sight handicap, it's a breeze.

Joey was born deaf in one ear and blind in one eye. He has only 10 percent vision in the other, which means he is legally blind. Joey now is learning to overcome his problems with special help.

Mrs. Alderman, his mother, said she remembers that he was 18-months-old when he began developing a liking for music.

At the age of two, Joey's parents bought him his first musical instrument, a small organ. At four he started playing the piano and at six, the accordion.

"I can remember when we were living in Saint John, New Brunswick, kids used to call him the Pied Piper and would follow him all around while he played a flute," Mrs. Alderman said. "At that age, music teachers thought he was fabulous," she added.

Another thing Joey has, that has impressed a lot of people is the fact that he has perfect pitch. A person could tap a key on the piano and Joey could tell you what note it was without even looking at the keyboard.

Joey has also been gifted with the ability to pick up foreign languages. His one brother is a foreign missionary who has taught him some foreign expressions.

Some of the languages he is able to speak are French, German, Russian, Latin, Spanish and he has even brushed up on a little Swahili.

Joey now is presently attending Prince Edward Collegiate Institute. Larry Richardson, guidance department head, says that teachers have gone over backwards in helping Joey. "They try to give him as much individual help as possible, which benefits him the most," Mr. Richardson said.

Enjoys Music

Joey Alderman is a 17-year-old Hilliers youth with a love for music like a lot of other people his age. Only Joey was born deaf in one ear and is blind in one eye. But that didn't stop him learning how to play such instrument as the guitar, organ, accordion, harmonica, a little violin and the piano as he is doing in this picture.

Petition Urges Heights Employee Be Re-hired

PICTON — A petition has been circulated among employees at Prince Edward Heights seeking the re-instatement of Daniel McDade, director of the Activities Unit, who was fired Jan. 3 following a closed hearing.

A counsellor at the provincial government centre for the mentally retarded, who asked that his name be withheld, said at least 65 employees of the Activities Unit signed the petition. It was reported mailed last weekend to minister of Community and Social Services Rene Brunelle.

Prince Edward Heights administrator Robert McKenzie said Monday he is aware of the petition and added Mr. McDade was dismissed for "insubordination and mismanagement". He stressed the director of the Activities Unit was discharged "after much consideration by our senior staff" and there was "no crucifiction."

Mr. McDade said Monday he is aware of the petition but has not read it.

He said he has appealed his dismissal to the public service grievance board and said he could therefore make no further comment concerning termination of his employment.

The Prince Edward Heights counsellor who asked to remain anonymous said the petition states the staff and residents of the Activities Unit miss Mr. McDade and wish him re-instated.

He had been employed at Prince Edward Heights for about 3½ years prior to his discharge this month.

"There was nothing controversial in his dismissal. I have one or two militants on my staff," observed administrator Robert McKenzie.

Mr. McKenzie said probationary employees at the Heights sometimes are dismissed because they are unsuited for the work. However, only two civil servants, Mr. McDade and a unit director he said was unsuited to his job have been fired in four years of operation.

"There is a militant group manipulating and working against management to the detriment of patients," Mr. McKenzie remarked in reference to conflicts leading to Mr. McDade's dismissal.

"Things will change from here on and the Activities Unit will be much more active," he predicted.

He said the decision to fire Mr. McDade was based on "an accumulation of insubordination items and bucking of the system and authority."

The director of training at Prince Edward Heights had been instructed to document these instances of insubordination said Mr. McKenzie.

"We can't just glibly fire people," he noted.

He said a recommendation was submitted from the Heights to the ministry for a hearing and the hearing was headed by an administrator from Edgar.

"I can't fire anyone without the ministry's approval," he emphasized.

Mr. McKenzie said the Heights employs about 385 persons, approximately 110 of them probationary and unclassified personnel. The remainder are civil servants.

The government centre for the retarded is located at the site of the former Camp Picton which was phased out about six years ago.

Fire Guts Vehicle

BANCROFT — At 12.45 a.m. Jan. 14 Judd Gunter of Bancroft was driving on Highway 28 towards Bancroft when his car started to burn.

According to OPP Constable Al Hebbart, the fire which started under the dash destroyed the Gunter vehicle. Damage was set at $1,600.

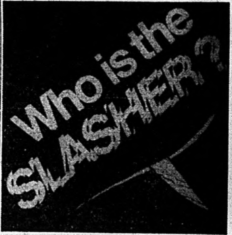
Driver Charged

BANCROFT — A two-car collision on Hastings St. N. in Bancroft at 10.40 a.m. Jan. 13 resulted in $1,300 damage to both vehicles.

A car driven by Roy Wilson of Coe Hill made a left turn to enter a garage and was in collision with the front left fender of a half-ton truck driven by Brian Carr of RR 5, Bancroft.

Damage to the Carr vehicle was $800 and to the Wilson car $500.

Local OPP officers have charged Wilson under the Highway Traffic Act with starting from a stop position unsafely.



Who is the SLASHER?

Shoe Repairer Recounts Reasons for Dying Trade

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Forget that romantic picture of a cobbler sitting over a bench, hammer in hand tapping out his living.

It doesn't exist anymore, says John Zalesak, owner of Family Shoe Shop, the last remaining shoe repairer in Trenton. It's a misconception, he says.

Perhaps, years ago, when his father first took up the trade in Sudbury in 1926, they may have been the case.

Today, although Mr. Zalesak still works with his hands, costly and hard-to-obtain machines fill his Dundas St. East shop. It's a business, like any other, subject to trends in shoe design and construction, he says.

The romanticism, he speculates, may be appearing in today's younger generation with its apparent preoccupation with crafts: "I've seen it and it's well and good."

Their creativity is expressed, partly in leather, partly in other crafts.

But there's a hitch, he says: "We have to go out and get dollars to live on." His business is essentially an exchange of a service for dollars and cents.

And it isn't easy to thrive. Long-term trends in shoe construction, design and materials plus the ignorance of the public with regard to good shoes have cut down on his volumn of business.

When he and his father moved to Trenton from Sudbury in 1950, four repair shops were already established in town. By 1953, when Trenton's population had increased by 2,000 to 12,000, two shops no longer were open. At that time, his own shop employed seven people, as opposed to three today.

By 1970 the family Shoe Shop was the lone survivor. He is drawing his work from Trenton's 15,000 people and he estimates another 15,000 in the surrounding area.

Today's affluence is partly to blame for the attrition, he says.

People get tired of old shoes, he says. "So they go out and buy new ones."

"Plastics are one thing that is killing the trade," he said. More companies are making rubber and plastic bottomed shoes that don't need the amount of repair.

He pulled a $70 pair from a shelf to illustrate. The upper section of the shoe, the inner sole and the outer sole are double-stitched together.

Such a shoe is sturdy, he says. "A shoe like this .... it would be criminal to throw out."

Mr. Zalesak says people simply aren't aware how the manufacturer cuts corners today.

At 53 years, he says he wonders what such trends will do to his business.

Rare Trade

Shoe repairer and former cobbler John Zalesak completes sewing the sole on a shoe on a machine that is both costly and becoming increasingly rare in his trade. The owner of Family Shoe Shop, the last such business in Trenton, says few people are entering the slowly-dying trade.

The Law On Abortion

The Government would do well to heed the remarks of Dr. Bette Stephenson, the president of the Canadian Medical Association, on the subject of abortion.

Dr. Stephenson is at odds with Justice Minister Ottt Lang, declaring his personal bias (favoring strict adherence to the letter of the law . . . approval of abortions only by hospital committees) is "leaving everyone in limbo."

The CMA, favoring a more liberal approach, claims the therapeutic abortion committees and physicians are overloaded in some areas while in other parts of Canada abortion service is not available.

The asociation president, plain spoken and by her own admission correctly accused on occasions of sounding less than ladylike, does tend to get carried away at times. As when she accused the Justice Minister of having the "unprecedented and unmitigated audacity" of usurping the privileges of the court and placing his own interpretation on the abortion law. But that aside, the law on abortion and the Government itself, which Dr. Stephenson charges is dragging its feet on the issue, look as if they have been overtaken by events.

What she seems to be saying is that the abortion thing is getting out of hand and something has to be done to regulate it. But the Government thus far has not responded. She says Ottawa consistently has refused the long-promised parliamentary review and a frequently-promised debate on abortion.

The statistics meanwhile paint a dismal picture of what is happening in Canada in this regard. In 1973, said Dr. Stephenson, there were at least 43,000 and probably closer to 50,000 therapeutic abortions on Canadian women. She said this was far too high for a country of Canada's size.

Ottawa would do well to wake up to this situation. It should consult with the CMA to see how the law can best be administered, consistent with the physical and emotional wellbeing of the people most concerned: the women who are with child and may be contemplating an abortion.

As to the moral aspects of abortion and the sexual licence that gives rise to it, they also have been largely overtaken by events. In any event they can be of little account in a situation of fait accompli — of children that are to be born unless a desired abortion is carried out. One way or another we are presented with a situation that should not be allowed to continue without the kind of legislative review the CMA is requesting.

Elvis At 40

Elvis Presley is 40 and reportedly is not letting on, but spending his days in seclusion at the Memphis mansion, venturing out if at all, at night, and hankering after the trim athleticism and vocal dexterity of times past.

Elvis is a prince of his kind and suffers from the same problem of that other young man and prince of royal blood, Charles, Duke of Cornwall — at best, loneliness; at worst, a sense of alienation.

Recent reports have suggested an Elvis with excess poundage and a voice and style that have seen better days.

Now it is said he will not perform again until he gets down to 180 pounds.

Several images of Elvis come to mind: the crooner of course, with his own incomparable style; the darkly handsome young man winning and losing pretty girls in exotic settings such as Hawaii, with a few rough-and-tumbles with male rivals en route; the young man who did army service and drove jeeps in Germany, and for a time, marriage, and parental responsibilities.

There was a career comeback too, with a new image of a durable Elvis, popular as ever, but now somewhat in the doldrums. And that's life . . . although for an Elvis it may be tougher in some ways than for the rest of us who are not dependent on the fickle whims of public acclaim, of of passing fame.

Let's hope the boy from Memphis will weather whatever personal crisis there may be ,and, at 40, soldier on.

Tar Sand Development Remote and Costly

Oil Reserves at Crisis Stage as Production Drops

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Oil seems to be replacing the British pound sterling as the centre of the oldest established permanent floating crisis in the world.

As 1974 began, the so-called energy crisis appeared to be a problem that reasonable, responsible leaders would resolve once the winter was over.

Now, in early 1975, it has to be accepted as a long-term fact of life.

The rate of discovery of new hydrocarbon reserves is discouraging, production from known reserves is down, and prices are going up.

According to industry estimates, crude-oil production in Western Canada declined by 6.2 per cent in 1974 and will drop by an additional 7.8 per cent this year.

Production of natural-gas liquids will probably rise only 1.6 per cent in 1975. But demand for liquefied petroleum gas and domestic natural gas are expected to grow by 4.6 per cent and 8.8 per cent respectively.

If the current price of $6.50 per barrel of western crude oil were to remain unchanged throughout 1975, revenue flow to the producers would increase by 10.4 per cent per barrel.

But it seems almost certain the price will rise to $8.50 per barrel by mid-year at the latest. That will boost the producers' revenues to almost 26 per cent above the 1974 level.

Biggest winner will be the tax collector. Federal revenues from oil and gas production are expected to increase by more than one-third in 1975.

Alberta has modified the very high rates of royalty payments that it had been extracting from oil and gas producers up to the end of 1974.

The province's moderation may encourage smaller oil companies to step up their exploration and production activities.

Still unclear are the plans of the large integrated oil companies—the giants who, alone, have the potential to dig into the Alberta and Saskatchewan tar sands and come up with synthetic crude oil.

Bringing tar-sands oil into production—assuming that the technology is ever perfected—will be almost unbelievably expensive.

In other times, the oil industry would have found the necessary funds in the capital market.

Today, however, both the stock and bond markets are dead. The oil industry has to generate its capital requirements from its own earnings.

Here the oil industry runs up against public opinion. Profits and profit increases are called "immoral" and "obscene" by critics.

So the start of underground production from the tar sands (as distinct from the surface production under way for some years) remains in the realm of distant speculation.

It's paradoxical that the tar sands, the biggest oil deposit outside the Middle East, remain virtually untouched in an era of growing scarcity and rising prices—largely because oil-industry earnings are so unpopular.

Yet, as fuel grows increasingly scarce, profits and prices will continue to rise year by year—including, of course, 1975.

Quebec Detention Centre Methods Raise Strong Public Protest

Montreal Gazette

Once more the callousness and the institutional meanness grading into sadism of a Quebec detention centre have been laid here. That the Maison Notre Dame de Laval is a modern building - less than two years old only makes more garish the contrast with the centuries-old attitudes that rule the lives of the girls consigned there.

Conditions at Laval have been reported in detail by Gillian Cosgrove, of this paper, who went to work at the centre for two weeks after being refused permission to talk with either staff or inmates. For the girls, who range from 8 to 17 years old, she found, there is no rehabilitation treatment, no education program, no separation of those in protective custody from juvenile delinquents, psychiatric cases, drug addicts, or the mentally retarded.

Discipline is reminiscent of Nazi camps. Girls are marched by silent pairs through the corridors. Solitary confinement under threat of being strapped down is a common punishment. Going to the toilet at night is allowed only at specific times and only when accompanied by a male guard. All mail is censored and only one phone call every two weeks is permitted.

The rationale for this treatment is that it develops concern for the common good. It seems as likely to develop a lifelong hatred for the authority that imposes it. Small wonder some children admittedly emerge from the centre in worse shape than when they went in.

And for what crimes are they subjected to this debasement? In most cases the crime of being an unwanted child and the crime of living in a province that is too blind and pinchpenny to build facilities for them, preferring to deal with them later when their troubles become more obvious, but also more difficult to treat.

The conditions uncovered at Laval indicate an utter lack of communication between the Social Affairs Ministry and the centre, and between the centre and the public. The ministry, it appears, has adopted a policy of deliberate ignorance, leaving operation of the centre to the "professionals". The professionals it turns out, are largely imaginary. Operating in isolation, this dark institutional corner of our society has come to reflect the dark corners of the human spirit, and repression has become the easy way of life.

The ministry had better not leave it to dubious professionals any longer. It should seek real professional advice, but it must set down for itself the rules under which its institutions operate, and it must see to their enforcement. Doing less is dereliction of duty.

Obviously offenders must be screened from girls who are only in protective custody. Obviously isolation as punishment must be abolished. But more broadly and just as important, the ministry must think hard about its purposes. Why do we have detention centres at all is they contribute as much to criminality as to its cure? Why should an unwanted child be sent anywhere but to the best possible home the province can provide - not a place to run away from but a place to run back to? In some respects today, we treat our animals better than we treat our children. At least the zoo cages are open to the public.

Computer Aids Engineering Firms

BBC London Letter

A new company called Genesys Ltd. has been set up to promote a computer system sponsored by the British Government's Department of the Environment. But what's special about this computer system?

Genesys is a system that provides its users with access to a well tested and well documented library of computer programs for solving civil-engineering design problems. Input data are accepted in a simple form, and their preparation does not need previous knowledge of computor-aided design. A most important feature of the programs is that they can be run on all major types of computer.

Genesys has been very successful in the 18 months since its introduction, having already been used by more than 100 customers, including several from overseas, either directly on their own computers or through a number of major computer bureaux.

The majority of the customers are consulting engineers - but already contractors, local authorities and universities have also used the system.

The present range of programs can tackle such tasks as the design of bridges and reinforced-concrete buildings. The range will be expanded rapidly this year with the addition of programs for the design of highways, steel-frame buildings, water - distribution analysis and many other applications.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Jan. 14, 1975

Italian revolutionist Felice Orsini threw three bombs at the carriage of French Emperor Napoleon III 117 years ago—in 1858—killing three bystanders but leaving the emperor unharmed. Orsini, who considered the emperor the chief obstacle to Italian independence from Austrian rule, made a death-cell appeal to him to take up the Italian cause. The country eventually achieved independence in 1871.

1875—Halifax Herald first appeared.

1911 — Norwegian explorer Roald Amundsen reached the Bay of Whales en route to the South Pole.

1943 — Prime Minister Churchill and President Franklin D. Roosevelt met at Casablanca to draft plans for the United Nations.

It's Heavy Going for Members On the Issue of That Pay Raise

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA- So the Honorable Members are not going to be getting that 50 percent raise from $26,000 to $39,000 that Government House Leader Mitchell Sharp bumbled and fumbled away for them.

Tough.

They may not even be getting the cutback to 33 percent, worth $34,666, he proposed as a compromise..

Hard luck.

Both figures - 50 and 33 percent - sound excessive when the Honorable Members, according to Finance Minister John Turner, ought to be setting the shining example of "restraint" that he wants from us all.

In fact, the MPs ran into such public rage even before they left for home and Christmas, and may still be feeling the fury of taxpayers, that they might not dare risk more wrath when they return to Ottawa by even mentioning parliamentary pay.

And that's too bad. Really.

For almost all of them, all except the small minority who are independently wealthy or even reasonably well off, are hurting financially and need more money.

But like how much?

That's the problem.

Theirs, and yours, too.

You hear all sorts of suggestions on proposed pay levels.

So how about 25 percent, taking them from their current $26,000 to $32,500?

That would take it from $18,000 to $22,500 in salary, and from $8,000 to $10,000 in tax-free expenses.

You don't make $32,500? Neither do I.

Nor do any other Canadians except for self-employed doctors and surgeons who get, according to the figures in the National Revenue Department's "Green Book" of income and tax statistics, an average $39,555.

Next in line are lawyers at $27,862, dentists at $25,828, engineers and architects at $21,648, and accountants at $18,631.

Then the scale falls off sharply to just over an average $10,000 for "other professionals," with pensioners, who else, bottoming out the income tables at $4,385.

So give the parliamentarians a 25 percent increase to $32,500, and only 20,742 doctors and surgeons, as a working class or professional group, will top them.

And what's wrong with that?

Not a thing.

Honorable Members of the House of Commons are special. There are only 264 of them.

And who else - doctor, lawyer, dentist, architect, salesman, trucker, cab driver, newspaperman, broadcaster, laborer, scientist, or any group - has to hack the hard life of an MP?

Think about it.

After all, the poor guy has given up his privacy, sacrificed his working or professional career, put himself at everyone's beck and call and often abuse, separated himself from his home and perhaps his family for nine to ten months of the year to live in Ottawa, in a hotel, out of a suitcase, living an inconvenient and demanding life that few of his critics would endure.

Sometimes his motives are questioned, his honesty impugned, his character besmirched, his intelligence insulted, and always his pocket picked for contributions by every cause, crusade and special interest group going in his constituency.

And, if he is the average MP - they have come up with the figures, many of them, laying all out like an accountant would - he is slowly going broke.

Example: Stuart Leggatt, NDP MP for New Westminster, a lawyer, first elected only three years ago, and, to read his balance sheet, already $7,000 into his savings.

Which means it has been costing him something over $2,000 a year to be an MP.

What makes it a loser's game - unless they get some kind of a raise - is the lack of security, the very real risk of being turfed out by unappreciative voters.

So think about giving the guy a break - enough money more at least to come out even.

Does Davis Lack Vital Charisma?

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau
Thomson News Service

TORONTO More and more there is an apparent question as to whether Premier Davis really is a leader.

There is no question that he is a good politician on a personal basis.

Also that he has foresight (his transportation policies, even though the Kraus Maffel experiment proved a bust) and he has some imagination (initiating the community college program when he was minister of education).

Both are qualities a leader needs, and the premier has these and some more.

But does he have that really indefinable quality, charisma or whatever it is, that causes people to follow him and believe in him?

In considering this it is of some interest to take a look at three of his four predecessors as PC premiers (Col. Tom Kennedy was only a caretaker premier for a few months and never really "led" the party).

George Drew, Leslie Frost and John Robarts all had definite leadership qualities, though they were different in all three.

Drew was a man of force and action.

He had a good imagination and foresight but his great strength was that he exuded force, he literally drove people to vote for him.

Frost was quite the opposite. His public presence was that of a benign man.

But he had two strong leadership qualities.

One was that he carefully nurtured public trust. The public believed in him, that he would do the right thing.

The other was that he kept an iron hand on his party and his caucus. Underneath the mild exterior there was steel.

John Robarts again was different in that his strong leadership quality was his public presence of authority.

The label "Chairman of the Board" which the press tagged on him was a fitting one.

His imagination and foresight were not strong points. But he had the benefit of a strong opposition which forced him into programs such as medical insurance and GO Transit.

He was essentially a "management" man. But he had the cloack of authority and the public believed in him.

Davis to date has shown none of these qualities.

He certainly hasn't displayed the force of Drew.

He has some of the benign quailty of Frost, but with him it is more personal, not the calculated posture of the leader of the fifties. It could register with the public as more of a weakness than a strength.

And he doesn't have Robarts' presence of authority.

There is one point in his favor, however. He may have qualities which have not yet developed.

It is pertinent that both Frost and Robarts came into office comparative unknowns and both carefully developed their image over a couple of years.

Perhaps Davis, who has been in office now nearly four years, has just been slower in developing.

Canada's Progress Toward Metric

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Five years ago the federal government of Canada issued a white paper announcing that Canada would adopt the metric system but it would seem that little progress has been made.

Down under, in Australia, the federal government decided, in February, 1970, to go metric. In that country it is expected that conversion will be 75 per cent complete by 1976 and probably 100 per cent by the end of 1978.

In Australia, much publicity was sought for the conversion move including a set of four multi-colored postage stamps in 1973, showing cartoon characters illustrationg the changes in designation of length, mass, volume and temperature. The cartoon style was used to "humanise" the subject, and to emphasize that the man-in-the-street is vitally concerned and will share metrication's benefits — simplified calculations, fewer errors and efficiency increases. Resistance to the change which had been anticipated, just did not materialize.

One wonders why we Canadians in our temperate climate are dragging our heels when our Commonwealth partners, the "Aussies", with their all year round warm and humid weather can move so quickly to keep up with times.

KINGSTON ONLOOKER.

Editor's Note: It is expected that Canada will have completed its conversion to metric by 1980.

Representation on Committees

Editor
The Intelligencer

Appointments to the various Boards and Committes in the City of Belleville suggest that the buddy system is alive and well.

The main qualification appears to be old pals, college mates, or politicial affiliations.

For the most part the same old faces again decorate the scene.

Quinte District Labor is understandably angry that they did not come off with one appointment. After all, they represent a sizable segment of the community.

Mayor Robin Jeffrey came out strongly in her innaugral address to council for "grass root" involvement. Sound familiar? It should — it's the old platitude that gets aired regularly after a successful campaign. The fact that it is a meaningless and empty phrase is conveniently lost in the passage of time; thus it is safe to trot it out again, two years from now.

Mr. Sword and his colleagues can be as angry as they like, but, a member of a well know service club told me recently "Labor has to be kept in its place."

Obviously its place is not on any of the Boards and Committees in the City of Belleville.

WILLIAM C. HOCKLEY.

'Best Guess' His Smoke Killed Five

PARIS, Ont. (CP) — A former resident of the New Royal Hotel told a coroner's inquest Monday that his "best guess" of the cause of an Oct. 27 fire at the hotel, in which five people died, was that he had fallen asleep with a cigarette.

James Henry Mills, 37, told the inquest headed by Dr. Ross Bennett, deputy chief coroner for Ontario, that he had been "quite drunk" and could have fallen asleep with a cigarette. He testified he had fallen asleep on a previous occasion while smoking and burned his shirt.

CUPE to Seek Equal Rights For Sexes

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE) plans a special program to promote equality of the sexes within the union and at the workplace, union president Stan Little said Monday.

CUPE is the largest national union and represents many employees of municipalities, school boards, hospitals and nursing homes. About 40 per cent of its membership is female.

Mr. Little said in a news release that the union will hold workshops to help women to equality through collective bargaining. Booklets will be published outlining achievements and problems of women members.

Wall Falls

LONDON Ont. (CP) — A union steward expressed concern Monday about safety standards at a city construction site following the collapse of a block wall Saturday.

The incident at the City Centre-Holiday Inn project was the second mishap reported at the site in a week. Last Monday a motor fell from the top of the 23-storey building, landing five feet from a worker.

Expand Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — The government will ask Parliament to approve a $4-million increase in the New Horizons program for financing community projects undertaken by older citizens, Health Minister Marc Lalonde announced Monday.

"Additional funding is needed to meet the enthusiastic response of retired Canadians to the program and will be used to increase participation," Mr. Lalonde said in a news release.

Prices Cut

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario ministry of housing announced Monday that it obtained commitments from builders for lower prices on houses being built under the Home Ownership Made Easy (HOME) plan following the reduction in federal sales tax on construction materials and equipment.

Probe Asked

OTAWA (CP) — A public inquiry or parliamentary committee should investigate the possible link between arsenic contamination and the health of residents in Yellowknife, Paul Yewchuk, Progressive Conservative health critic, said Monday.

Moreover, said the member for the northern Alberta riding of Athabasca, the federal government is guilty of inaction in not following up a report on arsenic contamination with detailed studies.

Pubs Okay

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario Liquor Licensing Board will grant permanent licences to student-operated university pubs, Neil MacDonald, Laurentian University student assembly president, said Monday.

Mercenary Recruiting 'Drunken Escapade'

OTTAWA (CP) — "It was just a drunken escapade," said an alleged recruiter of mercenaries offering $1,500 weekly and $100 an ear" to shoot blacks in southern Africa.

Steve Dunn, who arrived here last week with three recruits from Thompson, Man., gave that explanation Monday to RCMP and Ottawa police.

Police said no charges will be laid.

John McKinnon, Fred Miller and Barry Vanderberg told reporters the story of being recruited as mercenaries last week after being stranded in Ottawa with no funds and a $700 hotel bill to pay.

Dunn, who had recruited them, had vanished.

But Dunn came back over the weekend asking "What's all the excitement?"

His story:

"Twelve or 13 of us were sitting around in a Thompson hotel. Everyone was drunk, everyone was excited.

"Easy bucks, that sort of thing. The next thing we knew, four of us were in Ottawa."

Dunn also denied using credentials from the Canadian Armed Forces to pay the air fare from Thompson to Ottawa.

The three recruits are receiving $125 apiece from the CBC for interviews but that won't cover their hotel bills.

Mr. Dunn's father paid his hotel tab

"The hotel was hoaxed, the papers were hoaxed," said the father. "But I've been hooked. It's a fater's lot in life to be hooked."

Five Firms Charged

TORONTO (CP) — An investigation into alleged payoffs to Ontario Housing Corporation (OHC) employees resulted Monday in 36 charges of fraud against five Metropolitan Toronto construction companies.

Cash gifts of between $50 and $2,500, free trips and use of vehicles are included in the charges.

Provincial police said a 14-month investigation into irregularities between OHC employees and contracting firms might result in further charges.

In October, provincial police laid 154 charges of accepting gifts against 11 present and 13 former OHC employees.

Officials of the construction companies have been summonsed to appear in court Jan. 23.

Seven Charges Are Adjourned

SIMCOE, Ont. (CP) — Seven charges arising from a strike by non-medical workers at Norfolk General Hospital last summer were adjourned in provincial court Monday to Feb. 3 when a trial date may be set.

John Askin, president of Local 220, Service Employees International Union, is charged with counselling, procuring, supporting, encouraging and threatening an unlawful strike. The union is charged with calling an unlawful strike and authorizing an unlawful strike between July 22 and Aug. 1.

Save Firm

LONDON (Reuter) — A Canadian - British - American consortium has been set up to save the luxury British carmaker Aston Martin, marketing director Fred Hartley said Monday.

A member of the consortium, hotel owner George Minden of Toronto, said after talks Monday that the firm could be back in business by the end of this week.

Prices Board Eyes Broilers

OTTAWA (CP) — Contending that there are too many unanswered questions about the broiler chicken industry, the food prices review board urged the government Monday to postpone establishment of a national chicken marketing agency.

The board said the chicken agency's "ability to effect increased interprovincial movement of broiler products, to ensure effective and adequate industry representation and to reduce the problem of surplus accumulation are doubtful."

The board's observations were contained in a report on the broiler industry, compiled from a study of trends in 1974 and the last nine months of 1973.

It said jurisdictional squabbles in the broiler industry could lead to problems similar to those that occurred in the Canadian Egg Marketing Agency

The food prices review board said a chicken marketing agency appears to be necessary, but it was questionable whether the one currently proposed was the best one.

One thing the board questions is the record supply of birds in cold storage, despite the fact that consumption of poultry products is increasing.

Last September, there were 31 million pounds of chicken in cold storage, 83 per cent more than the September average for the previous five years.

Seeks Rate Increase

OTTAWA (CP) — An application from Trans Canada Pipelines Ltd. for a rate increase that would cost the average homeowner between $3 and $4 a year goes before the National Energy Board today.

Immigration Up Sharply

OTTAWA (CP) — Immigration continued its sharp climb during the first nine months of 1974, increasing by 38.8 per cent over the same period in 1973, the immigration department reported Monday.

Between Jan. 1 and Sept. 30 last year a total of 166,401 persons arrived as landed immigrants, 46,511 more than the corresponding 1973 figure, the department said in its quarterly immigration bulletin.

The figures, together with more detailed statistics and comparisons for earlier periods in 1974 show over-all immigration for the year could exceed 220,000.

Immigration Minister Robert Andras responded in October to soaring immigration and fears of high unemployment with new regulations to tie immigration more directly to jobs.

SIGHT AND SOUND

If you had a savings plan that gave you high interest and let you save tax dollars, you'd call it smart. That's what we call it.

Introducing SMART

We figure with inflation and taxes taking more and more of your earnings, it's become harder just to get by now, let alone save.

That's where the Commerce SMART registered savings plan comes in. The SMART plan is really a double-barrelled savings plan. It not only gives you good compound interest rates on the money you save, but it also saves you some of the money you'd normally pay on income tax.

For example, if your taxable income is $10,000. and you put $1,000. into SMART you'd only pay taxes on $9,000.

You see, since the SMART plan is registered with the Government, the Income Tax Act lets you deduct a certain amount from your income and lets you accumulate this money tax-free until you really need it. Your accumulated savings will be treated as taxable income in the year they are paid out to you.

At the Commerce we think a plan that allows you to SAVE MONEY AND REDUCE TAXES is smart. Which is why we named our plan the way we did.

SMART

Save Money And Reduce Taxes

How much money does it require to start?

The minimum contribution has been set at $50. And you can contribute as often as you like. The amount you wish to save (within allowable limits) is entirely up to you.

You may, if you choose, make a single lump sum deposit. Alternatively, the Commerce can make it easy for you to save systematically — regular transfers from your chequing or savings accounts can easily be arranged.

What's the best age to start contributing?

You can begin at any age so long as it's before your 71st birthday. In fact, the sooner you start the better.

Because, how much you end up with in your Registered Savings Plan depends on how long your money has been accumulating as well as the amount you've contributed and the interest rate you earn.

For instance, if you started saving $1,000. a year at age 25 and assumed an average compound interest rate of 7%, your retirement savings would amount to $220,723. at age 65. On the other hand, if you waited until age 45 and contributed $2,000. a year at the same 7% compound rate, your savings would only total $89,014. even though you had contributed exactly the same amount ($40,000.).

So you see, the whole idea is to let your money keep working for you as long as possible.

Can you make withdrawals from your SMART plan?

While withdrawals are not permitted you may de-register your Plan. At that time, your accumulated savings will be treated as taxable income in the year received. However, you may use your savings to purchase an annuity thereby spreading your taxes over a number of years.

Is SMART the plan for you?

The Commerce SMART registered savings plan makes a lot of sense for just about everyone. It doesn't matter whether you're a successful businessman, a busy working wife, a young family man, an active career girl, or someone who's just interested in a good savings plan.

How can you start SMART?

Come to the SMART Information Centre located at the Commerce branch nearest you.

We'll be glad to help you set up your SMART plan or give you any further information you may need.

INTEREST RATES

Ed. McKinney
J. E. McKinney
Realty Ltd.

Perhaps no subject has received more attention of late than the cost of borrowing money and one of its foremost causes — the rate of inflation.

Mortgage rates have receded slightly after their precipitous climb and indications are that some further slight drop may occur. The agonizing fact for a prospective homeowner, however, is that if inflation at something close to 1% per month continues, then a wait for lower interest rates will be negated by higher costs.

Learning to live with higher interest rates is difficult for Realtor, Mortgage Company and Homeowner, but at least if inflation does continue, then the equity of the Homeowner will grow with it.

Belleville's 'First Merchant' Historical Society Subject

The man credited with founding the first business at Belleville, once accused of war cruelties, was on his way to being sued by a Kingston physician for an unknown cause when he was taken fatally ill.

These are some of the little known facts about George Singleton, first resident merchant of what is now Belleville, that were reported Monday night by Hastings County Historical Society president Gerald Boyce.

In a presentation to that group's annual meeting, Mr. Boyce told members he had been asked by the Dictionary of Canadian Biography, a University of Toronto project, to write a 600-word biography of Singleton.

"I thought it would be a simple task," he said, "a matter of consulting a few reference books."

In the end, he said, it took several days of research in Toronto, Ottawa and Kingston and several re-writings to condense the wealth of material.

Mr. Boyce said that Singleton had been born in Ireland in 1730. He was commissioned as a Lieutenant and fought in the Ameerican Revolution.

After one battle during which he was wounded he reputedly caused the Indians in his party to murder six or seven prisoners.

After the war he was granted hundreds of acres of land in Sydney and Thurlow and Fredricksburg Townships.

By 1785 he had already established a trading post at the mouth of the Moira.

One of the first four settlers of the area, he was later one of the three major justices of the peace in Eastern Ontario.

In 1791 he set out from his home to Kingston by batteaux along with his brother-in-law, Israel Ferguson, to appear in civil court where he and Ferguson were being sued by a Kingston physician.

He was taken ill with a "malignant fever" and the batteaux stopped at Deseronto where Indians treated Singleton.

The party went on to Kingston, where Singleton died before he could appear in court, Mr. Boyce said.

Canadiana Room Houses Treasures

An 1831 volume of Susanna Strickland's poems and a first edition of "Manitoba and the Great Northwest" by McCowan are just two of the important volumes in Corby Public Library's Canadiana Collection.

The collection was the subject of an address to the annual meeting of the Hastings County Historical Society Monday night by Elizabeth Mitchell, reference librarian.

Miss Mitchell told members of the society that the book of poetry, Enthusiasms, was the work of Susanna Moodie. The book about Manitoba and the northwest, written and researched by a former Belleville resident, formed the basis of the route taken by the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Miss Mitchell told the group that while many volumes in the collection are originals, there are some reprints.

"We collect all the Mika reprints for example," she said, "and have just recently acquired 'The Cook Not Mad', a reprint of Canada's first cook book."

Some originals in the collection include school books like the Royal Canadian Reader with its moralistic stories and poems and early county atlas often used today by persons doing geneological research.

One of the newest and most surprising acquisitions, she said, was a book of tinted photographs of Belleville titled "Souvenir of Belleville". Dated 1909 and attributed to McIntosh Brothers, the book was recently forwarded to the library by the Fire Chief of Asselton, North Dakota, who found it in the remains of a burned building.

"All of these things give us a good glimpse of a byegone era," she said.

DOUGIE

Seeing Dougie like this, you can't be sure if he is studying something earnestly or if there is some problem with his eyes.

It's the latter.

Dougie who has just turned 4, was born with no irises in his eyes, a condition which affects his sight. He does have vision but it is hard to tell how much. There is danger that he may develop glaucoma and he is checked regularly at the Hospital for Sick Children's Eye clinic.

Dougie can see small objects — in fact one of his favorite occupations is stringing beads.

He can go up and down stairs and walk on flat surfaces without stumbling. He recognizes people he knows and familiar objects such as his foster family's car.

Apart from his eye problem, Dougie is a healthy boy, tall sturdy and active. Advice from the Canadian National Institute for the Blind is to treat him as a normal child, and he acts like one.

Dougie is considered a slow learner but attends a regular nursery school where he is supremely happy. He loves the other children and the activities and is unhappy if for any reason he has to miss a day.

The experienced foster parents who are caring for Dougie call him a perfect child because he's so friendly and good-natured. He is a good eater. He sleeps well. Though he loves company he can entertain himself happily.

Dougie likes to play with anything on wheels but his No. 1 delight is water. His bathtime is a favorite time and on camping holidays with his foster family he could hardly be kept out of the lake.

He enjoys picture books and television.

Dougie loves other children — any age — so he will probably be happiest if there are brothers and sisters in his adopting family.

Parents are needed for Dougie who will love and appreciate him for his engaging self, who will understand whatever difficulty he has with his eyes and who will help him towards a normal as life as possible.

To inquire about adopting Dougie, please write to Today's Child, Ministry of Community and Social Services, Box 888, Station K, Toronto M4P 2H2.

Hayes Anderson

Mr. and Mrs. Brian Hayes

St. Joseph's Church was the scene of the December wedding of Debra Jean Anderson, only daughter of Everett and Jean Anderson and Brian Aubrey Hayes, son of Frank Hayes and the late Mrs. Hayes.

Rt. Rev. Monsigneur Carley performed the ceremony.

The bride's brother, Bill Anderson, was organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore her mother's ivory satin gown with pearl encrusted sweetheart neckline. She carried a double cascade of American Beauty roses with red velvet streamers.

Nancy Glover, Warkworth, was maid of honor in a red velvet gown; she carried a white fur muff trimmed with holly.

Beth Bennett and Sandra Hayes, the groom's sister, were attendants attired similarly to the maid of honor.

Ron Lott was groomsman assisted by Wayne Hayes, the groom's brother, and George Reynolds.

A dinner and dance was held at the Four Seasons.

The couple resides in Belleville.

ART SHOW

The Canadian Federation of University Women will open a special exhibit of paintings by George Ackerman Sunday, February 2, in the MacDonald Gallery of Glanmore House, the Hastings County Museum.

The opening will be held from 2 to 4 p.m.

George Ackerman, who lived at Roslin, was a painter and art teacher at the Ontario School for the Deaf from 1870 to 1877. He painted semi-naive watercolor landscapes in and around Picton, Belleville and Brockville.

The exhibit of seven of his paintings will continue until March 14.

This is the first showing of the collection which includes scenes at Roslin, Picton, Madoc and Tweed and a view of the old Hastings County Court House.

She's Ottawa Valley's Youngest Auctioneer

ASHTON, Ont. (CP) — When an auction hall opened three years ago in this Ottawa Valley hamlet, 25 miles west of Ottawa, Janice Higgins, then 16, worked the snack bar after school and on weekends.

Later she began cataloguing the articles for auction and acquired a knowledge of glass, pottery and furniture. This year owner Gerald Lepage called on Janice to become a professional auctioneer.

"I'd never really thought about it before but figured, 'why not?' " she said recently after her first auction.

Before her debut at the Ashton Auction Hall, the 19-year-old girl auctioneer was a bit nervous. "I'm just not used to getting up in front of a crowd of people."

Drawing on her experience around the auction hall and a two-week course at the Reisch Auction College in Mason City, Iowa, Janice has become the youngest auctioneer in the Ottawa area and the only female one.

At the auction college she received a basic training with nine other Canadians, including a woman student from Manitoba. The Iowa college gives instruction not only in auctioning antiques but in farm, estate and car sales as well.

"After you get out you're expected to choose one area to specialize in," she said.

"They stressed throwing out your voice. People who started the course talking softly became 100 per cent more forceful and strong by the end of the two weeks."

At her debut, Mr. Lepage told the auction hall crowd that Miss Higgins is bound by the rules of the house as is any auctioneer.

"That means she will pay $1,000 to anyone who finds her doing anything crooked or illegal."

"OK, colonel, go ahead!" came a shout from a well-wisher and she started her new career with the auction of an oval blue willow-pattern platter for $6, receiving enthusiastic applause on her first sale.

"I'd like to make agriculture a living and have auctioneering a couple of days a week to supplement my income . . . and I think they will go very well together," she said.

Ann Landers

Babysitter Steals Drugs

Dear Ann Landers: Mothers are often cautioned to keep their prescription pills out of the reach of children. I wonder how many mothers give a second thought to the babysitter?

A friend of mine had a very unfortunate experience recently which I would like to pass along for whatever its worth, and it might be worth plenty—like a life.

This 15-year-old girl who used to babysit for my friend was rather quiet, extremely well-behaved and considered thoroughly responsible. She sat for my friend almost every Friday or Saturday night for over 18 months.

One morning, very early, the sitter's mother phoned my friend, frantic. It seems the girl had been rushed to the hospital and very nearly died of an overdose. Her mother discovered a large supply of assorted pills in her daughter's bureau drawer. After describing the pills, the mystery was solved. The girl had accumulated them over a period of time while babysitting.

So please, Ann—tell your readers to keep their pills locked up and out of the reach not only of their babies but their sitters.—A Messenger

Dear Messenger: Thank your for this vital information. I hope all who read it will check their medicine cabinets and remove any medication which could be dangerous if taken in large amounts—and this includes aspirin.

Dear Ann Landers: This might seem like petty stuff to you but it bothered me so much that I couldn't sleep last night.

A woman I've known for several years (but not well) is the person I am writing about. She is socially prominent and well-off financially. We have served on several committees together, through the years, but we were never what you might call close friends.

Yesterday I was shopping with my sister-in-law and I saw this woman coming toward me. As we passed I smiled at her and said hello. She walked right by as if I didnt exist. I felt like crawling in a hole.

My sister-in-law said nothing but I know he was aware that I had been roundly snubbed.

Why would a person do such a thing? It seems so cruel I can't understand it. Please explain.—Mrs. Nobody

Dear Mrs.: You don't mention the woman's age but I'm willing to bet she's over 50. Having passed that mark myself, I can tell you that the eyes aren't what they used to be. Many people who think they've been "roundly snubbed' were not seen. So please reserve judgment, lady. You've probably done the same to others.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a teen-ager who cured myself of shoplifting and I'd like to pass the secret on to other kids who want to quit.

For two years I lifted everything from lipsticks to transistor radios. I'd see something I wanted and I'd help myself. It was sort of fun—like playing a dangerous game, and winning.

Then one day a good friend of mine got caught. I'll never forget the gossip at school, the shame and disgrace, and what it did to her parents. I put myself in that girl's place because I realized it might have been me.

From then on, whenever I got the urge to lift something I imagined that I was the one who got caught. It cured me. I'll never steal again. Sign my letter—Lucky M.

Dear Lucky: No comment. You said it all.

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter is being married next month. I should preface my remarks by telling you that we are people of means and not in need of anything—especially do we not need to have friends and relatives help us out by buying "useful" gifts.

This morning a gift arrived from a very close friend. It was beautifully wrapped by one of the city's finest jewelry stores Inside was a slip that said "Sender's Own." I didn't need to read the slip. I knew it was an old appliance that had been put in the broom closet for a few years. Honestly I was so mortified I didn't know what to say. Of course we won't display that gift with the others. It would be a dirty trick to the woman who sent it—although it would serve her right.

When HER son was married we sent a lovely silver tray. Should I let her know how I feel when next we meet? Or should I boil in silence and build an ulcer?—Plain Mad

Dear Mad: An old appliance isn't worth an ulcer. You vented a lot of anger by writing to me. Now forget it. Perhaps by the time this letter appears in the paper you will be able to see the humor in the situation and laugh it off. I hope so.

Confidential to Inferiority Complex?: Maybe, but my guess is that the guy IS inferior. He's pulled some awfully shoddy stunts. Drop him.

Tips to Eat Well, Feel Fit

Overweight leads to many illnesses. Weight control should be practised from birth, and Canada's Food Guide is the calorie-watcher's basic diet at all ages. These foods give between 1,200 and 1,600 calories a day..

In place of common sense, many reducing programmes follow faddish notions. For long-term weight control, a new pattern of eating is better than a crash diet. No food needs to be eliminated, but you must cut down on many foods..

Details are found in a dandy little government folder. Obviously Canadians have cultivated their "sweet tooth" to the point where foods containing important and valuable nutrients are replaced with foolishly sugar-rich ones..

The guide is available from your local health department or by writing to the Ontario Department of Health, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, Ontario. Ask for it by the full name: "Eat Well, Feel Fit, With Canada's Food Guide".

Dear Doris: What is the legal age at which parents can leave a child to baby-sit?

My friend, who is a public health nurse, tells me a child may be left alone at the age of 10, but that a baby-sitter from outside of the family must be older.

What action would police or a child protection agency take if a younger child were left alone, or the baby-sitter were too young, and some mishap occurred?

Concerned.

Dear Concerned: All the Ontario Act says about the subject is that "No child under 10 should be left unsupervised for any unreasonable period". Other provinces have similar legislation.

Actually, the child care authority says that a good deal depends on the maturity of the child, but that in general it is considered that a child should be at least 13 to take the responsibility for baby-sitting. Ten is too young.

If the police or C.C. authority knew about a younger child being left alone, or the baby-sitter were too young and something happened, the parents would probably not be charged, but would certainly be talked to. The actual legal phrase is "Charged with failing to protect". Age 10 or 11 is considered not good enough, to leave children on their own.

A good deal of judgment and responsibility is left to the child care organization acting for the government in any one specific area.

A Glass of Wine for Dieters — The Benefits Are Psychological

OTTAWA (CP) — The Ontario Grape Growers' Marketing Board is touting the benefits of wine in a weight-reducing diet, but there are indications it will do nothing but make you happy if you are fat.

This was the reaction of spokesmen for the agriculture department and the Canadian Medical Association (CMA), who said Tuesday that virtually the only value of wine in dieting is psychological.

"It helps you enjoy what little food you can eat," said the spokesman for the department's food advisory services branch.

Both were commenting on an article in the latest Ontario Grape Grower, a monthly publication by the St. Catharines-based marketing board. Among other things, it said there is increasing evidence that wine can help dieters "when it is . . . considered as a replacement for some other item of food."

So why not drink a glass of water?

"Exactly," replied the department's spokesman. "Wine has no nutritional value except for calories . . . and a very small amount of iron, only a quarter the amount you'll find in apple juice."

The CMA spokesman said there is no magic formula to reducing diets except to balance the intake and output of calories, unless there were hormone problems involved. These were the exception.

The Grape Grower article, which quotes a Dr. Salvatore P. Lucia, medical research director for the United States Wine Advisory Board, said wine is a proven aid to digestion.

"Wine helps to stimulate the gastric juices, thus serving as an aid to good digestion," it says. Finally, Dr. Lucia notes its tranquilizing effect can be especially beneficial in the treatment of obesity where emotional tension is a factor leading to overeating.

The CMA spokesman agreed, saying there is "no doubt it has a major psychological benefit" in that "it makes the individual feel a little better."

He said some old-age homes often offer wine with dinner, especially to persons on a diet, "because they often feel they're being deprived."

Mastectomy Visitors Bring Encouragement

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Cancer Society is unhappy because many doctors do not allow the society's mastectomy visitors—women who have had breasts removed because of cancer — to visit mastectomy patients.

"Some surgeons say, 'I don't want anyone interfering with my patient.'," Dr. Henrietta Banting, chairman of the society's national service to patients committee, said in an interview. "Yet if you have occasion to speak to some of these people you find they have had no help whatsoever."

Mastectomy visitors are chosen for their positive attitude toward life and their good sense. They visit a new patient shortly after surgery, but only with the doctor's permission.

The mastectomy visitors bring encouraging and practical advice on exercise, skin care and clothing and a message of hope to new mastectomy patients, most of whom are depressed following breast removal.

Endangered Species

The Gladys Porter Zoo in Brownsville, Texas, houses some of the rarest animals in the world. Spread over 26 acres, the zoo specializes in the breeding and saving of endangered species. There are about 49 endangered species there, including the Siberian tigers. It is believed that there are less than 50 of the large cats left in the world. (CP Photo)

Skin Bleaches Harming Black South Africans

JOHANNESBURG (Reuter) — Black South Africans living in the white-ruled republic are using skin-bleaching creams to try to change their color—sometimes with disastrous results.

Some faces have been left grotesque, mottled black and white masks through the use of lightening creams containing the strong bleaching agent monobenzone.

"A cosmetic disaster for dark-skinned individuals," is the description given certain creams by four dermatologists writing in the South African Medical Journal.

Africans do not hope to be racially reclassified through the use of creams. But they apparently feel that by lightening their skins they will be more "acceptable to the whites.

Doctors were puzzled at first when Africans with no apparent infections or organic disorders began arriving for treatment of patchy skin.

In a six-month period 347 cases of leucomelanoderma, depigmentation and mottling were seen at two Johannesburg hospitals. "After repeated questioning it became apparent that most of the patients had been applying a bleaching cream, the derrmatologists said.

The preparation was so strong that skin mottling on other parts of the body might have happened through sleeping regularly with someone who used it.

"If a powerful skin lightener is to be used at all it would be better if it were made available only on prescription, the article concluded. South African manufacturers have stopped using monobenzone in skin-lightening creams and most of the victims have recovered, although a few may remain permanently disfigured.

But despite their relatively low wages, Africans are still flocking to druggists for aids to lighten skin and the trade makes a big contribution towards South Africas 12 million rand ($17.3 million) a year cosmetic market.

Products now on sale are all considered safe and lure the public, including dark-skinned whites, with tantalizing advertisements promising a brighter, whiter future.

Texas Zoo Specializes In Endangered Species

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (CP) — The Gladys Porter Zoo houses some of the rarest animals in the world.

Located in this town at the southernmost tip of Texas, it is one of a few zoos that specialize in the breeding and saving of endangered species. Another is the Jersey Zoological Park on the Channel Island of Jersey, off the south coast of England.

The Gladys Porter Zoo is spread over some 26 acres with the old channel of the Rio Grande forming natural lakes and barriers which, along with the concealed moats, make visitors feel they are practically mingling with the animals.

Many are on their own islands, different species such as giraffes and zebras living together as they would in their natural habitat. They are out in the open but have cave-like shelters offering a retreat when they get tired of being stared at.'

There are about 49 endangered species at the zoo, some 20 per cent of its population, including some of the largest such as the square-lipped rhinoceros from South Africa and three beautiful Siberian tigers. It is believed that there are less than 50 of these large cats left in the world.

At the other extreme are two pygmy hippopotami from Africa and their year-old offspring. There is a handsome, ferocious-looking black leopard and a mountain tapir from the rain forests of Ecuador and Peru that resembles a pig.

Some of the babies born at the zoo have to be rescued and cared for by the staff. A baby gorilla, born last July, was in a sort of glass incubator sleeping under a blue blanket. Its mother had cared for it for a few days and then started dragging it around by one leg like a toy.

There are many species of bears including the spectacled bear, the only species found in South America, which is on the endangered list. It has cream-colored rings of hair around its eyes. There is also the long-nosed sloth from India, looking as if it needed a haircut all over.

The Jersey Zoological Park has a famous honorary director, Gerald Durrell, who is well known on television and through his children's books.

Durrell founded the Wildlife Preservation Trust in 1963 on the grounds of a 15th-century manor house with fine gardens. He lives in Jersey six months of the year.

Endangered species among the zoo's inhabitants can be identified by plaques bearing a picture of the dodo, a bird that has long been extinct.

The zoo has hatched and reared three brown-eared pheasants, found in their wild state only in the mountains of northeastern China, and 35 Cape Barren geese, the fourth-rarest goose in the world.

Also represented is the bare-faced ibis. The birds, which have a long, red beak, used to nest over large areas of Europe, but now are found only in Morocco and Algeria. There are about 122 in captivity of which 104 were born in zoos.

There are a number of thick - billed parrots, the progeny of six brought by Durrell from Mexico. The birds face extinction because the pine forests in which they live in Mexico are being felled.

Among the animals are three species of tapirs and four tapir babies have been born at the zoo. There are numerous types of gorillas and they have produced many young.

Starving Villagers Protest Their Fate

BOMBAY (CP) — Villagers in famine-stricken areas of India are no longer accepting their fate meekly.

One index of the rising political consciousness in rural areas is that even illiterate and backward tribesmen are asking visiting cabinet ministers to explain the government's failure to ensure proper food distribution

Observers say this is a new development in India.

It is recalled that two million people died in the great Bengal famine in 1942 during British rule without even a word of protest.

There were few deaths in the 1967 famine in parts of Bihar state but thousands were on the verge of starvation for months without questioning their lot.

The present famine in parts of northeast India is giving sleepless nights to government politicians and officials. They have not only to arrange for the timely supply of grains to needy areas but guard against demonstrations by the hungry.

Hundreds of tribesmen surrounded a group of members of the Tripura state assembly when they were passing through the Jatanbari area. The group included Tripura Tribal Minister Haricharan Choudhury.

Dozens of villages in Tripura have been hit by a food shortage. Opposition politicians have alleged that the situation is grave.

The demonstrators surrounded the jeeps carrying the VIPs and wanted to know why the government had "bungled" the food situation.

"We propose to keep you all here for a week so that you will know what starvation means," one tribesman told Minister Choudhury.

"You are the minister of starvation," shouted a woman.

As the Tripura correspondent of the New Delhi Hindustan Times described the scene: "Hundreds of tribal mothers undressed and asked the legislators to provide them with food or kill them and their babies."

The Times reported that one angry villager produced a rock and asked the minister to stone him to death.

Tribesmen in another Tripura area looted a government grain warehouse. When a magistrate went to arrest the looters, hundreds of demonstrators chanted: "We want food or bullets!"

Following the demonstrations, food supplies have begun moving into the famine-stricken areas of the state.

Jitendralal Das, an opposition legislator, described the tribal protest as "a moral triumph of tremendous sigificance."

Tripura Chief Minister Sen Gupta, a veteran member of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's Congress Party, said: "No one will starve in Tripura. We are fully conscious of our responsibilities towards the people, particularly our tribal brothers."

Hastings Trail Adds 350 Miles To Existing 250-mile Route

BY HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

The Quinte Hastings Recreational Trail (QHRT) Monday may have become the biggest outdoors project of its kind in Canada.

The trail already is mapped across 250 miles from Lake Ontario close to Algonquin Park.

But a major expansion of the trail came as QHRT directors took over another 350 miles of snowmobile routes — mostly north of Highway 7 — from the Highlands of Hastings Tourist Council.

The move was prompted by expectancy over proposed provincial government involvement in trail programs across Ontario. The takeover is believed necessary by both organizations to facilitate any funding benefits. The provincial government wi'' deal with a single agency representing district ti... ties, QHRT directors were told.

"This makes us the largest multi-purpose trail in Canada that we know of," said QHRT president Jim Staveley, as his directors approved the takeover of the snowmobile network, located in the nine Hastings County townships north of Highway 7. A connecting link also extends from Tweed to the Deseronto area.

The snowmobile trails program was initiated almost six years ago by the tourist council to boost winter recreation commerce.

There has been close liaison between both trail and tourist groups since the QHRT was launched in 1973.

Donations from the tourist council has helped the QHRT during lean times since the trail was first built. Last year, it contributed a total $700 — half the operating costs of the volunteer trail administration.

Vers McMurray, one-time reeve of Tudor-Cashel Townships, and Gordon Bennett, of Marmora, are also members of both groups.

The expansion comes at a time when there is finally evidence of stepped-up interest in the trail project — which meanders across Hastings and Prince Edward counties, said Mr. Staveley.

Aside from the implications of promised provincial participation, the QHRT has been receiving inquiries from across North America, he said.

"A lot of people are saying now that the Bay of Quinte area is the ideal location for a trail from Lake Ontario to James Bay — believe it not," he said.

After its creation — through a $133,000 federal Local Initiatives Program grant — trail upkeep has been a major problem. Hopes that local groups would be organized as maintenance volunteers never materialized —, unlike similar trails elsewhere in the province.

One reason, pointed out Don Sutton, Belleville Chamber of Commerce manager, is the fact that the trail is in a predominantly rural area. Quinte dwellers — with easy access to the outdoors — wouldn't have the same urgency to join such a project — tho's in larger urban centres.

Meantime, a $27,000 LIP grant this winter has meant renewed work on the trail, from north of Belleville towards Bancroft.

The Intelligencer
BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, TUESDAY, JANUARY 14, 1975

Quinte Conceptual Plan Approaches Final Stage

The conceptual plan or master document for the Quinte area will be ready in draft form by Feoruary, says planning director Bert Kenny.

The subject of four years intensive research, the conceptual plan maps out the general growth characteristics of the Quinte area and where all subsequent growth should locate.

Technical data indicates a doubling of Belleville's population during the 25-year life expectancy of the concept plan.

The document outlines several locations where Belleville might expect to find the necessary land to accommodate the homes and industry that will be required to support this population growth.

City council must now decide on which alternative to accept and how it will be accomplished.

Mayor Robin Jeffrey said during a telephone interview, "Belleville growth cannot be stifled."

"Belleville is the cultural, commercial and industrial centre of the Quinte area," said the mayor. "Stifle it by arbitrary boundaries, and you stifle the entire Quinte area."

A year ago Belleville and Trenton, recognizing the need for long-range planning sought to have a provincial study undertaken. This study would have assessed present boundaries and growth patterns and to recommend some modifications.

Hastings County Council, however, did not pledge its support for the study and the idea was shelved.

Only with all three councils in unison will the province undertake the study.

Mayor Jeffrey said "I hope they (county councillors) come to the realization that a study is needed."

In the meantime, Belleville has extended feelers into Thurlow Township indicating local growth philosophy by offering a water-for-land swap with the township. In return for 800 acres of township land on the city's eastern limits, Belleville will provide water to the Cannifton area — a region where the city feels growth should take place.

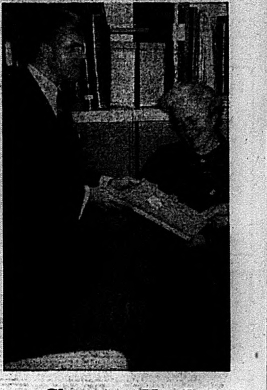
Mayor Jeffrey said discussions "will also be initiated with Sidney Township" on a similar trend.

Currently, consultants are preparng official plans for Sidney and Thurlow Townships. Much of the information gathered for the conceptual plan will form the base of these local documents.

Mr. Kenny said the official plans for the townships will be "a refinement" of the conceptual plan research.

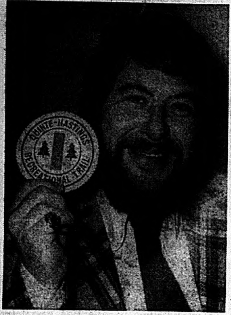
He said there is urgency attached to the Belleville decision so that consultants may have this information while mapping township growth areas.

Ideally, he said, the official plans of th five municalities of Belleville, Trenton, Frankford, Sidney and Thurlow Townships should blend harmoniously within the area's concept plan.



Changing Hands

Chief Librarian of the Belleville Public Library Olive Delaney accepts an index to the Hastings County Historical Society archives from president Gerald Boyce. The archives were officially installed in the library's Canadiana Room Monday night.



Trail Crest

Ron Powell, outdoor education teacher at Madoc with new crest of Quinte Hastings Recreational Trail. The crests are now on sale in Belleville, Bancroft and other district centres.

Exchange Program May Be Increased

Belleville city council is considering broadening the scope of the annual exchange of Quinte and Lahr, Germany students.

While the program — initiated by the linking of Lahr and Belleville — has so far been confined to students, Mayor Jeffrey told the Belleville Rotary Club Monday, the scheme may be opened to 250 to 300 adults.

"I want to see the exchange of students continue and if we can widen the twinning to involve moms and dads and sisters and brothers of exchange students and more citizens of our community then all the better."

Cost of the proposed trip at this point is $280 with hotel, meals and possible excursions additional.

She said the department of defence had given permission for the Air Canada charter to operate from CFB Trenton.

On another topic, Mayor Jeffrey went on to point out any submissions by council, individuals or groups to visiting Cabinet members on February 17-18 should be forwarded to Provincial Secretary for Resources Allan Grossman before January 24.

Noting this "excellent opportunity to express your feelings," Mrs. Jeffrey added: "Remember they are the people that give the final nay or yea to provincial policy. I have little patience for those who grumble and complain about provincial matters if they do not take this opportunity of presenting their case ..."

She cautioned though, in presenting their views, to go prepared to present "plausible facts and arguments."

Speaking of appointments to council committees from among the citizenry, the Mayor said some persons had been reappointed while others would serve for the first time.

"The policy of council is to add to the committees new people with new ideas while still maintaining some continuity through reappointment of some citizens who have had previous committee experience."

"We certainly have no policy that certain organizations have the right to have some of their people appointed because they are members of that association and therefore represent a special segment of our population."

Rhodes To Visit Picton

PICTON — The Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce will hold its annual dinner meeting Feb. 13 at Prince Edward Yacht Club with guest speaker John Rhodes minister of transportation and communications.

Head table guests include Picton mayor Donald King, Prince Edward warden Clifford Walker, James Taylor, MLA Prince Edward-Lennox, George Hees, MP Prince Edward-Hastings and the area representative of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce.

CFB Trenton Tests New 'Herc' Model

TRENTON — The aircraft a pilot once called the "pregnant guppy" still may look the same, but its per- considerably.

The C-130H, the new Hercules aircraft delivered to the Canadian armed forces, is different, says Capt. David McNair.

It produces more power per engine—an increase of some 800 horsepower—and if it can't stop on the proverbial dime, it comes closer than the C-130E model Hercules the forces still use.

Five of the new Hercules aircraft are being delivered to the Canadian forces by the Lockheed Corporation, its American, Georgia - based manufacturer. All five will be stationed with 435 Squadron in Edmonton.

But before they are flown out west, CFB Trenton 436 Squadron pilots are getting a chance to fly them. Already, between 15-20 pilots have done the circuit around the Bay of Quinte. Another 20-25 pilots are waiting in the wings.

Capt. McNair, squadron public information officer, said Monday all squadron pilots will be testing the performance of the aircraft.

He explained that it is likely pilots based in Trenton will at one time or another be required to fly the new planes. Monday, three pilots, under pilot Major Peter Dewar, were airborne in the "pregnant guppy" to test its performance and familiarize themselves with any differences between the two Hercules models.

Each pilot landed twice — once under normal conditions. the second time, under maximum effort conditions. The touchdowns were geared to test the C-130H model's added braking and anti-skid capabilities.

The plant halted 1,100 feet down the dry runway after initial touchdown. By comparison, the C-130E model normally stops in 2,100 feet.

Band Selection Begins

Quinte Santa Claus Parade Committee members continue to seek improvements in their yearly extravaganza.

Several areas were covered during Monday's annual meeting at Ben Bleecker Auditorium, including new float application forms.

First vice-chairman Don Keller introduced his proposed float application form, which, after refinement later this year, will provide the committee with information on the makeup of each float, theme of the entry, sponsoring person or organization and type of assistance required from the committee.

The committee voted to contact 12 bands for this year's parade, in particular the Toronto Pipe Band which appeared here in 1973.

Members decided to notify Ottawa television station CJOH (Ch. 6 locally through Deseronto tower) of the next parade date, and suggest the station provide live coverage.

Energy and Production Farm Meeting Topics

The three-day 1975 Quinte Farm Conference opens Wednesday morning at the Four Seasons Motor Hotel under the sponsorship of Quinte-area soil and crop improvement association, milk committees and beef improvement associations.

More than 200 area farmers are expected to attend the day-long sessions that begin at 10 a.m. and adjourn at 3 p.m. The first day will be devoted to discussions of energy and machinery, Thursday to forage production and Friday to marketing and sales outlook.

Speakers are drawn from industry, the Ontario ministry of agriculture and food and agricultural colleges at Guelph and Kemptville.

Morning and afternoon session conclude with panel discussions of topics discussed by speakers during the previous half-day.

Better Dialogue Sought

A young communications specialist has been appointed to improve the flow of information between government and various Indian groups — including the Quinte Mohawks of Tyendinaga reserve.

Robert G. Miller, 24, a member of the Six Nations Indian band, has been given the one-year experimental post by the Indian Affairs department.

His assignment is to improve current information systems between Ontario Indians and various levels of government which — at present — sometimes become distorted. said the department.

The result often is "misinformation" or "no information at all."

The appointment was announced by the Ontario Joint Indian Association and Departmental Committee, made up of various Indian groups.

Mr. Miller also will feed back information about Indian needs and priorities to senior district, regional and departmental staffs at Indian Affairs.

The committee said there is "urgent need" to correct the information flow if "Indian local government is to take root."

"We want to eliminate the confusion on both sides that often results from incomplete or incorrect information," a committee statement said.

His salary and expenses will be paid by the department and Mr. Miller will report to association presidents.

Historical Archives Now Part Of Library

The Hastings County Historical Society Archives Collection was formally installed in Corby Public Library Monday night during the group's annual meeting.

The archives, a collection of books, newspapers, documents, and microfilm, were transferred to the library "so that they will be accessible to more people at more times", Gerald Boyce, Historical Society president said.

The archives will be housed in the library's Canadiana Room.

Chief librarion Olive Delaney told members of the society that the library is "delighted" with the archives.

"We're particularly indebted to those who so lovingly catalogued all the material," she said.

At the meeting, curator Marten Lewis told members of the society that the society's museum, Glanmore House had conducted in 18 new events during the year and had attended eight area fall fairs with a travelling exhibit.

He said that during December more than 2,000 persons had visited the museum, bringing the total number of visitors for 1974 to more than 11,300 persons.

Alarm Box

City firefighters responded to the following calls for assistance in the 24-hour period ending 8 a.m. Tuesday:

Monday, Jan. 13, 10.35 a.m. ... Garbage truck on fire, 50 Boswell St., slight damage.

Monday, Jan. 13, 4.12 p.m. ... Smoke investigation, 302½ Front St., cartridge fuse burned out.

Hamlet Locations Puzzle Society

Has anyone heard of Thurlow or Sydney?

Not the townships, but the hamlets known in other years by those names.

At Monday night's Hastings County Historical Society meeting, members were asked by president Gerald Boyce if they knew anything about the villages.

No one did.

Mr. Boyce told the members that the Ontario Geographical Names Board was attempting to find out if the names were still in use.

On a map, the board pinpointed the hamlet of Thurlow near the former cement plant at Point Anne.

Sydney is said to have existed west of Belleville about six miles north at the second concession. Mr. Boyce said the map would indicate that Sydney was located about a mile west of Montrose road immediate south of the CN tracks.

Tapes Stolen

City police report just one overnight incident, that of a theft of seven tapes and a caddy from a parked car.

Police said sometime Sunday night the car of Paul Larue of 18 Harris Cres. was entered, through an unlocked front door and the items taken.

The car was parked at Calvary Temple Church on Dun- [illegible] George St. Police said total value was $80.

Going Over Alternatives

Quinte planning director Bert Kenny goes over the conceptual plan documentation which outlines the 12 possible routes of Belleville growth. Buckley Defends College Sex Education

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

Criticism levelled by the World Health Organization in a recent study deploring failure of many medical and nursing schools to provide adequate human sexuality courses need not be aimed at Ontario's community college system and especially Loyalist College.

Bill Buckley, director of the school of health science and community studies at Loyalist, commented in an interview Monday lack of sexuality training across the province "isn't true at all."

He said the Loyalist studies sufficiently prepare a nurse or nurses' aide for any aspect of sexuality or sexology, which is the treatment of sex problems.

"We have the students take bio-sciences followed by anatomy and physiology," pointed out Mr. Buckley. "Students are totally aware of the mechanics of sex."

Psychology is also included. Their introductory course, "centres around human growth and development, and sexuality is obviously a part of that," he said. There are followups, so abnormalities are covered, such as the misuses of sexuality, he added.

In nursing theory courses, they take obstetrics and pediatrics, outlined Mr. Buckley. "They also have ex- [illegible] to them the effect of interference in the need for sexual satisfaction in various ages," he continued. "... right from cuddling a baby to the degeneration of systems in older adults."

Physical and emotional ch[illegible] due to sex, and all types of birth control methods are included, he said.

Mr. Buckley said he did not think the world health study is directd at Ontario nursing courses. "If it is, I would like to see the data they use," he remarked. "I assume most nursing curricula in the province are much like ours."

As for the specific area of mental sex problems, the graduates are trained to recognize such problems, refer them to psychiatrists for treatment, and provide the necessary nursing care for such patients, he noted.

"They sould know if someone is not able to cope with any situation . . . and refer that . . ." said Mr. Buckley. "That's why we insist that psychology be given in any course of health."

He explained the study refers to general duty, registered nurses who, under the present system, can be employed as psychiatric nurses, although no courses are offered in that field at present.

Mr. Buckley advocated the development of psychiatric nurses. "These people can cope more readily with people with sex problems," he said. "The whole field of psychiatric nursing is being reviewed."

Bowl Has Local Flavor

SLICES — For want of a shoe the game was lost?

Well, perhaps.

At any rate, a United Press International story credits a Canadian with giving the Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh Steelers a "grip" on the title.

And the tale might well have a local twist.

Seems the Steelers' equipment manager, a Canadian product, looked homeward when he was searching for footwear which would stand his charges in good stead should rain make the artificial turf at Tulane Stadium a might tricky.

Many of the Steelers wore the football shoes supplied by their thoughtful compatriot. And the players found the Canadian footwear much to their liking on the slick playing surface.

The equipment manager's name?

Tony Parisi.

Familiar, isn't it?

Could be the same guy who played goal for senior teams here. Or could it?

More on this, later.

In Trenton, mention Belleville's Vic Christopher to anyone associated with minor baseball, especially those involved with Eastern Ontario Baseball Association teams, and you'll get a warm response.

Sure, Vi L. appreciated here, but in Trenton, she's something special.

When Trenton returned to the EOBA last year after a lengthy absence, Mrs. Christopher gave those involved the benefit of her experience in the association. When help was needed, Vi was as close as the telephone.

Her assistance with the Trenton State Farm entry in the annual Golden Bat Tournament here last year was especially welcome.

So it won't only be Belleville baseball enthusiasts who will be glad to hear Vi has been acclaimed secretary of the EOBA.

Congratulations, Vi.

BMHA House Leagues

Kirby Leads SACO

SACO., Yardmen, Garnet Juby Electric, ANAF Dukes, Stirling Sheet Metal and Tim Horton Donuts picked up Belleville Minor Hockey Association midget house league wins this week.

Mike Kirby fired a pair of goals as SACO stopped Red Shark 6-2 and Yardsmen got a brace of counters from Garry Stapley in their 5-2 defeat of Demark Construction.

Two goals each by Ernie Gordon and Terry Pearce paced Juby past Uptown Billiards 5-3 while Chris McIntaggard had three in defeat as ANAF Dukes spread their scoring among seven players in a 7-6 squeaker.

The Sheet Metal crew's slim 4-3 edge over Sun Luck Gardens was sparked by Steve Graham with a pair. Kelly Munkittrick's two goal effort led Horton's past Ross Royals 7-1.

In the Juvenile section, Rod Dafoe and Jim Atkins each scored once as Lou Williams nipped Arthur A. Sills 2-1. Pat Brooks connected for the losers' goal.

Three goals by Ross Lawrenson paced OSD past Warwick and Weeks 5-4. Other marksmen for the winners were Jeff Soule and Paul Masters. Garry Smith, Terry Coons, Jim Akerman and Doug Stow had the goals for the losers.

Harvey's Drive-In topped Belleville Plaza 4-2 with Pete Vos potting a pair and singles for Dave Cochrane and Dave Eggleton. Farley Vader supplied both Plaza goals.

Jim's Climbs into Fifth

Last, but certainly not least, Jim's Pizzeria lived up to that one Monday night in Gas House Hockey League action at the Memorial Arena. The Gas House played an extra game Monday night cramming four contests in, instead of the usual three. That left Jim's to battle it out with the Belleville Yardmen at 11:30 p.m. The two clubs were fighting for fifth place in the league standings.

As it turned out Jim's played one of their better games of the year to blank the Yardmen 2-0. Peter McQuaid was in net to record the shutout and Steve Sully and Ted McBride each gave him the offensive assistance he needed.

Jim's is now two points up on the Yardmen and three points up on seventh place Constellation Carpets. The Yardmen have 11 points and Constellation has 10. Constellation also had an opportunity to move up in the standings with Monday night's game, but it was next to an impossibility for them to come up with a victory against the Stanley Structures. Stanley beat them 10-3.

Mike Goegan scored three times and added two assists in leading the Stanley attack and Ray Summers' scored twice. Singles went to Russ Harrington, Fiori Goegan, Frank Wiles, Wayne Leveque and Bob Wludyka. Charlie Rowbotham drew four assists.

Ron Mitchel, Dale Kiely and Greg Bellis replied for Constellation.

In the other two games Rollins held their two point edge over the Belleville Generals as they defeated Art's Esso 7-0. The Generals nipped Chuckwagon 5-3.

Mike McDermott, Mike Graham, Bruce Pascoe, Larry Pascoe, Don Bowry, John Masterson and Dan Garlick each scored once for Rollins and Jim Parker recorded the shutout.

Dave Skelton tallied two of the Generals goals and added a pair of assists to lead his club to their win. Hyalie Bryant picked up a goal and three helpers and Bill Van Soelen and Steve Truelove scored once each.

Grant Sage got a pair for Chuckwagon Foods and Cliff Janitsch scored once.

Dixie Lee Nips Lions

Goals by Bryson Lamble, Rich Manderville and Neil McKeown gave Belleville Dixie Lee minor peewees a 3-2 exhibition win over Kingston Lions on the weekend. Checking in with an assist each were Steve Thompson, Ken Donaldson, Brian Cronkright and D'Arcy Maher.

Kingston goals were scored by Peter McNeil and Jack Fournia.

Wilson Leads Jets

BANCROFT — The Bobcaygeon Bobcats found out on Sunday that the Bancroft Junior "D" Jets are a team to be reckoned with, following Bancroft's 7-4 victory over the visitors in Ontario Hockey Association action.

The Bancroft team, with Bob Johnson in goal, staved off the Bobcaygeon attack and allowed only David Adams, Terry Fawcett, Gerry Geary and Ken Humphrey to score.

Bancroft's Murray Wilson, who was the top scorer in the league last year, got a hat trick for the home team, getting a goal in each period. Wilson however received a major misconduct penalty which kept him out of the next two games. Penalties to Bancroft totalled 39 minutes, while Bobcaygeon served 11 minutes in the box.

This year's leader in the scoring race, Loren Hawley had an assist on a second period goal scored by Wilson.

Teammate Alan Nicholas scored the first goal and assisted on a third period goal by Bruce Johnson.

Nicholas' goal was assisted by Mike Siydock, who planted the fourt Bancroft mark with an assist by Elton Neuman.

Other Bancroft assists went to Laine Gunter and Roger Kellar, who had three Bancroft's next game is on home ice with Newcastle coming to town on January 17 for an 8.30 game.

EOBA Aims to Shake Apathy from Members

By DOUG WALSH
Sports Editor

KINGSTON — A pat on the back from a former National Hockey League great who is now involved in the game of politics, failed to erase growing concern over the apathy of some of its members as the Eastern Ontario Baseball Association (EOBA) held its annual meeting here, Saturday.

Syl Apps, star centre with Toronto Maple Leafs in the 1930s and '40s, handed out the bouquet while addressing the group following a noon meal which preceded the meeting.

Member of the Provincial Parliament, representing Kingston and the Islands, Mr. Apps stressed the fact that the province appreciated the work being done with the young people by the EOBA.

"There is no way the province could do the job as well as you are doing it.

"We can lend out support but make sure you control your own operation," said Mr. Apps.

Later, while the meeting was being held, "apathy" and "disappointment" were popular words used when speakers described the EOBA's 1974 operation.

In a written message to the delegates, former EOBA president Grant Wade who resigned late in the '74 season, called on the members to go by "the book".

"This is the day to turn things around in your favor," he said, referring to the election of officers for 1975.

Art Parry of Oshawa who completed Mr. Wade's term of office, described the 1974 season in one word: "apathy".

Port Hope's Sanford Haskill heads the 1975 executive elected Saturday as delegates chose to support a move for change.

As president, Haskill will head an executive which is dotted with new faces, as the EOBA attempts to inspire interest and enthusiasm in its operation.

Belleville's Vi and Ed Christopher have given the EOBA much of their time and energy over the years. Mrs. Christopher was acclaimed secretary for 1975.

Vice-presidents elected are Mort Hallowell of Kendal; Joe Hawkins, Kingston, and Jim Whyte, Trenton.

Kingston's Bob Scott will handle registrar-treasurer's duties.

Directors elected are Larry Dewell, Bowmanville; Gord Johnson, Oshawa, Ross Brown, Kendal and Jim Hare, Kingston.

Only two proposed amendments to the association's constitution were submitted. Both proposals came from Oshawa Legion Baseball Association. Both were supported by the delegates.

Magnesium or aluminum bats may now be used in EOBA play.

In Tyke, peewee and bantam series, a baseball equivalent in grade to the Spalding 41-133 (110) may be used.

Since both these proposals were aimed at cutting costs for teams, they found immediate favor with the delegates.

EOBA bantam champions in A, B, C and D classifications for 1974 were acknowledged and trophies for all but the D title were presented.

Bob Scott accepted the A trophy on behalf of Kingston Legion. Don Cole represented Trenton State Farm, B champion and Frank Hooper took the C trophy on behalf of the Bowmanville team.

Thurlow, the D champion, will receive a trophy later.

The EOBA produced four Ontario Baseball Association finalists in 1974. Kingston was runnerup in the Senior A series. Port Hope in Junior B; Lindsay, Peewee D, and Trenton, Peewee C.

Teams Discuss A New Division

In a move geared to cut down on travelling expenses, the Eastern Ontario Baseball Association (EOBA) is studying a proposal which would see a separate section bounded by Kingston on the east and Trenton on the west, established.

Kingston Alderman Joe Hawkins who was elected second vice-president at the EOBA's annual meeting in Kingston, Saturday, is one of those supporting the proposal.

Belleville's Vi Christopher, elected EOBA secretary at the annual meeting, also favors the move but is not prepared to make a commitment until the matter is brought before a meeting of the Belleville Minor Baseball Association in the near future.

Representatives from Trenton, Kingston Township, Deseronto, Thurlow and Napanee have also expressed interest in the plan.

Fort Henry Heights, now a member of the Golden Triangle Baseball Association's Seaway grouping, is also considering the pros and cons of becoming a member of the proposed EOBA division

Formation of the new grouping would mean maximum travel of a distance in the neighborhood of 60 miles for member teams. No longer would Kingston face the necessity of travelling to Oshawa for league games.

Definite plans will be made at a meeting in Belleville, the second week in February.

Permanent Home on Want List

The Eastern Ontario Baseball Association (EOBA) is looking for a permanent home.

Greenwood Towers in Port Hope has been suggested as a possible "home" as EOBA officials look for a central meeting place where league could be kept.

EOBA members from Kingston favor the establishment of a permanent meeting place in Trenton or Belleville.

The matter will be given further study.

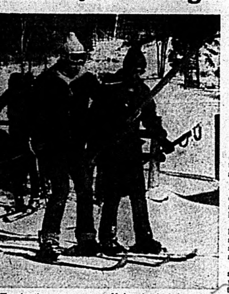
Family Outings Popular at Mount Madawaska



Though the slopes are always busy, skiers never have to wait more than five minutes for a lift back to the top of the hills. The T-bar tow at Mount Madawaska is used by all skiers to get to the tops of all five slopes. Madawaska is rapidly being recognized as one of the top ski spots in Ontario.

By NAN WHITLAW
Staff Correspondent

Mount Madawaska is two hours from Belleville, three from Toronto and two and one-half hours from Ottawa and is one of the newer ski hills and proposed sports complexes in Eastern Ontario

The ski hill, entering only its fifth year of operation is located on Highway 62 north, 40 miles northeast of Bancroft and five miles south of Barry's Bay.

Six slopes; the Lazy Jane, Boomerang Dynamique, Sundance, Eliminator and Rapido, test the skill of ski enthusiasts.

The Madawaska complex, which also includes 15 miles of cross country ski trails and a licensed Chalet, is directed by Greg Hilton.

Mr. Hilton, who is a member of the Canadian Ski Instructors Align, is also responsible for the operation of the active ski school at the hill.

"This is basically a family ski hill," said Mr. Hilton," So we have slopes and classes to suit all skiers from the learner to the real speedster."

Prior to coming to Madawaska, Mr. Hilton was the pro and director at Grey Rocks, in Quebec and at Sir Sam's Inn in Haliburton.

Mt. Madawaska is operated as a co-operative by businessmen in Barry's Bay and Combermere. They saw a need in that area for a recreational sport development.

The board of directors refer to the development as " A non-profit organization managed by a volunteer board of directors set up for the benefit of the share holders, and for the establishment and maintainance of a four season recreational core to act as a stimulus and resource base for the development of tourism and recreation in the area."

Grants from the Federal, Provincial, county and municipal governments were used for the development.

According to Mr. Hilton, the development of winter activity in the area has been realized.

"There are 400 to 500 skiers using the slopes on most days that we are open," he said, "and there are about 2000 shareholders now."

Being a shareholder at Mt. Madawaska has definite advantages since all costs from the ski rentals to the use of the tee-bar tow are cut in half.

A family which owns a share doesn't spend more than $9 daily to get the whole family, no matter ho wlarge, out on the slopes.

Students who do not have a share in the enterprise are charged $4.50 for an entire day of skiing and if father owns a $50 share they can enjoy that fun for only $2.25.

Since family style skiing is the philosophy at Mt. Madawaska, lessons are given each day at 10:30 a.m. and at 2:30 p.m.

There are usually nine instructors at the hill during operating hours

One of the instructors is Jimmy Haskins, a Grade 13 student at the Madawaska Valley Regional Secondary School in Barry's Bay.

Jimmy had never skied before the Madawaska slope opened in 1971 but now he is an experienced instructor like the other area young people who make up the teaching brigade.

"Possibly we'll open on Wednesday for the local businessmen and, of course, on school holidays we'll be open all the time," Mrs. Hilton said.

In addition to the six downhill runs, Mt. Madawaska offers a wealth of entertainment to the cross country skiing enthusiasts.

"We have 15 miles of cross country trails," said Mrs. Hilton," That sport has picked up fantastically in the last two years. It's another way for them to get out in the fresh air without the snow machines.

Normally the use of the cross country trails is only $2. for the whole day.

The trails are laid out on the nine hole golf course, the nature trails and over some of the rest of the 3300 acres set aside by the province for the Madawaska sports complex.

The golf course has only been open for two years. There were about 60 full time members last year.

Future plans for the complex include tennis courts a swimming pool and more involved hiking trails.

Espo Nearing Rocket's Mark

MONTREAL (CP) — Centre Phil Esposito of Boston Bruins today continues his pursuit of a National Hockey League record that has remained intact for 30 seasons and has eluded him in three previous tries.

With 42 goals in 41 games this season, Esposito needs eight goals in his next nine games to equal the 50-goals-in-50-games mark set by former Montreal Canadiens great, Maurice (Rocket) Richard.

Richard was the NHL's first 50-goal scorer during the 50-game 1944-45 season. Esposito has come close to the mark three times.

In 1970-71, the year he finished with 76 goals, Esposito had 45 in 50 games. The following season he had 44 after 50 games and wound up with 66 goals.

Last season the rangy Boston centre had 41 goals after 41 games but scored only five times in the following nine games for 46 in 50. In fairness to Esposito, it remains notable that the year he scored 76 goals, he scored 53 in the last 50 games of the season.

With 81 points in 40 games, Esposito was the first-half leader in the scoring race and thus collected $500 in award money from the league. That upped his total bonus money from the Art Ross Trophy portion of individual awards to $11,250 in the last 7½ seasons.

He won the Ross Trophy—awarded annually to the league's top scorer—the last four seasons and five of the last six.

The other season, 1969-70, team-mate Bobby Orr won the scoring title. Orr, incidentally, picked up $250 from the league as runner-up in the first-half scoring. All-star defenceman Orr had 75 points in 40 games.

As the scoring stands today, Esposito has 41 assists to go with his 42 goals for 83 points, seven more than Orr who has 76 and leads the league in assists with 52. Both have played 41 games.

In third place is the NHL's second-highest goal scorer, right wing Guy Lafleur of Montreal. He has 32 goals and 67 points, three points more than centre Gilbert Perreault of Buffalo Sabres.

Unfortunately for Perreault and the Sabres, the Buffalo centre will be lost to the team for six weeks because of a knee injury incurred Sunday.

In the goaltending department, Rogatien Vachon and Gary Edwards of Los Angeles Kings shares $250 as first-half leaders in the Vezina Trophy race. The pair allowed only 77 goals during the Kings first 40 games for a sparkling 1.92 goals-against average.

Harkness to Manage College Hockey Arena

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP) — Ned Harkness, a longtime college coach and former head coach of Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League, was named Monday to manage the Union College's new ice arena and develop a hockey program for the school.

Harkness, 53, said at a news conference he will leave his post as general executive of the Red Wings to accept the new job.

He joined the NHL team in 1970 as coach and general manager but later resigned from both positions, saying he could no longer work under the pressure of sportswriters and fans.

Referee Aids Player

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton referee Bob Seward may have saved the life of a junior B hockey player Sunday by pulling forward the youth's tongue after he swallowed it during a skirmish.

Bruce Kilpatrick, 16, a forward with Mount Hamilton Bees of the Golden Horseshoe Junior B league, was taken to hospital with facial cuts and bruises and later released.

He fell to the ice in convulsions after battling for the puck with Mike Donald of Dundas Blues, 12 seconds before the end of the game.

Seward, a referee with the Ontario Hockey Association for three years after three years in Hamilton minor hockey, used his whistle to pry open the player's mouth.

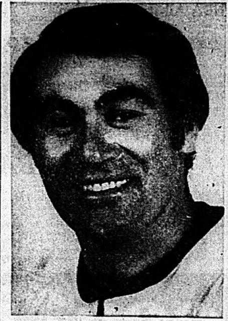
"The referee did a fantastic job under the circumstances," said Don Millar, Bees' vice-president. "He moved in right away when he saw the player was in trouble."

Dynamos Pick on Leaders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Shawnigan Dynamos were winners Monday night for only the ninth time this season but their win was against the top team in the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League—Sherbrooke Beavers.

Benoit Gosselin's fourth goal of the game at 18:49 of the third period gave the Dynamos a 7-6 win over the Beavers in one of two games. In the other, Laval Nationals outscored Hull Festivals 8-5.



Westfall — Captain Out

Two Islanders On Sidelines

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

New York Islanders, cellar dwellers in the National Hockey League's Patrick Division, will be missing two key players when they meet St. Louis Blues tonight.

The Islanders, 14 points behind the leading Philadelphia Flyers, will be without captain Ed Westfall and star defenceman Denis Potvin.

Potvin suffered a charley-horse and Westfall injured his right thumb in Sunday's game against the Leafs at Toronto.

"They are definitely out for Tuesday's game at home against St. Louis and could be gone for longer," said Islanders coach Al Arbour.

Buffalo Sabres have lost, for about six weeks, centre Gil Perreault who strained his knee in Sunday's match against Vancouver Canucks.

Meanwhile, Buffalo's 5-1 victory over Vancouver, coupled with Chicago's 4-2 victory over New York Rangers, pulled the Black Hawks to within seven points of the leading Canucks in the Smythe Division.

"Now I'd like to bag another four-pointer Wednesday night when we play Vancouver," said Hawks coach Billy Reay.

Rangers coach Emile Francis was not worried about losing ground to the Flyers in the Patrick Division. Sunday's loss, combined with Philadelphia's 2-1 win over Californa, put Philadelphia eight points in front of the Rangers.

"There's a lot of time to go," said Francis. "I didn't think we'd go through the season undefeated."

Chicago's Stan Mikita scored his 450th career goal in the game but he was more interested in talking about the goal he didn't get.

Ranger goalie Gilles Villemure made a spectacular save in the third period to prevent Mikita's 451st goal.

"He stopped me on the same play in New York," said Mikita. "I remember he told me then 'Stash, you're supposed to go up with the puck.' But I thought I had enough on it to get it under him this time."

At Detroit Sunday night, former Red Wing Garry Unger scored his 20th goal of the season to help St. Louis beat the Wings 2-1 and the Detroit crowd greeted the goal with loud boos.

"I like to see people boo," said Unger. "It means they remember you."

The Blues visit the Islanders tonight, Philadelphia is at Kansas City and Los Angeles at Washington.

Fuller Winner

ST. SAUVEUR, Que. (CP) — Ron Fuller of Squaw Valley, Calif., won a men's slalom race as part of the Can-Am skiing series Monday.

Fuller was timed in one minute, 16.5 seconds to finish ahead of Scott Schimerfeig of Leavenworth, Wash. Schimerfrig's time was 1:17.5.

Keith Humphrey of Calgary finished third with a time of 1:18.7 followed by John Hilland, also of Calgary, who was clocked in 1:19.0.

John Macomber of Dartmouth College finished fifth with a time of 1:19.2, followed by Daniel Minogue of Montreal, who was 1-10 of a second slower.

Jean Beaulieu of Sillery, Que., was seventh, Joey Lavigne of Ottawa and Daniel Bergeron of Shawinigan, Que., finished in a tie for eighth and Jeff Armstrong of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., was 10th.

Amy Griffith of Stratton, Vt., was first in the women's slalom with a time of 1:09.2, 2-10 of a second faster than Leslie Smith of Waterville Valley, N.H.

Debbie Taranelli of Fairfield, Conn., was third with a time of 1:09.5, just ahead of Lyndall Heyer of Stowe, Vt., who was clocked in 1:09.7

Losses Put at $2 Million

Could Be All Over for Stags

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The World Hockey Association probably is wishing that it had held owners of the Sharks to their promise to keep the team in Los Angeles.

The Sharks, now Michigan Stags, are in danger of collapsing.

"I see nothing that can prevent it from going under," a league source said Monday of the financially troubled franchise.

When Detroit businessmen Chuck Nolton and Pete Shagena purchased the Sharks last February, Nolton said:

"We have a written commitment with the league to remain in Los Angeles through the 1974-75 season."

However, two months later, the new owners announced they were moving to Detroit where the club would be called the Stags.

The Sharks in Los Angeles were averaging 5,982 fans a game in 1972-73 and 5,338 in 1973-74. But they averaged a little more than 3,000 a game at Detroit's Cobo Arena, a 10,200-seat facility that has the rink at one side of the circular building and most of the seating on the other side. The building is designed mainly as a convention and concert centre.

The league already has paid two player payrolls for the Stags which one source says have lost $2 million.

The Stags' home games Sunday night and tonight were postponed while the league decides what to do with the club.

But, the league source said Monday, that "unless something happens there very quickly, I suspect it's all over."

The Internal Revenue Service has filed a lien against the franchise, a figure listed as $177,870 but said by a source to be closer to $300,000.

Matches scheduled tonight—Phoenix at Chicago, Quebec at Vancouver, and Toronto Toros at San Diego.

Bob Leduc, Toros' new coach, got off to a good start Sunday when the club beat the Aeros in Houston 7-4.

Leduc, a Toros left-winger the last 2½ years, took over last Friday after coach Billy Harris took a leave of absence because of family illness.

Leduc says he plans to stress more physical conditioning for the Toros.

Hull, Bernier Are One-two

LOS ANGELES (CP) — Bobby Hull of Winnipeg Jets and Serge Bernier of Quebec Nordiques continue oheir two-way battle for the World Horkey Association scoring title, but Houston's Larry Lund is turning it into a three-way fight.

Statistics released Monday by the league show Hull with 64 points on 36 goals and 28 assists, one point ahead of Bernier, who had 30 goals and 33 assists.

But closing in on the high-scoring pair is Lund, 34-year-old native of Penticton, B.C., who has 24 goals and 36 assists for 60 points. The Aeros centre is far ahead of his 1973-74 goal production of 33 goals and 53 assists for 86 points, second in team scoring to Gordie Howe.

In the goaltending race, Jacques Plante of Edmonton Oilers and Cleveland's Bob Whidden are tied for the league's top goals against average at 2.70.

Healing Substance...
Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch
Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids...and repair damaged tissue.
A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.
One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.
And most important—this improvement was maintained in cases where clinical observations were continued over a period of many months. Furthermore, these tests and observations were made on patients with a wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. All this was accomplished with a healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.
In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a stated cause of hemorrhoids.
Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).
Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Champs Have Solid Foundation

Steelers Are Looking to the Future

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Players such as Joe Greene, L.C. Greenwood, Terry Bradshaw and Dwight White form the foundation on which Pittsburgh Steelers have built a Super Bowl champion.

Those players, along with plenty of others, came to the Steelers within two years of each other via the college football draft.

Now, of course, the chances of picking up such a wealth of football talent have been diminished. After all, a team with a 1-13 record, which is what the Steelers had when the drip of incoming talent became a torrent, has a better chance of picking up the top stars than does a team which picks 26th on each round.

That's what confronts the Steelers now. Later this month they'll be looking for more stars to go with the impressive collection that played major roles in Sunday's 16-6 thumping of Minnesota Vikings in the Super Bowl.

"We don't go into the draft looking to fill any particular position," says Chuck Noll, who started filling them in that last-place 1969 season, his first year as Pittsburgh's coach. "You get into trouble when you do that.

"We'll be looking for the best available football players. When you draft to fill a position, you let the best players get away from you and they end up being all-pro on somebody else's team."

Noll's problem is two-fold. Not only must he try to build for the future, he must also try to maintain the superiority of the present.

So for Noll, the 1974 season is finished but the 1975 campaign is just getting started. "Next season is another challenge, even more than this year," he said. "If some of our people can play as well as they did this year and if we can improve in other areas, we should be in pretty good shape."

It's hard to envisage the defensive line of Greene, Greenwood, White and Ernie Holmes playing any better. They led a charge that wound up leading the league in quarterback sacks during the season, then limited Oakland Raiders and the Vikings to an astoundingly low two-game total of 46 rushing yards.

Pittsburgh Greets Heroes

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Thousands of football fans lined the streets of downtown Pittsburgh to shower their Steelers with adulation and confetti on a victorious return Monday from the Super Bowl.

Fans began flocking to the downtown Golden Triangle business section shortly after noon Monday to gather along the route of a motorcade, and police estimated there were 120,000 by the time the team planes finally arrived nearly four hours later.

For some, carrying beer cans in coat pockets or liquor bottles in paper bags to sip as insulation against 20-degree temperatures and a penetrating wind, the wait apparently was too much.

Police reported 30 persons arrested—all for disorderly conduct or drunkenness—but little general rowdiness except for one bottle-throwing incident which was quickly quelled.

There was nothing like the outbursts that marred a spontaneous celebration by a far smaller crowd Sunday night, soon after the Steelers defeated Minnesota Vikings in the National Football League Super Bowl championship.

For the most part, the crowd was in a party mood, interested only in catching a glimpse of their heroes.

A cheer went up as the lead vehicles of the 59-car motorcade appeared on the Fort Pitt bridge and it echoed for blocks as the cars reached new vantage points.

Mayor Pete Flaherty presented a citation and a bronzed football to Art Rooney, 73-year-old owner of the team. Rooney then introduced coach Chuck Noll, who handed the mayor the silver Super Bowl trophy.

Flaherty held the trophy aloft to a cheer from the crowd, a cheer almost as loud as the one that greeted fullback Franco Harris when he stepped off the plane wearing a horned Viking helmet inscribed "Super Vikings '75."

Heart Attack Killed Moser

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP) — An autopsy in St. Petersburg, Fla., Monday disclosed that Mike Moser, a basketball player with Canada's national team the last three years, died Sunday of a heart attack brought on by a blood clot produced by a bacteria called endocarditis.

Moser, a 22-year-old in his third year with University of Waterloo Warriors, was in St. Petersburg with the university basketball team to compete in four exhibitions with United States colleges.

His body was returned to Waterloo Monday night. Funeral services will be held here today.

Moser didn't compete in any of the planned four games. He entered hospital soon after the team arrived there Thursday for treatment of what was then believed to be a flu virus.

He was released Friday but suffered a relapse Sunday morning.

His father, Sgt. George Moser of the Wellington Regional police department, accompanied the body of the former Waterloo high school star from St. Petersburg. Also on the flight home was Waterloo coach Don McCrae.

McCrae coached Moser at Forest Heights collegiate here, winning an all-Ontario championship in 1970 at Sudbury. Moser later attended Brown University in Providence, R.I., on a basketball scholarship.

He returned to Waterloo after a year, enrolling in a kinesiology course—the science of movemet.

A Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union All-star the last two years, Moser also had been on several tours with the Canadian national team including trips to China in 1972 and the world championships last year in Puerto Rico.

Pacers Whip Squires

HAMPTON, Va. (AP) — George McGinnis scored 14 of his game-high 36 points in the fourth quarter as Indiana Pacers romped to a 105-88 American Basketball Association victory over Virginia Squires in the only professional basketball game Monday night.

The Pacers, beating Virginia for the first time this season, built a nine-point halftime lead and the Squires never got closer than three points wth 3:16 left in the third period.

Pullman Rebounds For Win

LONDON (Reuter) — John Pullman of Britain, former world professional snooker champion, won five successive frames to beat Canadian champion Cliff Thorburn of Vancouver 5-3 in their first-round math in the Masters tournament Monday.

Pullman, who has been struggling to return to form for more than a year, was off in the first three frames, won comfortably by Thorburn 86-23, 97-11 and 74-31.

Then the Briton gradually improved and took the next five frames 68-41, 66-29, 60-33, 65-43 and 63-38.

The match eventually turned on a snooker which Pullman inadvertently laid on the blue in the eighth frame. Thorburn gave away five points and lost frame and match.

NBA All-stars in Action

East Team Out to Avenge '74 Defeat

PHOENIX (AP) — All-star games often are an exercise in exhibitionism and individualism, but the coaches and players participating in tonight's National Basketball Association are taking the game seriously.

"Even though it's basically a fun game, there is a lot of pride and determination involved and we will be out to win," said Washington's K. C. Jones, coach of the underdog East team.

"Even though individual skills and abilities will be greatly in evidence, I think it will be a very competitive game," said Golden States's Al Attles, coach of the West team.

The East, leading the series 15-9 going into the 25th All-Star game, will be out to avenge last year's 134-123 beating at Seattle and losses in three of the last four games.

In the East's only victory since 1970, a 104-84 decision at Chicago in 1973, it held the West to the lowest point total since 1953, when the West won 79-75.

Attles is not worried about his team's offence, powered by Golden State forward Rick Barry, the league's leading scorer, and Milwaukee centre Kareem Abdul Jabbar, the NBA's all-time scoring average leader entering this season.

Attles is concerned, however, about the West's ability to contain the East, led by Buffalo centre Bob McAdoo, this season's scoring runner-up, and veterans John Havlicek of Boston and Walt Frazier of New York.

Attles and Jones are the first blacks to coach teams in a major all-star game. They were selected because their teams had the best records in their conferences at the mid-season break.

No NBA Squad for Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto will not have a National Basketball Association team next season, Ken Twigg, director of sports promotions for Maple Leaf Gardens, said Monday.

The NBA had granted Toronto a franchise for the 1975-'6 season but economic problems have forced potential sponsors to shelve the plans.

Twigg said there is a possibility a team will be in operation in the 1976-77 season.

Toronto lawyer Ruby Rehman has spearheaded the drive to put an NBA team [illegible] Leaf Gardens but said last week he was having trouble lining up backers.

The NBA board of governors awarded a franchise to Toronto at a meeting last June. The price was to have been $6.15 million and Toronto would have [illegible] the 19th team in the league.

How to never have to pay for calls to Directory Assistance.

Some Directory Assistance requests for numbers that are in your phone book now cost 25 cents. But it is a charge you can avoid and here's how:

1. Every month, the charge will apply on all such numbers provided on your residence phone after the first three.* So check your directory first.

2. If the number you need isn't listed, call Directory Assistance. We will be glad to find it for you without charge.

3. If you have a handicap that makes it difficult to use a directory, or are 65 years of age or over, you may apply for an exemption simply by calling your Bell Canada Business Office and asking for a special Exemption Form.

4. If you're calling Directory Assistance from a pay phone, hotel, motel or hospital room, there isn't any charge. This, of course, goes for emergency calls as well.

Which all goes to prove that some kinds of inflation can still be beaten.

Save yourself a quarter.

Look in the book.

*There is no allowance for 3 free calls from business phones.

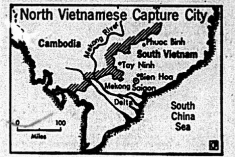
Found Dead

CHICAGO (AP) — Bobbie Arnstein, Playboy publisher Hugh Hefner's executive assistant, was found dead Monday of an apparent drug overdose in a hotel room, police said.

Miss Arnstein, 34, recently was convicted on federal charges of conspiring with two men to distribute cocaine. She had been sentenced to 15 years in prison, pending a 90-day psychiatric examination.

Ads to End

OTTAWA (CP) — The CBC hopes to remove advertising from children's programs when the fall television season begins, a corporation spokesman said Monday.



North Gains

North Vietnamese forces have widened their territorial control in Vietnam with the recent capture of Phuoc Binh, 75 miles north of Saigon. It was the first provincial capital to fall in nearly three years and completes the Communists' conquest of Phuoc Long province. (CP Newsmap)

Montreal Housing Cheaper

MONTREAL (CP) — Real estate spokesmen say housing prices in the Montreal area are holding steady or dropping.

The trend began in the second half of 1974 and is continuing, said Johann Draper, president of the Montreal Real Estate Board, which represents brokers and agents in the metropolitan area.

Indicative of the market slowdown is a 5?-per-cent increase in the number of houses on the board's multiple listing service (MLS) in 1974, compared with 1973.

Homeowners can sell either through one agent or the MLS, which informs all city agents.

In costlier areas, prices have remained firm. But there has been a drop in Montreal's southwest Lakeshore area, Mr Draper said.

There is a readjustment taking place in the area, said Jack A. E. LePage Westmount Realties.

"The price of resales went too high too fast earlier this year and now they are levelling off."

Builders of new homes, however, have generally maintained their price levels because of construction costs.

Arthur Sansome, general sales manager of the Frank A. Norman and Co. Ltd. real estate firm, said October prices had held firm after a four-to five-per-cent drop in September.

"Buyers are holding back for lower prices. If interest rates drop below 12 per cent it will encourage them."

Listings are piling up in the off-island south shore area, said Okill Stuart, president of Okill Stuart and Co. Ltd.

"A $35,000 house has dropped in price by about $1,000 since August," he said.

A spokesman for Royal Trust Co. said its inventory of houses for sale in the Montreal area increased 15 to20 per cent in the August-October period.

Prices across the city have not declined more than 10 per cent on the average and little change is expected over the next three months, he said.

"But six to eight months from now, there will be a definite upswing in demand and actual sales that will reflect in prices."

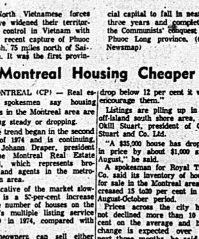
Shortage in rental housing will add to the pressure for new homes in 1975, he said.

Train Kills Boar

COVENTRY, England (CP) — A pregnant wild pig which bolted from the Coventry zoo was found dead on a railway track, apparently run over by a train. Zoo authorities said they believed the animal was teased by children and escaped after breaking down its paddock.

HIGH MOUNTAIN

Mount Logan, at 19,850 feet, is the largest and highest in Canada.



Canadian auto makers wound up 1974 with record or near record car and truck sales, a complete reverse of the situation in the United States, where sales have dropped drastically. Total Canadian car sales were 1.5 per cent ahead of the record set in 1973, despite a downturn in the last quarter of 1974. Motor vehicles sales totalled 1,051,932 in 1974 compared with 991,881 units in 1973. Graph shows motor vehicle sales from 1963-74. (CP Newsmap)

Making Music

With the Kozaks, music is a family affair. The couple, married just three months, have been performing publicly together that long and are appearing at the Belvedere Hotel for two weeks. Both play guitar, while Peggy handles most of the vocals.

Marriage Beginning Of Musical Band

By JIM SMELLE
Staff Reporter

With Earl and Peggy Kozak, music is a family affair. The two married just three months ago, started singing together and have been doing well since then.

They have been appearing at the Belvedere Hotel all this week and continue next week.

Earl, togther with his wife and drummer Rich Robbins make up the group called the Kozaks. Earl and Peggy both play guitar while Peggy handles most of the vocals which may range from a Tanya Tucker song to one by Jeannie Pruett.

Earl says he has been writing songs for quite a time while Peggy has just started. The group is due to record a demonstration record for Quality Records sometime in the nar future.

Peggy says she hadn't sung publicly until she started with her husband three months "I was nervous at first but soon got relaxed when I was singing."

The group is scheduled to play in Smiths Falls soon which is close to elta, Ont. where Peggy's parents live.

"My parents said they would be coming to hear us when we'll be up. They will probably sit right in the front. I don't know if I'll be relaxed or more nervous then," said Peggy

Earl says he has been singing for the past seven years after a variety of jobs including managing a health food store in Toronto and being a security guard. He said he has performed with different groups and under a different name then. His repertoire now consists of country and western, rock and roll and instrumentals.

"I decided to keep my own name. I'm proud of my grandparents who raised me in the west and if I ever make a name for myself I'd like to keep the family name, Kozak."

The only problem the two have now is finding enough time off to enjoy themselves. "It gets so it seems there are three Sundays in a week whenever you have three days off that week.

"We like to have time to get home to Delta to see our son, Joey who stays with my parents when we're on the road," said Peggy.

From here the group travels to Cobalt, Cochrane, Geraldton, Peterborough and then to Stratford. After that there are plans for a rest before the way of the road is picked up again.

Man Freed

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — Gary Max Watson, a 33-year-old Oshawa man who was denied bail for more than a month after being arrested for possession of a dangerous weapon and threatening by telephone, had both charges dismissed Monday.

Judge N. H. Edmondson dismissed the charges after acting Crown Attorney George Wright said no evidence was available and police witnesses were not present in provincial court.

Unhappy

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — Delegates to the annual meeting of the Sudbury District chapter of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation (OSSTF) said Monday that their provincial executive is exceeding its budget and catering to needs of Toronto-area members.

"This is an old battle of north against south," said Dan McInnis, a past president of the OSSTF. "Southern Ontario seems to be getting all the benefits."

Body Found

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — The body of an unidentified female found Monday in a ditch in the southwest section of the city was taken to hospital after examination by a Wellington County coroner, Dr. Frank Farmer. Police did not disclose any details.

Metis Play Opens

OTTAWA (CP) — Riel, John Coulter's long historical play about the Metis leader hanged in Regina in 1885 for treason, opened a three-week run in the National Arts Centre Monday night with cheers and a standing ovation for Albert Millaire in the title role.

The play was first produced in Toronto in 1950, but this was its first fully professional staging.

Directed by Jean Gascon, it depicts Louis Riel as a fervent leader of the Metis and settlers of the Northwest Territory against the incursions of the Dominion of Canada in the formation of Manitoba in 1870, and his return from exile in 1885 to proclaim a provisional government at Batoche.

It was played on an open thrust-style stage designed and lit by Robert Prevost. Costumes were by Francois Barbeau and music by Gabriel Charpentier.

Gascon—former artistic director of the Stratford Festival—had a cast of nearly 40. The play runs 3¼ hours with but one intermission.

French - speaking actors were employed for all the roles which depicted Metis and French-Canadian characters in history, including Jacques Auger as Bishop Tache of St. Boniface, Yvette Thuot as Riel's mother, and Bertrand Gagnon in the double role of Sir George-Etienne Cartier and Riel's defence lawyer, F. X. Lemieux.

English and French were employed interchangably.

CLERK WROTE ENGLISH

LOVINGTON, N.M. (AP) — Apparently an Illinois resident believed only Spanish is spoken in New Mexico. Lea County clerk, Jane Rice, received a letter from Illinois. The letter said: "Please answer in English." Depoty clerk Donna Benge, at the dierction of Mrs. Rice, answered the query and added: "Sorry to disillusion you, but English is the only language I know"

Grounded

Powerman - Rhodesia's answer to Superman—has been grounded. African readers have taken his comic strip activities literally and expected him to fly from adventure to adventure by jet-propelled cape. Powerman is played by the 1968 Mister Rhodesia, Alexander Banya, who now confines his adventures to lifting more than 600 pounds in weights during personal appearances for a sugar, company. (CP Photo)

Rhodesian Superman Has Been Grounded

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (CP) — Powerman — Rhodesia's answer to Superman—has been grounded.

No longer will he leap tall buildings or fly at the speed of a rocket in his comic strip film or radio adventures.

The grounding has come about because African readers have taken his activities literally and expected Powerman to carry out his aerobatics in personal appearances. Now the appearances have been dropped.

Powerman is following the mould of a long line of American-inspired heroes whose adventures have been followed by generations of youngsters.

But Powerman is an African hero.

When buses overturn in raging flood waters or villages are terrorized by marauding lions or evil witchdoctors hold primitive tribesman in their sway it's Powerman who comes to the rescue.

Powerman is played by the 1968 Mr. Rhodesia, Alexander Banya. He has had the role for six years and his activities are designed to boost the sale of sugar among Africans.

His adventures and non-stop personal appearances throughout Rhodesia, have made him immensely popular.

Powerman's exploits may be fictional, but Banya's bulging biceps are real, capable of lifting more than 600 pounds in weights.

In his calf-length boots, blue figure-hugging tights and black Batman cape, Powerman forms the centre attraction of a 2½-hour show.

Spectators are invited to take Powerman on in trials of strength. Since Banya's strength is based on years of body building, the contests are usually one-sided.

Few spectators can lift the weights more than a few inches off the ground.

Then comes the great advertising gimmick. Powerman grunts and groans and displays great difficulty in lifting the weights. Then, just a taste of the sponsor's product and, presto, the weights are above his head.

Banya says living up to Powerman's image can be a strain.

"You can't afford to slip," he said. "It isn't easy always being on your best behavior."

The magazine adventures are not drawn as in conventional comic books. Instead Banya plays the role while photographs are taken and the dialogue is added.

Banya figures he's good for another four years in the role. As with Batman, he has a deputy - Powerkid - who will eventually step into his shoes.

The weightlifting displays are probably the toughest part of Banya's role.

Your Horoscope

By DERNICE BEDE OSOL

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 15

Arie (March 21-April 19) Someone is willing to do something for you she wouldn't do for others. It could be awkward for her if others were to learn of it

Taurus (April 20-May 20) A friend will make a quick decision o nyour behalf without your knowledge. You'll be pleased to learn why she made this move.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Something unexpected and unusual will occur of benefit to you. It concerns your personal ambitions

Cancer (June 21-July 22) Keep your plans for today as flexible as possible. Be free to do something "fun" and different when you get the urge.

Leo (July 23-Aug 22) You're going to have the opportunity you've been looking for to change something that's been bugging you.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You'll do your best thinking today under pressure, or if you're on the spot and have to come up with an answer.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct 23) Over the next few days you should be able to figure ways to derive more profits and benefits from work or career.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) The manner in which you conduct yourself is being favorably observed especially when you use your originality.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You will be offered something for your home by a friend. He no longer has a need for it. You will.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you have some time today, get in touch with a friend who has been on your mind. She may have some interesting news.

Aquarius (Jan 20-Feb. 19) You're in another one of your short cycles where sudden opportunities for personal gain will unexpectedly pop up.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) You do well today in dealings with individuals who come from places distant from where you were born.

Opening lead — 10 ♥

Four spades by North would be an ironclad contract, but North and South were not using transfer bids and South wound up as the spade declarer.

West opened the 10 of hearts. South could have insured his contract by playing dummy's king but instead played small. East played the deuce of hearts, whereupon West shifted to the 10 of clubs. Dummy's jack lost to East's king. East cashed the ace of hearts and then made tre mistake of leading a trump.

"Chucked and possibly rechucked," murmurred South. "I should have put up the king of hearts at trick one."

Then South won the spade; ruffed his last heart and ran off all his trumps.

The last trump lead squeezed West. He had to discard a club in order to retain his ace of diamonds. Now South discarded the last diamond from dummy and made the last three tricks with dummy's ace-queen and six of clubs.

Park Lane Planned

EASTBOURNE, England (CP) — East Sussex county council has announced plans to put an artificial lake, covering about five acres, in a 1,000-acre county park on the coast between Eastbourne and Seaford. The project will cost about &10,000.

Adam Gets Facelift

CANTERBURY, England (CP) — A 12th-century stained-glass window in Canterbury Cathedral depicting Adam after his expulsion from Eden is to be restored at a cost of &1.2 million. The window, badly corroded by acid formed by fumes from nearby factories and motor traffic, has been moved to the cathedral's repair studio.

To Your Good Health

Bleeding Unusual In Examination

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you please comment on pelvic examinations. I notice everytime I have one there is some bleeding. Is this normal?

If your Pap smear is negative, why do you also need a pelvic examination? And how often should these be given?—Mrs. J.B.

The bleeding is neither normal nor necessary.

A pelvic examination should not be a traumatic affair. With adequate lubrication, appropriate-sized instruments (speculums) and a gentle manipulation, there should be no bleeding.

In taking the Pap test, particularly if the tissues are inflamed or unusually fragile, some slight bleeding may occur.

Part of your problem could be due to spasm. If you could relax more during the examination, it might be much easier both for you and the doctor.

The Pap test is only a part of a complete examination. The pelvic examination is important to evaluate the size of the uterus, its position, or the presence of any tumors of the uterus or ovaries. It also will reveal the condition of the tubes.

A pelvic examination should be made at least every two years, preferably annually, and oftener if there is a suspicion of trouble.

And, as I mentioned, it need not be traumatic torture.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you please tell me something about cholesterol polyps in the gall bladder? I have read about gall stones but with all the lay people I have discussed this with, including my pharmacist, no one has ever heard of it.

My doctors tell me they see it infrequently. I wonder about the cause of it and if surgery is the only answer? I suffer pain night and day and also nausea.—Mrs. C.W.W.

These are not true polyps, which are protruding growths from mucous membranes. What are sometimes referred to as cholesterol polyps are actually accumulations of cholesterol crystals which become attached to the inner lining of the gall bladder.

The cholesterol is excreted with the bile. A diseased gall bladder can cause these crystals to be trapped inside.

With all of your apparent distress, has removal of the gall bladder been recommended?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a girl of 13. A few months ago I got chicken pox. Fortunately I recovered very fast—in about a week.

When I had it I was covered from head to toe. But even now you'd think I still had chicken pox. Only half of them went away. Will they ever go away?

I only scratched a little. I'm scared.—P.Y.

Give this more time. The scars should gradually become smaller and less visible.

Meanwhile, trim your fingernails down and allow the scabs to fall off of their own accord. If you are careful about this, there is minimal chance of permanent scarring.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Could there be any permanent damage such as upsetting the hormone balance from a two-year-old swallowing 15 to 20 estrogen tablets given for menopause?—J.G.

A single accidental swallowing of this many tablets would not of itself affect the child's body chemistry. It would cause the child to vomit, thus expelling most of the material.

I don't have to tell you that this is an object lesson in why medicines should be kept far from prying hands.

Sharp Says British MPs May Help Canadian House

LONDON (CP) — Canadian Gogernment House Leader Mitchell Sharp said Monday that British MPs may be able to help the Canadian House of Commons make laws more efficiently while permitting the opposition to keep a check on the government.

Sharp, chairman of the Commons committee on procedure and organization is heading a 16-man delegation of MPs—all committee members—here for a week of talks with British MPs and Commons officials to learn about British House procedures.

Sharp said in an interview that he is especially keen on learning the British way of making more use of committees to handle legislation too minor to take up the time of the full Commons.

And he wanted to discuss how the British House examines government estimates—the annual proposals for spending tax money. money.

A number of systems of dealing with the estimates have been tried in Canada, Sharp said, but none has proved completely satisfactory.

Until a few years ago, the spending plans for every department were dealt with by the whole House. For most departments, debate was a mere formality, and for others scrutiny was scant.

After the 1968 election new rules sent estimates to the House committees for detailed study, and the opposition parties were given a set number of days in each session to debate topics of their choice in the Commons.

Sharp says those opposition days were never used effectively, and the opposition has complained that spending plans still did not get needed attention in the Commons committees.

Last fall, a new system was tried, which Sharp indicated might form the basis for the future procedure.

Some of the estimates were handled in committees, but ministers of a few departments were called on to defend their plans in the Commons in debate.

Sharp said the House was revived when ministers took part, and suggested rules might be changed to expand that idea.

The Canadian delegation, including Liberal, Conservative and New Democratic MPs was welcomed Monday by Arthur Bottomely, head of the British chapter of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association and a former Commonwealth secretary.

After meeting with a number of Commons officials, and viewing the question period, the Canadians' agenda included a party at 12 Downing Street, home of the British government's chief whip, Robert Mellish.

Fatal Virus Is Type of Flu

SARNIA, Ont. (CP) — A virus which killed a young Sarnia couple has been isolated by researchers at the Central Public Health Laboratory in Toronto, Lambton County's medical officer of health said Monday.

Dr. Lucy Duncan said the virus, known as the influenza-A virus Port Chalmers strain, has affected people all over the world and recently reached epidemic proportions in Ontario.

The virus was first isolated in New Zealand in 1973 and is similar to the England virus, prevalent in 1972.

Five-year Warranties For Homes Planned

TORONTO (CP) — The Housing and Urban Development Association of Canada (HUDAC) is planning a $4-million, five-year national warranty and insurance plan for buyers of new homes, says research director William McCance.

The plan, which would allow a one-year warranty on builder-caused defects in a new home plus four years of insurance coverage against major structural damage, was announced Monday in a letter to provincial directors of the association, Mr. McCance said.

He said the plan would ensure that buyers of new homes do not lose money because of substandard construction or builder bankruptcey and would protect them from "fly-by-night" operators.

Consumers would pay about $80 during the five-year period for maximum insurance coverage of $30,000 per dwelling, Mr. McCance said. About 150,000 dwellings would be eligible each year, but rental housing or mobile homes would not be covered.

Mr. McCance said the plan will be administered and controlled by an independent council which is non-profit and non-political

He said the association proposes a 40-member board of directors with representatives for builders, consumers, private mortgage firms, the federal government, building material manufacturers and private mortgage insurance companies, as well as 10 provincial directors.

Younger Voters Said Lacking in Knowledge

OTTAWA (CP) — Lowering the voting age to 18 has added greatly to the number of voters who lack the experience and knowledge to assess current economic and political issues, says the president of the Canadian Foundation for Economic Education.

Freeman K. Stewart said in speech to the Ottawa Rotary Club on Monday that much of the economic research produced in Canada is ignored because it is produced by special interest groups.

The economic education foundation, representing a cross-section of interests including education, business, labor, consumers and agriculture, is trying to overcome the lack of economic awareness among Canadians. Set up six months ago, it now has 10 board members and eventually will expand to 30.

Dr. Freeman says the foundation will promote an organized approach to economic education in the school system, concentrating in the high schools initially.

Early in 1975, the foundation will provide seven in-service training programs for about 300 teachers at universities across the country. They will range from three-day seminars to courses of five or six weeks' length.

Eventually, the foundation intends to establish provincial councils, Dr. Freeman said, with the first two likely in the Atlantic provinces—possibly Moncton or Halifax—and in Vancouver.

Automation No Threat, Mackasey Tells Postmen

MONTREAL (CP) — Postmaster-General Bryce Mackasey says postal workers have "nothing to fear" from automation and should give their full co-operation to the changeover in coming years.

In a weekend interview, Mr. Mackasey, a key figure in coming contract talks with postal employees, guaranteed that mail handlers across the country will not lose their jobs or be declassified because of proposed technological changes in the postal system.

"Everyone will benefit from the new system, including postal employees and the Canadian public," Mr. Mackasey said.

"We still have a long way to go toward full automation and the thing we need now is full co-operation, not unnecessary and useless work disruptions."

He said there has been "complete co-operation from postal union officials across the country, except for one group in Montreal," where union leaders called for work disruptions last week.

"We are disappointed that the Montreal union leaders have not seen fit to co-operate while the rest of the country is satisfied with the progress of automation and the aims we are trying to fulfil," Mr. Mackasey said.

He predicted the postal system will be fully automated by 1977. Quebec will be the last province to be linked to the system.

Even Arabs Welcome To Finance Syncrude

SARNIA, Ont. (CP) — Partners in Alberta's Syncrude project would accept financing even from the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) in order to develop the Athabasca oil sands, the president of Imperial Oil Ltd. said Monday.

Richard Reid told a news conference that although OPEC, which includes Arab states and Venezuela, has a virtual stranglehold on world petroleum markets, the Syncrude partners would consider participation by them in Canada's domestic energy development.

Development of the sands, one of the world's largest known oil reserves, has been delayed by inflated costs which have doubled to an estimated $2 billion, and withdrawal of Atlantic Richfield Canada Ltd. (ARCAN), a 30-per-cent shareholder.

Remaining partners are Imperial Oil Ltd. and Canada-Cities Service Ltd.—each with 30 per cent—and Gulf Oil Canada Ltd.—10 per cent.

"I think we are willing to consider any (financing) source that would be beneficial to all of us and to Canada," Mr. Reid said.

Bishop Charges Ontario 'Abdicates Responsibility'

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Most Rev. G. Emmett Carter, Roman Catholic Bishop of London, accused the Ontario government Monday of "an apparent abdication of responsibiliay" in not that schools are not closed by providing legislation to ensure teacher strikes.

Bishop Carter was speaking to the inaugural meeting of the London—Middlesex separate school board. The 35 schools in the system were closed last week when about 400 teachers stayed off the job over a salary dispute with the board.

The board voted at the meeting to ratify a tentative agreement, reached with the teachers last weekend, calling for average pay increases of 18.1 per cent. The teachers were back in school Monday.

Bishop Carter described as "intolerable" the government's failure to provide legislation to ensure continuous operation of the schools.

"I refuse to subscribe to the opinion we are so bankrupt in government leadership that no system can be devised whereby teachere will begin with a contract in September and their services will be guaranteed to the end of June," he said.

He suggested bargaining should take place during the two-month summer vacation.

TO FACE CABINET

Board vice-chairman James Carpenter said the board will prepare a brief to the provincial cabinet when it meets here Jan. 22.

Mr. Carpenter told trustees the brief should express the board's concern about "the attitude to the public purse many of the public service bodies are taking . . . and the lack of direction given by the premier."

"The government has provided the teachers with a weapon which the trustees don't have," he said of the teachers' right to quit their jobs to back bargaining demands and then reclaim them when contracts are signed.

Education Minister Thomas Wells introduced—then withdrew—legislation in the fall of 1973 which would have applied compulsory arbitration to teacher-board disputes.

Mr. Carpenter said pay increases of 21.5 per cent 23.5 per cent given civil servants by the government in January influenced the board's salary negotiations by putting pressure on the board to make an equivalent offer. Mr. Wells has said a revised version of the legislation will be brought back in the spring.

A spokesman for the London—Middlesex chapter of the Ontario English Catholic Teachers' Association said teachers feel that closing schools is distasteful, but it is sometimes necessary.

He said a week off from classes has not caused children to suffer.

Flywheel in Vacuum Could Reduce Costs

TORONTO (CP) — A 20-inch flywheel spinning in a vacuum might save the Toronto Transit Commission (TTC) $1 million a mile in subway construction costs, Ald. Anthony O'Donohue said Monday.

A study, being carried out by S.J.T. Consultants, an engineering firm, says that the flywheel-in-a-vacuum can keep a subway train moving even when its power fails.

Bury Rubble

TORONTO (CP) — Dow Chemical of Canada Ltd., has been authorized to bury mercury-contaminated rubble left after the demolition of two of its plants in Sarnia, the Ontario ministry of the environment said Monday.

Ford Gives Congress Recovery Blueprint

WASHINGTON (AP) — Declaring "I've got bad news, and I don't expect any applause," President Ford outlined for Congress today his blueprint for rescuing the slumping U.S. economy through tax cuts and higher fuel prices.

Almost all Fords' specific proposals were disclosed in his national television-radio address Monday or by White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen at a briefing Tuesday.

The major elements of the president's program include:

—A one-time tax cut of 12 per cent in last year's taxes, to be accomplished through rebate to individual taxpayer of up to $1,000.

—A long-term tax reduction starting this year, with the largest reductions going to the poorest taxpayers.

—Proposals to cut corporate income taxes and increase tax credits for businesses that spend money on their plants and equipment.

—Direct federal payments of $80 to each adult American too poor to pay any income taxes.

—An increase in revenue-sharing funds to state and local governments.

—A proposal for a $2-a-barrel tax on crude oil and higher excise taxes on oil, plus total decontrol of all domestic oil prices. The result would be an increase of about 10 cents a gallon for gasoline and home heat.

—A request for standby authority to ration gasoline if higher costs do not meet his objective of reducing oil imports by a million barrels a day this year and two million in 1976.

Ford did disclose a few new proposals in his broadcast State of the Union address at a joint session of Congress.

Ford said he wants to stockpile 1.3 billion barrels of crude oil in tanks and underground caverns over a period of years so the country could cope with any repetition of the 1973-74 Arab oil embargo.

The president also said for the first time that he wants to grant utilities a three-year investment tax credit of 12 per cent "to specifically speed the construction of power plants that do not use natural gas or oil." The present tax credit rate for utilities is four per cent.

One presidential proposal that might ultimately have a major impact on the average citizen was not mentioned in Ford's text but was spelled out in a White House-prepared fact sheet.

The fact sheet said Ford wants a new law to require labels on all new automobiles and appliances spelling out how much energy they use.

In addition, the fact sheet said he wants agreement within six months from major manufacturers to develop energy efficiency goals that would achieve an average 20 per cent improvement by 1980. These would cover air conditioners, refrigerators and other home appliances.

"If agreement cannot be reached," the document said, "the president will submit legislation to establish mandatory appliance efficiency standards." The objective for this program alone was fixed at saving half a million barrels of oil a day by 1985.

Calling for congressional action by April 1 to grant individuals 12-per-cent cash rebates on 1974 tax payments, with a maximum of $1,000 a return, Ford sketched a gloomy picture of current economic conditions.

He said:

"I must say to you that the state of the union is not good.

"Millions of Americans are out of work. Recession and inflation are eroding the money of millions more. Prices are too high and sales are too slow.

"This year's federal deficit will be about $30 billion; next year's probably $45 billion. The national debt will rise to over $500 billion.

"Our plant capacity and productivity are not increasing fast enough. We depend on others for essential energy."

"Cutting taxes, now, is essential if we are to turn the economy around," Ford added. "A tax cut offers the best hope of creating more jobs. Unfortunately, it will increase the size of the budget deficit. Therefore, it is more important than ever that we take steps to control the growth of federal expenditures."

Echoing what he said Monday, Ford promised to initiate no new spending programs this year except in the energy field.

"Further, he said, "I will not hesitate to veto any new spending programs adopted by the Congress."

Lebanese Raid Made By Israel

From AP-REUTER

Eight Israeli soldiers were injured in a raid on the Lebanese village of Kfar Shouba Tuesday night, the Israeli army headquarters said today.

The troops were on a search-and-destroy mission for Arab guerrillas when they heard women's screams and called to the women to leave their house, the army spokesman said. As they came out, two hand grenades were thrown at the women, wounding eight soldiers.

Several houses were demolished in the raid on the village in the "Fatahland" region, said by Israel to be under the military control of Palestinian guerrilla groups.

Cabbie Returns $1,000 Bill Given in Error

OTTAWA (CP) — Cab driver Louis Vachon came across a funny-looking $2 bill in his money last week, but it wasn't counterfeit.

When Mr. Vachon examined it more closely, it turned out to be a $1,000 bill.

Thinking back, Mr. Vachon placed it as the $2 bill he had been given on a $1.50 trip by a man who told him to "keep the change."

Mr. Vachon called his dispatcher and was told a very worried man had already reported the mistake.

The cab driver delivered the bill to its owner and was given a $50 reward for his honesty.

BATAWA — Jim Clarkson is 21 years old. He told newsmen Monday at Batawa, "I wanted to accompish something."

What Mr. Clarkson accomplished was walking across Canada in nine months.

A Victoria, B.C. grade 12 student, Mr. Clarkson said his only preparation for the epic walk was to contact seven Canadian shoe manufacturers in search of a sponsor.

"I figured by walking I would be a natural for a shoe company," he said. Bata was the only firm to reply to Mr. Clarkson's query.

Decked out with $450 in equipment and wearing a pair of Bata's North Star Joggers, Mr. Clarkson set out from Mile 0 on the Trans Canada Highway. The saga began April Fool's Day — a date Mr. Clarkson says he thought was "appropriate."

Rain was the worst part of the trip, said Mr. Clarkson. "It must have rained 28 days in April alone," he said.

Next to that, the most unpleasant part of the trip was walking through the prairies and finding himself the target of dive-bomber attacks from neighborhood birds protecting their nesting sites.

When he reached Sault Ste. Marie and realized he was going to make it.

"I couldn't quit in the first four weeks," he said. "That would have been too early."

"By the time I'd walked a couple of months I was getting used to it," he said.

With a virtually unlimited expense account, Mr. Clarkson pitched his tent at the side of the road every night and says the major expense of the trip was food. He spent only one night in a hotel room and that was at the request of Montreal Shoe Show organizers.

Mr. Clarkson is now on his way home to his parents and brothers. The trip is a first for Mr. Clarkson. Never before had he walked so far and never before had he flown in an airplane.

Before returning to Victoria, Mr. Clarkson will meet with Tom Bata, head of Bata Shoe and some advertising work is to be done in Toronto.

Mr. Clarkson spent Tuesday touring the Bata plant here and talking with school children about his 4,700-mile walk.

Mail Theft Problem For Banks

TORONTO (CP) — An official of the Bank of Nova Scotia says banks are looking for new ways to get credit cards and cheques to customers because of widespread mail theft.

Doug Lee, national supervisor of security, said fraud perpetuated against the bank in Ontario doubled in November and December over the two preceding months.

He said mail thefts, the biggest single cause of losses, costs Canadian banks millions of dollars a year.

He said most of the fraud involves credit cards which never reach their destination.

"The situation is so acute we just can't live with it any more," Mr. Lee said. "We are looking towards any other methods we can find to transport bank material, especially credit cards.'

He said private couriers are being considered.

Politician Faces Charge As Abortionist

ROME (Reuter) — A national outcry mounted in Italy Tuesday against the arrest of Radical Party Leader Gianfranco Spadacia on charges of running an illegal abortion clinic.

The arrest Monday of Spadaccia, 40-year-old national secretary of the small Radical party, posed an awkward dilemma for Italy's main political parties, which have always hesitated in dealing with the question of reforming Italian legislation, which outlaws abortion.

40 Million Eggs Placed in Storage

OTTAWA (CP) — Reports of another whopping egg surplus that is growing by 15 million a week apparently prompted a meeting today of government and Canadian Egg Marketing Agency officials.

The meeting is believed to have been arranged after a published report that there is a 40-million-egg surplus and that if it continues to increase at current rates, millions of eggs will have to be destroyed this summer.

"It will be a disaster," the Toronto Globe and Mail quoted an industry spokesman as saying. "This year will be worse than last year."

In 1974, the producer-operated egg marketing agency was forced to destroy 28 million surplus eggs that went bad in storage.

The newspaper also said today that CEMA sent a confidential message to provincial egg marketing agencies, urging them to press Ottawa to ban further imports of United States eggs.

Imports apparently are forcing wholesale egg prices below cost. Prices to Ontario producers fell by seven cents to 57 cents a dozen for Grade A large eggs this week. Costs are estimated at 62 cents a dozen.

The reported surplus, however, should come as no surprise.

A special parliamentary inquiry into egg marketing was told about eight weeks ago that the 1975 surplus could be as high as 90 million eggs.

Smiths Falls Fire Kills Four

SMITHS FALLS, Ont. (CP) — An early morning fire Tuesday killed a young family of four near this community about 50 miles southwest of Ottawa.

Clayton Lloyd, 36, his wife Elizabeth, 34, and their sons Arthur, 13 and Allan, 12, died in the fire in the two-storey frame house they had occupied for almost six years.

Fire officials said it appeared Mr. Lloyd and his sons tried to ecape, but were overcome by smoke.

Mr. Lloyd's body was found near a bedroom window, Allan's body was found in his parent' room and Mrs. Lloyd's body was found in bed. Arthur had made his way to a rear door.

Only Carleton School Dispute Not Settled

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Tentative settlement was reached early today in a salary dispute between the Elgin separate school board and its teachers, leaving only one separate board still at odds with its teachers

Elgin teachers and board members were to hold separate ratification meetings today, while both sides in the Carleton dispute were to return to the bargaining table in Ottawa with George Waldrum, deputy minister of education, expected to assist in the talks.

More Aid For Health Foreseen

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government may soon be contributing more money toward the cost of the country's health services, Health Minister Marc Lalonde said Tuesday.

He told reporters at the federal-provincial health minister's conference that a committee will be set up to study cost-sharing legislation to see if the federal government can—under present laws—help pay for alternative provincial health services.

However, he would not discuss federal financing of alternative services to intensive hospital care—which might include nursing homes, home care and ambulatory services—unless the provinces show funds would be spent more efficiently.

Most provincial governments have complained about being locked in a rigid financing system which prevents more efficient use of funds.

Estimates are that the provinces will spend $1.5 billion this year on health programs for which no federal cost-sharing is available.

Mr. Lalonde said the possible extension of federal financing would not include dental care or drug care programs operated or proposed by some provinces. These areas would require separate legislation, he haid.

Agreement On Gas Tax Expected

OTTAWA (CP) — Premier Dave Barrett of British Columbia said Tuesday he feels the province is close to agreement with the federal government on a dispute over taxation of natural gas producers.

Emerging from a two-hour meeting with federal ministers, he said both sides made new proposals and want time to reconsider their positions.

Although neither he nor federal Energy Minister Donald Macdonald would release details of the proposals, the premier said he felt agreement will be reached soon.

Food Pushes Living Costs Index Up One Per Cent

OTTAWA (CP) — Food continued to be the main reason for increases in the cost of living as price rises accelerated through 1974 at the fastest rate in 26 years to a 12.4-per-cent December-to-December rate, Statistics Canada reported today.

The December report on the consumer price index showed food accounted for about two-fifths of the one-per-cent-gain in the over-all index in that month.

Prices rose less rapidly earlier in the year with the result that the average price index increase from January to December was 10.9 per cent. This rate is computed by comparing the average of 12 monthly index figures from year to year.

The rate last year was worse than the 10.5-per-cent increase in 1951, in the middle of the Korean War.

The last time there was a worse year for prices was 1948, when post - Second World War price controls were being taken off and prices allowed to rise.

The over-all index was 175.8 in December and this was 12.4 per cent higher than the 156.4, the index level for December, 1973.

Stated another way, the mix of consumer items that could be bought* for $100 in 1961 cost $175.80 last month and $156.40 in December 1973. The figure for November was $174.10.

The consumer price index is based on a 1967 survey of family spending patterns and weights of major component indexes are: Food, 25 per cent; housing, 31 per cent; clothing, 11 per cent; transportation, 15 per cent; and other items, 18 per cent.

The main contributors to the increase in the index in December were higher food and housing costs, accounting for about two-thirds of the increase in the index last month.

Sugar and beef prices accounted for a major share of the gain in average food prices.

Sugar prices were up 25 per cent from a month earlier, affecting prices of a variety of products.

Trenton Questions Hike In Conservation Levy

FRANKFORD — A 100-percent jump in levies and specific policies of the Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority rose as the main concerns of councillors from six municipalties here Tuesday.

Councillors, invited to get their first look at the authority's $335,350 proposed budget for 1975, did not contest the higher levies strongly.

Authority official called the meeting the first of three, to explain to members the reasons behind a 47.7-per-cent increase in the 1975 budget over 1974. The authority will spend $108,650 more this year than in 1974.

Facing the biggest levy and voicing the strongest objections to the increase were Trenton councillors. All 17 municipalities face a similar increase.

Trenton faces a $15,662 levy, up from $7,813 in 1974. In addition to the general, authority-support levy, Trenton must also hand over $40,950 its share of costs incurred for the Town's green belt project and maping of the Mayhew Cr. flood plain.

The town's total levy for 1975 is $56,612, 17 per cent of the authority's budget.

A total of $117,600 has been set aside for development of the green belt in Trenton. The province will pay 70 per cent of the cost while the town picks up the remaining $35,280.

In explaining the budget and levy increases, chairman William Carter said the authority has entered a development phase after the six years of property acquisition

"People are now asking what are we going to do with the land and how are we going to develop it," he said.

In response to a question from Sidney Township reeve Gordon Wilman, Mr. Carter said it is "unfortunate" the development phase coincides with a period of inflation.

It was a coincidence, he said. Necessary planning for development wasn't done previously, thus forcing the authority in a catch-up situation.

Part of this year's work will include the placing of identifying signs at the authority's conservation areas.

Murray Township councillor William Ellis said not only did he not know where conservation areas are located in the watershed, but also he did not know how to reach them.

Several councillors complained not enough full authority meetings are held to keep them abreast of authority affairs.

Each of the 17 councils appoints representatives to the authority.

Cost — at $20 per diem and 15-cents a mile prohibited more meetings, said Mr. Carter.

Petition Still in Limbo

PICTON — About 65 employees of Prince Edward Heights have petitioned Rene Brunelle minister of community and social services for reinstatement of a senior staff member but Mr. Brunelle's office apparently has not received the petition.

An office spokesman said Tuesday afternoon she had not seen it and did not know anything about it.

The petiton, requesting reinstatement of Daniel McDade fired as director of the Activities Unit on January 3, was mailed last weekend according to one Prince Edward Heights counsellor who said he had signed it.

Administrator of Prince Edward Heights Robert McKenzie said Mr. McDade was fired following a lengthy hearing for "insubordination and mismanagement."

He stressed employees at the Heights cannot be fired "glibly" and Mr. McDade's dismissal followed much consideration.

Artist Finds Brisk Demand For Historical Sketches

By CHRIS ALMEY
Staff Correspondent

STIRLING — The number of people seeking to preserve a piece of their lives ... the country church, and more-so, the country homestead ... is growing steadily.

Many have already turned to artist Jerry Stapley to capture these buildings with pen and ink before they are worn by time, sold or closed.

Numerous people still live in their heritage farm homes, and want sketches to give to their grown-up offspring. One lady ordered four, and many take two or three. Last year he produced 160 drawings for this type of nostalgia.

Mr. Stapley started to draw as a hobby in the fall of 1968. His first commission was by the City of Belleville in 1970 for three sketches — Hastings County Court House, part of the old hospital, and St. Michael's Church.

Mr. Stapley's ability has spread by word of mouth. Now 25, last year was his best year. In 1973 he was part of a group that got an Opportunities for Youth grant. He produced 28 drawings in all, and they have been shown around Hastings County by the museum officials at Glanmore House.

Six of these views of historical Hastings County buildings have been reproduced on notepaper.

"It was doing these sketches that really got the ball rolling," Mr. Stapley said in an interview. "The demand for these historical buildings in pen and ink was so great that I really decided to get both feet in."

Last year he had four shows — Toronto, Ottawa, the Four Season Hotel, and Tweed Library. On Thursday he will be a guest on CJBQ. Next week, January 23, 24, and 25, Mr. Stapley will have a one-man show at the Quinte Mall. He is preparing for a show at the Corby Library this coming June.

Preserving History

Jerry Stapley, of RR 4 Stirling, works on a sketch of an old building at Wooler for a one-man show of his work at the Quinte Mall January 23, 24, and 25. Many families are preserving their old homesteads utilizing his talents. He is one of few artists in Quinte area earning a living at art full-time. Mr. Stapley produces most of his work in this rocking chair.

Head-to-head Talk

Trenton Mayor Robert Patrick (left) and William Carter, Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority Chairman, are deep in conversation in Frankford Tuesday over the authority's 100-per-cent increase in its general levy to Trenton. The town will pay $15,662 this year, a $7,849 increase over its levy in 1974. The authority's total budget for 1975 is $336,350, up by 47.7 over 1974.

Picton Pool Project Under Way This Month

PICTON — A county-wide canvass for a community swimming pool will be kicked off this month at a campaign meeting at the Picton Legion Hall.

Ed Rae, a member of the pool steering committee says a great deal of financial support has been promised for the pool but more money is needed if it is to be constructed. Help from small organizations as well as larger service groups is being sought. Representatives from all community organizations, however small, are invited to attend the kick-off rally on January 19.

To further promote the project "Pool Week" will be held in Prince Edward County from Feb. 27 to 23 with emphasis on fund raising during this period.

Mr. Rae observed there have been a number of inquiries to the committee concerning location of the pool.

He explained the fairgrounds was selected after several other sites were considered. Benson Park was rejected as the property was donated to the town for use as a park only. The former Mary St. school site lacks the stability needed for a pool since it has been filled in and the Queen Elizabeth school site is too small.

It was decided the pool should not be constructed on school board property since this would create ineligibilities for certain grants and complicate divsion of costs in future.

A trust fund has been established for the pool. Donations now ar being made but funds from the former Quinte's Isle Swimming Pool project have not yet being handed over. Before this is done donors to this earlier fund will be consulted for approval.

Donations to the pool project to date include $2,000 from students of Prince Edward Collegiate Institute and the Picton Rotary Club and $3,500 from the Kinsmen Club. The Order of Alhambra has contributed $100.

Back In Session

Hastings County Warden, Jack MacKenzie, who was re-elected as Reeve of Faraday Township, presided over the inaugural meeting of his new 1975-76 council Monday. Members of the new council are deputy Reeve Morris Irwin, and councillors Cassie Sarginson, Harold Elliott and Ruth Fenwick.

Authority Gets Pond

PICTON — A provincial grant of $12,000 for the purchase of Milford Mill Pond has been approved says James Taylor, MLA Prince Edward-Lennox.

The grant will be made to the Prince Edward Region Conservation Authority for development of the site as a conservation area.

The Milford Mill Pond Conservation Area will include the old mill pond, the grist mill and its water right, approximately seven acres of land and the dam.

Plans for the development of the site include acquisition of acreage on Black Creek about eight miles south of Picton. The mill pond will represent the focal point of the area where a beach and picnic grounds will be located.

Below the dam is a steep scenic tree - covered escarpment. Viewing areas and nature trails will be developed.

Each To His Own

Differences of opinion, professionally based or otherwise, help make the world go round.

It's an observation though that must be qualified, in that such differences can make for confusion unless they lead ultimately to some kind of consensus. Economics is an example, although we may despair of any two professionals in this field reaching agreement.

Psychiatry too is another of the practising arts which permits of some variance of opinion.

An example, from the discussion of what has been happening at the Maison Notre Dame de Laval detention home in Quebec. Tuesday's Montreal Gazette contained two further articles on the home. In one of them Dr. Bruno Cormier, chief psychiatrist at St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary, is quoted as saying: "Isolation is good for no one . . . They can go toward aggression or mental illness. Sooner or later they will crack up." In the other, Dr. Peter Scully, one of two psychiatrists who offered their services to the institution a year ago, said isolation can be useful "and even necessary when kids are out of control." But he added that they should always have a person — preferably close to them — during this period, and said windowless rooms were a "bad practice."

Thus there are these discrepancies; but one thing is certain, and that is the need at this and other such institutions for more trained personnel, and a much more humane attitude.

Quinte's Appeal

At a time when many of the rural cheese producers have been experiencing restricted business, if not extinction, the prospects for the Foxboro Cheese Factory Ltd., as outlined by staff reporter Cash Mahaffy the other day, are encouraging.

The plant's sale to the British-owned Cow and Gate (Canada) Ltd. will mean an increase in production to more than three times present output and at least 20 more jobs by mid-year.

Together with the larger industrial enterprises that increasingly have been finding a home in Belleville, it is good to know that established rural-based operations such as this one in Foxboro have an assured future, and are capable of expansion.

It is all part of the new appeal which the Quinte area generally is manifesting to commerce in Canada, as well as to individuals who find in the area elements of the good life and opportunities for artistic initiative. For this reason many are being encouraged to settle down here and this is what we like to see.

Scots Flavor

There was not a mention of Robbie Burns, whose memory is celebrated at this time of year in Burns Suppers throughout the land.

In every other way it was authentic Scots, perhaps the most vivid and perceptive presentation yet for this season of travel and adventure series.

It was another of the Kiwanis-sponsored films at Centennial secondary school and if neither Stan nor Irene Paulauskas are native Scots it would be difficult to come upon a more absorbing and close-to-the-native-heath impression of that legendary land.

Mountain mists, pipers, Highland Games, lads and lassies, historic and aristocratic and royal homes, the color and bustle of dignified Edinburgh and a fast-changing Glasgow where Gorbals slums are being replaced with modern high-rise, spinning by traditional methods and creation of famed Harris tweed in the western isles, over the sea to Skye, and golf at St. Andrews. This and much more. Those wonderful Scots faces — and the overall impression, that of a stable, civilized society.

The Paulaskas duo are outstanding film producers — Stan is from Cleveland and Irene, a Briton who grew up in Ontario —and their presentation was another bright effort in an always enjoyable series.

Liberal Resurgence In Ontario Is Confirmed By Political Poll

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau
Thomson News Service

TORONTO — The opinion poll that many of us have been waiting for has finally been taken.

And it has confirmed what most observers have believed has been happening.

According to it the Conservatives have been slipping in Ontario.

But it has confirmed it in spades.

For the extent of the drop is shocking.

As you probably have read, the results of the poll showed the Liberals with 41 per cent of the vote and the Davis PC's with only 33 per cent.

This result must have been stunning to the Conservative leadership.

It is the first time in 32 years, since they took power in 1943, that the PCs have ever run second in a poll.

A few times it was close.

In the 1963 election the John Wintermeyer Liberals at the start were only two points back, 41 per cent to 43 per cent as I recall it. And according to my memory in the 1951 election, when the Liberals were led by Walter Thomson and Leslie Frost was running his first campaign as PC leader, the two parties were also close.

But in each case the Liberals quickly dropped off and within a couple of weeks there was a gap of a dozen points between the two parties.

But aside from these two occasions there normally has been a gap of at least 10 points between the two and usually it has been 15 or 20.

This poll, of course, doesn't mean that the Liberals are home free for the election.

One factor is that in this poll a large 28 per cent of those surveyed were undecided.

Then there is no question that with a good many people Liberal Leader Bob Nixon still lacks credibility, and we don't know, when it comes to actual ballot-marking time, whether even if they have Liberal leanings, they will vote for him.

Again, even if they got 41 per cent of the vote the Liberals, under the percentages and Ontario voting patterns, would probably only be returned with minority government.

Then, finally, the PCs have the chance to come back, to rebuild. And though they have never had to try this from a runner-up position they have shown in the past that they can quickly build back.

There is, of course, some question about the worth of opinion polls.

Some people are inclined to dismiss them, particularly when they are against them.

However, personally, over the years I have found them a pretty useful tool.

And at least some politicians, and particularly perhaps the best politician we have had, Leslie Frost, have believed in them.

I know, for in two elections I had to get the findings to Frost as soon as we had them in the Thomson office.

He wanted them avidly.

Iran Is Dark Horse In Shifting Politics Of Middle East Scene

By BRUCE LEVETT

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States, traditionally the mediator of Middle East accord, is watching closely as Iran manoeuvres to widen her sphere of influence in that area.

Iran, a major arms customer and ally of the U.S., and a supporter of Israel insofar as she kept the oil flowing to that country throughout the Arab boycott, is siding with Egypt in her efforts for swift resumption of the Geneva peace talks on the Middle East.

Western observers believe that Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi of Iran has made his support conditional upon Egypt's endorsement of Iran's oil-price policies and of his ambition to make Iran a major power in the Mediterranean.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's support of Iranian ambitions is seen as a move to broaden the political and military support beyond that he has been receiving from Arab allies and the Soviet Union.

One of the points upon which the shah backs Sadat is the call for Israel to return all captured Egyptian territories, including the Sinai oil fields which supply Israel with nearly half its total consumpton of petroleum products.

The betting here—although there has been no word on this point from Iran—is that the Iranians would be ready to increase their oil shipments to Israel should she hand back the Sinai.

The new pressures from Iran are seen by Israel as still another blow to her security.

Israel, which had the support and sympathy of most Western nations before the October, 1973, Arab-Israeli conflict broke out, feels it has few political friends left in the wake of the subsequent Arab oil cut-off.

Twenty-nine countries in Africa alone severed diplomatic ties. Western Europe, led by Israel's former arms sponsor, France, has increasingly taken a pro-Arab stance.

Still more pressure is felt in Israel from U.S. President Gerald Ford's statement that the U.S. cannot guarantee Israel's security until there has been "some real progress" toward firm peace in the Middle East.

One such move, observers here feel, might be for Israel to hand back the captured lands, including the oil fields. There is even some speculation that the U.S.—possibly in line with Iran—might consider a guarantee that Israel would not go short of oil as a result of such a gesture.

The U.S., which mounted a re-supply operation to Israel during the most recent Middle East conflict, says Ford's pronouncement represents no change in policy.

The Israelis, however, aren't so sure. They know it will take years for the U.S. and Western Europe to begin feeling the results of efforts to make themselves independent of Middle East oil.

Until that time, Israeli observers feel, any support for Israel in her disputes with the Arabs will be predicated to some extent upon the oil-supply question.

In any event, the U.S. is unlikely to dispute Iran's motions toward power in the Middle East.

For one thing, Iran is too good a customer. The $6 billion Iran has spent in U.S. arsenals within the last two years helps soften the U.S. balance-of-payments problems.

Arab Money And Full Circle For Merging Of Ancient Civilizations In Changing World Of Seventies

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Suddenly the Western world is afraid of a new Arab invasion, this time the gates of the West being stormed not by scimitar-waving hordes, but by smooth-talking Arab businessmen and economists with many oil dollars in their hands.

A few years ago the image of the Arab world in the West was one of effete and cruel desert monarchs ruling feudal kingdoms, incapable of defeating the Israeli enemy whose modern and dynamic army and people would always win the next Arab-Israeli war.

All these impressions and fears are absolute nonsense, raised up I'm afraid by many of my confreres in the press who knew and know little about Islamic civilization.

First, if we are worried about the Arab money men at the gates, it's too late, they are already inside them, making deals to buy majority interests in such prestigious outfits as Krupp steel, Mercedes Benz, Lockheed aircraft and goodness knows who else

As for the ever-conquering Israelis, what they had in the so-called Yom Kippur war was more self-confidence than an accurate reading of their Arab enemies, who almost defeated them in that war. In the case of the Egyptians, they initially outsmarted Israeli desert tactics in the Sinai.

What we have all forgotten if we ever knew it, thanks to our atrociously-biased school system, is that Islam and the West are continuing a relationship in which Islamic culture was superior for long periods of the so-called Christian era.

When Christian kings and princes lived in semi-squalor in their barren castles, literate only because of what the church had saved about learning from the rubble of the barbarian invasions, Islam was in the full flower of cultural growth.

Islamic Spain which lasted for seven centuries, from the so-called Dark Ages to the fringe of the Age of Discovery, was the seat of refined cultures which blended Moslem, Christian and Jewish thought.

The roots of Christian mysticism are clearly Arabic. Thomas 'a Aquinas admitted to influences from Arab thought. Many medieval Christian kings in Spain spoke Arabic, some even married their daughters into Islamic royal families.

Posterity will never know if Emperor Frederick II, the red-headed dynamo on the battlefield and in scholarship ended his years a converted Moslem. He was no less than the Holy Roman Emperor, anointed by the Pope as the first monarch of medieval Christendom.

All this is a long time ago. The modern Arab intellectual is more likely to be enamoured of economics, business management or civil and petroleum engineering. But he also is a 20th century inheritor of this magnificent heritage which easily and willingly mixed Christian and Jewish thought with Islamic.

Some historians see Islam as the bridge between Rome and ourselves, which harbored Christian exile scholars in Baghdad where they redefined the values of science, matematics and ethics.

Our English word algebra, an essential and basic part of mathematics, originates with the Arabic word "al-jibr" for cipher or figure. Maths and science are again the urgent need of modern-day Arab nations. Their young come to our inuniversities to study them as well as attend their own.

The historic wheel of our associated civilizations is coming full circle again.

The Diaries Of Mackenzie King And An Ottawa Christmas Legend

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA. - So former Prime Minister Mackenzie King, betrayed by his own hand in his diaries, turns out to be more of a psychological eccentric than anyone dreamed -- or, if they suspected at the time, dared say.

Which might raise the question as to whether any of his cabinet colleagues - three still survive, Paul Martin, new High Commissioner to Britain; Douglas Abbot, now in retirement from the Supreme Court; and Lionel Chevrier, practising law in Montreal - had any clues.

In retrospect, knowing now how it was, there had to be some.

For if an obscure newspaper reporter had reason once to wonder about Mr. King and his odd and fussy ways, what far better insight must those close to him have had.

To break what has been almost a standing rule of reportage, and speak personally, I was the obscure newsman who was given a faint clue and hadn't the wit to more than idly wonder about it.

The deeply beloved dog Pat had died, and I had done an extended story about it, touching on Mr. King's unusual attachment to the terrier he then treated - as since, it has turned out, regarded - almost as human.

With the story, THE OTTAWA JOURNAL ran a three-column picture of the Prime Minister in a donegal tweed plus-fours suit and matching cap, fondling Pat in the sunshine of a Spring morning on the porch of his home at Laurier House.

The Prime Minister, busy with the war, took a moment out to send a message that it was, as he phrased it, "a beautiful story," and then followed it up with confirmation in a note scribbled in his own cramped hand.

So far, nothing extraordinary, but perhaps just a shade unusual.

The extraordinary happened Christmas morning of that year when the phone rang in a small apartment just down Laurier Avenue a block or two from Laurier House, and the Prime Minister was on the line.

Would we join him that afternoon in a cup of cheer?

We did, of course, and there he was, standing among not more than six people - all of them strangers to us and none his colleagues - in a velvet smoking jacket, baggy grey flannel trousers and wine red carpet slippers, sipping, as we all were, from tiny glasses of sherry.

His welcome was warm and friendly, you might even say neighborly.

And as he shuffled in his slippers around the big, neat-and-tidy-as-a-pin living room, cozy in the glow of logs blazing in the fireplace, he spoke of it as a time to chat with "dear friends."

We, then a young couple, comparatively new to the city, and until the story about the dog Pat, distant strangers, now, suddenly "dear friends?"

At afternoon's close, he saw us to the door and spoke again of his pleasure in "these friendships."

It seemed, even then, a bit odd, and we wondered how it had happened that we should share Christmas afternoon hospitality in a quiet and small gathering with the usually shy and withdrawn Prime Minister

Now, in the light of his diaries, and the stunning, almost unbelievable relationship between Mackenzie King and the dog Pat, it still seems odd — but understandable.

It was Pat's doing, that Christmas invitation to Laurier House, and the baffling - and passing - intimacy of "dear friendships" with the Prime Minister.

Never was it to happen again. Over the years until his lonely death, unattended except by his man, Handy, at his pine-scented retreat at Kingsmere in the Gatineau Hills, there were continuing - but distant - relations, strictly business, between the Prime Minister and the reporter.

They were punctilious, very correct. On the newsman's side, courteous — remote, chill, and occasionally hostile, on the Prime Minister's part.

And never again a hint of that "dear friendship" before the blazing fireplace in the warm intimacy of the Laurier House living room that Christmas afternoon of long ago.

Chrysler Drops Price Of Cars

Brantford Expositor

Chrysler Corporation's decision, in what is manifestly an emergency if not a crisis, to slash its U.S. car and truck prices by up to $400, dramatizes the downhill skid of the U.S. economy as nothing else, not even the near-galloping unemployment total, has done in the last three months.

A land of plenty is now caught with an overabundance of many things the consumer cannot or will not buy. In a still largely comfortable, even affluent, society, caution counsels saving rather than spending, except for necessities; and to almost everyone who has a car, a new one is something that can wait.

The Chrysler discount sale is the first in the auto industry's history in which the maker, not the dealer, is shouldering the whole cost of the rebate. With 320,000 unsold cars, a four-month supply, Chrysler is resorting to desperate measures, and it would be no surprise if other auto makers follow its example.

Between them, the Big Three have on their hands a stock of vehicles representing hundreds of millions of tied-up dollars. Among 213 million Americans there must be many able to seize the opportunity to buy cheaper How many, Chrysler will soon find out.

The Dialogue Of Democracy Today

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

At best city council meetings can hardly be described as entertaining. Maybe we could consider a few changes.

As council's real decision-making is done in caucus that is the session that should be referred to as the council meeting. The public part of the formalities might be more aptly called the Performance.

The Performance could then be divided into Acts to allow the players to act out their roles free of inhibitions. The number of Acts would be related to the amount of dialogue to be digested.

The first Act would have to include such things as the general public in their roles as Deputations and Delegations. The opening prayer calling for "frankness without offence" might have to be reconsidered as it is difficult to see how you can be frank without offending someone.

The second Act would of course have to be looked at. Perhaps an all-encompassing title such as the "Committee of Etcetera and So on and So Forth" could replace the present Committee of the Whole.

A hard look at dialogue would have to be part of the undertaking as much of the meeting is taken up with verbal exchanges.

For instance, alderman who take the chair for consideration of certain bylaws and recommendations, might conclude his performance with "I beg to rise and report the consideration of many things we know very little about and may we now break for a smoke?"

Under the Committee of Etcetera and So on and So Forth, aldermen with limited vocabularies might be persuaded to enlarge on exactly what "So on and So Forth and Etcetera" are, as they are so frequently referred to at all meetings but never actually discussed. By way of a change, in 1975 why not "So on and So Fifth?" It's just as informative

The real classic is "council in its wisdom". This gem is always trotted out when the speaker really wants to say "council in its lack of wisdom". In this, the year of declared "frankness" why not say what they think? What a refreshing change.

When debate reaches the point that nobody knows what he or she is talking about they ask to "table it". They really mean "forget it".

The alderman who says "it is my understanding" is actually saying that he hasn't the faintest idea of what it is all about.

In moments of tension aldermen "rise on a point of privilege". Another member of council has probably pointed out to him that he is a fool. This particular gambit should be "Step outside and take off your glasses". That way everybody knows where they stand.

An effective closing should always be striven for. After all, real actors always want a live audience to play before. How about full council, under the baton of the City Manager giving a rousing chorus of Auld Lang Syne?

The foregoing may not make for a more enlightened council but it sure as hell would make things more interesting.

Ann Landers

Father Chews Out Children

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like to share my solution with those who have problems at the table.

My husband had a habit of chewing out the children every time we sat down to eat. Breakfasts at our house were a horror. They day got off to a miserable start—everybody mad, the children often in tears.

I decided to eliminate the problem by fixing two breakfasts. I insisted that my husband get up a little earlier. I make him bacon and eggs or pancakes, whatever he wants, and scoot him out of the house before the kids get downstairs. It means making two breakfasts but it's worth it

For dinner I put the kids in another part of the house, usually on the sun-porch or in the kitchen. My husband and I have a peaceful dinner in the dining room. Give this solution your endorsement, Ann, and put an end to fights at mealtime.—Solved

Sear S.: Sorry, but I don't think much of the idea. You didn't solve the problem, you merely removed the children from the battle zone.

Parents and children should eat together and enjoy mealtime I suggest joint family counseling to determine what is wrong in your house. Peace is more than the absence of war.

Dear Ann Landers: After a 15 month engagement, the wedding ring already purchased, families on both sides notified and parties given in honor of our wedding which was scheduled for next month, my gentleman friend tells me that the nuptials must be called off because he cannot rid himself of the haunting memories of his wife who passed away two years ago.

We are in our early 60s and in good health. He wants to continue our relationship without "losing his independence by making it legal."

Should I be patient and hope he will change his mind and marry me? Or should I get over the hurt as best I can and strike out on my own while I'm still reasonably attractive: What do you think really happened, Ann?—Wondering

Dear Wondering: It sounds to me as if the sample was ample. Give that gentleman friend a nice Methodist handshake and forget you ever knew him.

Dear Ann Landers Because I am among the high percentage of wives whose husbands are fooling around I'm addressing this letter to the men who read your column.

Do you husbands realize how you are insulting the women you married? Most of us wives stand around waiting for some sign of affection. Perhaps if you'd give us half the time and attention you give someone else, we might turn out to be pretty interesting bed partners.

If a man ignores his wife and gets his emotional release elsewhere, what does he expect his wife to do? Find a lover? Most husbands would be very surprised if they discovered that that's exactly what the old girl has decided to do

You fellows with the "tired backs" and "hard days at the office" better wake up and smell the coffee, as Annie says. Man can't live by bread alone. And neither can woman —Better Fed And Not So Lonely

Dear Better: There's a message in your letter. I'm printing it for whatever it's worth, and in some instances it could be worth plenty.

Sesame Street in Paris

NEW YORK (AP) — Many of the charcaters who live on Sesame Street also are alive and well and live in Paris. The Popular children's TV show is being shown in a new French-language version on French national television as Bonjour Sesame. The new version is devoid of "street" scenes—no Gordon, Susan or Big Bird, for example—and there are no sequences that depend on English-language or American-cultural nuances. The French-language version is made up of about 65 per cent puppet sketches, 25 per cent animated cartoons and 10 per cent live action sequences.

Fruit and Meat Tasty Combination for the Adventurous

Fruit adds a subtle flavour to meat and vegetable dishes, one that's often missed by the unadventurous. Try a few of these combinations to add extra interest to meal time.

Apple Shrimp Curry

½ cup margarine
one-third cup flour
2 tsps. curry powder
¼ tsp. allspice
1 tsp. salt
¼ cup minced scallions
1 can (1 lb.) applesauce
2 cups milk
¼ cup lemon juice
four cups cooked or canned shrimp, deveined

Melt butter, blend in flour, curry powder, allspice and salt. Stir in scallion. Cook and stir until mixture begins to bubble. Stir in apple sauce. Add milk slowly. Continue to cook and stir until thickened. Sprinkle lemon juice on shrimp; add to sauce. Heat to serving temperature. Serve with fluffy rice and curry accompaniments such as peanuts, flaked coconut and chutney. Serves eight.

Red Cabbage

½ pound bacon
one medium head red cabbage (2 quarts shredded) one can grapefruit sections
one tbsp. sugar
½ tsp. salt
one tbsp. vinegar

Fry bacon in skillet until crisp. Remove and drain on absorbent paper. Drain off all but two tablespoons bacon drippings from skillet. Add cabbage and syrup drained from grapefruit sections. Sprinkle with salt, sugar and vinegar. Cover tightly and cook over medium heat 10 to 15 minutes. Top with grapefruit sections; cover and simmer five minutes longer. Sprinkle with crumbled bacon Serves six.

Glazed Apple Rings

four medium red apples three tbsps. unsulphured molasses
three tbsps. margarine

Wash and core apples, but do not peel. Cut apples into approximately ½-inch slices.

Heat molasses and butter in a skillet; add apple slices. Turn to cover with molasses-butter mixture Saute 10 minutes or until tender, turning and beating constantly Use as garnish with baked ham for something different. Serves six.

Sweet and Sour Pork With Bananas

two tbsp. salad oil
1½ pounds pork shoulder, cut into ½-inch cubes
one can pineapple tidbits in syrup ½ cup white vinegar
one tbsp. catsup
½ tsp. Worcestershire sauce
¼ cup packed brown sugar
½ tsp. salt
½ cup sliced celery
2 scallions, sliced
one green pepper, cut in strips one tbsp. cornstarch
¼ cup water
two bananas, sliced

Heat oil in large skillet; add pork and brown lightly.

Drain syrup from pineapple into measuring cup and add enough water to make 1 cup. Reserve pineapple.

Add syrup and water to skillet with vinegar, catsup, Worcestershire, brown sugar and salt. Cover and simmer 45 minutes until pork is tender. And celery, scallion and pepper; cook 10 minutes.

Dissolve cornstarch in water; stir into pork mixture and simmer two or three minutes, until slightly thickened.

Peel bananas, cut into slices, and add to pork with drained pineapple.

Curried Turkey Over Broiled Bananas

two tbsp. butter or margarine
½ cup chopped onion
one cup chopped celery
three tbsps flour
¾ tsp. salt
one tsp. curry powder
one chicken bouillon cube
1½ cups milk
two cups cut-up cooked turkey
½ cup sliced pittied ripe olives

In a medium saucepan, melt butter Add onion and celery and cook until tender. Blend in flour, salt, curry powder and crushed bouillon cube. Cook 1 or 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Gradually stir in milk and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and come to a boil. Simmer 2 or 3 minutes. Add turkey and olives; heat. Serve over broiled bananas. Serves four.

Broiled Bananas: Cut four bananas in half lengthwise. Place on a buttered baking sheet. Brush with melted butter and broil for three to five minutes.

Pork Chops With Fresh Orange Slices

six loin pork chops
one tsp. ground ginger
½ teaspoon powdered mustard
one tsp. salt
one tbsp. brown sugar
two tbsps. soy sauce three medium oranges, unpeeled
Confectioners' sugar

Trim excess fat from pork and place fat in a 10-inch skillet to melt slowly. Mix ginger, mustard, salt, brown sugar and soy sauce. Rub into the chops Brown on both side in hot fat. Reduce heat, cover and cook slowly 30 minutes or until chops are tender. Remove chops to serving dish. Wash oranges and cut into crosswise slices ¼ inch thick. Dust them heavily with confectioners' sugar. Brown on both sides in the pork chop pan. Arrange slices on plater around pork chops. Serves six.

Mandarin — Style Roast Pork

five pound pork roast
Garlic and onion salts
two tbsp. butter
¾ cup chopped onion
one cup red plum preserves
two cups Ginger Ale
two tbsps. lemon juice
one-third cup chili sauce
¼ cup soy sauce
2 tbsps. prepared mustard
three drops Tabasco

Sprinkle roast generously with garlic and onion salts. Place fat side up in roasting pan. Roast at 325 F., two hours. Meanwhile. melt butter in saucepan. Add onion and cook until tender. Add remaining ingredients; simmer for 15 minutes. Pour fat off partially roasted pork. Pour about one-half the sauce over meat; continue roasting and basting until done; about 35-45 minutes per pound total roasting time. Serve extra sauce on side. Serves four.

Beef Berry Casserole

½ cup butter or margarine
one large onion, chopped
one can Ocean Spray whole berry cranberry sauce
Juice of one lemon
1½ cups converted raw white rice
two apples, peeled. cored and chopped
one large can tomato juice
1½ pounds ground chuck
1 tsp. salt
two eggs
two tbsps. oil.

In a skillet, beat butter and saute onion until golden. Stir in cranberry sauce, lemon juice, rice and apples. Pour mixture into a three-quart shallow casserole. Stir in tomato juice, heated to boiling Mix ground chuck, salt and eggs in a bowl and shape the mixture into small balls, one inch in diameter. In the same skillet heat oil and brown meatballs on all sides. Drain excess fat and place meatballs into casserole pushing them down into the tomato juice. Cover tightly and bake in a preheated moderate oven (350F) for 1 hour or until rice is tender. Uncover and cook for 15 minutes to allow rice to absorb all liquid. Serves six.

Synagogue Will Go to the People

TORONTO (RP) — Henriette Chesnie, first woman elected to the presidency of Holy Blossom Temple, plans a more outgoing role for the 125-year-old reform synagogue.

A 51-year-old former physiotherapist who was elected by acclamation to head the 5,000-member institution, she proposes to take the message of Judaism to Jews all over Toronto.

"The real question is the survival of Judaism," said Mrs. Chesnie. "If people can't come us, we will bring them back going to them."

The approach is fairly radical. Traditionally, the synagogue is the centre of the Jewish community, a tradition dating back to an era when the temple was within walking distance of the homes of its members.

Mrs. Chesnie has started lunchtime religious classes downtown for lawyers and in hospitals for doctors. She also wants to make the synagogue more responsive to the "need for personal contact" by setting up small social and educational groups.

Married to Dr. Joshua Chesnie and with two grown children, Mrs. Chesnie is a member of the board of Jewish education, an executive of the Canadian Jewish Congress, a board member of Mount Sinai Hospital and on an allocation of the United Community Fund.

TOYS FOSTER BOREDOM

OTTAWA (CP) — Poorly chosen toys can foster boredom, frustration and even destructiveness in children, says the Consumers Association of Canada. It urges parents to buy toys that suit their children's particular interests and play level.

Hydro 'Babysitter' Knows His Business

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP) — Babysitting is apparently all part of a days work for one Brantford Township Hydro employee.

The employee, whose name has not been disclosed, was sent to cut off hydro service to a delinquent customer. He found himself babysitting while the customer went to a bank to obtain funds to pay the bill.

Henry Wilmot, the customer, said Wednesday he had neglected to pay the hydro bill even though his wife had given him a cheque for the payment.

Tuesday, he was changing the diaper on his 16-month-old daughter when the power went off in the house. Mr. Wilmot said he looked out the window and saw the township hydro employee up a pole.

Mr. Wilmot said he would get the cash, but there was no one home to watch the children. The hydro man offered to babysit if Mr. Wilmot was not more than 10 minutes getting to the bank and back.

Mr. Wilmot said he was back in 10 minutes and the Hydro man told him he had put the baby in a crib.

Mr. Wilmot said the man left and reconnected the power. He checked the baby and found that, not only had she been diapered, dressed and put to bed, the hydro worker had also rinsed out the dirty diaper.

Dry Heat or Moist?

It is important to know this if you are to prepare certain cuts of beef properly. Dry heat methods are uncovered and include roasting, broiling, frying and barbecuing. Moist heat methods are pot roasting, braising, stewing, boiling and pressure cooking; these methods use a cover. Would you like to know more about each of them and for which cuts they are suitable? We'll be providing the information in our leaflets to come. This week, look for directions on "Roasting Beef," the second leaflet in a series on beef.

Mrs. Albany will be talking with shoppers January 17th at Stadium Mall Food City, 869 Barton St. E., Hamilton, Ont. from 1:30 p.m. to 5:p.m. Please feel free to come in and ask questions relating to shopping.

Mrs. Albany is available to speak to groups and welcomes your questions, problems and comments on food shopping. Write her at 300 The East Mall, Islington, Ontario M9B 6B8 or call (416) 259-6633.

Elderly Fear Nursing Homes

Dear Doris: In my rounds with Meals On Wheels I have found some elderly citizens who should have some sort of care, but who are afraid to go into nursing homes because of the terrible stories they have heard from friends!

There is one senile lady who obviously has a good deal of money, and is living in a lovely three-bredroom apartment which she can't possibly look after. It is a terriible jumble.

She smokes constantly, and can never even remember what day it is! We are always afraid she'll burn down the whole apartment building by leaving a lighted cigarette in the wrong place.

Yet no one seems to care. The response from Public Health is, "Well, she seems to be coping, so there's nothing we can do." Very Frustrating!

I really enjoyed your article in Canadian Welfare. I particularly like the idea of patients in nursing himes having a say in planning activities. After all, their years of wisdom and experience should count for something

Dot.

Dear Dot: There is a government committee on aging which is trying to think up ways of making life more cheerful for residents of our nursing homes. It does seem reasonable that patients should have something to say about things. After, all, they are all people with hearts, minds and a contribution to make — limited as it may seem to the nurses who care for them.

(Is it better to put up with misunderstandings, or to begin talking things over? Let Doris help you see the light. Send your letter in care of this newspaper.)

Insurance Underwriters

The Underwriting Room at Lloyd's, the London society of insurance underwriters and the international market for all types of insurance and reinsurance. On the right is the rostrum with the Lutine Bell. (CP Photo)

Underwriters Sell Service Cost of Which is Unknown

LONDON (CP) — In an era of worldwide inflation, many shipowners and airline operators are buying insurance at bargain rates.

Because of sharp competition in insurance markets underwriters are offering premiums at reduced rates even though they know the returns are likely to prove uneconomic.

The business is unique in that insurers may not know the full cost of the protection they provide for years after they receive the premium.

In the event of the total loss of a ship or aircraft, they can settle up the cost of the vessel or plane right away. But litigation over claims by passengers or their dependents may drag on for years.

Delays can also be lengthy in the case of non-essential repairs carried out at a constandably, owners prefer to keep them operating and have repairs carried out at a convenient time in the future, possibly two or three years later.

Moreover, inflation is putting up the cost of claims for compensation or repairs and underwriters are subject to severe fluctuations in currency rates between the time they receive their premiums and the date they pay out a claim.

However, profitable years in the past have encouraged existing insurers to broaden their coverage and have attracted others not previously interested in marine and aviation business, resulting in a premium price war.

The London insurance market, consisting of Lloyd's and other major British insurance companies, is generally considered the world centre in the field. Not only is a substantial volume of business placed directly in the market but London underwriters also write reinsurance for domestic insurers throughout the world.

Most insurers spread the risks they accept to protect themselves against excessive losses. Probably more than 50 per cent of airline insurance written in London is in the form of reinsurance.

In the marine market underwriters are faced with the situation where shipowners are replacing a number of small ships with a few large vessels. Therefore, not only has there been much less "spread" of risk but values have been much higher.

So far there has been no shortage of insurance capacity. However, whether that capacity will be available when it is needed depends to a great extent on profitability over the next few years.

If the market as a whole suffers losses, some of the newcomers to the business may withdraw and others may wish to reduce their acceptances or, at least, limit their expansion.

Today's keen competition among insurers is unlikely to have any lasting benefit for shipowners. Clearly, in the face of rising claims costs, premiums will have to be increased at some stage.

The traditional London market is in business for the long term and is operating now not so much for profit as to keep the business on the books for future years.

In the aviation market, the premium rates for wide-bodied jets are 33 to 50 per cent of what they were three years ago. While these aircraft have had good experience, almost certainly current rates will be shown to be too low.

Premium rates for other aircraft also have been reduced, although not to the same extent. In 1971 there was an abnormally low number of aircraft losses and, naturally, operators demanded lower premiums. But, due to the competition, premium rates have continued to drop even though losses in 1972 and 1973 rose to what could be regarded as the "normal" level.

Library Corner

AND THERE WAS LIGHT - Jacques Lusseyran.

It is a rare man who can maintain a love of life through the infinity of blindness, the terrors of war and in a Nazi concentration camp. Such a man is the author, Jacques Lusseyran, a French underground leader during the war, and now on the faculty of Western Reserve University in Cleveland. This is the story of his first twenty triumphant years of life. When only eight years old, the author lost his sight in an accident and finished school and college by means of Braille. With friends like the faithful Jean, he learned "the cure for blindness", "to immerse oneself again without delay in a life that is as real and difficult as the lives of others." With the advent of war came the opportunity to show his leadership and he joined the French underground movement. Finally caught by the Nazis, he was shipped to a concentration camp; he believes he survived the horrors of this camp due to the fact that he engaged himself in the lives of others by prayer, by sharing of warmth, or simply by no longer being greedy.

I'M DONE CRYING - Louanne Ferris.

This is the story of a black woman who spent most of her adult working years in a white uniform. Louanne had a lot going for her - courage, womanly warmth, and a strong desire to get ahead. But it took more than that to survive in the brutal world of the ghetto hospital. In "I'm Done Crying", you will meet the doctors, nurses, the pushers, the Maffia bosses, the hoods and the cops who make up the constantly shifting population of a big city hospital.

THE DREAM KING - Wilfrid Blunt.

Ludwig II of Bavaria, "a 'sensitive boy' was ill prepared for the throne that was thrust upon him at the age of eighteen. He immediately summoned to Munich, his idol, Richard Wagner, the composer. Their extraordinary relationship developed and without Ludwig's patronage, Wagner might never have been able to produce such epic compositions as 'Tristan, The Ring and Parsifal. Due to Wagner's insatiable greed, Wagner was exiled and King Ludwig withdrew more and more into a dream world. About this time he started to build his fantastic castles. The government was neglected and the privy purse depleted. Ludwig's ministers finally hatched a plot to certify him insane and he was imprisoned in his little castle of Berg with his warder Dr. Gudden. Two days later both bodies were found floating in the lake nearby. Accident, suicide, manslaughter?

TO TEACH, TO LOVE - Jesse Stuart.

The author's father could barely write his own name, but instilled in him a love of learning. In this book the great Kentucky novelist, poet and teacher writes about his boyhood, his school life in one-room school houses and later in college. A great teacher because he has taught for the sheer love of it, Jesse Stuart thinks of teaching as a mission, and only incidentally as a way to make a living.

THE LANTERN BEARER A LIFE OF R. L. STEVENSON - James P. Wood.

As a child, Robert Louis Stevenson was frail and often ill. Perhaps this is why as a man he insisted on living life to the full. An Edinburgh Scot, Stevenson became a lawyer, but he was too restless and curious to stay long with the law. He followed a donkey through the mountains of Southern France, crossed the United States in an imigrant train in 1879 and lived in California for a time. Stevenson was excitable and exciting, he could not be still. There were strange seas to sail and he sailed them finally to Samoa, where he became the island Chief Tusitala. You will live his exciting life with him in the pages of the "Lantern Bearer".

McKeough Returns To Key Cabinet Job

TORONTO (CP) — There were two key moves by Ontario Premier William Davis in his shuffle of six members of his cabinet Tuesday.

They involve the return of former energy minister Darcy McKeough to provincial treasurer and re-assignment of the man Mr. McKeough replaced, London MPP John White, to minister without portfolio.

At first glance, it seems a demotion for Mr. White, the gregarious 49-year-old economist who took over for Mr. McKeough after he quit his portfolio over a conflict-of-interest in 1972.

But both men are expected to play key roles as the Progressive Conservative party gears up for the next provincial election, expected this fall, but which might come as early as this spring.

Mr. White, who will not seek re-election and has been saying for the last six months that he wanted to be relieved of the treasurer's duties, is expected to take on the role of adviser-diplomat as the government prepares for the election.

And Mr. McKeough, the hard-nosed MPP for Chatham-Kent considered one of the Davis government's most able ministers, will be expected to shepherd the next provincial budget—on which Mr. Davis probably will base his election campaign.

The other changes, with the possible exception of MPP Dennis Timbrell's move to energy minister, were expected.

Former attorney-general Robert Welch went after and got the new ministry of culture and recreation because it will give him a higher political profile. He will oversee creation of the provincial lottery expected to be introduced this year.

John Clement, a criminal lawyer from Niagara Falls and former minister of consumer and commercial relations, was a logical successor to Mr. Welch as justice minister and attorney-general.

Sidney Handleman, the Carleton MPP, was relieved of his duties as housing minister after suffering a heart attack last year but was chafing for more work. He assumes Mr. Clement's old portfolio.

Mr. Davis said in an interview Tuesday that there would be more cabinet changes before a provincial election is called.

Still, they are unlikely to be major ones and the party will be relying heavily on the performances of Mr. McKeough and Mr. White as it gears up for the election.

Toronto Schools Face Sexism, Racism Problems

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto schools face problems of "sexism, racism, discrimination, disfranchisement of the poor, the immigrant and the handicapped," William Ross, new chairman of the Metropolitan Toronto school board, said Tuesday.

Sexism can be seen in school promotion practices, he said. Men stand a better chance of becoming principals.

Mr. Ross, in an interview after his inauguration, said tensions exist between people from different cultural backgrounds. "I can see that it is going to be ever-increasing and the schools have an important social obligation to deal with it."

The problems of educating children from poor families and students from ethnic backgrounds will soon confront schools throughout Metro Toronto, he said in his inaugural address.

The special problems of the poor in inner-city schools are spreading to suburban areas.

Rail Fares Rise Today

OTTAWA (CP) — Rail travellers will pay more beginning today but they have been promised a broad investigation of rail fare.

The Canadian transport commission rejected Tuesday a Consumers' Association of Canada (CAC) request to postpone rail fare increases for 120 days. The increase took effect at midnight Tuesday night.

The commission said the CAC failed to show there are special circumstances or irreparable damage to consumers.

But the commission granted another CAC application and announced an inquiry into rail passenger rates. Commissioner David Jones said this investigation should take no more than four or five months.

The consumers' group had asked for permission to appeal higher train fares. The appeal will be heard after a preliminary investigation into passenger train rates by the commission.

Nixon Critical, Lewis Approves

TORONTO (CP) — Premier William Davis shuffled six cabinet ministers Tuesday, drawing mixed reaction from opposition parties when he elevated Darcy McKeough to provincial treasurer from energy minister.

Liberal Leader Robert Nixon said the appointment is "inappropriate after the admitted conflict of interest."

NDP Leader Stephen Lewis said the premier called on his "strongest cabinet resource" in Mr. McKeough.

"I'm not one of those who thinks that Darcy McKeough's former resignation should keep him in a position of relative penance until after the next election," he said.

Vote a Tie

Scott To Head Separate School Board

Trenton trustee Austin Scott is the new chairman of the Hastings — Prince Edward Separate School Board.

He was elected by lot Tuesday night after a trustee vote declared a tie between him and former vice-chairman Paul Fleming.

The issue was settled by the drawing of lots, conducted by board superintendent and chief executive officer, E.J. Neville. Mr. Scott emerged the victor and acknowledged that he had not yet decided at the beginning of the board meeting whether or not to allow his name to stand in nomination.

Mr. Fleming declined to stand for election as vice-chairman and the only nominee, Angus Yorke of Read was acclaimed vice-chairman.

Mr. Scott said he sees three problems ahead — those of basics, integration and communication.

"In our case the basics are 4 Rs — reading writing, arithmetic and religion," said Mr. Scott.

Mr. Scott said he meant that the elementary school system should be changed to comply with the requirements of the secondary system and high schools should be changed to comply with university requirements.

Although parents think it now is more difficult to communicate with trustees than it was in the past, Mr. Scott said "we have had situations in which one parent has been able to swing a lot of weight

Mayor Robin Jeffrey, holding the banner with Jaycees Bob Johnson and Ann Muldoon, said she plans to donate blood to the clinic.

$103,000 Available

City Rushing to Meet Home Grant Deadline

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Belleville's minimum maintenance bylaw to enforce residential health and safety standards must be submitted to the province by March if the city is to reap $103,000 in housing improvement subsidies, says Mayor Robin Jeffrey.

The mayor made this comment during an interview today following the announcement Tuesday that Trenton had passed similar legislation.

The minimum maintenance legislation will give the city's building inspector broad authority in all aspects of real estate standards. In the Trenton document, a homeowner may be told to re-paint his or her residence or update the wiring, among other things. The document passed by Trenton and now being researched by Belleville will include aesthetics and safety in its scope, the mayor said.

A preliminary draft of a Belleville bylaw now is in the hands of the Quinte Planning Board's director Bert Kenny and work is proceeding.

Mayor Jeffrey said funds from the Ontario Home Renewal Program will only be received when the municipality submits bylaw "highlights" to the ministry. She said these highlights would come from bylaw sections dealing with "health and safety".

In the provincial program, Belleville homeowners with an annual family income not exceeding $12,500 may apply for home improvement grants. These grants come with forgiveable portions not to be repaid and with a reduced interest rate on the balance. The formula for re-payment is calculated on the size of subsidy requested and the family's ability to repay, according to provincial information pamphlets.

Mayor Jeffrey said the province's fiscal year ends March 31. "If we don't have our highlights submitted by that time, we won't be eligible for $103,000 in the current budget."

"We will have to wait until next year, if our presentation is delayed" said Mayor Jeffrey.

"Several communities throughout the province are working frantically for maintenance bylaws to be eligible for grants," she said.

While it is unlikely the province would end such a new program so soon, "Belleville might miss out completely," said Mayor Jeffrey.

As for a finally approved, complete bylaw, Mayor Jeffrey said one will be passed only when Belleville's official plan zoning bylaw has received local and provincial approval. "Only the maintenance highlights are needed by March," she said.

Phil Bennett, president of the Quinte District Real Estate Association said "a minimum maintenance bylaw will assist the realtor in doing his job".

"We've been asking homeowners to paint their buildings and cut the lawns for years . . . to help sell the home," he said.

"With a maintenance bylaw enforced, it will add a little sizzle to the steak in selling houses," said Mr. Bennett.

Teachers Honored

Dorothy Blakely, retired special education co-ordinator with the Hastings county board of education, pins a corsage on Nellie Anderson, a retired teacher who celebrated her 90th birthday this week. The two women were honored at a dinner of the Superannuated Women Teachers Association of Belleville.

Teachers Honor Founding Member

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

Dorothy Blakely, the teacher who pioneered special education in Belleville and who retired two years ago as education for the county board, was honored by fellow teachers Tuesday.

Made an honorary member of the Federation of Women Teachers' Association of Ontario, she was presented with her pin at a dinner meeting of Superannuated Women Teachers' Association of Belleville.

Mrs. Blakely returned to teaching in 1950 at King George School, when she instituted the first class for girls with learning problems.

Although retired, she is still teaching mornings at Hillcrest School. She fought to have a special education teacher in each school, a situation that now is a reality. She was instrumental in founding local branches of the Council for Exceptional Children and the Association for Children with Learning Disabilites. Active in teacher federation work, she was president of the local association, a provincial director and convener of the provincial committee on superannuation.

Mrs. Blakely was made an honorary member of the federation in recognition of her outstanding contribution to education. Three years ago she was honored by the county by being presented with the Sir Mackenzie Bowell award.

Another special guest at the dinner was Nellie Anderson, who celebrated her 90th birthday Monday. Miss Anderson retired from teaching 28 years ago, Mrs. Blakely presented her with a corsage in honor of the event.

Helen Calnan is president of the Belleville branch of the Superannuated Teachers' Association.

Repairs Considered

Marmora Wants New Arena

MARMORA — Closing of the village arena is an area of great concern, said Marmora Reeve Jack Reynolds in his inaugural address to council this week.

"In my opinion the closing of our arena last fall by the ministry of labor created a void for our young people and the curlers who depended on it for recreation.

An arena for Marmora is a definite necessity," he said. "If adequate repairs cannot be made to the existing structure to comply with ministry of labor regulations, my recommendation would be to investigate the possibility of a new arena. I would emphasize, though, that we must have the support of Marmora Township and Deloro. I don't think we could do it alone."

The reeve announced that a meeting had been arranged with the other two municipalities to discuss the arena question.

Reeve Reynolds said the village's sewage system installation program should be completed by the middle of 1975 and an Ontario Housing Corporation geared-to-income, senior citizen housing project decision should be forthcoming soon.

Meeks to Query Bernier On Moira Salmon Issue

By CASH MAHAFFY
Staff Reporter

When natural resources minister Leo Bernier arrives in Belleville to talk and listen to groups and individuals from eastern Ontario next month, he can be sure that salmon will be on the menu.

Mr. Bernier and eight cabinet colleagues will be in the city Feb. 17 and 18 to hear about the needs and wants of eastern Ontario residents.

Ald. Stu Meeks, chairman of the Moira River Conservation Authority's fish and wildlife committee, confirmed today he would raise the question of stocking the river with salmon or an alternative sport fish species at the February meeting.

Ald. Meeks, an outspoken advocate of a fish stocking program for the river, reacted strongly to a resources ministry announcement earlier this week that indicated a pullback on the ministry's salmon stocking program.

"If we can't have salmon, we want something else," said Ald. Meeks. "There is no reason to delay re-establishing sport fishing in the Bay of Quinte and the river."

The ministry is having second thoughts about its salmon program, according to eastern region information officer Wayne Mutton, who said:

Ontario natural resources ministry officials are worried public fishing fever could turn a short-term salmon stocking program in Lake Ontario into a long-term headache.

Kenneth H. Loftus, director of the sports fisheries branch, said the itch to have salmon runs like the ones that occurred last fall on the Credit and Humber rivers could spread through communities all along the Great Lakes.

The runs excited hundred of anglers but, along with past experience, showed there were several social and boilogical drawbacks to the program. In the past two years 640,000 coho and chinook salmon smolts have been planted in Lake Ontario, said Mr. Mutton.

"But we could be forced by public pressure into continuing to plant these salmon," he said. "This is the kind of thing that can snowball," Mr. Lofters said.

To prevent that, the ministry is reviewing the future of the coho and chinock program and will issue a statement soon.

In the Bay of Quinte and Moira there is a further complication: Project Quinte, a study of the effectiveness of phosphorous reduction on water quality in the Bay, wil continue until at least 1980.

Scientists based at the ministry's Glenora Fisheries Research Station have requested the ministry not to introduce any new elements into the Bay or its feeder streams, including the Moira, until the study is completed five years from now. This would include stocking any fish species.

"I question what authority a few biologists have to deprive the people of this area of good healthy recreation," said Ald. Meeks. "This boils down to a conflict between a few scientists in an ivory tower and all the people in the Quinte area, not to mention the tourists that could be attracted by a thriving sports fishery.

Rodgers In Court

MADOC — Andrew James Edward Rodgers, 21, of 40 Nelson St., Madoc, was remanded until Jan. 21 when he appeared in court here Tuesday, charged with the non-capital murder of his wife, Ruth.

He was returned to custody in the Napanee Regional Detention Centre. Mrs. Rodgers died Jan. 10 after being shot the previous night.

Ore Train Altered

Canadian National Railways has instituted a completely overland route between Marmoraton Mining Corp. and Bethlehem Steel in Lackawanna N.Y. — the result of raw material shortages there.

Ordinarily, Marmora ore would be shipped by rail to Picton, stored until the spring thaw and then sent to steel producers by barge. The new run will operate on alternate days with a trip load of 4,000 tons. Normal routes will take over in the spring.

Three Held For Thefts

City police have charged three Ohio women with the theft of between $4,000 and $5,000 of clothing after articles were reported taken Tuesday from two city stores.

The charges were laid after three fur hats and three suede suits worth a total of $315 were reported stolen from the Fifth Avenue store at the Quinte Mall.

Women's clothing worth $600 was also reported missing Tuesday from McNabb's House of Vogue, downtown.

The three women — Joanne Mills, 24, Patricia Thompson, 23, both of Columbus, Ohio, and Lucille Taylor, 25, of Cleveland, Ohio — were arrested by police around 5 p.m. Tuesday on Front St. near Victoria Ave. in a parked car.

A further investigation of the car revealed three bags of women's clothing in the trunk.

The women are awaiting a bail hearing and are charged with theft over $200.

Lahr Exchange Plan Termed 'Vital Program'

The Belleville-Lahr exchange program was termed "a vital educational project in the light of present world conditions" by a ministry of education official.

Ralph Froats, director of the Zone 9 region of the ministry in Kingston made the remark during the ministry reception for the exchange students Tuesday afternoon. Present were the eight Lahr students living in Belleville this year, parents and foster parents of exchange students, and members of the exchange committee.

"We are living in a revolutionary period — let's hope it is a quiet revolution," said Mr. Froats. "The best thng we can do is keep people talking."

He said the exchange program fosters that end, and for that reason is considered vital by the ministry.

Mayor Robin Jeffrey added to Mr. Froats' words when she said the goal of the exchange program is understanding and goodwill.

"The problems are small in proportion to the size of the concept," she said.

Province Honors Exchange Students

Eight German students from Lahr were guests of honor Tuesday at a reception at the Four Seasons Hotel sponsored by the Ontario ministry of education. This is the second year Belleville and Lahr have exchanged students, who live in the cities for a year at a time. Lahr students are, back row, left to right, Jorg Isele, Michael Streif, Jan Gaedcke, Richard Sottru, Beat Baumt and Klaus Fossier; front, Heidrum Keller and Birgit Wuelfroth.

Hong Kong Variety Of Flu Not Expected To Plague Belleville

By ROBIN CHASE
Off Sick with The Flu

The Belleville area is not likely to feel the effects of a form of the Hong Kong variety of influenza, currently prevalent in Toronto and southwestern Ontario, according to the Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit.

Dr. C. R. Lenk, medical officer of health, said in an interview Tuesday he has received no reports from area physicians which indicate anything out of the ordinary.

He explained they would not report to the health unit unless their usual number of cases reached unusual proportions

"We have no reason to suspect that this is any more than usual," commented Dr. Lenk. He said he did not think the 'flu' variety would hit here later this year, but admitted, "of course, no one can predict the future".

The health unit has its own influenza alarm system. It conducts weekly surveys for the provincial government on absenteeism due to 'flu in seven area schools and three major industries, said Dr. Lenk. If results rise above 10 per cent, samples are taken for virus studies, he continued.

"According to this, no major increase has been detected at all," he commented. "No particular epidemic . . . because it would immediately reflect in schools and industries where a great amount of people are together."

The 'flu' sweeping through the southwestern part of the province has been identified as a derivative of the Hong Kong influenza which arrived in Canada from the Far East in 1969.

Dr Lenk pointed out certain types of 'flu, such certain types of 'flu', such as the Hong Kong variety, do not die out after an initial appearance due to the development of mutations of the virus.

When one mutation sstrikes, the human body develops anti-bodies against it, some of which can be detected in the person for the rest of his life. However, this forces viruses to change to combat the human defences.

"Fortunately, with others diseases this is not so," remarked Dr. Lenk. "But 'flu is elusive."

He noted this development raises problems with 'flu vaccines. By the time a vaccine has been perfected for one mutation, another mutation has developed.

But in the case of 'flu varieties which originate in the Far East, health authorities in this country usually have time to perfect vaccines before they reach here, said Dr. Lenk. "Often we have time to develop a vaccine after reports from other countries," he stated.

Loyalist Solid Second

SLICES — Looks as if Loyalist College has itself quite a women's volleyball team this season.

With Cathie Keener calling the shots, the Loyalist squad has taken a firm hold on second place but has its work cut out for it attempting to overhaul front running Algonquin College of Ottawa.

Loyalist took a step in the right direction in a recent tournament at St. Lawrence College, Kingston.

To satisfy those with a craving for alliteration, I'll put it this way: Keener's Kittens kayoed Algonquin in the first of a three-game match, 15-10.

It was the first setback of the season for the polished Ottawa representative which rebounded to take the next two games, 15-8, 15-7.

In its other tests at Kingston, Loyalist swept three-game sets from St. Lawrence (15-5, 15-2, 15-9) and Durham of Oshawa (15-7, 15-13, 15-13).

To qualify for Ontario Colleges Athletic Association (OCAA) championship play, Loyalist must replace Algonquin at the top of the heap.

OCAA championship play will take place at Loyalist, February 21-22.

1976 will be a big year for baseball. The National League will mark its 100th anniversary while the American League and the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues (the minors) will celebrate their 75th anniversaries.

Some field observances of the 75th season will be held by American League clubs this year. But the big production is slated for '76.

Should be a very entertaining match on TV tonight when two of the top shooters in the National Hockey League attempt to add to their totals while Boston Bruins try to halt Montreal Canadiens' unbeaten streak at 20 games.

Bruins' Phil Esposito goes into tonight's contest with 42 goals as he pursues the elusive mark posted by former Montreal great Rocket Richard who scored 50 goals in 50 games back in the 1944-45 season.

Esposito has 41 games under his belt so far this campaign.

And how about Habs' winger Guy LaFleur? He's No. 2 in goals scored this season, with 32.

Have at it, men.

This one should be a dandy. But then, Saturday afternoon's with Canadiens was expected to be a super spectacle, too. And, I suppose, Montreal fans will tell you it was. Any time your team knocks off a strong opponent 6-0, it has to be satisfying.

For me, I'll take a 4-3 game tonight.

Two for LaFleur and one each by Pete Mahovlich and Guy Lapointe on the board for Habs while Bruins counter with one apiece for Esposito, Bobby Orr and Johnny Bucyk.

Offered a minor league coaching job, his outright release or a batting coach-pinch hitter position by Calvin Griffith, president of the American Baseball League Minnesota Twins, slugger Harmon Killebrew may not be back with the club in any capacity this season.

Griffith has offered Killebrew his outright release to negotiate with other teams if any can top the $40,000-plus offer for coaching batters tendered by the Twins' president.

Killebrew is expected to give Twins a definite answer in the near future.

MARE BRINGS $81,000

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — E. A. Cox of Hill Brook, Ill., paid the top price Tuesday of $81,000 for Ideal Day, a broodmare offering of Ogden Mills Phipps in the second day of the Horses of All Ages Sale at Keeneland. The six-year-old broodmare is in foal to Pronto, an undefeated stakes winner from Argentina. A total of 272 horses were sold for $2,191,300, an average of $8,056.

SILAS PICKED

PHOENIX (AP) — Paul Silas, veteran forward with Boston Celtics, was elected president Tuesday of the Players' Association of the National Basketball Association, succeeding Oscar Robertson of Milwaukee, who retired prior to the 1974-75 season.

Barriage Wins 2-1

TRENTON (Special) — Judy Rappel's third period goal carried Belleville Mel Barriage to a 2-1 win over Trenton Flyers, Tuesday night, in Quinte Women's Hockey League play.

Judy converted a pass from Carol McFarlane for the winning counter.

Trenton opened the scoring with the only goal of the first period when Joanne Tidmarsh found the mark. Belleville's Carol Merrill teamed up with Nina Flieger on the equalizer in the second period.

Barriage goalie Bonnie Hannah came up with some sparkling saves to keep the home side off the score sheet in the second and third periods.

3-game Sweep

Belleville Collegiate Institute (BCI) teams swept a three-game set with Centre Hastings Secondary School, Tuesday, in Bay of Quinte High School Basketball League play.

A 14-point effort by Larry Savage led BCI seniors to a 54-41 win while Mike Kirby powered the juniors with 18 points in a 67-43 victory. In the midget match, BCI got 12 points from Begley on the way to a 43-18 win.

Brian York Heads Association

Four Clubs Band Together

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Four Prince Edward snowmobile clubs have united to form the Prince Edward County Association of Snowmobile Clubs (PECASC) to promote their sport.

New president of the association, Brian York, says by uniting, the snowmobilers protect themselves and all land owners "against thoughtless action by a few snowmobilers."

Each of the clubs joining the new organization has elected two members to represent its membership in the PECASC.

The original groups will retain their identity and members will abide by their originally adopted code of ethics.

"The association is just a collective voice of snowmobiling in Prince Edward but it puts us on better terms with other areas in Ontario by being an organized group (when we travel northern trails) and not a bunch of southern renegades who might destroy their trails," comments Mr. York.

Mr York, noting recent new legislation for snowmobilers, says many persons mistakenly feel the legislation and changes in the Petty Trespass Act were fostered solely by the government.

"Nearly everything in this new paper has been put forward to the Legislature by snowmobile clubs and many other organizations in the form of written and oral briefs," he stresses.

"These are not harsh laws. If one analyzes them they are quite reasonable," he remarks.

"To us, snowmobilers now have a set of standards for travelling. Even though we sometimes like to ride at night we don't like to be in the dark as far as our privileges are concerned," he says.

Lancers Lose

Paced by Paul Allen's 25-point production, Cobourg Plaza topped Loyalist College Lancers 69-58 in a Bay of Quinte Men's Basketball League match played Tuesday at Loyalist.

Blair Culham, a former Lancer, threw in 13 points for the winners.

Showing the way for Loyalist was Bill Kyle with 20 points. Dave Culmer had 14.

Madoc Club Reaches Goal

Nine years ago, the Madoc and District Hunters and Anglers Club initiated a bench rest shooting program with the goal of becoming proficient enough to compete in events at the international level.

Club members feel they are now ready.

The group has joined the National organization and club members' scores will be listed each month in the official publication.

Should their scores boost them into the top bracket in Canada, a team could be formed to take part in meets in the United States where world championships are on the line.

To reach this level, shooters must place a string of five or 10 shots inside a half-inch circle from a distance of 100 yards, and do it consistently.

Winners in the top events usually put their rounds into a quarter-inch group.

Members of the Madoc and District Club regularly come up with half-inch groupings, according to a spokesman for the group.

In the club's final shoot of 1974, Dale Donaldson posted an excellent score, placing his shots in a group under .210 This effort would be hard to beat in any competition.

Ten club members qualified for trophies in a recent shoot.

In the 100 yards unlimited event, Florin Donaldson and Lloyd Hicks tied with 296 points out of a possible 300.

Class 11, 50 yards (four-power scopes), Bill Donaldson, Joe Quinn and Florin Donaldson finished in a three-way tie as each scored 198 out of 200.

Class 11, 50 yard (open sights) competition saw Donaldson lead the way with 178 points. A perfect score is 200

Class IV, five-shot group, 100 yards. Winner, Lloyd Hicks, just one short of a perfect 250 with a 249 score.

Since no member may take more than one trophy, the winners in each category are Quinn, Bill Donaldson, Florin Donaldson and Hicks, respectively.

Bout Planned

LONDON (Reuter) — Negotiations are under way for a heavyweight boxing match March 2 between former world champions Joe Frazier and Jimmy Ellis in Melbourne, Australia, Frazier's manager, Eddie Futch, said Tuesday. "Arrangements are very nearly complete," he said. "The fight will keep Joe active until he finally gets another shot at Muhammad Ali."

Nobody Laughing At Pully's Kings

By NEIL CAMPBELL

The Canadian Press

Last September, coach Bob Pulford told reporters "everybody would laugh at me" if he picked his Los Angeles Kings to finish first in the Norris Division of the National Hockey League. Nobody is laughing now.

Montreal Canadiens have won their last 20 games, but they can't seem to get away from Los Angeles.

The Kings won their seventh road game in a row Tuesday night, defeating Washington Capitals 6-2, to move within one point of the Canadiens. Los Angeles has a game in hand.

In other games, New York Islanders tied St. Louis Blues 3-3 and Philadelphia Flyers beat Kansas City Scouts 6-4.

Pulford, who introduced the close-checking style that has made the Kings a winner, said last September:

"I think Montreal will win the Stanley Cup, or at least have a tremendous shot at winning it.

"We've come a long way in two years, but to say we're in the same class with Montreal, people would laugh at me."

A 13-2-6 road record has kept the Kings in the thick of things. Their only road losses were back-to-back; 8-1 to the Bruins Dec. 12 at Boston and 3-0 to New York Islanders Dec. 14.

They are approaching two modern NHL records—for most road wins and fewest road defeats in a schedule of 70 or more games.

The Bruins won a record 26 away games in 1971-72 and the Canadiens lost only six times in 1972-73.

The Kings' home record is only 11-4-6.

The Capitals haven't won in 13 games and have an over-all 3-36-5 mark.

A pair of Los Angeles goals by Dan Maloney broke Tuesday's game open. Maloney also had a pair of assists.

Shero, Guidolin Add 19 to All-star Squads

MONTREAL (CP) — The names of 19 players selected by coaches Fred Shero and Bep Guidolin were announced Tuesday, completing the rosters for the two teams which oppose each other in the National Hockey League's 28th annual all-star game here Jan. 21.

Shero will coach the Clarence Campbell Conference all-stars as a result of his guiding Philadelphia Flyers to the West Division championship and the Stanley Cup last season. Guidolin, now coach of the new Kansas City Scouts, will pilot the Prince of Wales Conference all-stars because last season he led Boston Bruins to the East Division title before losing to the Flyers in the Stanley Cup final.

Shero selected 10 players to complete his squad and Guidolin added nine.

Injuries to defenceman Bill White of Chicago Black Hawks and right winger Bill Goldsworthy of Minnesota North Stars forced Shero to add two more players than usual. Guidolin had one extra player because of an injury to Gilbert Perreault of Buffalo Sabres.

The first 12 players of each all-star team were selected in a poll conducted by the Professional Hockey Writers' Association in the nine cities of each conference.

The 11 players in addition to Perreault selected by the PHWA panel in the Prince of Wales Conference and announced last week were goaltenders Rogatien Vachon of Los Angeles and Ken Dryden of Montreal Canadiens; defencemen Bobby Orr and Carol Vadnais of Boston, Guy Lapointe of Montreal and Terry Harper of the Kings; centre Phil Esposito of Boston; right wingers Guy Lafleur of Montreal and Rene Robert of Buffalo; and left wingers Rick Martin of the Sabres and John Bucyk of the Bruins.

In addition to White and Goldsworthy, the other players named by the PWHA members in the Clarence Campbell Conference were goaltenders Bernie Parent of Philadelphia and Gary Smith of Vancouver; defencemen Denis Potvin of the Islanders; Brad Park of the Rangers and Jim Watson of Philadelphia; centres Bobby Clarke of the Flyers and Garry Unger of St. Louis Blues; left wingers Bill Barber of Philadelphia and Steve Vickers of the Rangers; and right winger Jim Pappin of Chicago.

Should any of the 40 players now named suffer an injury which would keep them out of the all-star game, the club for whom they play must supply the replacement.

As provided for last year, should the teams be tied at the end of the third period, sudden-death, unlimited overtime will be played.

Smith Sent Down

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Indianapolis Racers of the World Hockey Association have sent rookie Ross Smith to Mohawk Valley Comets of the North American Hockey League "to get some more experience."

Smith, 21, was called up last November and has one goal and six assists. Two games ago he suffered a broken nose.

Frazier Powers East to Win

PHOENIX (AP) — Walt Frazier, the silky-smooth New York guard, scored 30 points Tuesday night and a determined East team virtually negated the opposing team's giants en route to a 103-102 win over the favored West in the National Basketball Association all-star game.

Frazier, starting in his sixth consecutive all-star game, scored 10 points in the first p[illegible] in the third quarer when the East appeared to pull comfortably ahead 83-73 before having to withstand a belated West rally in the closing minutes of the game.

His 30 points were the most in [illegible] since Rick Barry's 38 in the 1967 contest.

For his performance, Frazier won the game's most valuable player award.

While the Knicks' captain was killing the West with his bulls-eye shooting, the underdog East's dogged defence held the West's three towering centres—Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Bob Lanier and Sam Lacey—to a total of 15 points.

And the smaller East team often denied the West a second shot, utilizing its guile and cunning to box out smartly under the defensive boards.

Nate Archibald of Kansas City-Omaha Kings and Barry, of Golden State Warriors, led the West scoring. Archibald finished with 27 points and Barry, a fraction of a percentage point ahead of Buffalo's Bob McAdoo in the NBA scoring race, collected 22.

John Havlicek of Boston added 18 points for the East and McAdoo collected 11.

DENNIS BLAIR

Pitcher Signs

MONTREAL (CP) — Pitcher Dennis Blair, who had an 11-7 won-lost record last year in his rookie season with Montreal Expos, has signed a contract for the coming season, the National League club announced Tuesday.

Britons Snookered

LONDON (CP) — World champion Ray Reardon of Britain and Eddie Charlton of Australia moved into the semi-finals of the international Masters snooker tournament with victories Tuesday. Reardon rallied from two frames down to defeat countryman Graham Miles 5-3, while Charlton defeated Fred Davis, also of Britain, by the same score.

Jimmy Jones of the Blazers said the Nordiques' play is "by far the best" in the World Hockey League after Quebec beat Vancouver 6-2 Tuesday night.

"They're winning all their games it seems," said Jones.

"Maybe they'll hit their peak too early.

Quebec's Serge Bernier took over the WHA scoring lead with a goal and two assists. Bernier now has 66 points, two more than Bobby Hull of Winnipeg Jets.

Quebec put the game away in the final period with goals by Rejean Houle, Chris Bordeleau and Marc Tardiff within three minutes and 26 seconds.

In other games, San Diego Mariners downed Toronto Toro 6-4 and Chicago Cougars defeated Phoenix Roadrunners 5-2.

The Mariners made Toro goalie Gilles Gratton wish he hadn't talked much the last time he was in San Diego.

After Gratton beat the Mariners 3-1 on his last visit, he told reporters: "San Diego is a beautiful city. It's too bad it doesn't have a hockey team."

Brian Bradley scored twice and Gene Peacosh, Brian Morenz, Norm Ferguson and Wayne Rivers once each for San Diego. Steve Cuddie and Pat Hickey had two goals each for Toronto.

Phoenix coach Sandy Hucul blamed his club's demanding road schedule and a porous defence for his team's defeat.

Bob Liddington scored a goal in each of the first two periods for the Cougars, who also got goals from Jan Popiel, Peter Mara and Gary McGregor.

Toronto is at Phoenix tonight, Vancouver at Winnipeg, Edmonton Oilers at Houston Aeros, Chicago at New England Whalers and Minnesota Fighting Saints at Cleveland Crusaders.

Forbes Indicted

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Minneapolis Tribune says Dave Forbes of Boston Bruins has been indicted by a grand jury for aggravated assault.

The grand jury met Tuesday to consider evidence gathered by investigators for the Hennepin County attorney following a Jan. 4 incident involving Henry Boucha of Minnesota North Stars in a National Hockey League game.

Boucha underwent surgery Saturday to correct double vision in his right eye, where he was struck with the butt end of Forbes' stick.

The Tribune says Hennepin County Attorney Gary Flakne would not comment on the report.

In the Tribune story, Boucha said he was surprised by the indictment but thought it might help prevent future incidents.

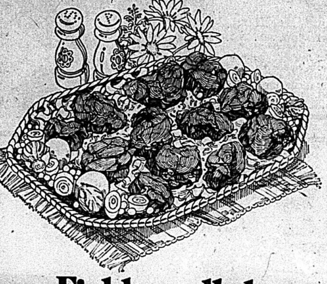
Six great ways to lower meat costs.



Joan Fielden tells how:

We are all concerned about food prices.
And we all want to get as much value for our food dollar as possible.
There are many ways to do this. But I think the most effective is "Good Planning". Take meat, for example. The recipe pictured above is an excellent example because not only is the meat on special, but the other ingredients will help give your family adequate amounts of the nutrients they need. Just consult the chart I've included as a guide for helping to make your weekly choice.

(Joan Fielden, Dominion Home Economist Consultant)

Seasoned Beef Stew

Any of the less tender, less costly cuts of beef may be stewed. Either cubed, cut in serving pieces or left in one piece. Generally more liquid is used in stewing than for braising or pot-roasting as the pleasures of a good stew depend on a flavourful gravy. Often chunky or whole vegetables are cooked along with the meat—added during the last stages of cooking.

2 pounds boneless stewing beef
2 tablespoons shortening
3 medium onions, coarsely chopped
2 teaspoons ground marjoram
salt and pepper
2 cups tomato juice
1½ cups beef bouillon
½ pound lean bacon, cut into strips
1 cup sour cream

1. Cook onion in hot fat until soft and golden.
2. Add meat, sprinkle with marjoram and season to taste with salt and pepper.
3. Add juice and bouillon; simmer for 45 minutes covered; over low heat.
4. Partially cook bacon, drain, add to meat; continue to simmer, covered for 45 minutes or until meat is tender.
5. Remove from heat and stir in sour cream; serve immediately.
6. Serve with vegetables for colour contrast: carrots, green beans, etc. Serves eight.

MY RECOMMENDED GUIDE TO GOOD EATING EVERY DAY

Here is an easy guide to eating balanced meals, based on information from the Department of Nutrition, School of Hygiene, University of Toronto.

Meat and Alternates
2 servings (1½ servings for persons over 60 years and children under 10 years)
Fish, poultry, eggs, nuts, dried beans or peas can be used in place of meat.
Examples of one serving:
3-4 oz. of meat, fish or poultry
2 eggs
4 tablespoons of peanut butter
1 cup of baked beans

Fruit and Vegetables
(3 servings)
A variety of colourful fruit and vegetables can be chosen; a source of vitamin C is also important.
Examples of one serving:
½ cup of fruit or vegetables (fresh, canned or frozen) or their juices.

Bread and Cereals
(3 servings)
Whole grain or enriched cereals and bread can be chosen.
Examples of one serving:
¾ cup of oatmeal
1 slice of enriched bread

Milk and Milk Products
Children up to 10 years . . . 2-3 servings
Adolescents and Expectant or Nursing Mothers. . . . . 4 servings
18-19 . . . . . 2-3 servings
Adults . . . 1-1½ servings
Milk can be used as a beverage, as cheese, ice cream, or in other foods made with milk.
Examples of one serving:
1 eight-ounce cup of milk, cottage cheese, or yoghurt

IN MEMORIAM

KILPATRICK — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Vernon James Kilpatrick who passed away January 15, 1973.

Though tears in my eyes do not glisten,
And my face is not always sad,
There is never a night or a morning,
But I think of my wonderful dad,
So you who have a father,
Cherish him with care,
For you'll never know the heartache,
Until your loved one has gone forever.

—Sadly missed and deeply mourned by daughter Donna, son-in-law Ron, granddaughter Michelle and grandson Christopher Hannah.

KEENE — In loving memory of Helen Keene who passed away January 15, 1974.

The blow was great, the shock severe,
We little thought the end was near,
And only those who have lost can tell,
The pain of parting without farewell,
More each day we miss you,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow,
That lies within our hearts concealed.

—Lovingly remembered by husband Frank, son Larry, daughter-in-law Pat, grandchildren Angela and Joel, son Bob, daughter-in-law Lynne, grandchildren Keili, Kenny, Korey and Kerri.

KILPATRICK — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather Vernon Kilpatrick who passed away January 15, 1973.

God saw you were getting tired,
When a cure was not to be,
So He closed His arms around you,
And whispered come to Me.
You didn't deserve what you went through,
And so He gave you rest,
God's garden must be beautiful,
He only takes the best.

—Always remembered by daughter Beverly, son-in-law Alan and granddaughters Lisa and Jennifer Gough.

KILPATRICK — In loving memory of a dear dad and grandfather Vernon James Kilpatrick who passed away on Jan. 15, 1973.

Asleep in God's beautiful garden,
Away from all sorrow and pain,
Someday when life's journey is ended,
We shall be together again.

—Sadly missed and deeply mourned by daughter Luella and son-in-law Karl Hannah and grandson Jeffrey, London, Ontario.

KILPATRICK — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather Vernon James Kilpatrick who passed away January 15, 1973.

A widow's life is a lonely one,
And sometimes hard to bear,
But someday at the end of the road,
We will meet our loved one there.
We used to watch and wait for you,
And worry if you were late,
But now in peace you wait for us,
By Heaven's open gate.

—Sadly missed and deeply mourned by wife Ruby and son John.

CARDS OF THANKS

We would like to say a sincere "thank you" to friends, neighbors and relatives for cards, flowers, telegrams, telephone calls and all best wishes we received on our 50th Wedding Anniversary At Home held at the Four Seasons Hotel. Also, to those who honored us with their presence at the party or helped in any way to make it such a memorable occasion for us, we say thank you.

Rose and Clarence Bovay.

Polite Robber

TOKYO (AP) — A man in a wrinkled raincoat broke into a Tokyo household but refused as "too small" the equivalent of $7 he was offered. The woman of the house then offered him a bill worth about $33 and said: I'm sorry, but this is all I have." Replied the intruder: "You're wrong, lady. I sorry about having to rob you." Then he bowed, grabbed the bill and fled.

BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Thursday, January 16

Aries (March 21-April 19) Don't pre-read negative aspects into a situation involving a family member. It will work out differently than you expect.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) You're going to hear someone pass on gossip about a friend. Cut it off at the source before it spreads.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Don't burden yourself at present with an ally who can't help you attain what you seek. You can do what's needed.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) It's unwise to assume just because something is clear to you that it's equally obvious to a co-worker. Review it several times.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll be fortunate today in dealings with someone older. This person will be willing to share with you unselfishly.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're at your best now in situations calling for teamwork, especially if your partner is one with whom you have past ties.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Conditions are still extremely favorable for you careerwise. Pounce upon the smallest opportunity from any source.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're fortunate today through your social contacts, but you'll be less lucky if you take risks with your finances.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Something you're involved in will appear muddled at first. After the fog clears it will come out as planned.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You'll have some doubts about an important decision, but you shouldn't if your answer is based upon your previous experiences.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Centre your attention today upon areas materially profitable for you—not on activities that cost money.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) Long shots won't pay off now, but situations where you've planned sensibly will. Don't go in over your head.

Middle-Age Steel

VRNJACKA BANJA, Yugoslavia (AP) — Milo Crnoglavac found an eight-feet-long steel stick while plowing land near this Serbian spa. The spike is believed to have been used for grilling large cattle for soldiers during the Middle Ages.

Surgery Advised For Bell's Palsy

By G.C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Nine weeks ago I got a very sore throat and fever and was being treated when the right side of my face became paralysed. I went to see an ear, nose and throat specialist and he diagnosed it as Bell's palsy.

I have had nerve excitability tests about every two weeks, and while the readings of my right and left face have been getting closer together, I still can't close my right eye alone. At first I could not close it at all. The right side of my mouth does not work well either.

The doctor is advising surgery to decompress the nerve. I would like to have your opinion. Has it been long enough now for me to have recovered the full use of my muscles. I am 36.—T.C.K.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What ae the after effects of Bell's palsy?

Will I ever be well again? It has been three years.—Mrs. C.M.

Bell's palsy is an affliction of a facial nerve, almost always on one side of the face. It occurs suddenly, resulting in distortion of that side of the face. The cause is unknown, the treatment uncertain.

As the first writer indicates, the corner of the mouth sags and does not respond to efforts to smile. The affected eyelid does not close independently or completely.

About 80 per cent of patients recover in a few weeks with simple treatment as with warm compresss, massage or electrical stimulation of the affected muscles. There may be pain in the early stages, but it usually subsides.

Special care is essential for the affected eye, especially, since its natural protective mechanism (eyelid) cannot function. A patch often is used during the period of paralysis.

Surgery is recommended in stubborn cases when early signs of improvement are not shown. This is measured through response to electrical stimulation tests comparing reaction of left side muscles to right side. When even readings are obtained on both sides, cure is considered accomplished. Similar readings can be made on salivary glands also.

As to T.K.'s question, surgery is usually considered after three months of unsatisfactory progress. Some advise it even earlier. The results from surgery have been excellent.

After-effects of this condition can be chronic drooling and eye irritations. After three years, further improvement should not be expected, and any improvement from surgery would be doubtful.

I cannot advise T.K. specifically, only to say that postponement may result in further nerve damage, so he should follow his doctor's advice.

Tougher on Speeders

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Motorists who ignore fuel-saving speed regulations may face tougher government action including confiscation of vehicles, Senator Owen Horwood, minister of economic affairs, told the House of Assembly

South didn't bother to ask for kings. His partner had opened the bidding, raised spades and shown three aces. South could count 12 top tricks and felt that the Lord would provide a 13th somewhere along the way.

When he looked over dummy he wished he had settled for the sure small slam. That 13th trick wasn't going to materialize without a lot of luck. Maybe one of the missing kings would be a singleton. Maybe he could slap his queen of clubs on the table and West would hold the king and not play it.

That swindle play was worth considering but South gave up the idea. West was one of those players who covered an honor with an honor.

Maybe he could ruff out the king and jack of clubs. Unlikely!

last refuge of an overbidder. A squeeze play.

He drew trumps, cashed dummy's ace of diamonds and proceeded to run off all his black cards. Sure enough—the last trump squeezed East. He had to chuck his king of diamonds in order to keep the king and jack of clubs.

Food Gift Minor Blow At Famine

WOODSTOCK, Ont. (CP) — The president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture said Monday that Canada's three-year pledge of food grain announced at the World Food Conference is only a minor measure against famine.

Charles Munro of Embro, Ont., a delegate to the 11-day Rome conference as president of the 47-nation International Federation of Agriculture Producers, urged developing countries to study agronomy and livestock breeding.

"Food must be grown in the country where the people are," he told the Woodstock Rotary Club.

He said there is little sense in sending tractors, or PhD's—"to sit in the ivory tower"—without providing actual agricultural assistance.

Cyanide Leaks Into River

BEAVERTON, Ont. (CP) — A cyanide leak into the Beaver River has been found and stopped after two fish kills—one of them near the intake for the village's water supply—were found by a provincial government investigation team.

"We were most concerned," said George Nelson, a district officer for the ministry of the environment who headed the team.

The World Health Organization's concern about the toxicity of cyanide is reflected in its recommendation that not even a trace be present in any water used by humans.

WELCOME THEM WARMLY

A friendly call is always welcomed by newcomers to your neighborhood. They'll be happy to meet you. Later, they'll want to know you better.

But right now, they need something more—directions to the nearest schools and shopping facilities and all the other information one needs on arriving in a strange city.

So make your welcome a little warmer with the help of a Welcome Wagon hostess. She'll provide all this and gifts as well.

When new neighbors move in, call Welcome Wagon. You'll be glad you did... and they will, too.

QUESTION: Would you please advise me on adding antifreeze to the cooling system of my car? Last winter, the water pump froze, even though there was almost 100 per cent antifreeze in the cooling system. I wish to install new antifreeze for this winter. What type do you recommend.

ANSWER: The maximum mixture of antifreeze to water that can be used is 68,132. This solution will freeze at about — 90 Fahrenheit. A higher percentage of antifreeze will result in raising the freezing temperature of the solution. A 100 per cent solution of eithylene-glycol will freeze at 80 Fahrenheit.

Antifreeze should be mixed at a 1:1 ratio with water. This mixture will give protection to —34 Fahrenheit.

A preferred brand of antifreeze should be used, consisting of 95 per cent ethylene-glycol, 2½ per cent water and 2½ per cent inhibitors and special additives. The cooling system should be drained and flushed, also checked and serviced for leaks using a radiator pressure tester.

The modern antifreeze solution is formulated to protect the engine against overheating during hot summer months, as well as against freezing in the winter. The purpose of using antifreeze in the summertime (especially on cars equipped with air conditioning) is to raise the boiling point for a better heat transfer. Antifreeze does not tranfer (give up) heat as well as plain water, but because the boiling point of water is raised with the addition of antifreeze, the overall ability of the cooling system to dissipate heat is improved.

As the preferred brands of antifreeze contain lubricant for the water pump seals and anti-corrosion inhibitors, coolant additives should not be added as they may actually lower the efficiency of the cooling system.

QUESTION: I have recently had a fan belt installed to my 1973 Pontiac by a franchised dealer. The belt is so tight that I am concerned that it will damage something.

ANSWER: The belt in question drives the air conditioner, compressor and other engine driven accessories. The belt tension should be 135 lbs. — 165 lbs. at the time of installation.

The old rule of thumb for ½ inch free play has gone and if a belt is run with out the specifier tension, slippage can occur which can cause the belt contact surface to become glazed. A glazed belt loses some of its load carrying capabilities and may slip even when adjusted to the specified tension. It is important to check the specified tension periodically.

QUESTION: Pease settle an argument for me My friend who drives a high powered sports car insists that from 60 mph he can bring his car to a halt in less than 100 feet. I say that 200 feet would be more accurate.

ANSWER: Even under severe braking it is unlikely that your friend could stop his car in less than 210 feet.

The actual distance covered from the instant a driver sees a hazard and the instant the vehicle stops consists of the distance covered while the driver is deciding to put the brakes on, plus the braking distance. Reaction time is normally between 0.5 sec and 0.8 sec. Taking a fair figure as 0.7 sec. at 60 mph, the car has covered very nearly 60 feet. The speed in mph is then the reaction distance in feet. The braking distance from 60 mph for excellent brakes is 150 feet for a total of 210 feet.

QUESTION: In recent weeks I have been experiencing starting difficulties with my car. A loud chattering comes from the engine compartment when the ignition key is turned to start position. I have had the battery charged and all electrical cables cleaned. A new starter motor, an alternator and a voltage regulator not rectified the problem.

ANSWER: The report is unfortunately too common and is the result of servicemen neglecting the heart of the electrical system — the battery.

Although the battery was fully charged it was unable to supply the heavy current demanded by the started motor. During the starting operation the battery voltage dropped to 7 volts making the chattering. Had the serviceman performed a heavy load test on the battery in the first instance, a great deal of time and money could have been saved.

QUESTION: I had a punctured tire repaired by a gas station operator who simply inserted a rubber plug to the tire. The whole operation took less than three minutes. Is this repair considered safe?

ANSWER: Externally applied plugs or aerosol sealants should be considered only as an emergency repair. The tire should be removed from the rim and a combination of vulcanized plug and patch should be applied from the inside.

Banares University Scene of Power Fight

BOMBAY (CP) — The strife-ridden campus of Banares Hindu University (BHU) has become the centre of a power struggle involving political parties of all persuasions.

Already the scene of strikes and demonstrations so numerous that columnists describe it as a "permanent powder keg," BHU is one of the largest residential universities in Asia with more than 13,000 students and 2,000 teachers.

Parties opposed to Prime Minister Gandhi's government, ranging from the militant right-wing Rashtriya Sangh to the pro-Chinese Marxist Communist Party have announced plans to mobilize the student body into a "storm centre of student militancy."

Devkant Borooah, national chairman of Mrs. Gandhi's Congress Party, has called on party members in the city of Banares to "frustrate" the opposition move.

The opposition politicians, warming up for a national election due in 1976, have made clear that their objective goes far beyond the BHU campus.

Kalu Lal Shrimali, president of BHU and former federal minister of education, said he is determined to maintain order. He recently expelled 250 militant youths from the campus, the first such action in nearly 10 years.

Uttar Pradesh, a state of more than 100 million people, is almost a country in itself.

Silicosis Victim Seen

ELLIOT LAKE, Ont. (CP) — The opening session of the royal commission investigating health and safety conditions in Ontario mines wah touched with drama Tuesday when a former miner was brought in in a wheelchair.

Origene Tellier, 53, who has total silicosis after his 15 years as a miner, weighed 150 pounds before his illness, his wife told the commission.

When he was last weighed a year ago he weighed only 83 pounds, she said. The family gets $429 a month from the Workmen's Compensation Board, she added.

Mr. Tellier is one of 140 silicosis victims who local officials of the United Steelworkers of America (USWA) say have worked in Elliot Lake mines. USAW officials also say at least 40 uranium workers in the province have died from lung cancer.

Boy, 11, Is Forced To Swallow Pep Pills

OTTAWA (CP) — An 11-year-old boy is in children's hospital after ingesting amphetamines he says two young men forced down his throat.

Danny Primeau said he was walking home from playing hockey at a neighborhood rink when two men about 19 years old approached him, saying:

"Hey, kid! how about trying these new vitamins? They're reds."

The boy said that when he refused, the men grabbed him by the neck and forced three or four tablets down his throat. He suffered bruises from the tight hold on his neck.

The men then released him and said: "Go ahead, kid; have a ball."

The incident occurred only 10 doors away from the Primeau home.

Valdine Primeau, the boy's mother, said Danny may have suffered kidney damage.

She said her son described one man as wearing a leather jacket. The name on the jacket indicated it was a local gang, she said.

Oppose Dump

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Neighboring Westminster Township took its fight against the city's proposal to establish a landfill garbage site in the township to an Ontario Municipal Board (OMB) hearing Tuesday.

Million Public Employees Present Bill of Rights

TORONTO (CP) — Representatives of more than one million Ontario public employees released a "bill of rights" Tuesday, demanding the right to regular collective bargaining.

Alan Murray, vice-president of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation, said in a news release that the document was produced because existing legislation is "out of date, confusing and causes more disputes than it settles."

The bill of rights, outlined at a news conference, stated that public employees must have the right to choose "final settlement procedures" including strikes and "other sanctions as deemed appropriate by the employees."

Representatives of Ontario teachers, civil servants, transit workers, the Ontario Federation of Labor and other public-employee organizations formed a steering committee last November to draft the document.

The document also stated employees must have grievance-procedure rights, the right to request outside assistance without facing back-to-work legislation and the right to participate in politics.

Mr. Murray said the committee now will attempt to win support from the public and political parties.

Refuse Raise

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — Durham board of education trustees turned down a pay raise of $1,200 a year Monday.

The board voted 11 to 6 at its 1975 inaugural meeting not to increase trustee pay to $350 a month from $250 as allowed under new provincial legislation.

New Job

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — J. Donald Clark, a former director of Millhaven Institution, was appointed deputy regional director of prisoner programs effective Monday for the 13 federal prisons in Ontario.

Air Canada Cuts Flights

TORONTO (CP) — Air Canada will cut out 145 flights a week starting today because of economic conditions and light passenger loads in off-peak hours, a spokesman said Tuesday.

Brock Stewart, a public relations officer, said Ontario, Quebec, United States and transatlantic flights are affected. The reductions involved four per cent of 4,000 flights Air Canada operates in a normal week.

Belt-tightening Gesture

Pay Cut Is Proposed For Ontario Cabinet

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario cabinet ministers were asked Wednesday to take a five-per-cent cut in pay to show leadership in the fight against spiralling inflation, Eric Winkler, chairman of management board of cabinet, said in an interview.

Mr. Winkler, who made the proposal to "a dozen" ministers attending a marathon session, said none voiced objections, including Premier William Davis.

However, he said the 26-member cabinet will again be asked to consider the suggestion when it next meets Jan. 22 in London, Ont.

Cabinet ministers with portfolios now receive $40,500 annually. There is an accommodation allowance of up to $6,000 for those living outside Metropolitan Toronto.

Ministers without portfolio are paid $30,000 and $3,000 accommodation expenses. Premier Davis's salary is $52,000 and ordinary MPPs are paid $22,500.

Mr. Winkler said consideration might be given to pay cuts for all MPPs depending on the outcome of the cabinet's decision.

Members of Parliament in Ottawa sought a 50-per-cent pay increase last December but backed down in the face of public furore.

A second recommendation for a 33-per-cent increase is expected to be dealt with when Parliament is called back Jan. 22.

Mr. Winkler said he believes a belt-tightening by cabinet as a "symbolic" gesture "would be well received by business and industry."

"The fight against inflation has to start somewhere."

He said he thinks "it's a folly" for the provincial government to ask the private sector or provincial employees to fight inflation unless it is prepared to show leadership in the battle.

The chairman of management board rejected any suggestion that the proposal might be a political manoeuvre to gain voter support when an election is called.

"If it's to be perceived as political move I won't proceed," he said.

Mr. Winkler said he believes there is "a substantial amount of agreement" among Ontario ministers for the pay cut.

Labor Minister John MacBeth said he was "all for it."

"The boys at the top have got to set an example."

A five-per-cent cut would mean a $52,500 saving to the province.

Federal Spending Likely to Climb

OTTAWA (CP) — The Globe and Mail says that the federal government's spending estimates for the 1975-76 fiscal year will be more than 20 per cent higher than last year although the government has promised restraint in government spending.

Spending estimates are to be tabled in Parliament next month. Supplementary estimates for the current fiscal year will be presented in March.

The Globe and Mail says Mr. Turner estimated total government expenditure will reach $24.8 billion, a 24-per-cent incease over last year.
